remove a wedge-shaped parcel of land on U.S. 31 south of Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. from the airport plan. Alderman Jack Mol dissented. The FAA made the recommendation to cut down on paper work if any more airport land is sold. Since 1966, the city has sold two pieces of airport property to Freedman. The land in question is not essential to the airport.

Fochtman also announced that a pump to empty holding tanks on cruisers will be in operation this summer at the foot of Clinton St.

attended as a girl, and Orville and Marie Hilton, who were her schoolmates.

When she was a girl, the Hartwell family lived on a farm nine miles south of Charlevoix and trips to town by horse and rig were relatively infrequent.

"But it's a lovely town and I'm proud of it," she says.

Mrs. Harman has subscribed to the paper since last summer and eagerly scans the columns for mention of the families she knew as a girl.

In addition to introducing her to her step-sister, the Courier ad also has helped Mrs. Harman renew acquaintance with other girlhood friends.

Another former Charlevoixan, Mrs. Margaret (Hull) Sorenson, who now lives in Chicago, saw the Courier ad and dashed off a note to her former school chum in the next mail.

And another long-lost friend was accounted for.

The Harmans plan to return to Oregon this week, with promises from the Swansons to pay a return visit to Tillamook in the near future.

Will Attend Meet

that the heavy batteries kept sliding across the floor, complicating the job of making connections.

"All I could say was 'Let's get out, let's get out'," Pantoja recalls.

The light was swaying so badly that some of the canned food in the galley tumbled from cupboards onto the floor.

Luedke said the swaying of the light is not exactly unusual, since they are built with a certain amount of "give."

During the height of the easterly blow, the men say a westbound freighter zoom past outside, "like it was going 50 miles an hour."

With the engine room flooded, and the furnace out of commission the men spent the night in the kitchen trying to keep warm by the heat of a propane galley stove.

"We also prayed a lot," they recall.

Although they lost radio contact during the night with the Charlevoix station, Coast Guardsmen in town were aware of the situation on the light and prepared the Sundew for a rescue mission. She left Charlevoix about 3 a.m. and traveled north in the lea of the Beavers.

By 8 a.m. the men on the light could see the cutter lying about a mile to the southwest and breathed easier. However, the storm didn't abate sufficiently to take the men off the light until 3 p.m. Even then, men in the cargo boat Sun II reported seeing spray from the 20-foot waves blowing 20 feet over the 75-foot light.

Luedke described the storm as a "local hurricane" resulting from a low pressure trough. It was confined to a relatively small area and men aboard White Shoal light some 20 miles southeast were scarcely affected.

Dale Boss Retiring From School Board

Perennial school board member Dale Boss says he is going to step down when his term ends this summer in order to run for the office of Charlevoix Township supervisor, a position presently held by Oscar Stroud.

Boss made his announcement at the close of the Charlevoix School Board meeting Tuesday. He has served on the board eight years.

He said he is circulating a petition for Fred Payne to run as his successor on the board.

Stroud said he hadn't intended to run again for the job as township supervisor, but will file now that Boss is in the race.

Boss was the leader of the opposition which defeated annexation of the township by the city at the polls this winter. Stroud led the annexation group.

In regular school board business, the board:

--Purchased two new school buses, a 66-passenger Chevrolet with a Blue Bird body for $8,392.85 and a 78-passenger International with automatic transmission for $12,918.25.

Transportation chairman Boss said the district won't have to buy any new vehicles for three years. Successful bidders were Charlevoix Oil Co. and Zaremba Implement Co. of Elmira.

--Gave Supt. Rex Milligan permission to hire Dennis Warner half-time for the remainder of the school year at the middle-school to take over a study hall which has had only part-time supervision. Warner will take some of Condit Drury's classes, relieving Drury for counseling.

–Heard a report by High School Principal Vane Smith on findings of the North Central evaluation team. The evaluators recommended more faculty involvement in the community and the hiring of additional clerical help. The administration also is understaffed, according to the evaluators.

3 Have Filed For 2 Seats On Board

Three candidates have filed for two vacancies on the Charlevoix Board of Education, according to the superintendent's office.

They are Mrs. Robert (Martha Jane) Lieberman, Donald Brown and Frederick Payne.

Mrs. Lieberman is the wife of Bridge-st. merchant Robert Lieberman; Brown is associated with Hess Furniture and is a part owner of Art Dry Cleaners; Payne is executive vice president of the First State Bank.

They will contend for two vacancies on the board—seats presently held by Dale Boss and Jack Rader.

Boss, who sells insurance and works for Maxbauer's Dairy, intends to run for supervisor of Charlevoix Township, has said he will not be a candidate for the school board.

Rader, owner of the Petoskey Oil Co., has not decided whether to seek re-election.

The deadline for filing nominating petitions at the school office is 4 p.m. May 11.

Registration Deadline Near

Voters are reminded that Friday, May 8, is the last day for registering to vote in the annual school election June 8.

The city clerk's office in Charlevoix will take new registrations until 8 p.m. Friday.

Township residents should register with their respective township clerks.

OK Funds To Complete Channel Work

The U.S. Corps of Engineers reported in Washington Friday that it will be able to continue work on Pine River Channel under its operation and maintenance program.

The project will include further straightening of the dog-leg in the channel and remedial bank protection works from Bridge-st. west to the existing revetment.

Cong. Phil Ruppe says he has asked that the work be completed within the next 12 months.

Earlier it was feared that funds may not be able to finish the work.

In a simultaneous announcement, Sen. Philip A. Hart said the project is designed to stop erosion of the riverbank threatening the Weathervane Inn. He said the Corps of Engineers will announce its construction schedule shortly.

18 More Campsites Cleared at Bells Bay

LARRY MARTIN levels new roadway at Bells Bay after land had been cut and stumped by volunteers.

Volunteers Save State $24,000

Volunteers turned out in force Saturday to carve 18 new campsites out of the wilderness woodlands at Bells Bay, five miles south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) had estimated the cost of the project at $24,000. Only state funds were not available.

Stroud rounded up work crews from the township and the city, accomplishing most of the work in one day.

Key man in the operotion was Sheridan Root of Charlevoix who toppled literally hundreds of trees to create a new 1,800 foot roadway just east of the existing Bells Bay-rd. The 18 new campsites will be located on both sides of the new road.

Other volunteers showed up to cut the trees into campfire size logs and to make brush piles that campers eventually will use for kindling.

In the afternoon, trucks and heavy equipment arrived to uproot the stumps and level the road and camping areas. After graveling, the project will be completed.

Area Forester Jack Lockwood of Boyne City was on hand throughout the day to help supervise. Lockwood laid out the road and marked the trees to be cut.

Contractors donating equipment included Bob Mousseau, John Martin and Stub Swanson.

Others taking part were Robert Geer, Eugene Towsley, Cass Russell, Jim Whitley, John Martin, Dino Martin, Bob Mousseau, Bud Mousseau, Jim Whitley jr., John Whitley, Walter Russell, Hal Hill, Fay Davis, Don Meggison, Julie Geer, Ron Geer, Larry Swanson, Gordon Russell, Dan Geneit, Jerry Meggison, Ed Holmes, Mark White and Oscar Stroud.

Grading will be done by the DNR workers during the week, with another work bee to gravel the road slated for next Saturday, starting at 8 a.m.

Stroud said a few more dump trucks are needed.

Sundew Finds Youth in Fog

After being lost on the fog-blanketed waters of northern Lake Huron in a 17-foot outboard for almost 24 hours, a young Navy veteran fresh from Vietnam was rescued by crewmen aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew out of Charlevoix shortly after noon Thursday.

Robert Cudney, 21, of Sunfield, Mich., and his father Maitland Cudney, of St. Ignace, had launched their boat near the mouth of the Pine River on St. Martins Bay about 12:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Young Cudney was alone in the craft when it quickly disappeared in a fog bank.

When the youth hadn't returned by 4:30 p.m., his father notified the Coast Guard and an air and water search ensued, which the Sundew joined about midnight Wednesday.

The boat was spotted as a radar target by a Coast Guard aircraft and Cudney was picked up by the Sundew at 12:32 p.m. Thursday about halfway between St. Martins Island and Goose Island Shoal, 14 miles from the launching site.

The youth suffered mild exposure and was hungry but otherwise was in good condition.

SHERIDAN Root toppled literally hundreds of trees with chain saw Saturday at Bells Bay.

Why City Needs Medusa Frontage

The city council has scheduled a hearing at 8 p.m. May 19 in the community room at the city hall to sound out public opinion on land swap involving Medusa Portland Cement Co., the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the city of Charlevoix.

The purpose is to provide Charlevoix with a 10-acre tract of land on the Lake Michigan shore to be used as the site of the proposed sewage disposal plant.

The site, located about one-half mile south of Charlevoix Hospital on Park-ave., is the No. 1 choice of the engineering firm McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor which has made a study of Charlevoix's future sewage plant needs.

The engineers also surveyed two other possible sites, but both were found to be unsatisfactory, according to City Superintendent Thomas Hanna.

The first was the site of the present sewage disposal plant on Round Lake, just south of Pine River Channel. Expansion of the downtown plant would mean the sacrifice of some park area as well as the parking spaces behind the Polly-Kay Shop and other Bridge-st. businesses.

The second site was city-owned land at North Point near Mt. McSauba. The area was rejected because of the extensive recreational and residential development already under way in the area.

The third site — and the engineers' first choice — is the 10-acre tract owned by the Medusa Portland Cement Co.

Because of its need for quarry and storage land, Medusa is reluctant to sell the property outright to the city. But it is willing to trade the land for a comparable parcel in the area.

This is where the Department of Natural Resources enters the picture.

As custodian of the Jordan River State Forest, the DNR has a 10-acre tract adjacent to Medusa property which Medusa apparently is willing to trade for the lake frontage. The land is located north and west of Bells Bay-rd. (not south as reported earlier) in the vicinity of the old quarry. (See map.)

The DNR requested that the city hold the hearing in view of the uproar it created two years ago when it appeared willing to sell a much larger chunk of state forest land to Medusa.

If the land exchange can be accomplished, the city will then buy the lake frontage from the DNR and construction of the new sewage facility will be one step closer.

Two years ago, the city was notified by

Nursery School Planned for Fall

Plans for a cooperative nursery school for youngsters three and four years of age have been revealed by Mrs. Sam Supernaw, Mrs. Brian Seymour and Mrs. Thomas Erber.

The group has received permission from the Charlevoix Board of Education to use the basement of the downtown library from 9 until 11 a.m. Mondays through Thursdays, beginning about Oct. 1.

Classes for three and four-year-olds will be held on alternate days, under the supervision of certified teachers.

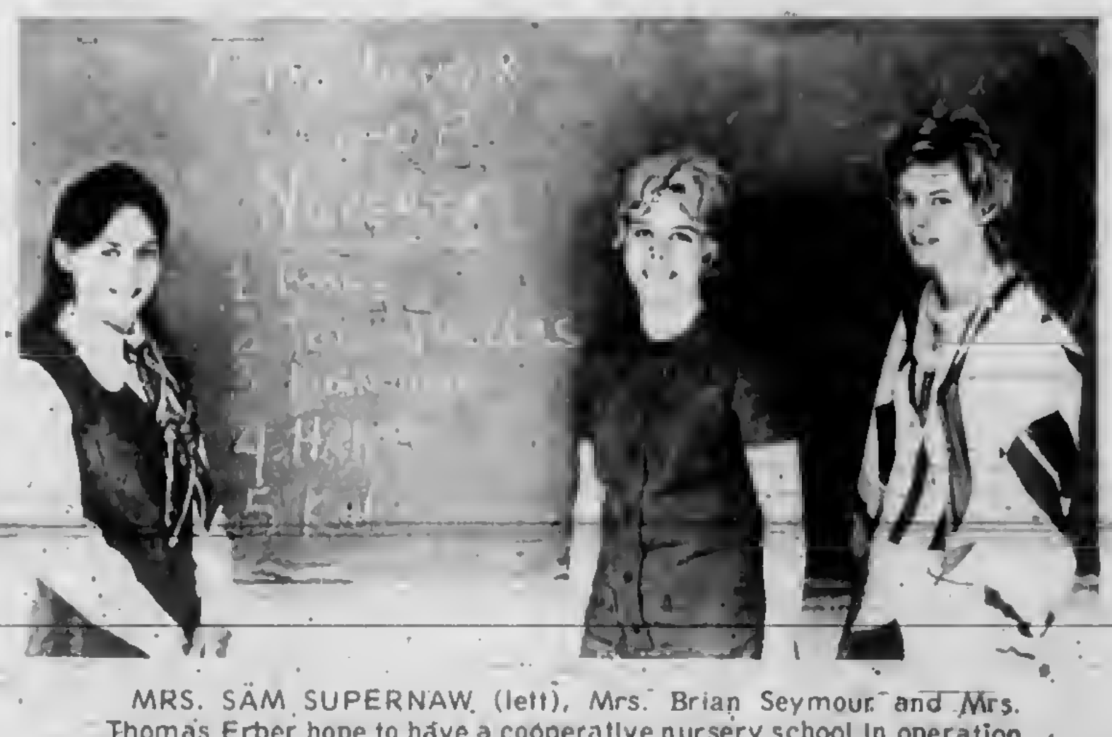
Although the nursery is a non-profit venture, a modest fee will be charged to cover teachers' salaries and other expenses.

It is hoped that the pre-school training will smooth out some of the social humps encountered by many youngsters when they start kindergarten.

The teachers will rely on the assistance of mothers at least one day a month.

The organizers also will accept donations of toys and books in good condition.

Questionnaires to gauge the amount of community interest in the proposed nursery school will be available this week at the schools, banks and at the Courier office.



MRS. SAM SUPERNAW (left), Mrs. Brian Seymour and Mrs. Thomas Erber hope to have a cooperative nursery school in operation in the basement of the city library by next October.

Photos may be entered in two age groups, one for adults and the other for young people through 12th grade.

Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be offered in the adult category and of $15, $10 and $5 in the student category.

There also will be a display of photographs by professional and semi-professional photographers living in the Charlevoix area, but they are ineligible for awards.

Contestants may purchase 11 by 14 inch mounting boards for their displays at the Charlevoix Library, where the exhibit will be held. Entrants are not required to do their own darkroom, but all entries should be enlargements five by seven inches or larger.

Judges in the contest will be Bob Miles and Vera Baker of Charlevoix and Sam Carlisle of East Jordan.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Unfortunately, our list of summer rental premises, such as privately owned cabins, cottages, or homes, or so-called resort premises, have been lessening especially the last two seasons to the point where now, from a list which over the years has been quite sizable and consistent, we have many, many less to offer potential visitors. Accordingly, any of you people who have presentable places of this sort and if you wish to rent them, let's hear from you and we will do the best we can.

The recent days of very favorable weather, of course, brought many persons to Charlevoix. This is a sign of spring and also a sign that people are already looking and planning for their holidays.

I have noticed considerable attention given the empty fish pond here in the park. Many youngsters were disappointed because they could not watch the fish. Apparently, they do not realize it is a bit early for this looked-forward-to display.

We here at the office, at least, will have an answer now for the boaters who tie up at the city docks. As probably you know, it is now required of certain category boats to have a holding tank aboard. This is very much being complied with; however, their question was, "Where can we have our tanks pumped out?" Of course, I do not know, being that we were without a pump and connection, where they did dump their sewage, etc. Recently as some of you may have read or learned otherwise, the city stated they would have this pumping apparatus available this season at the foot of Clinton Street—quite a step in the right direction.

In addition to more or less certain regular mail, we have been getting more than the usual number of written requests for specific information. There must be something about this town, eh, what? At this writing, we have a bit of a back log and that we cannot help. You see, from an economy standpoint, we are compelled to limp along, so to speak, though our "Girl Friday, Miss Gerl," is extremely qualified but it is impossible for a part time employe, five days a week, three hours a day, to do the work of a full time employe, forty or forty-eight hours a week. However, with her constant drive and cooperation, we'll make it. So, if any of your friends complain to you because they wrote in and in the next return mail did not receive what they asked for, you will be able to explain.

Every once in a while, I receive some of these letters from contacts who take time to say "thanks." In this week's mail, I received such an expression from a little gal over in Boyne City It quote as follows: "Dear Sir: I got your letter today. I am glad that you gave me some material about your city. Some of the class didn't get any history from the city that they sent to.

Thank you again for the materials."

'Mr. Safety' Scores Again

The Courier tips its fedora to Ellsworth's village marshal Levi Donaldson — a man who has made "safety" both exciting and fun.

Last Friday night, Donaldson staged his 20th annual safety meeting at Ellsworth High School. More than 500 persons jammed the school gymnasium for the program — which is quite a feat in a community of only 380 people.

Rep. Robert Davis was on hand to discuss some of the safety legislation in the hopper down in Lansing.

Dr. Harry R. Custer of Charlevoix gave a talk on safety in the home.

There also were representatives of the State Police and the State Highway Department on the speakers' platform to add to the overall safety message.

Fifth-graders sang a number of songs, Doug Way entertained on the trumpet and a "Safety Queen" — Miss Noreen DeGroot — was crowned.

After the program, doorprizes donated by Ellsworth merchants were given away by lot and the audience was treated to coffee and doughnuts before the meeting broke up.

So far as anyone knows, no other community in the state has an annual meeting devoted strictly to safety. Certainly, no other community can look back on such a long skein of safety meetings with such a devoted and unflagging attendance.

Donaldson hit upon the idea for his village-wide safety seminars in 1950 after his son was seriously hurt in an automobile accident. He decided, waiting in Charlevoix Hospital for word of his son's condition, to try to do something — anything — to promote the cause of safety.

Ellsworth's annual safety meetings were the result.

Donaldson's singleness of purpose and determination have earned him the title "Mr. Safety" among those who know him best.

Coast Guard Comes Through

Once again we have evidence that the U.S. Coast Guard is not the "safe" service that many of our land-locked neighbors sometimes consider it.

Certainly the sage of the four "Coasties" who weathered winds shrieking up to 75 miles per hour on Lansing Shoal light April 18 and 19 will go down as one of the most dramatic episodes in the annals of the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station.

The very fact that Chief Dale C. Hoosier, ENI Robert Wojtaszek, SA William Chase, FA Leonard Pantoja and SA Paul Atkinson survived their ordeal on the battered light is a credit to their training as Coast Guardsmen.

Readers will recall that the five men were aboard the light when a freak storm, described by station commander Lt. Donald D. Luedke as a "local hurricane", roared in from the east and sent the spray from 20-foot waves cascading over the 75-foot lighthouse.

Three ports in the crib were ripped loose by the storm, sending fire-hose jets of water 24-inches in diameter into the engine room and radio beacon room, shorting out the engines and other equipment.

To keep the beacon in operation, Hoosier and Pantoja climbed to the top of the swaying tower to activate the light by battery power.

Although an inspection proved later that no structural damage had been done to the light, the men aboard never knew which wave might demolish the crib and catapult them, spread-eagle, into the storm-tossed lake.

Equally heroic were the crewmen aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew who went to their rescue in the 24-foot cargo boat Sun II.

Operation of such lights as Lansing Shoal, White Shoal and Gray's Reef is essential to navigation on the Great Lakes. Their radio beacons and signal lights guide an endless parade of gigantic freighters through the shoal waters of northern Lake Michigan from late March until the close of the shipping season.

The time undoubtedly will come when all of the lake lights will be "automated" and the lonesome job of the lighthouse keeper will be ended.

But until they are, we are fortunate to have such men as Hoosier, Wojtaszek, Chase, Pantoja and Atkinson on the job.

It's 'Clean-Up' Time Again

That time of year has come again when you can help make our town "Charlevoix the Beautiful" in fact as well as in word.

Mayor William Fochtman has declared the week of April 4 through 9 "Clean Up" Week and has ordered city crews to pick up all rubbish that is left on the curbstones in disposable containers.

The rest is up to you.

Winter has a way of leaving an unsightly mess behind it. Leaves matted into the hedge-rows. The wobbly charcoal grill that was left outside at the mercy of rain and snow. The toboggan that became kindling when Johnny hit the big maple at the bottom of the garden.

They're all fair game for the city's clean-up crews.

You may want to do some checking around inside, too. Stacks of newspapers that could pose a fire hazard. Grandma's old rocker that gave up the ghost and collapsed with a clatter the day the minister came to call. The record player that Susie dropped en route to the basement. The sack of crushed tin cans in the fruit cellar you had intended to donate to the war effort in 1943.

Just set them out by the curb and they'll disappear like magic. And Charlevoix will be a brighter, cleaner city for your efforts.

Environment Low on U.S. Priority List

Dear Bob,

As we finish Earth Week we might pause and examine what priority pollution control has in our Federal Budget. The government spends 956.00 for each of us. Out of that-

.03 goes for child welfare and juvenile delinquency
05 for environment
23 food and nutrition
55 health facilities
1.30 vocational training
2.45 science research & basic research
5.37 medical research (cut in half for next year)
6.69 higher education
11.62 elementary education
13.57 community development and housing
19.32 space research
25.36 agriculture

'Let's Mark Flag Day Every Day'

By Bernice Wexstaff

Credit Mrs. Howard Messmore with the best idea of the day to keep patriotic fervor moving ahead in Charlevoix during these times of apathy and distress. Mrs. Messmore says: "Why can't we, the citizens of Charlevoix, promote and maintain a house-by-house showing of the flag all summer long?"

The American flag has been displayed for several weeks at the Messmore residence at 301 Michigan avenue and has caused considerable favorable comment among the citizenry.

Needless to say both Dr. and Mrs. Messmore feel strongly about the patriotic obligations of all American citizens after "sweating" out their son's, Larry's Vietnam tour of duty. With such a recent harrowing experience, patriotism comes easily to the Messmores.

Think for a moment what a red-white-and blue display would mean to tourists passing through town? One can envisage the gasps of pleasure and surprise as the transient glances about and sees flower-gardens of red, white and blue tossing to and fro in the summer breeze.

Aside from the beauty of the Charlevoix-the-Beautiful – scene of blue waters, green lakeside parks, hanging flower baskets and flower beds – Charlevoix could well go down in history as the first town in the land to add the dignity of our National flag toward the promotion of unity of the citizenry. Charlevoix could easily become not only the talk of the town but of the entire nation.

Hopefully the Chamber of Commerce as well as patriotic groups would lend support to the cause of promoting respect for Old Glory the flag which has of late been ridiculed by subversives intent on abolishing our constitutional Republic in favor of a destructive socialism.

Now is the hour for the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries to add a new dimension to their annual Memorial Day Poppy Sales – the American flag!

Michigan Week – May 17th – seems an admirable time to being Charlevoix's "flag-raising" summer...termination date --perhaps Veteran's Day, November 11th. The summer gesture could even give the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts a summer project of checking the town, street by street, to see that each and every household was observing flag care during the entire summer's display.

What About Military Pollution?

Dear Editor:

What is the "quality of our environment" that President Nixon promises to make the issue of the 1970's?

Is he talking about automobile exhaust and industrial waste? We agree that these are hazardous pollutors.

But, is he talking about military pollution: Hardly! Storing dangerous radioactive and chemical waste in Colorado and Washington; researching biological weapons at Fort Dietrich, Md.; shipping dangerous gases from Okinawa to Harminston, Ore.; testing chemical sprays which killed 6,400 sheep in Utah, and scattering ABM sites around the country.

Is he talking about the Atomic Energy Commission: Hardly. AEC conducts underground tests in Nevada, Colorado and Alaska--areas dangerously susceptable to earthquakes.

AEC permits the building of nuclear power plants without adequate guarantees of radioactive pollution control.

AEC prepares sites for homes in Colorado with radioactive wastes from a nearly uranium processing plant.

Is he talking about U.S. Army pollution of Vietnam. Hardly! Spraying 100,000,000 pounds of herbicides; destroying food crops, animals and birds and possibly changing for many years, if not forever, the ecology of Vietnam.

When you write to your Congressman tell them that to change the "quality of our environment" military pollutants must also go.

This thought provoking article has been provided for you by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Mrs. Albert (Doris) Schaller

ONE MAN'S OBSERVATION

Many men believe it would benefit them if they could get a little from those who have more. How much more it would benefit them if they would learn a little from those who have more.

-William F. Boeteker

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

It is nice to learn every once in a while that something I enjoy doing is neither fattening, immoral or detrimental to the health.

Take bicycling, for example.

Even when I was a kid, I got a kick out of bike riding. I like the wind in my hair. The healthy pressure of a pedal against my instep. The exhilaration of pumping to the top of a hill without having to get off and push.

The bicycle was my chief means of locomotion, right through high school and college.

When I got my first newspaper job with the Trenton, Mich., "Times," my bicycle went with me. I used it to ride to and from work and I even won a few races with the Trenton fire trucks.

At age 25, however, I bought my first automobile and I thought my biking days were over. I liked the wind in my hair. The healthy pressure of a gas pedal against my instep. The exhilaration of zooming to te top of a hill without having to get out and push.

Then at age 29 my fascination with motor vehicles began to flag and I bought another bike. Needless to say, I was the laughing stock of the neighborhood. I'll never forget the taunts of little children crying, "Look, Mama! A big man riding a bicycle. Doesn't he look funny!"

However, that was 12 years ago and times have changed. The bicycle once again is making a come-back and I feel rather proud having been in the vanguard of the movement.

But I never thought there was anything particularly beneficial to society in my riding a bike until Earth Day, April 22. Then experts from coast to coast began telling me that the lowly bicycle may provide a partial answer to the ever-worsening problem of air pollution. They rationalize that if we all rode bikes, we wouldn't befoul the atmosphere with auto exhaust, like we do today.

And, by golly, they have a point. If we made all of our short junkets around town by bike we could reduce Charlevoix's air pollution problem by a substantial margin.

And don't think we don't have a problem. Just sit in the Courier office some warm, sunny afternoon with the door open. Every time the bridge goes up and a half dozen automobiles are forced to wait with their engines idling out in front, the fumea that waft through the office are heady enough to smart the eyes.

Of course, the situation in Charlevoix is nothing compared to the noxious air of the big cities, but it is a problem and will probably grow worse before the automakers finally come up with fume-free transportation.

In the meantime, I feel I am doing my part whenever I leave my jalopy in the driveway and scoot downtown on my trusty, two-wheeled ateed.

It's sort of nice. The wind in what's left of my hair. The healthy pressure of a pedal against my instep. The exhilaration of.....

The Wrong Kind of Father

The right kind of a father spends his weekends doing jobs around the house and playing with his odd kids.

Or something like that. Sometimes it is difficult to understand exactly what my wife is saying, especially when she talks at the same time she is doing something else, such as hitting my ears.

Anyway. It was Saturday and the sun was shining and the air was warm. Perfect weather for outdoor athletics. And that's what I was doing – watching some outdoor athletes on TV.

"Come out and play basketball with me," my son Eddie asked.

I'm too old for that game," I answered.

"Gee," he said.

"What kind of a father are you?" my wife asked. "Your only son asks for your companionship but you'd rather watch TV."

"Speaking of TV," I said cleverly, "I keep seeing these commercials where the mother and daughter are frolicking together and they are both so well-stacked no one can tell which one is the mother until she opens her mouth and you see it is full of Grape Nuts. But you never see commercials where no one can tell the son from the father. The reason is that Dad works too hard to stay young and trim, with soft hands. He is too busy making money to buy jeweled identification bracelets for his wife and daughters so they can tell each other apart. I think I'm going to cry...."

"If you don't play basketball with Eddie, you will have something to cry about," my wife said (or was it my daughter?).

Anyway, I played. And in only 5 minutes my weary legs buckled and I fell hard to the ground. I heard a rib crack. Every kid in the neighborhood was watching. I wanted to bounce right up to show them what a great sport the old man was. Except I couldn't move.

"Are you ok, Dad?" Eddie asked after he'd picked up the ball and made 2 points while standing on my hand.

I assured him I'd live. The only question was whether I'd ever get on my feet again. I kept hoping my moaning and screaming would bring my wife to the door, tears in her eyes. But she never showed. I finally staggered into the house and collapsed at her feet.

"The bulb over the sink in the bathroom just burned out," she said. "Change it."

"Don't you care that I have been mortally wounded while making my son my buddy?" I asked.

"Do you want to shave in the dark?" she answered.

I had to stand on the sink. A huge globe enclosed the bulb. It stuck. I jerked. The globe fell, breaking into millions of pieces and smashing a hole in the side of the sink.

I do not make these things up. Just stop by and ask to use our purple rest room. Move the soap dish a few inches and you'll see the hole which shall remain in our family forever as a reminder that the man of the house is not the right kind of father.

Onward and Upward and my ribs still ache.

The Invasion of Cambodia

It was with leaden hearts that Americans learned Thursday night that President Nixon has committed American forces to the war in Cambodia.

The President said the move was called because of massive enemy buildups across the Vietnam-Cambodia border and estimated the expedition would last from six to ten weeks.

He did not explain how he plans to put down the communists in Cambodia in such a short time, in view of the half-decade of fruitless warfare we have waged against the same enemy in Vietnam.

But he insisted that the move is necessary to protect the lives of Americans in Vietnam.

Mr. Nixon also said again that he does not want to be the first American president to lose a war. "I would rather be a one-term President than to be a two-term President at the cost of seeing America become a second-rate power and see this nation accept the first defeat in its proud 190-year history," he said.

Frankly, Mr. President, we are not particularly interested in what the history books have to say about you personally.

But we are terribly interested in what the casualty reports say about our sons, particularly in a war in which the safety of America and Americans is not directly threatened.

ROBERT JONAITIS, Civil Defense Instructor from Michigan Technological University, brings county educators up-to-date on CD activities during seminar at the First State Bank April 27 and 28.

CD Is Low On List of Priorities

The United States is spending only 37 cents per capita on Civil Defense each year, compared to $5.25 in the Soviet Union, Robert Jonaitis, a CD advisor from Michigan Technological University, told Charlevoix area educators at a seminar at the First state Bank April 27 and 28.

He said the United States is even far behind such nations as Sweden, which spends $4.75; Holland, $4.25; and Switzerland, $3.87.

"Our Civil Defense is spotty," Jonaitis said. "Only a small fraction of the population has received any Civil Defense training at all."

He said Americans aren't particularly interested in Civil Defense because they are unfamiliar with warfare in their homeland.

"In Europe, they know the value of such training," he said.

Jonaitis said the country with the best Civil Defense system has the upper hand when it comes to war.

"If you're not ready, you're in for a bunch of trouble," he commented.

He fears that because of America's unpreparedness, the U.S. civilian population may be used as hostages in the next all-out war.

He urged that letters be sent to elected representatives asking for more money for Civil Defense training.

Attending the session were Barry S. Mikulski, Petoskey; George R. Casper, Boyne City; Albert Shindorf, Charlevoix; Charles Crosser of Petoskey, representing the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District; Paul E. Chamberlain, Petoskey; John R. Scott, Petoskey; Gerald L. Janousek, Pellston and Dennis Richardson, Central Lake.

The teachers hopefully will spread Jonaitis' Civil Defense message to their students.

Other CD seminars were held last week for county employes in East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Jonaitis also spoke in Walloon Lake at the request of the Melrose Township Fire Department.

This is Oldsmobile's year at Indy.

OLDSMOBILE
OFFICIAL PACE CAR

Isn't it your year for an Olds?

The knowing folks at Indy just named Olds 4-4-2 official pace car for this year's 500.

For good reason. Olds is not only an excellent performer, it's a winner in looks and ride as well.

The fact is, every 1970 Olds is a pacesetter. And it goes far deeper than performance.

You find it in great engineering. In exceptional comfort. In ride and handling that are outstanding. And in the solid quality and dependability you've come to expect from Oldsmobile.

In fact, it's this quality that leads many people to believe that Olds is priced out of their reach. A mistaken notion that might keep you in an ordinary car instead of an Olds.

The truth of the matter is that many Olds models are priced right down with the low-price names.

Now that you have the facts, isn't this your year to go Oldsmobile? You can probably do so for no more than what you've been paying. See your nearest Olds dealer!

Lake trout and rainbow trout are in the limelight this week for western Michigan anglers, according to the West Michigan Tourist Association.

Streams are clean and clear and the weather has been warm and sunny.

Gaylord: Trout streams excellent with heavy pressure.

Petoskey: Good catches of rainbow in Little Traverse Bay. Best catches at Bear River, Bay View dock and Harbor Springs, using spawn and Little Cleos.

KIRK LIEBERMAN and Steve Michael pose with a nine-lb. rainbow they caught April 28 near the falls in Stover Creek. The big female trout measured 28 inches and was taken on worms. The boys report the line broke just before the fish was netted.

What's the right thing to do?

Difficult decisions in business, school and family life face us all at some time.

How do we know the right thing to do... how do we apply our highest values without penalty?

Charles W. Ferris, an experienced teacher and practitioner of Christian Science, says that these decisions need not be difficult. He says that sure and practical answers come when we turn to God as Principle.

In a one-hour free public lecture entitled "Ethics For Today," Mr. Ferris will relate the experiences of people who proved that a prayerful, inspired approach to everyday decisions results in greater usefulness and freedom.

This is the big idea behind the Blue Chip Savings Account

BLUE CHIP SAVINGS ACCOUNT

Today, more than ever, a savings account is the cornerstone of intelligent family money-management.

Two big reasons: First, saving is now more rewarding than ever—far more sensible, for example, than many other so-called "blue chip" investments. The higher bank rates and bank safety are stronger reasons for keeping a savings account here.

Second, there are elements of uncertainty in other investment possibilities, and many a family nestegg has been cracked in the pinch of plummeting market prices.

That's why we call your attention to today's safest and wisest "money move". A savings account right here at our bank.

It's so sound, and so sure, we call it the Blue Chip Savings Account. And we can guarantee that your funds will always be here in total... and you can get at your savings without a lot of red tape.

Act now. A savings account is the smartest investment you can make.

3 More in House Race

Ex-Mayor Of E.J. Candidate

Gerald O. Olsen

Martin A. Brennan

Wendell J. Marzolf

Three more northern Michiganders have announced their candidacy for the state House of Representatives seat presently held by Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace) who is running for the Senate.

They are Gerald (Jerry) Ole Olson, 37, of East Jordan; Wendell J. Marzolf, Gaylord; and Martin A. Brennan, Conway.

Candidates announced earlier include John Kujawski of Boyne City, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners; Ted F. Miller of Elk Rapids; and Del Terrill and Richard Friske of Charlevoix.

Olson, who just completed five years on the East Jordan City Council, including two years as mayor, was born in East Jordan Aug. 14, 1932, and began his working career at age eight as a newsboy.

WAR VET

A combat veteran of the Korean War, Olson has worked for the East Jordan Co-Operative for the past 13 years. He presently is sales representative for tires, batteries and accessories.

Olson is married to the former Nancy Lee Ikens of Charlevoix. They have four children; Nancy Louise, 17; Allan 15; Cynthia, 13; and Terence, 11.

The candidate is a deacon in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. He, his wife and son Allen were delegates to the recent World Church Conference in Independence, Mo.

Olson also serves on East Jordan's Boy Scout committee and was a member of the fire department for nine years.

His hobbies include snowmobiling, deer hunting and golf.

CIVIC LEADER

Marzolf, a long-time civic leader in northern Michigan is owner of Marzolf's Alphorn Shop in Gaylord and is president of Gaylord's Rotary Club.

He is a three-year member of the executive board, Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America. Other affiliations include the Gaylord Area Chamber of Commerce, Eastern Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, Northland Sportsman's Club, Otsego Ski Club and the Sporting Goods Advisory Council for Outdoor Life.

He served as chairman of the charter committee for the organization of the Otsego County Community Fund and was elected as its first president for the years 1966 and 1967.

STATE NATIVE

A native of Michigan, Marzolf was manager of the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce and Caberfae Inc. from 1949 through 1951.

He served as executive secretary of the Mount Clemens Board of Commerce for six and one half years. In 1956, he entered the association management field and affiliated himself with the American Petroleum Institute and the Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan.

Marzolf is a graduate of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. Institute for Chamber of Commerce and Association Management, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and Michigan State University. He is a past member of the Association Executives of Michigan and the American Society of Association Executives.

Marzolf is enrolled in the School of Theology, Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, and is studying for a perpetual deaconite in the Episcopal Church.

FEELS QUALIFIED

Marzolf says: "During my 15 years in chamber of commerce and association management, I was in close association with the Michigan Legislature and am very knowledgeable of its entire operation. With this, together with outdoor and youth activities, I feel that I am particularly well adapted to knowing and understanding the needs of people. I also know that I am well qualified to carry on the representation necessary for the 106th Representative District seat currently held by Rep. Davis."

The candidate, together with his wife Iris, have three grown children. Their home is located on Otsego Lake south of the Alpine Village of Gaylord. Before coming to Gaylord in 1964, the Marzolfs were summer residents of the Alpine Village since the early 30's.

Singers Coming To City

The "I Sing of Thee" Gospel music team will appear May 10, at the Community Reformed Church. A sight-sound program entitled "Call to the Caribbean" will highlight the appearance.

The first week in February was spent by the team in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Haiti. The presentation not only shows areas where the men ministered in music, but also features some of the sounds—children singing in an orphanage, a pastor singing in a church in the slums, and islanders singing with the men in an outdoor concert.

This marked the second overseas trip for the team, made up of Ernie Hansen and Gary Bomgaars of the Muskegon area and Doug Tjapkes of Grand Haven. Two years earlier, they traveled to the Far East, singing in several countries including Vietnam. Hansen sings tenor, Bomgaars sings bass and Tjapkes accompanies on the piano.

Rev. T. Oegeima is the narrator.

The men are heard on radio in western Michigann, as well as in Korea, Puerto Rico and the Antilles. They have produced several long-play recordings.

There will be plenty of "live" music, in addition to the filmed portion of the program.

Concert Drive Is Under Way

The Northern Michigan Community Concert Association reports that its annual membership campaign will terminate May 9. No further memberships will be sold after that date.

About 125 campaign workers are canvassing past members and prospective members in the Charlevoix-Petoskey area.

The solicitation drive started Monday with a dinner at the Perry-Davis Hotel.

Persons interested in organizing a boat club in Charlevoix are asked to meet in room 11f of the First State Bank Tuesday, May 5, at 8 p.m.

Cadillac
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Cadillac Motor Car Division

Do it today...not "someday."

Perhaps you have long dreamed of owning a Cadillac . . . then reluctantly settled for some lesser car until that "someday."

You could find no better reason to make that "someday" come true today than the brilliant 1970 Cadillac.

Consider, for example, the grand Cadillac Sedan deVille, shown above. It is the most popular of all Cadillacs. Its impressive elegance suggests the driving pleasure inherent in its luxurious interiors, its host of comforts and conveniences and the superb performance of its great 472 V-8 engine.

Once behind the wheel, you'll enjoy the near effortless handling provided by Cadillac's variable-ratio power steering, power front disc brakes and brilliantly smooth Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, standard on every Cadillac model.

And you can enhance your motoring enjoyment with available Automatic Climate Control air conditioning, Tilt and Telescope steering wheel and the incomparable sound of Cadillac's exclusive AM-FM Signal-seeking stereo radio.

We think you'll agree, once you've driven the 1970 Cadillac, that you've waited long enough. And your authorized Cadillac dealer will be proud to help you make your "someday" come true . . . today.

To Open Jail Bids

Bids on Charlevoix's new $500,000 jail will be opened at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 21, by the Building Authority, according to County Clerk Clarence Rabach.

Rabach says he expects as many as 10 bidders, judging from the number of requests for blueprints he has received.

Two weeks ago, bonds to build the jail were sold at an average interest rate of less than seven percent.

Plans for the building have been drawn up by S.T. Gerganoff, an Ypsilanti architect.

Members of the Building Authority which is constructing the new jail are E.D. (Pat) Hawley of Charlevoix, Aldwyn Barden of Boyne City and Greg Boswell of East Jordan.

Library Notes

Mrs. Griffin's Books Add to Antique Lore

The library would like to extend deep appreciation to Howard A. Griffin for donating his wife's interesting and valuable collection of books on antiques to the Charlevoix Library. Mrs. Griffin spent many years building this collection, and she had wide, personal interests ranging from buttons and coins to glass, porcelains, furniture and primitives.

Included in the private collection are the following titles:

"The Connoisseur's Handbook of Antique Collecting" – a dictionary of furniture, silver, ceramics, glass and fine art.

"The Complete Antiques Price List" (1969) with over 28,000 current prices.

"Dictionary of Marks" – Pottery and Porcelain."

"Art Collecting for Pleasure and Profit."

"Art Glass Nouveau" a large and handsome book with 424 color plates. This is an extremely valuable aid for any glass collector to help identify art glass produced during the latter part of the 19th and first part of the 20th century.

"Cut and Engraved Glass – 1771 – 1905" is another important guide to American wares. There are many plates and drawings, a glass-house chart and list of known patterns.

"A Directory of Antique Furniture" by F. Lewis Hinckley is the authentic classification of European and American designs for professions and connoisseurs. It consists almost entirely of photographs and plates for identification purposes.

"Sandwich Glass" by Ruth Webb Lee is an outstanding classic. The author presents the history of Boston and sandwich glass, and there are many helpful photographs.

"The Pine Furniture of Early New England" is a large, bulky book which will delight any collector of primitive furniture. There are 284 illustrations.

"American Silver" belongs in any collector's library. There are 83 photographs and more than three centuries of fine silver are discussed.

"Antiques You can Decorate With" by George Grotz is a practical guide to what they are, where to find them, and how much to pay for them. There are more than 400 drawings by the author.

"Handbook of Tomorrow's Antiques" is a fully-illustrated book showing the many ordinary, run-of-the-mill household items we use today which may become valuable to the antique collectors of the future.

"Treasures in Truck and Trash" by Morgan Towne discusses just about everything that could be found in the litter of once-active households and shops. Tools, scrapbooks, stamps, clocks, fabrics and rugs, glassware, wallpaper, lamps and old mail-order catalogues.

"Ancient Peruvian Ceramics" is a handsome handbook showing some of the Nathan Cummings Collection which was presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The list of books mentioned this week in Library Notes is only part of the collection which Griffin has presented to the Library. Our patrons are urged to come in and enjoy this very special contribution presented to the library in memory of a very gracious lady and lover of antiques.

BUICK
LeSabre Custom

Everybody is looking for a bargain.

Here's one you can believe in.

What makes the Buick LeSabres we sell such bargains?

We're dealing, for one thing. Spring is here and we're making up for lost time during those cold winter months when everybody stayed home by the fire.

We're going to make it real easy for you to get into a Buick and celebrate Spring.

But that's only part of what makes a bargain a bargain.

What about the car? Can you believe in it?

Every Buick is built with integrity.

You get things like a cooling system that should never overheat, even with air conditioning.

You get Buick's unique suspension system – AccuDrive – that makes this LeSabre one of the best handling Buicks ever.

You can even order a 350 cubic-inch V8. With two-barrel carburetion. That delivers 285 horsepower. Yet runs on regular gas.

So, let's put it this way. If you want a bargain, we've got the ingredients. The car. And the deal.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

the state Water Resources Commission to take steps to remove at least 80 percent of the phosphorous compounds from its waste water by December of 1972. Phosphorous, resulting chiefly from detergents, acts as a fertilizer and promotes undesirable plant growth in lakes and streams.

To remove the phosphorous, the engineers have recommended that Charlevoix use the present sewage disposal plant as a pumping station and that a new plant incorporating both primary and secondary treatment be located at a new site adjacent to Lake Michigan.

Charlevoix presently has only a primary treatment plant. Raw sewage is broken down by bacteria in digesters and eventually is trucked to drying beds north of town. It makes an excellent top dressing for the golf course.

Waste water, rich in phosphorous, is chlorinated and emptied into Pine River Channel.

The secondary treatment, as evisioned at the new location, will be an "activated sludge process," according to Hanna. Air will be bubbled through the sludge in settling tanks resulting in a more thorough decomposition. The resulting waste water also will meet the new state standards relative to phosphorous content.

However, the city council is seriously considering going the state one better and installing third, or tertiary, treatment equipment. This will mean that water leaving the plant will be safe to drink.

The third stage, which consists of a drum filter to remove additional phosphates, will cost an estimated $115,000 more than the secondary plant, but city fathers feel the high quality of the waste water will be worth the added expense. Charlevoix can expect financial assistance from the state only for new primary and secondary treatment facilities, Hanna said.

The law also requires that all children are screened for vision and hearing defects before they start school.

To be eligible for kindergarten in the fall, a child must be five years of age by Dec. 1, 1970.

Present kindergarten classes will not be held May 8 so that the teachers may assist with the registration.

Parents are asked to bring only the child being registered.

organize boat outings, both sail and motor, and to keep members abreast of the activities of other yachting clubs in the area by means of a monthly bulletin during the boating season.

Some of the activities in the planning stage include a cruise to Elk Rapids, a dinner and cruise to Harbor Springs, a get-together party at during the annual August homecoming on Beaver Island and a week's trip to Wisconsin in July.

All boat owners are welcome to join. The next meeting will be May 15 at 8:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Library.

Rec Program Needs Helpers

The city Recreation Department will need several college students to work in the local recreation department again this summer. Students can earn both college credit and a salary.

Director Dean Davenport says someone with a Red Cross waterfront swimmers instructors badge is needed to work as a lifeguard and instruct in the swimming program.

Student workers may earn as many as eight college credits through Central Michigan University. In the past, the credits have proven to be transferable to nearly every college in the midwest.

Many students have enrolled in the program and earned college credits while living at home during the summer, and gaining valuable experience while doing so.

Those interested in securing further information about the program, should contact Davenport at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

Bridegroom Stricken

The scheduled wedding of Miss Marcee Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace of Charlevoix, on Saturday was postponed after the bridegroom, Lyman Hall Allen III, 29, of New York City suffered a cerebral hemmorrhage.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hall Allen jr., of Locust, N.J.

Allen reportedly was hospitalized after complaining of severe headaches.

A graduate of the Newark (N.J.) College of Engineering, Princeton University and Rider College in Trenton, N.J., Allen is a sales engineer with the Consolidate Aluminum Corp.

PFC Farkas In Vietnam

PFC Eugene Farkas of Charlevoix is serving in Vietnam as a machine gunner aboard a helicopter.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. William Farkas, PFC Farkas enlisted in the Marine Corps last August and received his basic training at Camp Pendleton, Calif., earning the sharp-shooter medal.

He left for Vietnam March 4 and is stationed with a security unit of the First Marine Division five miles below the DMZ.

Band Festival Is May 6

Charlevoix bandsmen will participate in the annual Massed Band Festival at Cheyboygan Wednesday, May 6, according to director Clarence Odmark.

The event is one of two massed band festivals to be sponsored in northern Michigan this week by District II of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association. The other is at Kalkaska May 7.

Summer's Comin'

SPRING RAINS mixed with sunshine have brought a breath of summer to East Park. The boat houses, marinas and homes on the south shore of Round Lake appear sharply etched in the freshly washed air. Some sailboats and other pleasure craft already have tied up in Charlevoix Harbor, a sure sign that blamy summer lies just ahead.

A 24-FOOT long mural of the west side of Bridge-st. in 1934 is now on display in the basement of the First State Bank. The mural was arranged by Robert Miles (left) of pictures taken 36 years ago by Earl Young (center). Looking on are Charles Themm and Mrs. Dorothy Dixon of the bank.

Bridge-st. in 1934 Featured at Bank

How about a stroll down Bridge-st. in August of 1934?

You can do it today simply by visiting the basement of the First State Bank in Charlevoix.

A 24-foot mural showing businesses on the west side of Bridge-st. from the Alhambra Hotel on Pine River Channel to Antrim-st. has been completed by photographer Robert Miles and is ready for viewing.

The photos were all taken on a single day by Charlevoix architect Earl Young, using a 1911 model relfex camera.

Some of the buildings Young photographed are now gone, like the old Central Drug Store, and most of the others have been remodeled, but the scenes will bring back nostalgic memories for many older Charlevoixana.

Young said he took pictures of the east side of Bridge-st. the same day, but that the negatives were stolen.

"I thought people might some day be interested in what Charlevoix used to look like," he explained.

The mural is part of a photographic history of Charlevoix which Miles has done for the community room at the bank.

Most of the pictures show old scenes of Charlevoix, with pictures of the same scene today just below them.

DNR OK's 9 Mile Pt. Boat Ramp

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has announced the construction of a small car-trailer parking lot and limited boat launching facilities will soon get under way at Nine Mile Point to give water craft users more public access to Lake Michigan.

DNR waterways construction crews will develop the site on lands leased from the State Highway Department just east of Elzinga Park.

The project is being sponsored by the Hayes Township board of supervisors through the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation Development District.

The RC and D district is co-sponsored by 13 soil-conservations districts and county boards of commissioners.

Purpose of the project is to provide adequate parking and boat launching facilities to the public for the increased fishery primarily lake trout, in Lake Michigan.

Scout-O-Rama

More than 50 area Boy Scout troops, including Charlevoix Scouts, will take part Saturday, May 16, in Scout-O-Rama, at the Emmet County Fairgrounds in Petoskey. Hours at 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.

Volunteers Gravel Road

Graveling of the new 1,800-foot camp road at Bells Bay was completed over the weekend and, with a few finishing touches, the area will be ready for campers.

Volunteers turned out in droves again Saturday to help with the graveling, just as they did the Saturday before to help with the clearing, according to Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud.

Dump trucks were sent by Stub Swanson, Robert Mousseau, Medusa, Water's Edge Resort, the City of Charlevoix and John Martin.

The Road Commission contributed a grader and driver; the Department of Natural Resources sent two cats and a loader and Martin kicked in a five-yard loader.

The project, which created 18 new wilderness campsites, saved the state an estimated $24,000.

Miss Wallace's Fiance Dies

A second massive cerebral hemorrhage has claimed the life of Lyman Hall Allen III, 29, who was to have become the bridegroom of Miss Marcee Wallace of Charlevoix May 2.

Miss Wallace's father, Robert Wallace, said the youth suffered the second hemorrhage Saturday and died late Sunday afternoon, May 10, at the Monmouth Medical Center in Monmouth, N.J.

The Wallaces were expected to fly to New Jersey Monday morning to be with their daughter, who is staying with Mr. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hall Allen jr., 50 Red Coach Lane, Locust, N.J.

The wedding was postponed at the last minute after the bridegroom complained of severe headaches and was hospitalized.

A graduate of Princeton University and Rider College, Mr. Allen was a sales engineer for the Consolidated Aluminum Co. in New York City.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Robert L. Miller

Board Hires Superintendent

Out of a field of more than 100 candidates, the Charlevoix Board of Education has hired Robert L. Miller, 40, superintendent of Hartland Consolidated Schools, to replace Rex Milligan as superintendent of Charlevoix schools.

He will assume his new responsibilities at the close of the present school year.

A native of Hudson, Mich., Miller was graduated from Hudson High School in 1948 and received his B.S. in 1952 and his M.A. in 1956 from the University of Michigan. He received his educational specialist degree from Central Michigan University last year.

Before moving to Hartland, a small community just north of Brighton in 1965, Miller was superintendent at Centreville for three years.

Prior experience includes two years (1960-62) as superintendent of Tustin High School, where he also was junior high basketball coach, and taught U.S. history, government, economics, civics, biology, geography and driver education. He also has taught and coached at Ypsilanti High School and the University High School in Ann Arbor.

He was in the navy during the Korean War with service in the Far East.

He was married in 1960 to the former Gertrude (Trudy) Taylor. They have three children, Mark, 7; Amy, 5; and Craig, 3.

Chemist Suggests More Stack Tests

Only a continuous testing of the discharge from the Medusa Portland Cement Co. stack will tell whether or not the plant is meeting township and state air quality standards, Dr. Thomas L. Sweeney reported Friday afternoon after an inspection of the plant.

A chemist at Ohio State University, Dr. Sweeney was asked to come to Charlevoix by Charlevoix Township officers to determine whether or not Medusa is contributing to air pollution in the area.

After an inspection of plant facilities in the morning, Dr. Sweeney reported on his findings at a meeting of township, state and company representatives at the First State Bank.

He congratulated the plant on its "housekeeping," saying it is the cleanest cement plant he has ever visited.

However, it said it is impossible to determine if the plant is exceeding stack emission quotas without continuous monitoring.

Under the township code, the plant is allowed to emit 0.28 pounds of dust for every 1,000 pounds of stack gas. The Michigan code allows 0.25 pounds of dust for the same amount of gas.

Working at full capacity, the dust precipitators at the plant should hold dust emissions to 0.075 pounds for every 1,000 pounds of stack gas.

However, whenever one of the precipitators is down for repairs, dust emissions in the past apparently have exceeded allowable limits.

Fred Cohrs, plant manager, said modifications to the precipitator while the plant was shut down this winter should keep emissions within allowable limits, even with one unit down.

Dr. Sweeney said the results of continuous, or semi-continuous monitoring, should be made public.

He said that the times when the plant exceeded allowable limits probably resulted from "upsets" in the plant.

Gregory Shadko of N. Meech-st. questioned Dr. Sweeney about an error which reportedly occurred in one of Medusa's dust emission reports.

Band Concerts

Two concerts featuring four school bands will be presented at the high school gymnasium Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 and 20, according to Director Clarence Odmark.

The 7th and 8th grade bands will present a combined concert at the high school May 19th.

The following night, the high school concert band and the symphony band will play. Both concerts begin at 8 p.m.

South Side Battles Boat Ramps

More than 40 South Side residents took the city council to task for planning to construct boat launching ramps at Ferry Beach, a move which they fear will reduce the size of the beach and pose a safety hazard to swimmers.

Even though they were assured by Mayor William Fochtman that the city intends to expand the Ferry Beach swimming area north of the pier, the residents said they may start a petition drive to stop the ramp project.

The city already has asked for construction bids to be opened May 25. The project will cost an estimated $160,000. The state Waterways Commission will pay 90 percent of the cost, with the city picking up the balance.

The project includes two boat ramps, construction of a 125-foot rip-rap breakwater, filling and paving a parking area for 90 cars and trailers, and construction of restroom facilities. The project will take about 100 feet of the present bathing beach, although about 200 feet will be added on the north side of the pier.

The city also intends to fill and expand the picnic area and to put more sand on both sides of the pier.

One angry residents described the north side of the pier as a "muck hole — dangerous and dirty."

Many of the protesters apparently felt that the city is catering to tourists to the detriment of South Side residents who use the beach.

"Who has asked for boat ramps?" asked Jim Alger. "All we want are restrooms. I don't think it's necessary. Why do they have to take over our beaches? I think the community has gone to sleep. The council isn't looking out for our interests."

Former Councilman Del Terrill also objected to the project, saying Ferry Beach is the city's "best protected, usable beach."

Mrs. Robert Timms was interested in the safety of swimmers and wanted to know if there would be a barricade of any kind between the ramps and the swimming area.

Fochtman said piling would be driven in the lake as an anchor for the buoy markers.

A suggestion that the ramps be located at Depot Beach on the north side of the city drew applause.

Government Heads Meet

Thirty-five government heads from throughout Charlevoix County met at the courthouse Tuesday night in a move to iron out communications problems between the various units of government and to seek better coordination in solving mutual problems.

The main stumbling block in achieving the two goals, County Clarence Rabach reported after the meeting, is that the government leaders don't have sufficient time in their busy schedules to work closely with their counterparts in other communities.

However, the turn-out indicated that there is a willingness to work on mutual problems.

Rabach said a second meeting will be called after he and John Kujawski, chairman of the county board of commissioners, have a chance to establish organizational procedures.

Employes Say City Denying Union Rights

(Following is a statement from employes of the City of Charlevoix and members of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) relative to efforts by city employes to have the CWA represent them as collective bargaining agents. They claim they are being denied the right of union representation by the city.)

"Whether you are a tax-paying resident of our city a passing motorist, or a welcomed visitor, the facts contained in this letter should be of interest to you. The facts we refer to deal in human rights, people being denied certain basic human rights. The case in point involves us, "the employees of the City of Charlevoix," in that we are presently being denied the fundamental right of union representation.

We ask that you review the following list of events and then ask yourself, "is the present administration of the City of Charlevoix conducting themselves in a responsible manner?"

CALL ELECTION

Back in the early part of August, 1969, a group of us as city employee, went to the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, asking that they represent us for purposes of collective bargaining. Shortly thereafter, Aug. 27, 1969, CWA filed a petition before the State Employment Relations Commission requesting that an election be held to determine whether or not the majority of us wanted a union.

Prior to the election being held, it was necessary for the union and the city to meet with a representative of the State Employment Relations Commission to determine questions such as, who would be eligible to vote, where the election would take place, at what time, etc. This meeting was held on Sept. 11, 1969, and was attended by both the city attorney and the city superintendent. As a result of that meeting it was agreed that all employees of the City of Charlevoix but excluding supervisors would be eligible to vote. This agreement, which was signed by the mayor of this city, set Oct. 7, 1969, as the date for our election.

CWA APPROVED

On Oct. 16, 1969, the State Employment Relations Commission contacted both the union and the city to officially announce the results of our election. The outcome of that election clearly indicated that a sizeable majority of us (27 to 5) wanted CWA to represent us. As a result of this democratic decision, we felt our union could now sit down with the city and begin the task of collective bargaining. We did not know at that time, but the city had no intentions of cooperating with us on this matter nor do they have any intentions of cooperating with us now.

The first evidence of their foot-dragging tactics came to light 43 days after we had our election on Nov. 19, 1969. On that date the city filed a petition before the State Employment Relations Commission asking that our election be thrown out. It is interesting to note at this point that there is an existing law which requires that any challenge to an election must be made and filed within five days after the election results have been tabulated. The city chose to wait 43 days. The main reason they gave in support of their argument for having filed the petition was due to the passage of an act providing for compulsory arbitration of disputes involving policemen and firemen, consequently they took the position that the policemen and firemen had no right to be in our Union. Again it is interesting to note that the mayor himself agreed back on Sept. 11, 1969, with the advice and consent of the city attorney and city superintendent that all employe, excluding supervisors, would be eligible for union membership, the same as it is in countless other communities.

EMPLOYES WIN

Five months after the city filed its petition to have our election thrown out, the Employment Relations Commission issued a decision. We are proud to announce that the commission's decision was in our favor; said another way, the election which took place back on Oct. 7, 1969 would be honored.

As a result of the commission's decision, we assumed that this finally paved the way for our union to negotiate with the city. We are disappointed in having to say that this is still not going to be the case; we were just recently advised that the city is going to appeal the commission's decision through the Court of Appeals.

In conclusion, we the employes of this city, feel that what we have just shared with you in terms of these facts, gives us very little cause for pride in our city at this time, say nothing about the personal disappointment we have in our city fathers. This unnecessary drain of tax dollars from our city is senseless (elected officials having to go to Lansing and fees having to be paid to out-of-town attorneys). It would be most interesting to know what this has cost our city to date, say nothing about what it will end up costing. It is a shame that these same monies couldn't remain in our city in the form of better wages, wages which in turn will be spent right here in the city of Charlevoix. This is what builds better communities and good citizenship. Let us hope our present elected officials recognize this before it is too late.

Thank you for having taken time to read our message."

Syrup Nets $2,900

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club produced 506 gallons of maple syrup this spring which should produce a profit of $2,900 for Boy and Girl Scouts, retarded children, the Kiwanis pool fund and other youth activities.

A total of 906 man-hours were expended, or 34 hours per man. Eight hundred trees were tapped on 19 city streets; 1,500 buckets were hung; and 17,204 gallons of sap were collected. (An average of 34 gallons of sap is required to make one gallon of syrup.

Gross receipts are expected to come to $4,000, less expenses of $1,100, leaving the $2,900 profit.

So far in May we had some light anow early Tuesday and night temperatures of 26 and 30 degrees, which we hope has not harmed our fruit orchards and other blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. James White came from their home in Paris, Ky., Monday to spend the summer in their local home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Faculak of Byron Center, Mich., were guests at the home of the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Faculak will be remembered as Debbie Friend of Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc White from Lowell, Mich., have placed a trailer home on the lot next to the Pete Bennett residence.

The Mens Fellowship planned to clean the church yard Saturday evening. The month of May is clean-up time to dispose of leaves rubbish and everything unsightly that has collected during the winter that will mar the beauty of a new year around our homes.

Did you know that human knowledge, which once doubled every 2,000 years, now doubles every ten years? That is the progress of education.

Garden Club Learns Of Plants, Pesticides

By Mrs. Ross Alexaader

Mrs. Marjory Saunders and Mrs. Margit Hamilton were co-hostesses at the April meeting of the Garden Club.

The lesson wns on "Principal Plants of the Area – Their Pests and Diseases" given by Carolyn Klooster and Marjory Dinwiddie.

"We are fortunate to live in an area where soil conditions, temperature and moisture allow us a wide variety of plants,". they said. "Our growing season is short so we must be selective in planting so that we can make the most of it."

Trees are a must for a basis of good design and their location has more influence than any other plant.

They should be chosen according to the size of the home grounds, moist locations, semi-dry locations, and whether or not they attract birds.

By planting flowering bulbs, perennials and annuals, homeowners can have blooms from April through October.

Plant pests are creatures of the animal world that are harmful to plant life, including insects and such animals as rabbits, mice and gophers.

Plant diseases may be caused hy living organisms belonging to the plant world, such as fungi and bacteria, or by unfavorable environmental conditions.

Some pests ano diseases are highly selective in plants they attack. In certain cases a particular pest or disease will attack but one kind of host plant. Others may attack a wide variety of hosts.

Prevention of pests and diseases is better than a cure. Every gardener must learn to recognize many pests and some diseases. Recommended booklets from the Extension Office are: "Beautiful Home Grounds," "Familiar Trees of Michigan", "Insects Affecting Woody Ornamental Shrubs and Trees", and "Controlling Pests of Trees and Shrubs".

The lecturers also discussed the use of pesticides which do not break down completely, even long after use. There is no way to use persistent pesticides safely in the outdoor environment. Once used, they keep on acting in many destructive ways, killing more than the target pests.

They move through the environment like radioactive material, in water runoff or as dust particles. They come down in rain, snow and dust. It is estimated that millions of pounds of persistent pesticides are now moving in our atmosphere.

Insects become resistent to pesticides. Man and other predators do not have this capacity. When insects become resistent the insect problem becomes worse than before.

Persistent pesticides are being added to the environment by the millions of pounds each year.

All the persistent pesticides are nerve toxins, acting on the nervous system and producing irritability and abnormal behavior.

The next meeting will be a May breakfast at the home of Lucile Rower.

Watershed Planning 2nd Annual Meeting

The second annual meeting of the Jordan River Watershed Commission will be held Monday, May 25, at 8 p.m. at the American Legion hall in East Jordan.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Clifford R. Humphreys, professor of resource development at Michigan State University, who has spent many years on water and watershed research.

A movie on the watershed will be shown and members will be asked to submit ideas to improve the watershed program.

The annual report will be presented by Chairman David Pray, Secretary-Treasurer C. C. Walker and other members of the commission.

A lunch will be served after the meeting.

Many Charlevoixans have been interested in maintaining the Jordan River as a wilderness trout stream. The quality of Lake Charlevoix also depends on the continued high quality of feeder streams like the Jordan.

William A. Coon

William A. Coon, a lifetime resident of Gaylord, has become the eighth candidate seeking Rep. Robert Davis' seat in the 106th representative district. Davis is a candidate for the senate in the 37th district.

A lifelong Republican, Coon believes the stiff competition for the job will result in better representation in Lansing.

He was a barber in Gaylord for three years following his graduation from Gaylord High School. He then attended Michigan State University, earning his B.A. and a teaching certificate in 1963.

He taught government, social studies and industrial arts and coached football in the Vanderbilt School District.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Inquiries and requests for lodging for different periods this summer continue to pour in. Based on this phase alone, which has been going on for several months very consistently so, Charlevoix again this season should be playing to a full house, so to speak.

This office has been approached a number of times this spring about tennis courts for our local people as well as our visitors. I cannot disagree as to the need and that some way, somehow, they should be made available. This item was discussed not long ago at one of our board meetings and accordingly, the avenues are being explored. Merely hearsay, someone apparently now knowing the facts, thought the chamber with all its money, should be able to make this need a reality.

Tuesday evening, May 5, there was a Regular Board of Directors Meeting. President Bruce Bartlett was sick and Charles Themm presided. Directors present were Themm, DePew, L. Miles, Richardson, and Marshall. Absent were Bartlett, Juilleret, Hess, and Oestrike. Secretary Loder took minutes.

After exploring all avenues again having to do with a carnival, a fund raiser for us during the Venetian Festival, we will have to pass the idea due to the fact we could not find a carnival available for two days or even a week at the time of our Venetian Festival.

Secretary reported that cash receipts for the month of April totaled $1,189.17, of which $1154.17 was Voting-Right Membership contributions and $35 was Associate Membership contributons. The total cash disbursements for April were $1,670.38, part of which was $200 each against two carried over accounts, thus reducing indebtedness, over $400 was for withholding taxes for the first quarter, and Michigan Employment Security Commission requirement, to mention a few more were telephone, postage, miscellaneous office expense and stock paper.

Dick Oestrike was appointed street parade chairman for the Venetian Festival, to be assisted by Tom Acton. Ken Empey is to be contacted for assistance to these gentlemen. In addition to the expenses for the month of May, to further reduce indebtedness, a motion was approved to send another $260.

Inasmuch as $1000 must be paid in advance towards the golf tournament and $750 to $1,000 for fireworks, I will have to get out a second invoice for contributions to those members who have not yet contributed for 1970, with hopes we will have favorable response and that in addition some other ways and means will be established to get in additional moneys, much needed because as of May 4, check book balance indicated $1,878.00 against which there will be drawn the above mentioned $260 plus checks for fixed expenses. To be at a minimum on the safe side, this office should have a daily cash balance of approximately $1,500.00.

Folks, we are running out of cottages and/ or cabins for rent, as I reminded you before. Please be in touch with this office if you hear or know of any.

It just could be for a number of reasons, one especially the fishing ban in Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair, will cause fishermen and their little boats to seek out the better inland lakes in Michigan and the west shore of Michigan as well, of which Charlevoix is a part. Now, then, these people, of course, must have a few dollars alone for expenses and leave these dollars in the wake of their trip.

Based on not only the number of inquiries, but the kind that they are, I feel 1970 should be another good season for us. The Chamber can supply material and information; however, there is needed the co-operation of individuals to whom the original contacts will be writing to or phoning to or making a personal call some weekends early in the season.

Paints Flag-Raising For USS Iwo Jima

By Mrs. Anne Osterbaan

Lonnie Barror, 1951 graduate was recently honored with a citation award on the U.S.S. Iwo Jima for painting the flag raising on Iwo Jima. The following is a copy of the citation.

Thanks to the diligent efforts of Hospital Corpman Chief Alonzo Clarence Barror, the USS Iwo Jima now has a mural of this historic event on the bulkhead of the hangar deck. The chief worked for three days on the layout alone. When that was completed, he began working on the painting itself. Working from atop scaffolding supplied by the ship—Chief Barror put in between 50 and 60 hours of work on the nearly life sized painting."

The chief has done other paintings for the ships spaces and has sold his work in the past, but has never received any formal art instruction during his high school in Ellsworth or in his college education at Olivet Nazarene College at Kankakee, Ill.

Chief Barror, who calls Waldridge, Ohio, home is married to the former Miss Gloria Collette and has five children. He says: "I enjoy painting and intend to continue it as a hobby after my 'naval career."

Alonzo, or Lonnie as he was known at school, was president of the 1951 graduating class - an all - A student and who's who - author and artist for the class. Graduating with him were "The Wee Ten," Gladys Fielstra, Phyllis Hart, Jeanette Taylor, Jennie Veenstra, John Best, Chester Farrell, Leonard Strange and Adrian Goeman. He was also very active in the Pilgrim Holiness, now called the Wesleyan Church. He lived with his mother Mrs. Mae Barror and grandmother Mrs. Labeau on Harris-st. north of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Orcutt. The house was burned down several years ago. His mother and brother Franklin now live in East Jordan.

Barror recently was aboard the U.S.S. Iwo Jima when the crew of Apollo 13 was picked up.

Parochiaid Foes Start Petition Drive

Jim Jensen, 110 Palmer-st., Charlevoix, has been named Charlevoix County chairman for a Michigan Education Association (MEA) petition drive to combat the proposed distribution of public school monies to non-public schools parochiaid.

Mrs. Maurine Wyatt, MEA representative from Traverse City, said the chairmen will attempt to solicit the signatures of 300,000 persons opposed to parochiaid.

The MEA wants the people of Michigan to clarify their intent regarding the use of public funds for non-public schools when they adopted the new constitution; to permit the public to respond to 1969-70 activities in the Legislature relative to parochiaid; and to force candidates to face the issue squarely in the November election.

Target date for soliciting the signatures is May 28. If sufficient signatures are gathered, a constitutional amendment will be placed on the November ballot prohibiting the use of public funds for non-public schools.

Your Tax Dollars at Work in School Library

LIBRARIAN Mrs. Max Hosmer displays some of the new "hardware" the Charlevoix School District has purchased with the one-mill for materials voted last August.

OF COURSE, books are still the backbone of any library. The number of volumes at the Charlevoix elementary school will increase from 1,600 to 2,600 this year. Opening a new shipment are (from left) Candace Kruskie, Beverly McDougall, Ronald Hilton and Wendy Wieland, all fourth graders.

'Space Age' Equipment Adds New Dimension

The next time you visit the library at the new Charlevoix elementary school on Division-ave., don't be surprised if you see a group of third graders seated around a library table wearing headsets.

They may look like spacemen, but they may merely be catching up on work they missed in class when they were absent from school. Teachers now have equipment to tape lessons for missing youngsters.

Or they may be boning up on a subject of special interest to them.

In any event, the youngsters will be making use of six new "listening stations" which are included in the library equipment purchased this year with a one-mill tax levy voted by residents of the Charlevoix School District last August.

The new tax brought an extra $40,000 into school coffers – all of it earmarked for materials and equipment at the three school libraries.

The levy was voted for three years and will bring some $120,000 in new teaching aids into the school district before it expires.

The elementary school library, for example, started the school year with only 1,600 volumes on the shelves. By the end of the school year, the library will have 2,600 volumes, with more ready to be ordered in 1971.

But the money has gone to buy more than books. Since September, the library has acquired six new record players, for a total of 10; four new TV sets for a total of five; six new overhead projectors for a total of eight; six new listening stations for a total of seven; and two new 16 mm movie projectors.

The library has also purchased a quantity of film strips and is investigating the purchase of several film strip previewers which a youngster can operate by himself in his own study carrel. The supply of sound tapes, records, slides and models also has been expanded.

And the job has only started.

The school has a second such "materials center" which has not even begun to be stocked.

The library is operated by Mrs. Max Hosmer, assisted by Mrs. Clair Carey.

LISTENING STATIONS allow children to plug into a central tape recorder to make up lessons they have missed or follow their own special interests. Library Supervisor Mrs. Joy Mudge looks on students Darcie Cease, Sam Kane, Danny Juilleret and Brenda Wilson don headsets for lesson.

City Council Needs Your Support

One of the most important public hearings to be held in Charlevoix is scheduled for next Tuesday, May 19, at 8 p.m. in the community room of the city hall.

Residents will be asked to sound off, if they wish, on the proposed swap of 10 acres of Medusa property on the Lake Michigan shore for 10 acres adjoining Medusa property which presently is part of the Jordan River State Forest.

The city needs the lake shore site for construction of its new primary, secondary and — hopefully – tertiary sewage treatment plant. The property is the No. 1 site selected by McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor, the city's sewer engineers.

The state will be represented at the hearing by the Department of Natural Resources which got its fingers burned two years ago at a hearing on a proposal to sell a much larger chunk of state land to Medusa.

But this time the situation is entirely different. The people of Charlevoix — not the Medusa Portland Cement Co. — will be the chief beneficiaries of the swap.

Charlevoix is under orders from the state to remove at least 80 percent of the phosphates from its waste water by December of 1972.

We also have been aware for several years that the nutrient-laden effluent we are presently pumping into Pine River Channel is highly damaging to the quality of adjoining waterways.

Charlevoixans, of all people in the state, should be particularly interested in stopping, as soon as possible, any further deterioration of the fresh waters for which Charlevoix is famous.

If you are interested in supporting the City Council in its efforts to build the new sewage plant where the engineers say it should be built, stop in at the hearing May 19 and lend your voice and your support.

Our Costly Boat Ramps

There is little doubt Charlevoix can use more boat launching ramps as fishermen across the state become aware of the fantastic fishing in our waters.

Until recently there were only two public boat launching ramps in the area, those at Ferry Beach.

Then last week, Charlevoix Township constructed two more ramps, one on the Lake Michigan shore south of Charlevoix and another at Pine Point on Lake Charlevoix.

The Department of Natural Resources also announced last week that it plans to build a fifth boat launching ramp at Nine Mile Point just east of Elzinga Park.

And by next fall there should be two additional ramps at Ferry Beach, bringing the total in the immediate vicinity to seven.

It is the last two ramps that have us puzzled.

Their cost, including restrooms, will come to about $160,000, according to estimates by the architect, United Associates of Cheboygan.

Fortunately, the City of Charlevoix won't have to foot the entire bill. They will be built in cooperation with the state Waterways Commission which will pay 90 percent of the cost.

Even with such a healthy assist, the city will have to kick in something like $16,000—but even that seems like an awful lot of money for what we will be getting, not to mention the state's share of $144,000. That money, incidentally, comes from our pockets, too.

By comparison, the township's two ramps were installed with township funds for less than $500 each.

Admittedly, the city ramps will be far more elaborate than those constructed in the township. The project included considerable earth-moving (the largest single expense), blacktopping and light in addition to the restrooms – which are certainly needed at Ferry Beach.

But the city fathers aren't exactly happy with the situation, although they were the ones who sold the Waterways Commissions on the idea of building ramps in Charlevoix in the first place.

They know we and our visitors will make good use of the ramps and they rationalize that if Charlevoix doesn't use the money, some other community will snap it up.

And they are absolutely right.

But they also know we could do the same job ourselves using city employees for much of the work, at only a fraction of the cost, but they are reluctant to turn down the Waterways Commission's generous terms.

Perhaps their dilemma is the price we must pay for the pleasure of living in a bureaucracy.

Volunteers Get the Job Done

Charlevoixans were treated to a fine example of what can be accomplished through volunteer labor the past two weekends at Bells Bay.

For several years we have known that 24 campsites at Bells Bay were scarcely adequate to accommodate all the campers who would like to pitch tents in Michigan's most beautiful wilderness campground during the summer months.

The area is particularly appealing to dyed-in-the-wool outdoorsmen who want to escape the terrazo restrooms, power lines and paved roadways which are part and parcel of most of our state parks.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) could never quite come up with the $24,000 needed to carve a new road through the woods and clear the campsites.

Through the efforts of area forester Jack Lockwood at Boyne City, the DNR did come up with a blueprint for the improvements– but there the job stopped until Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud took the bull by the horns.

A few telephone calls to area residents and local contractors were enough to get the ball rolling. Word that more muscle power was needed spread quickly around the coffee tables in downtown Charlevoix all week.

On Saturday, May 2, two dozen men and boys and one girl — Julie Geer — showed up at Bells Bay to lend a hand. Tree cutting started at 6 a.m., with the heavy equipment moving in after lunch. By suppertime the work was virtually completed. The DNR did the final grading during the week and gravel trucks manned by more volunteers finished the job this Saturday.

The project not only saved the state a bundle of hard-to-get-dollars, but it also provided a day of healthful exercise in the woods for many men who spend too much time behind a desk or a steering wheel.

The campers may never realize the sore muscles and aching joints that went into the creation of their new campsites, but it really doesn't matter.

We've had our fun.

JULIE GEER, the lone girl helper on the Bells Bay campsite clearing project, helped clear the roadway after the tree cutters left.

'Send Campus Cowards to Front Lines'

Big Rapids
May 1, 1970

Dear Editor,

I picked up your newsy paper the Courier, and am very glad that I did, as I read Mr. Friske's article of the terrible Hue massacre and of our stupid collaboration with the Communists via Sen. Fulbright, and Goodell. I might also mention Sen. Hart, and the "truthful" Sen. Ted Kennedy, as well as others! How sad.

Now let's see how the "rah, rah, rah" boys at the Colleges, and Universities are shaping up as Patriots. We have all witnessed their rotten and feeble-minded behavior, and I know that I speak for every real American when I say that these cowards should be put on planes and sent immediately to the front lines where they could really fight! This should apply, also, to the thirty Communist subversive groups, Black Panthers, S.D.S. etc.

Deserters should be given the death penalty, as well as those who shoot police.

Lets get tough with treasonable acts!

Says Schools Should Oust Lawless Kids

Responsible citizens throughout the nation should protect the concept that ours is a government of laws, not of men. We must emphasize adherence to laws and respect for properly constituted authorities.

Lawlessness of many types is prevalent today. Some Supreme Court decisions provide greater protection to the accused than to society. These make the task of law enforcement more difficult.

Growers condemn the acts of those who incite or participate in riots, defile the flag, or burn draft cards. We recognize the right of citizens to dissent, but protects and demonstrations should not interfere with the rights of others and must not be permitted to deteriorate into civil disorder and anarchy. Each individual should be held liable for his acts when participating in or inciting such disorders.

We favor stricter enforcement of laws protecting private and public property, both rural and urban, from losses due to riots, vandalism and looting and urge prosecution of offenders.

Our campuses must be returned to their traditional role as centers of reason and intellectual pursuit. Student activists, not-student extemists, and the faculty members who support them in lawlessness or interference with the orderly operation of educational institutions have forfeited any right to remain in the educational community.

They should be summarily expelled and dismissed and if necessary put under peace bond not to return. Any who demonstrate in sympathy with those who have been removed should be suspended or expelled depending on their actions.

Auto Makers Will Miss W.P. Reuther

The tributes being heaped upon the late Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers (UAW), by the auto manufacturers themselves come as no surprise to anyone familiar with Reuther – the man.

Although the auto makers and Reuther sat on opposite sides of the collecting bargaining table, there was never any doubt that Reuther the humanitarian, the economist, the sociologist and the articulate two-fisted bargainer, was held in anything less than the highest regard by the giants of industry.

So respected were his executive talents that any one of the Big Three would have hired him away from the UAW in a minute if they had been able. But Reuther was not a man to be bought and sold.

Ironically, the gains won by Reuther for the auto workers were a boom to the industry as a whole.

Higher pay resulted in increased auto sales. Pensions meant that even retirees could still buy new cars from time to time. The seniority system assured the companies they would always have a cadre of skilled workers to rely upon.

Reuther's untimely death in an airplane crash near Pellston Saturday night robbed the UAW of the leadership it will sorely need around the bargaining table this summer.

But his loss also will be felt in the executive suites where he was widely regarded as a man whose word could be trusted.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Until last week I thought mail-order pornography was a paper dragon created by the editors of "Readers Digest" to give them something to be indignant about.

Then, in Monday morning's mail, I was introduced to the Devil himself in a plain gray envelope stamped "personal" and addressed to a W. E. Gruble jr., Courier Newspaper, 111 Bridge-st., Charlevoix, Mi. 49720.

Now I have no idea who this W. E. Gruble jr. may be. So far as I know no one by that name has ever been associated with the Courier and I strongly suspect it may be a pseudonym.

But mail is mail. The Courier still receives press releases addressed to Vic Spaniola and Harold Totten, among others, so the letter to Mr. Gruble was opened as a matter of course along with a stack of other letters, bills and subscription renewals.

Take it from me, the contents were sufficient to sweep the cobwebs from the eyes on a Monday morning. Pictures. Pictures. Pictures. Of men and women, boys and girls, white and black engaged in every sort of sexual dalliance known to man (and woman.)

In all fairness, it should be noted that there was a notice on the cover indicating the folder contained "adult material" along with the following warning:

"This brochure contains an advertisement for adult material dealing with Sex (With a capital "S") If you are a minor, or if you are not interested in adult material dealing with Sex (with a capital "S") please return this brochure and the envelope bearing your name and address so that we may remove your name from our files."

Well, sir, after reading the preceding notice it would have taken a fellow with the moral fiber of George Romney to look no further. I'm no George Romney so I looked. And I looked. And I looked.

And I still can't believe what I saw.

It should be pointed out that I am not, and never have been, a very good Puritan. I bought a copy of D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterly's Lover" in Japan in 1952 while the novel was still contraband in the United States. I found it to be a sensitive, well-written book, a worthy addition to the literature of Great Britain.

I also tried "Peyton Place" and found it so poorly put together I couldn't wade through more than the first few chapters. All of which is to say that I am not entirely a stranger to salacious literature.

Of course, the little brochure I received in the mail Monday was merely an advertisement for the real McCoy. If I filled out an order blank and sent in a bundle of money I could receive all kinds of dirty things in the mail — glossy prints of nudes in action, slides of the same and all kinds of "Feelthy" magazines. For $2 I could also get a "personal slide viewer–for detailed slide viewing.

All of this would be sent to me privately, in a sealed envelope, by first class mail, courtesy of the U.S. Post Office.

Thanks, but no thanks. The sample was more than enough.

The same day I received my packet of salacious advertising in the mail, the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously upheld a federal law allowing a person to block the mailing of advertising to his home if he finds it "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

Fourteen mail-order houses had protested the law as abridging the right of free expression.

So the situation relative to the traffic in pornography through the mail is not as hopeless as it seems. Just let the mailer know that his brochures are not appreciated by you or your family and he should cross your name from his mailing list. If he doesn't, you can sic the feds on him.

I don't know what I'm going to do about Mr. W. E. Gruble jr. of the Courier Newspaper. I think I'll just write to his pornographers and tell them he died of VD.

Polluting the St. Clair

The current crusade against pollution is so popular I am worried that everyone will be so busy picking up beer cans they won't have time to eat apple pie, kiss mothers and paste flags on bumpers.

I don't mean to be cynical. It's just that now they have banned fishing in St. Clair River because the fish, like cigarets, may be hazardous to your health. Dow of Canada is dumping mercury into the water and this makes the fish risky eating, the scientists say.

I don't doubt it. I grew up on the banks of the St. Clair, where it separates Port Huron, U.S.A. from Sarnia, Canada. I never fished in my life because I wouldn't want anyone putting a hook in my mouth. But I used to swim regularly in the St. Clair. And in those days, also, Dow and other factories were spitting large amounts of suspect waste into the water and air.

Where were the anti-pollutionists then, while I was getting mercury all over my body?

I know. There's nothing deader than an idea before its time. There was the big Depression in the 1930's. The important thing was to get the factories operating, so Dad could earn a paycheck. Who cared if a little boy got hazardous water up his nose?

People had some interesting attitudes regarding pollution in those days. At least my parents did. I still remember the first time I polluted the St. Clair directly from Dad's place of business.

Dad and his father operated the Dry Dock Iron Works on the St. Clair. They repaired boats. Their rickety collection of wooden buildings and sheds sat partly on the river bank and partly over the water, held up by long, thick spiles.

There was no executive restroom. There was one restroom for everybody, including the boss's five-year-old son. The first time I used it I was thrilled. The john was in the part of the building jutting out over the water. When you looked into the toilet seat, all you saw was the St. Clair River, about 30 feet below.

"Gee Dad," I said, "that's neat. You don't even have to flush it."

During those same years, my mother used to take me swimming in Lake Huron. And she always cautioned me to go to the bathroom before swimming, or after, but NOT in the water. It just wasn't the right thing to do.

I guess she never used the facilities at the Dry Dock Iron Works.

All of which is certainly more nostalgic than constructive. I have no illuminating moral to make about pollution in the St. Clair, yesterday vs today. My father's business long ago folded and, in fact, literally collapsed, thus adding more litter to the St. Clair (no one was on the john at the time). Dow and the other factories are still polluting - but now people want it stopped and someday, maybe, it will be stopped.

In the meantime, you can be fined $100 and jailed for 90 days if you are caught fishing in the St. Clair River. Sportsmen say they should be allowed to catch the fish and then throw 'em back in. But, so far, the law says no-no.

I think a better idea would be to catch the fish and then throw 'em through Dow's front window.

It was a lot easier when all a true American had to do was eat apple pie.

How to Beat High Living Costs

Meat prices jumped 12 percent last year. Housing is up 31 percent. Auto insurance skyrocketed 72 percent and it now costs about $10.00 a day more for hospital care than it did last year. On the whole, living costs rose over 6 percent in 1969, the biggest one-year leap since the Korean War. Americans are both worried and outraged at runaway inflation but find themselves needlessly helpless in protecting themselves from the assault of galloping prices.

The current issue of a national Magazine features an invaluable guide of tested techniques and practical policies to use in the fight against inflation.

The article advises that the consumer get on a cash basis and avoid new borrowing. This is the worst year to borrow money, incur installment debts or take out a mortgage. FHA and VA mortgage rates hit 8½ percent. For a $20,000, 35-year mortgage you will repay a total of $64,596—more than three times as much as the original amount you borrow.

If you must buy a house now, consider an older or existing house over a new one, for the rate is much less.

The food bill is the other big troublemaker this year, especially meats. First, look for the food specials. And for great savings, buy meats on the basis of nutritive values. Franks and lunch meats like bologna are supposed to be economical, but actually cost more for the amount of real food value than many other protein meats. The article includes a comparative protein cost chart showing how you can save while getting the most healthful, high-protein meats.

Also consider the high prices you pay for convenience. Some pre-sliced lunch meats cost almost double what they cost in bulk. Hesitate before purchasing processed foods. Each additional step in processing boosts the price: a quartered chicken runs about 5 percent more than a whole one; you'll pay about 50 percent more if you buy a pre-breaded chicken. Another important technique is to buy the lowest grade suitable for the cooking you propose to do. The top-grade foods are usually selected for uniform size and shape, color and tenderness. The lower grades are less perfect in appearance, but have the same nutrients.

The largest single rise of any element of your living costs is in medical expenses. The safest way to keep a leash on medical bills is to get a prepaid group-care plan. If not available, the next best bet is the combination Blue Cross-Blue Shield. While not inexpensive, they are the safest protection against the cost of illness during an inflationary period because they guarantee almost full payment for hospitalization.

Watch out for car expenses, now your third largest cost. Limit car insurance to the essential liability coverage and shop for the best rates for your particular driving classification.

Time your buying to coincide with sales.

Finally, make your savings earn every cent it can. For long-term savings, take advantage of certificates of deposit, paying up to 6 percent. For short-term savings, 5-5½ percent from credit unions and savings associations is a good value.

In short concludes the article, you don't have to let inflation beat you. There still are ways to counter it, and the buck you save will be your own.

Kiln Busy In Zednicek Basement

There is an unusual household appliance in the basement of the Frank Zednicek home on Central-ave. in Charlevoix – right alongside the washer and dryer.

It is an electric kiln that Mrs. Zednicek received for Christmas to bake the bowls, vases and other colorful ceramic items she processes by the dozens.

Some of them will be on sale at the second annual Hobbycraft Show, scheduled for June 11 in East Park.

Mrs. Zednicek said she took up ceramics as a hobby three years ago to help put in the time during the long Charlevoix winters.

Today, she is sufficiently adept at the craft to have started a ceramics class of her own which meets every Tuesday evening in her basement recreation room.

Members of the class are Mrs. Joel Herrington, Mrs. Harold Warner, Mrs. Frank Mays, Mrs. William Booms, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Ed Wertman and Mrs. Betty Blissett.

The students purchase "greenware" from ceramic shops throughout the area and take it to Mrs. Zednicek's basement for cleaning, glazing and baking. "Greenware" consists of clay objects, pre-shaped at the factory.

The first step in processing is cleaning off the rough edges and adding designs to the relatively soft clay.

The object is then baked for from six to six and one half hours until it rings like a bell when struck by another hard object. The piece is then decorated with a colored glaze and baked again for from five and one-half to six hours, giving it a hard, lustrous finish.

Mrs. Zednicek said most of her skill was acquired through books, although she has been attending ceramics classes in East Jordan for the past year.

Among the items she will display at the Hobbycraft Show are "wind chimes" — flat strips of glazed and kiln-baked clay which are affixed by thread to a metal or plastic ring. A tinkling, musical sound results when the clay strips touch each other.

MRS. FRANK ZEDNICEK, who became interested in ceramics three years ago as an antidote for the long Charlevoix winters, keeps a close eye on her electric-fired kiln.

10 Boys Matched With Big Brothers

The Charlevoix County Big Brothers Organization heard a report by Robert Elliot at its April 28 meeting in the County Building.

Elliot, the executive director, informed the membership that there are now 10 matches in Charlevoix County. He indicated that there were more Little Brothers but currently there are no Big Brothers.

The board of directors also agreed to underwrite the necessary expenses for the executive director to attend the National Big Brothers Convention in Cleveland April 30 through May 2. The executive director will attend some of the workshop sessions provided at the convention for newly formed local chapters. A report will be submitted at the next meeting.

In additional action, the board approved the formation of a committee to design a float to be used in various local parades and celebrations. Robert Dunnette of Boyne City was named chairman of that committee.

A second committee was named to investigate the feasibility of manning a booth at the Venetian Festival for the purpose of promoting the organization and selling candy. Jack Rosendahl, of Charlevoix, was named chairman of that committee.

The Charlevoix County Big Brothers has now developed into a functioning organization. The Organization has ten Big Brothers meeting regularly with their respective Little Brothers. There are still many young boys in need of a good, positive male image, however. If you, or some male you know, would like to assist in some way, contact either Elliot, Charlevoix, Bob Dunnette, Boyne City; or Jack Vincent, East Jordan.

The next Big Brother meeting will be held in the Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Building in Boyne City at 8 p.m. May 26, 1970.

Money Matters

Why does money cost so much?

A.–Bank customers – the man who wants a home mortgage or a personal loan, the company in need of cash for expansion, the small business which needs a loan for new equipment – all are asking: "Why is money tight and why are interest rates so high?"

The main reason we are in a tight money squeeze is because the government is struggling to curb inflation. In other words, tight money and high interest rates are a result of inflation. To put a stop to excessive spending by the public and by businesses, the Federal Reserve System has tightened credit to their banks and other lenders are not able to make all the loans to meet the wants of their customers.

Inflation is at the root of the problem. Prices in the supermarkets and department stores have spiraled in the past two years as have apartment rentals, land costs and the cost of homes and new automobiles, just about everything that comes with a pricetag.

Interest Grows

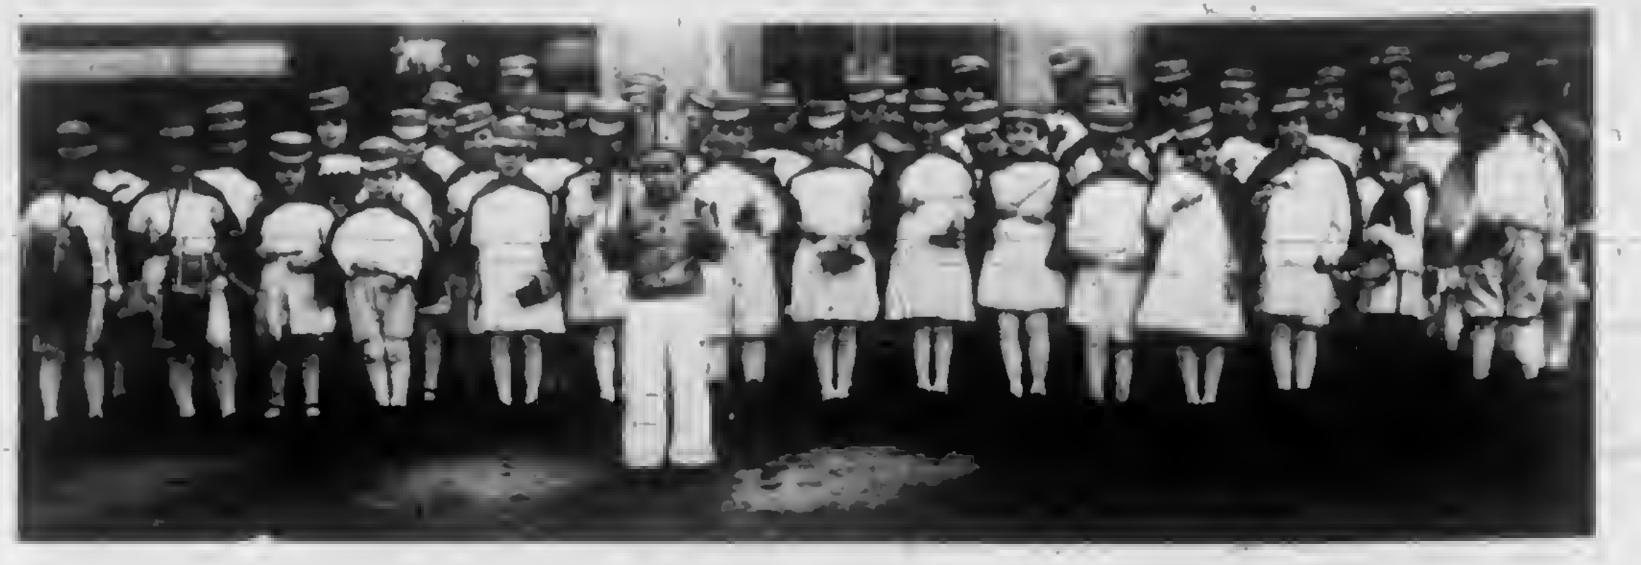
This kind of sweeping inflation at the rate of five or six per cent a year can't go along without having an effect on interest rates. In a recent report I received it was stated that we may expect without question an average inflation rate of four percent for the next ten years. This does not mean that we will not have less some years or more, but that it will average four percent. This may not seem like much now, but do you realize that in 10 years prices will have to increase 48 percent from what they are now. Your income will have to increase 48 percent in order to have the same purchasing power it has today.

Just as prices in all other areas have risen, so too have bank loan rates. And heavy borrowing over the past several months has only helped to drive up interest rates.

Interest Controlled

Most people don't know that banks are not at liberty to charge whatever they want. Aside from the Federal Reserve's regulation over the county's monetary policies, other lenders are in competition with the banks. For instance, insurance companies, leading companies, finance companies, to name a few, compete with banks in the credit market. Therefore, rates within a number of areas help establish interest rates, which banks charge on a competitive basis.

While people may not understand why banks have had to restrict their funding, these policies will, in the final analysis, help the Federal Reserve accomplish its objective – that of easing the demand for money. When people start saving larger amounts bank reserves will be heftier. And when these things happen, the Federal Reserve will be able to ease credit restrictions. Then the nation's banks willl have more money to meet the expanding needs of their communities.



THE CHARLEVOIX graduating class of 1940 will hold its 30th reunion May 30 at the Argonne. This is what the class looked like in 1928 as members posed in front of the elementary school as "The First Grade Band." In the picture are Mrs. Frances (Meggison) Wilson, Tom Carey, Jack "Chum" White, Louise (Young) Gill, Bob Gill, Ken Staley and Rosann (Onnie Partridge) McPhillips. Can you spot them? Reunion social hour will start at 6:30 p.m., with dinner at 7:30 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carey and Mr. and Mrs. Louise Gill. Of the 48 member class the whereabouts of only two are unknown: Mrs. Theatis (Thiel) Leismer and Glen Arvilla. Some former teachers have been invited to the event, but the chairmen want them to be a surprise.

DNR Nursery Stock Available for Planting

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reports it has a small supply of tree planting stock which can still be ordered by Michigan landowners within the next 10 days to carry out reforestation and game improvement projects this spring.

Remaining in its nurseries for last-minute requests are about 100,000 red pine seedlings, limited volumes of autumn olive, Siberian crab, and multiflora rose, and some stratified black walnut seeds.

The red pine seedlings are priced at $15 per thousand. Autumn olive, Siberian crab, and multiflora rose, available in separate volumes to boost game habitat on private lands, may be ordered in minimum amounts of 500 for which the cost is $8.

The DNR's black walnut seeds—or nuts—are sold for $2.50 per 5-pound bag. They are offered to encourage private landowners to grow future Blue Ribbon trees which at maturity and of prime quality could earn about $1,000 apiece for use as veneer.

During the DNR's current sale of spring planting stock, about 4 million young pine trees have been ordered for reforestation projects. At the same time, the Department has sold some one million young shrubs listed as game habitat stock.

Shipments of stock have been under way for about 10 days and the DNR hopes to complete these deliveries by around mid-May.

Then and Now, Scholars Do Credit to Charlevoix High

By Bernice Wexstaff

We all deplore the bad news that prevades the news media and are ever on the alert for a hint of good news. In the interest of remedial coverage on the local level it is heartening to realize and spread the good news that the majority of our highschoolers are potential good citizens. The Good Citizenship award from Petosega Chapter DAR to Lynn Fiedorek proves the point even though there are many other examples of responsible citizenship among our highschoolers.

The serious-minded among our local students have added further proof in their choice of topics for term papers: Elizabeth Currie chose "Capital Punishment", Mari Goss – "Assassination of Four Presidents," Ron Bindi – "Cuban Crisis," George Anderson – "Hunger in America," Marcia Brown – "Vietnam War Massacre," Peggy Rader – "The Mafia Today." This limited list of six is only a sample: The remaining 55 students in the class chose topics as timely and as weighty.

Forensics

Other extra curricular activities are also on a high level: CHS forensics participants won 44 points in Michigan's first forensic tournament held February 21 at Bay City Central High School.

Sandy Gigg, Debbie McDowell and Tim Anders won enough rounds to enter the finals and the results at the end of the day were a first-place trophy to Sandy for an original oratory on cigaret smoking, and fourth-place wins to Debbie and Tim on their reading of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf!"

With a 44-point score Charlevoix can be justifiably proud: John F. Kennedy school of Flint with an enrollment far exceeding CHS was top winner with a score of 68, while Saginaw placed a low 12 although they too have a much greater enrollment total than Charlevoix.

Debaters

The entire debate team: Dave Hess, Jeanne Smith, Pam Fairbanks, Lynn Fiedorek, Linda Gill, Chris Carey, Marcia Mason, Julie Supernaw, Tim Anders, Jerry Dohm, Cathe Baldwin, Kris Osterberg, Dbbie McDowell, Geri Santek, Pam Alspaugh and Nancy Fochtman as a whole as succeeded admirably in both debate and forensics.

The "Crimson Flash," a mimeographed monthly news sheet dealing with student activities and ideas is another extra-curricular project worthy of praise from the Establishment. Under the supervision of Mrs. L.J. Ford with Jeanne Smith as editor in chief the "Crimson Flash" has achieved noteworthy standards of writing and planning.

CHS annual year-book for '69-70 is co-authored by Marcia Brown and Tim Anders with assistant editors, Lynn Fiedorek, Dave Hess, Elaine Putnam, Becky Hanson, Wendy Saltonstall and Sandy Gigg.

Fred Davison is chief photographer with an assist from Jerry Fochtman under the general coordinator, Donna Staley. Business manager is Tricia Young. Miss Young has a sizeable responsibility since the staff must fund through contributions and advertising to the tune of approximately $2,500 in order to assure yearbook publication. The funding falls to advertising manager, Pam Fairbanks and sales manager, Chris Carey.

Use Talent

Scorning commercial run-of-the-mill cover designs, Tim Anders and Marcia Mason have come up with something unique for this year's annual. So look for surprises as the two editors-in-chief spent a week at Northwoods Institute in Midland for year-book training.

Sports

Extra curricular activities should never be concluded without mention of CHS athletics programs in which our teams never fail to distinguish themselves. This is the special activity which the adult population seems to enjoy to the N'th degree – possibly for the sheer excitement of the games or possibly because it has been proven that sports tend to impregnate young mind with values of honesty, conscientious effort and team work which will stand them in good use in the grown-up world of business competition. In the meantime, sports are pure fun for both young and old.

Charlevoix High School has, however, not only given the World talent in the sports world but also a sizeable share in unrelated fields, a variety of marks for present day highschoolers to shoot for!

Irene (Mrs. Earl) Young graduated from the Chicago Art Institute and went on to teach and supervise art in the Long Island, New York schools. Returning to her birthplace with her marriage to Earl A. Young she has remained civic-minded and generous with her art talent toward local endeavors for many years.

Music

Annabel Comfort, daughter of Mrs. Meta Comfort and the late Lou Comfort distinguished herself in the music field: Miss Comfort received her Master's degree in musical composition from the American Conservatory in Chicago as well as four scholarships in musical composition and graduated from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. Miss Comfort also received the Theodore Presser Foundation scholarship for study in musical composition at Fontainbleau, France with Nadia Boulanger, and she was selected by Arnold Schonberg for the one scholarship given in the United States for study with this famous Viennese composer in New York.

While living in New York for fifteen years, Miss Comfort interviewed musical celebrities for "The Etude" and was music critic for "America", a National Catholic weekly.

Percy Faith and Alfred Wallenstein have given national broadcasts with orchestras of her compositions and her songs have been performed by leading artists in Carnegie Hall and Town Hall in New York and on concert stages throughout the country.

Navy Career

Edward K. Shanahan, also a Charlevoix High School graduate, received an appointment to Annapolis and was graduated from that august academy in 1927. Edward retired from the U.S. Navy in 1950 with the rank of Commander and since that time has been enjoying the life of a gentlemen farmer at his Birchwood Ranch, and, after years of duty and world travel, the tranquility of northern Michigan.

Gilbert B. Saltonstall received his BS degree from the University of Michigan in 1931 and his MD two years later...... Dr. Saltonstall has not only served his community as physician and surgeon but was president of the State Medical Society in 1959, president of Michigan Association of professions and is presently serving a four-year term on the State Board of Registration in Medicine, a government appointment.

Robert Burns who makes his retirement home at Oyster Bay on Lake Charlevoix grew up in the Charlevoix school area. He received his AB degree from Olivet Colelge in 1927, his MA from the University of Michigan in 1932, his PhB from Detroit Insititue of Technology in 1934 and his Jurisdoctorate from Detroit College of Law in 1939.

These five accomplished the first rung of the ladder at the old high school so in today's parlance they were underprivileged. In spite of this doubtful handicap they attained more than run-of-the-mill success in their chosen vocations. There's no doubt yesterday's world was a different world, but it brought out the best in people, due, no doubt, to religious as well as academic instruction.

Church Training

Checking the local churches it is learned that there is a total of less than 600 youths receiving religious instruction today while we have 1,530 enrolled in our public school system. It appears from this disturbing disparity that there is need for some missionary work by the young for the young who are still uncommitted to God and country.

If the work can be accomplished there is small doubt but that it would be a lasting influence to keep the American dream of constitutional liberty and justice secure in the days ahead.

T.S. Eliot says it best: "The world is trying the experiment of attempting to form a civilized but non-Christian mentality. The experiment will fail; but we must be very patient in awaiting its collapse. . so that faith may be preserved alive thrugh the dark ages before us."

Fish Pond Hazardous, Snider Tells Board

The deep fish pond in the lobby of the new elementary school poses a definite safety hazard to youngsters, Principal Glenn Snider reported to the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night. Thirty visitors attended the meeting.

"I don't know how many times I've torn out of my office to pull a child back from the edge," he said.

He suggested raising the bottom of the pond with blocks or stones or converting it into a planter.

He said parents have donated $50 to build a railing around the pool, but added that he doesn't believe a railing will solve the problem. The pool is constructed of ceramic tile and is about three feet deep.

Board President Jack Rader said he would have the problem taken care of.

In other business, the board:

–Agreed to hire an attorney to arrange the purchase of the Peek estate property (about eight acres) on Mt. McSauba-rd. adjoining the new elementary school. The proposal was made by outgoing board member Dale Boss. "We'll be building on it in 10 years," he predicted.

–Learned that seven new teachers will be needed next year, three in the high school, two in the middle school and two in the elementary school.

Five candidates had filed for two vacancies on the school board, according to Superintendent Milligan. They are Don Brown, Fred Payne, Mrs. Robert Lieberman, Richard Way and Clem Wagner. President Rader and Dale Boss are not running for re-election.

Mayors' Swap Plans Told

Plans for Mayors' Exchange Day Monday May 18 were revealed Monday night by City Superintendent Thomas Hanna.

Councilmen Robert Gill and Jack Mol and their wives will represent Charlevoix in the city of Wayland, south of Grand Rapids, while Charlevoix will play host to Wayland Mayor and Mrs. Philip Reno and Councilman and Mrs. Ted Green.

Plans call for councilmen to meet the visitors at the Weathervane Terrace Sunday evening and take them to dinner.

After breakfast Monday, the visitors will be presented the "key to the city" at the city hall at 9:30 and taken on a motor tour of the city.

A boat cruise is planned for Monday afternoon, followed by a banquet for the visitors and the council Monday evening.

Twp. Plans Road Work

The Charlevoix Township board Monday night earmarked $36,000 for the blacktopping of several township roads, including Lake Shore-dr., Mt. McSauba-rd. and streets at Pine Point and North Point.

The Charlevoix County Road Commission will pay about $8,000 on the paving project.

Report on Medusa

Sweeney said the error occurred in translating figures from one system of measurement to another was not "substantive."

Shadko then asked him if he believed he had made a "fair analysis of the situation and reached fair conclusions."

"In fairness to the residents, I would have to say that we must find out dust levels in that stack," Dr. Sweeney said.

Shadko then asked Dean Mikulski, township health officer, if he considers the stack hazardous to health. Mikulski said, in his opinion, the plant emissions do not constitute a health hazard.

Shadko was particularly upset by sulphur odors from the plant.

"Worth Loomis (a former Medusa vice president) told us Medusa would be a good neighbor," Shadko said, "but the plant has been a dirty neighbor."

It was not decided who should buy and operate the monitoring equipment recommended by Dr. Sweeney – the township or the company.

Chaired by Donald Berlage, a special attorney for the township, the meeting was attended by Bernard Bloomfield, director of the state's air pollution control section, and Robert Reveley of Western Precipitation Co., manufacturers of the plant's pollution control equipment, among others.

School Costs Keep Up With Inflation

More Millage Is Needed For Operation

After a year of runaway inflation, the Charlevoix Board of Education figures it will be able to make ends meet next year with an additional school operation levy of only 2.29 mills.

The figure was revealed Monday night at a special meeting of the school board attended by more than 30 persons. The board will meet again at noon Wednesday at the elementary school to set its final millage proposal.

The increase probably will appear on the ballot as close to 6.28 mills — taking into account the 2.99 mills which expire in June and an anticipated 1 mill reduction in debt retirement for next year.

It also allows for an anticipated decrease in the county allocation for schools from 8.3 mills to 8.1 mills.

Plan Poppy Sale In City May 21-23

The VFW Auxiliary, the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary will hold their annual poppy sales in Charlevoix this year from Thursday through Saturday, May 21 to 23, according to campaign chairmen.

Mrs. Leland Warner and Mrs. Dale Meredith are co-chairmen of the VFW Auxiliary sale and Mrs. John Johnson is chairman of the American Legion sale.

Mrs. Warner says here salespeople will contact businesses on Thursday and concentrate on street sales Friday and Saturday. She says about 15 volunteers will take part in the three-say sale.

Proceeds will benefit disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans. The VFW home for youngsters at Eaton Rapids will come in for a share of the money.

Following is a proclamation signed by Mayor William Fechtman urging citizens to support the VFW poppy sale. A similar proclamation was signed for the American Legion:

Whereas, the sacrifices of those who have lost their lives, their health, or their livelihood as a result of their military service are rightly the concern of all citizens; and

Whereas, the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars offers an opportunity for the people of this community to express their solicitude for those unfortunate persons who have paid more than their share of the cost of freedom; and

Whereas, VFW Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living"; therefore

I, William Fochtman, Mayor of the City of Charlevoix, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of appreciation for the sacrifices of our honored dead.

I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked or lost their lives in fulfilling their obligations as American citizens.

Signed: William Fochtman, mayor.

James N. Roberts

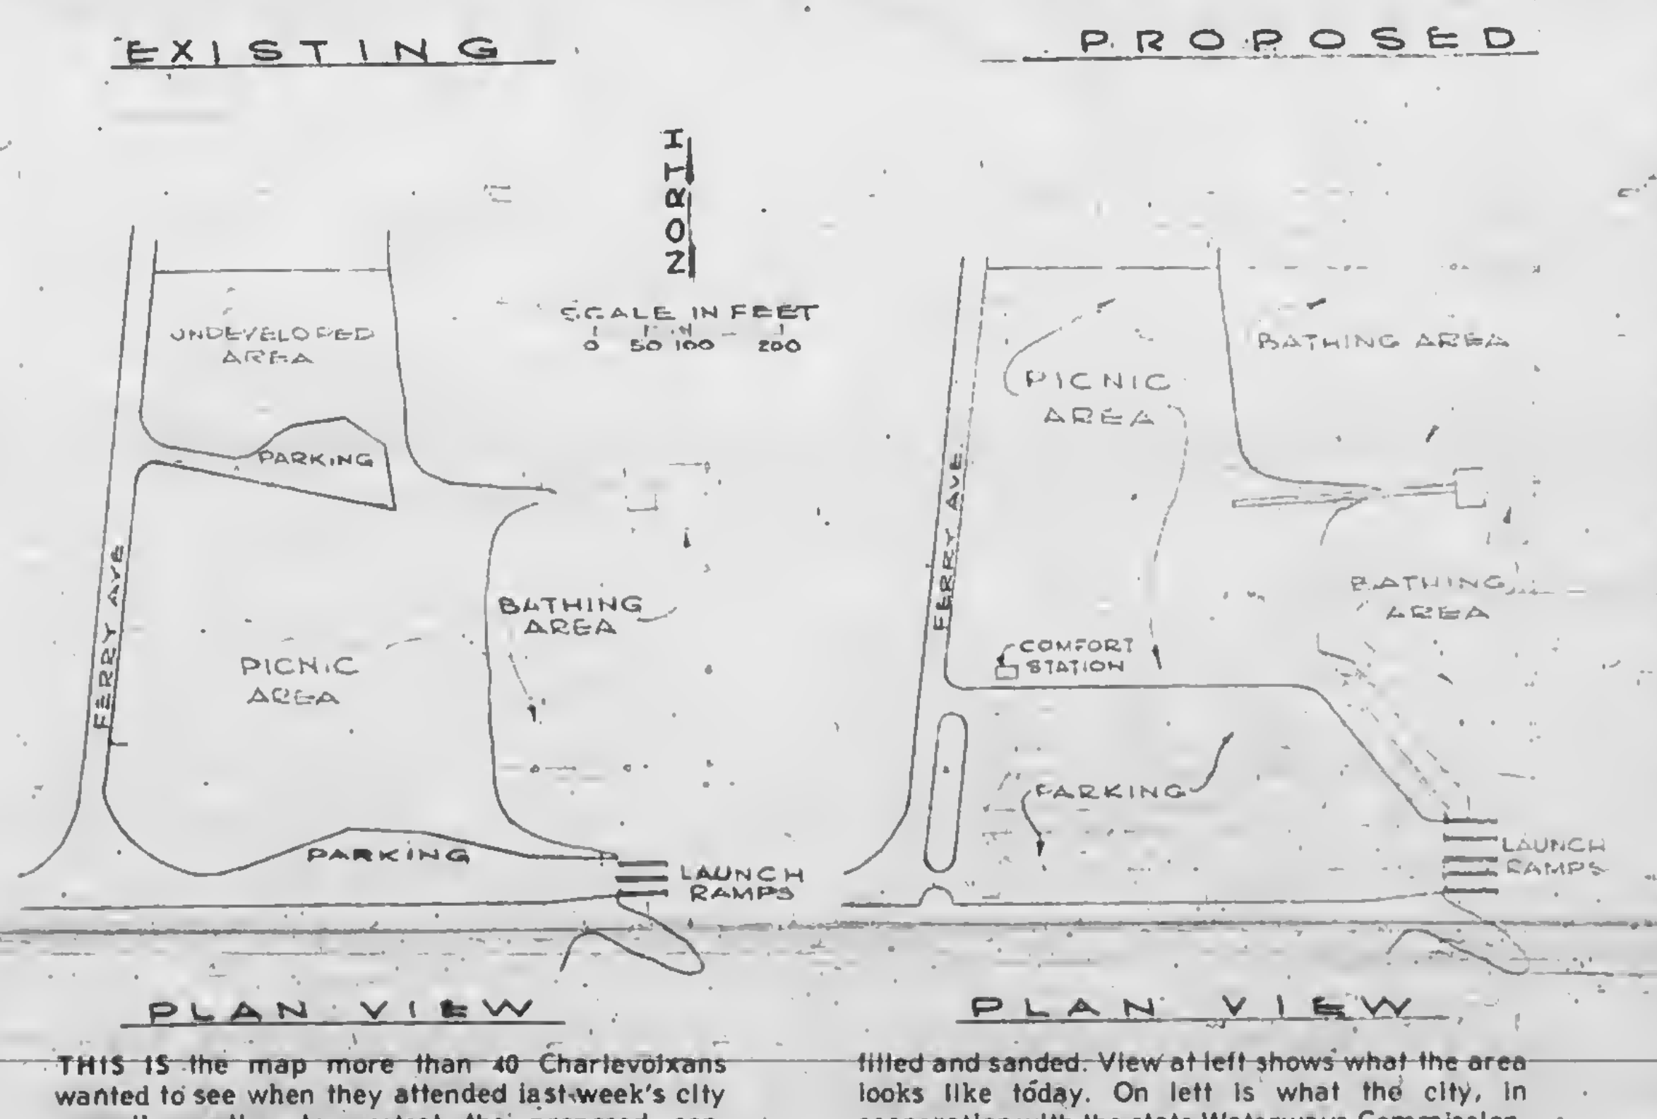
CHS Grad Will Address Class of '70

Dr. James N. Roberts, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, will speak at the CHS commencement June 9 at 8 p.m.

The son of Mrs. Bertha Roberts of Charlevoix, Roberts is vice president for academic affairs at Slippery Rock State Teachers College, Slippery Rock, Pa.

He received his B.A. from Central Michigan University and his M.A. and doctorate from Wayne State University. He also has received a doctorate from the College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Ark.

He has been a school teacher with the Detroit and Battle Creek school systems and was an elementary principal in St. Clair Shores.



THIS IS the map more than 40 Charlevoixans wanted to see when they attended last week's city council meeting to protest the proposed construction of boat ramps at Ferry Beach. Their main objection was that the ramps will rob south side residents of beach area. The bathing area actually will be expanded when the north side of the pier is filled and sanded. View at left shows what the area looks like today. On left is what the city, in cooperation with the state Waterways Commission, would like to do. Bids on the ramps, restrooms and parking area will be opened at the council meeting May 25.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY law enforcement officers will take part in a continuing "in-service" training program beginning about June 1. Instructor will be Paul H. Dewey of Traverse City, regional police training coordinator. Sessions will be held in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City. Taking part (from left) will be Chief Joe Hammond, East Jordan; Deputy James McCallum; Sheriff Philo Sumner; Dewey; Chief Joe Smith, Charlevoix; Chief John Talboys, Boyne City; Patrolman Glenn Pemberton, Charlevoix; and County Commissioner Ken Staley.

Winners have been named in the first annual photo contest sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

The library will be open until 8 p.m. through Thursday to allow residents to view the photographs on display, according to Mrs. Dorothy Olmstead, librarian.

In the adult category, Earl Young took first and third prizes for pictures of a sailing ship at sunset and a character study of a man with a pipe.

Leonard Garrett won second place for a still-life "candleburst."

Fred Davison made a clean-sweep in the teenage division with photos of the channel at sunset, bark on a tree and dandelions in seed.

The photos were judged by Bob Miles and Vera Baker of Charlevoix and Sam Carlisle of East Jordan.

Photos by professional and semi-professional photographers living in the area also will be on display during the show.

Planners OK Zone Change

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission agreed Wednesday night to recommend that the property on the west of State-st. and south of Carpenter-st. retain its residential zoning classification for a depth of 150-ft.

However, the commission recommended that the back end of lots owned by Don Seelye, Russ Lewis and Shelby Goss be re-zoned for light industrial use.

Seelye had asked the city cuncil for a change in zoning which would permit him to build a small engine repair shop at the rear of the property.

The change was approved by Larry Miller, consultant for the Grand Rapids planning firm Williams and Works.

Commission member Steve LaBlance said he objected to the city's authorization of a subdivision between Garfield and Carpenter-sts. LaBlance said the commission had not been consulted on the proposed land-use and that the commission had intended to set the land in question aside as an industrial park.

The land is being developed by Richard Way for federal low cost housing.

LaBlance pointed out that the council rejected an earlier bid by James Richey to use the land for a similar housing development.

Miller said he would concur with the use of the land for housing because: (1) Way has included more land in his plans; (2) Annexation has failed at the polls and there is a scarcity of building sites in Charlevoix; and (3) The Federal program under which Way intends to operate was not in existance when Richey submitted his plans.

The planners hope to meet with the city council June 3 to discuss their master plan.

Gordon L. Freedman

Freedman Will Get State Award

Gordon L. Freedman, president of Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. of Charlevoix, will be honored at a luncheon at the Weathervane Inn at noon Thursday, May 21, for having been named the 1970 Small Businessman of the Year for the state of Michigan.

He was selected by the Small Business Advisory Council to President Richard M. Nixon.

The luncheon will be one of the highlights of "Michigan Week" in Charlevoix.

Robert F. Phillips, district Director of the small Business Administration, said Freedman was among several outstanding businessmen in the state considered for the award.

He added that under Freedman's leadership, Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. has become "a great influence in the economy in and around Charlevoix, employing upwards of 200 people."

"The confidence that Mr. Freedman has in the economy and in the area around Charlevoix, plus his keen interest in the people who work for him, make him a worthy selection for this year's Michigan Small Businessman of the Year Award," Phillips said.

Serving on the luncheon committee are Mayor William Fochtman, E.D. (Pat) Hawley, Robert Neff, Jack Grubaugh and Darrell Dinwiddie.

Courier Sells 'Central Skiland'

"Central Skiland" newspaper has been sold by the Charlevoix Courier Corp. to the Central Ski Areas Association headquartered in Traverse City.

"Skiland" has been published by the Courier for the past two winters under the editorship of Martin P. Harney.

Harney will stay with the publication, which will be published at Eagle River, Wisc.

Tom Joynt of Traverse City is executive director of the purchasing organization.

Allocators Cut Schools

Local school districts would receive less and the county and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District would receive more in the semi-final pie cutting of the county's 15-mill levy by the Tax Allocation Board Monday afternoon.

Schools were cut from 8.3 mills to 8.1 mills; the county was increased from 5.5 mills to 5.65 mills; the Intermediate District jumped from .20 to .25 of a mill; and the townships remained at 1 mill.

A final hearing on the proposed division of funds will be held at 10 a.m. May 27 at the courthouse.

It is likely that the proposed allocation will be changed, particularly that portion alloted to the intermediate district.

When two or more counties are involved in the same allocation, the county with the largest land area determines the allocation. Emmet County has kept the allocation for the Intermediate district at .20 mills.

The intermediate board had asked for an increase to write-off debts owed by local school districts and to help finance a mobile career guidance counseling center.

Beaver Island To Get Deputy

For the first time in recent history, Beaver Island will have a full-time law officer this summer.

He is Sheriff's Deputy William Welke, 48, who will assume his new duties June 1.

In the past, Beaver Island has managed with a part-time deputy, Phil Gregg, with occasional help on weekends from Michigan State Police.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Tuesday voted $2,200 for island law enforcement from June 1 until Sept. 15.

The money will go toward Welke's salary, uniform and travel expenses. Welke will use his own car to patrol the six-mile by 14-mile island, located about 30 miles northwest of Charlevoix.

Although Welke has been an island resident for only a year, he and his family have spent their summers on the island since 1936.

A former resident of Walled Lake, Welke owns his own contracting business south of St. James.

In other business, the commissioners:

–Agreed to install new heating units in the courtroom and reline the courthouse boiler at a cost of $2,100. It will be the first time any money has been spent on the boiler in 14 years.

–Registered objections to a new formula for the allocation of state road fund monies which will hurt sparsely populated counties.

–Agreed to tear down the two existing bathhouses at Whiting Park and construct new restrooms.

Charlevoixans Want Voting Age Lowered

Charlevoix residents will have an opportunity to sound off on four more questions when they visit the First State Bank of Charlevoix this week. The questions are:

–Should the U.S. continue its space exploration program?

--Do you feel that our military service program should be placed on a voluntary basis.

–Are you in favor of a summer tax collection for the Charlevoix School District?

–Would you like a return to Daylight Savings Time for the summer months in Michigan?

Following are the results of the last opinion poll:

–Do you feel that the voting age should be lowered to 18 years? Yes, 63.5 percent; no, 36.5 percent. Sample comments. "If they also made it the legal age, too, then I would be in favor of it." "The only exception is that the person should be out of high school." "They are as capable as most adult voters." "Marijuana should be legalized."

–Will a return to capital punishment by the State of Michigan reduce the major crimes rate: Yes, 49.2 percent; no, 50.8 percent. Sample comments: "It didn't stop crime before; why should it now?" "It will not make the bad criminal happy." "It definitely will not cause an increase in the major crimes rate." "It will only make martyrs of criminals."

–Should sex education be taught in our public schools? Yes, 69.2 percent; no. 30.98 percent. Sample comments: "A question of degree is appropriate." "No. They learn enough to get into trouble as it is." "But only by trained and especially qualified educators." "It is long past due. Parents are not providing proper education at home. Teachers are usually more qualified to give proper emphasis on subjects and students will listen more than to parents." "It has to be taught somewhere." "To teach sex in public schools will mean to remove the morals."

–Will this be a good year for lake trout fishing in the Charlevoix area? Yes, 78.57 percent; no, 21.43 percent. Sample comments: "I hope so." "Who cares?" "No planting was done." "How would anyone know when fishing would be good. This is a poor question and a waste of space." "I hope so. My 10-year-old brother hasn't caught any fish in Lake Charlevoix in two years," "Any year that a man can go to his favorite fishing hole is a good year."

State Funds OK'd For Area

Two area projects will be funded in the Charlevoix area by the state's recreational bond issue, according to Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert (R-Petoskey).

Of the $1.5 million to be spent in the 37th senatorial district, $28,000 has been earmarked for high priority stream frontage acquisition on the Jordan River in Antrim County to protect the stream from damaging development.

Another $70,500 has been set aside for construction of a combined harvest weir and fish passage facility on the Bear River in Petoskey. The weir will be designed to prevent excessive numbers of salmon from entering the stream and to facilitate the passage of steelhead.

One-Sport Licenses Secure

In an effort to clear up some misunderstanding, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) advises Michigan hunters, fishermen, and trappers that they could still buy individual licenses if an "all-purpose" sportsman's license were established for residents under legislation now pending.

The proposed optional license for all seasons, presently price tagged at a money-saving $18, is being sought under Senate Bill 105 and House Bill 2160, both of which have cleared their respective Houses.

S.B. 105 is now before the House Conservation and Recreation Committee, while H.B. 2160 has reached the Senate Committee on Conservation and Tourist Industry.

As now worded, both measures would provide a bargain package for resident sportsmen covering the existing privileges of the state's firearm and archery deer licenses, bear license, small game license, general trapping license (except for beaver and otter), annual fishing license, and special trout and salmon license.

When purchased individually, these licenses carry a combined cost of $26.70.

THE SCOUT-O-RAMA Saturday had an international flavor, with Scouts from Sault Ste. Marie, Preston and Galt, Ont., taking part. The Maple Leaf flag flew side by side with the Stars and Stripes at Emmet County Fairgrounds. Charlevoix Troop 11 camped just west of Preston, Ont., Scouts.

A ROCKET LAUNCH every few minutes drew Scouts from throughout the area to the Charlevoix encampment Saturday at the annual Scout-O-Rama. This group parked next to the Charlevoix tents to watch the fireworks. The theme of the Troop 11 exhibit was space exploration.

MIKE FOCHTMAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fochtman of Charlevoix, prepares to launch miniature rocket into the blue during Scout-O-Rama Saturday at the Emmet County Fairgrounds. The rockets went several hundred feet in the air and were supposed to return to earth by parachute. The 'chutes sometimes didn't open.

Money Matters

Federal Housing: High Cost, Low Value

Home building, more than any other sector of our economy, has been hurt by tight money. New housing starts have been declining steadily since January, 1969, and now this spring is at the lowest point in the past ten years. You can see this just by driving around town. We have one custom home now being completed and one factory built home. At this time of the year we should have at least ten new homes under construction in Charlevoix, if our housing needs are to be met.

Labor shortages, high construction costs and the high cost of land, and other supply factors affect house building in volume in periods of prosperity. The basic cause of the decline, of course, is lack of money. Unless the entire housing industry is supplied with mortgage money is tight, the home mortgage markets are deprived of needed funds in two ways. First, leaders, such as life insurance companies that have investment opportunities other than in the home mortgage field would divert their lending into more profitable areas, and especially into investments that have some equity position. Then, secondly thrift institutions that specialize in home mortgages experience a declining inflow of funds.

The present federal monetary policy seems to be aimed at controlling the money supply or the total volume of credit. Failure to be concerned with who gets the funds could be one of the basic weaknesses of our stabilization policy.

Efforts to slow down the economy ultimately mean the people must sacrifice something they would like to have. In this case, it is housing. It seems to compete directly with the government policy designed to improve housing standards, and makes it difficult or impossible for Charlevoix, or the state for that matter, to achieve housing goals.

There is now, a lot of lip service being given to low income housing. This may be one answer to providing decent housing for every human, but I feel that we could do much more for our people. When you get an opportunity to go through one of these houses, do so. It will be a real experience. You will not find top quality, but top price, for what you are getting.

I don't feel that poor families live in sub-standard housing, because so little subsidized housing is built for them. They live in sub-standard housing because the total volume of home building is so low. In fact, a good case can be made for the proposition that the best way to improve housing conditions for all America would be to build a much larger volume of new houses for middle income families.

Families that build or rent high quality housing normally move out of better than average housing. This creates a supply of desired housing that less well housed families can move into. This process continues right down the scale until the most poorly housed families can improve their housing. If subsidies are needed, they should be available for the purchase of rental of existing housing as well as of new.

I have seen this system work in areas like Lansing, Detroit, Houston, Texas, and many other places. There is no reason why it wouldn't work well in Charlevoix. But for it to work, there must be a continued volume of housing built and new houses built must be of high quality. But, this will not occur if financing is not available, nor will it occur if government policies are directed to the building of housing of minimum standards.

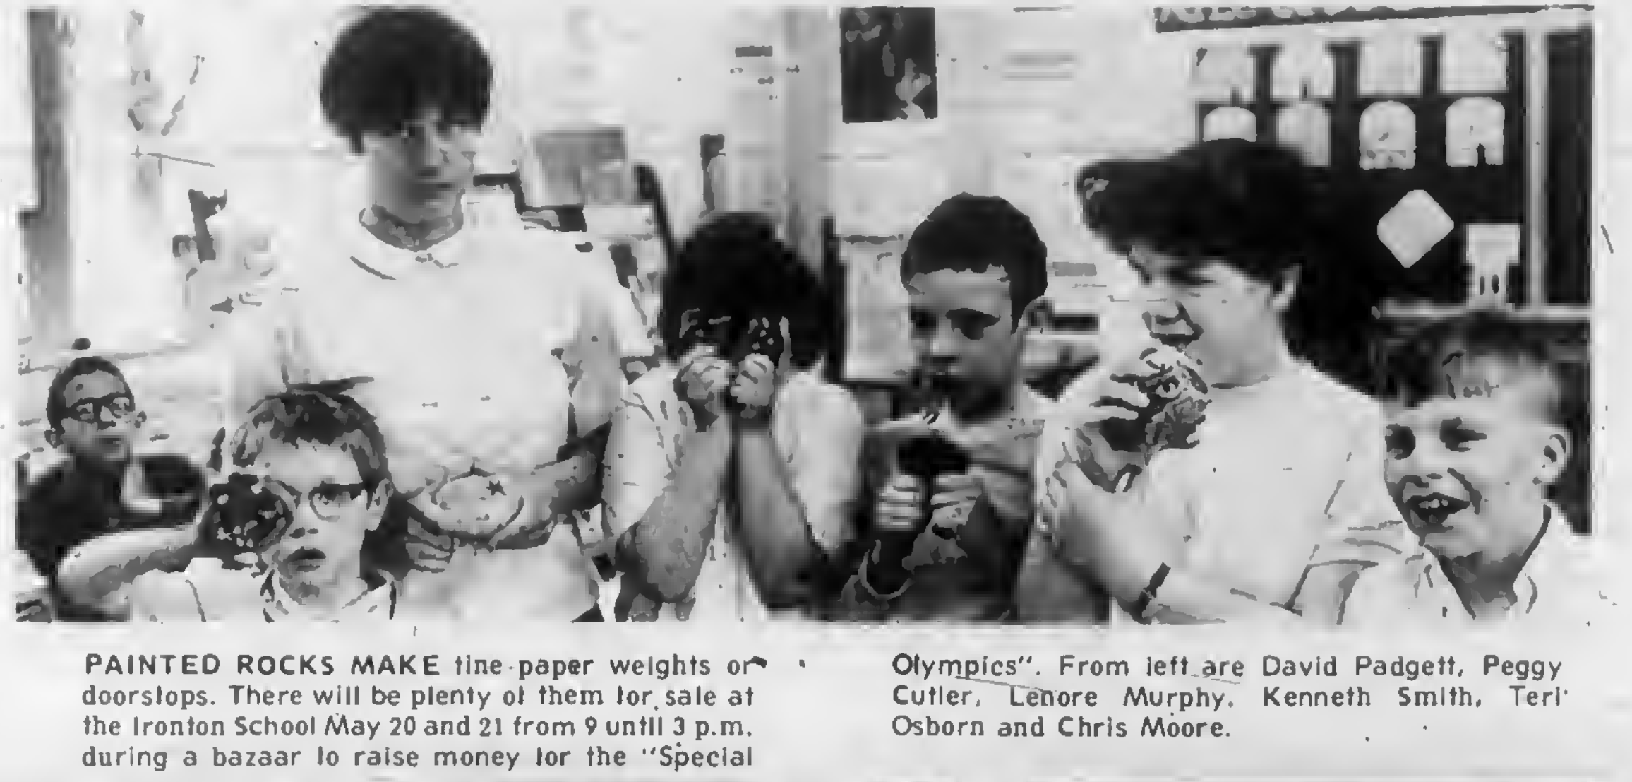
Ironton Pupils Will Attend 'Special Olympics'



PAINTED ROCKS MAKE fine paper weights or doorstops. There will be plenty of them for sale at the Ironton School May 20 and 21 from 9 until 3 p.m. during a bazaar to raise money for the "Special Olympics". From left are David Padgett, Peggy Cutler, Lenore Murphy, Kenneth Smith, Teri Osborn and Chris Moore.

STUFFED, long-earred bunnies made by the girls at the Ironton School are among the handicraft items that will be on sale at the bazaar. Here Ann Buckmaster and Danette Danforth display two of them.

PIN CUSHIONS, ceramic hot plates and fancy head scarves will be sold by youngsters at the Ironton School to raise money for the "Special Olympics." Posing beside a tableful of samples are Ben Ransom and Danny Smith.

Bazaar Will Help Pay Their Expenses

Students and teachers at the Ironton School have been as busy as the Ironton Ferry for the past few weeks making handicraft items for their upcoming bazaar Wednesday and Thursday, May 20 and 21 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale —which will include baked goods aplenty—will help finance a trip to the "Special Olympics" at the Kennedy Foundation in Kalamazoo June 5.

Six youngsters from th Ironton school for trainable children and four from the Conway school will attend — if they can raise the $300 necessary to make the trip.

The unusual "Olympics" has been set up for the youngsters who normally do not have much opportunity to participate in athletic events.

The "Olympics" will include the 50-yard dash, 300-yard dash, one-mile run, 440-yard relay, high jump, standing broad jump and softball.

For the past several weeks, Duane Taylor, a teacher in the Charlevoix school system, has met with the youngsters during his lunch hour to coach them in the various events and he expects them to bring home some ribbons. They have learned the intricacies of the relay and how to start with the gun.

Accompanied by Mrs. Florence Ellison, a social worker with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, and Mrs. Bonnie Bowman, a teacher at the Conway School, the youngsters will travel by bus to Kalamazoo June 4 and stay overnight in Western Michigan University dormitories.

Items for sale at the Ironton bazaar — in addition to baked goods — will include stuffed rabbits, ceramic hot platea, pin cushions, vinyl aprons, painted rocks and head scarves, according to Mrs. Aaron Brock and Mrs. Evangeline Inman, the teacher and assistant respectively at the Ironton School.

Persons who would like to contribute baked goods should arrange to drop them off at the school or leave them with Mrs. Inman, 805 Bridge-st., Charlevoix, before the sale. Her telephone number is 547-9844.

Passes Test In Arizona

Charlevoix pharmacist John Schroeder recently took—and passed—Arizona's state Board of Pharmacy exam, receiving a license to practice in Arizona.

Schroeder doesn't plan on moving to Arizona, but simply decided the license would be a good thing to have in the event he ever "retires" in the Southwest.

After visiting Phoenix, the Schroeders traveled to Florida, returning home in the company of William Dajnowicz, also of Charlevoix.

ALL-PURPOSE aprons that come clean with the swipe of a damp cloth have been made by children of the Ironton School to raise money for the "Special Olympics." They are ideal for the outdoor barbecue chef. Here Bill Buckmaster tries one on, with an assist from Dean Alderman.

Yacht Party Is May 24

There's going to a party on Sunday, May 24, at 1 p.m. for everyone who may be interested in forming a yacht club in Charlevoix. The group is meeting at the southeast corner of Round Lake near Ward's for sailboat rides and a picnic.

Boat ownership isn't necessary for membership, but if you do have a boat and would like to take other people out to try it, please bring it to the party meeting. Please bring your own hot dogs or burgers for there will be cooking facilities at the boat docks.

In case of rain the group will meet at the home of H. Jack Begrow at 502 Michigan Avenue.

Do City Workers Need a Union?

A situation of the gravest concern to all Charlevoixans has developed during the past nine months between the City of Charlevoix and its employes.

For several reasons, some financial, some personal, a group of city workers asked the Communications Workers of America (CWA) last August to represent them as collective bargaining agent, thereby setting in motion the massive governmental machinery that is a necessary prelude to a representation election.

Suffice it to say that the workers voted last Oct. 7 to join the CWA. The vote was 27 to 5.

However, five days before the election, the state legislature passed an act providing for compulsory arbitration of disputes involving policemen and firemen.

The act placed the representation election in limbo, so far as the city council was concerned, since it couldn't see how it could deal with all city employes as members of one union if certain specified groups within the union fell under a separate set of bargaining rules.

On Nov. 19, the city asked that the representation election be set aside by the Employment Relations Commission. In April the commission denied the city's request and the council has decided to take the question to the Court of Appeals. The council feels, and rightfully so, that the issue is one of importance not only to Charlevoix but to many communities around the state which have found -- and are finding -- themselves in similar predicaments.

Needless to say, the workers are chagrined at the delay in representation and have accused the city of denying their rights as union members.

Unfortunately, the representation issue has resulted in a totally unnecessary rift between city employes and city government. Under our laws, free communications between employes and employers is virtually impossible without the intercession of a third party -- the union.

There has not been — or can there be — any discussion of wage increases until the representation question is answered. If the city so much as hinted at a wage increase, it could be charged with unfair labor practices.

The situation is an unfortunate as it is unnecessary.

Charlevoix for years has been in the vanguard of northern Michigan communities in providing better wages and fringe benefits to employes.

A spot check of 1970 wages paid employes in cities of comparable size shows that Charlevoix is even with -- or ahead of -- most of them, even though Charlevoix workers have not received their latest cost-of-living increase because of the representation ruckus.

Our employes also receive from one to three weeks paid vacation each year, depending on seniority. Full health insurance is paid for them and their families by the city. They have six paid holidays a year. They have 12 days of sick leave a year, cumulative to 60 days. They are members of the Michigan Municipal Employes Retirement System.

In short, they have more in the way of fringe benefits than most hourly and salaried workers employed by private industry in the city.

Bear in mind, these advances have been made without a union and without the payment of union dues.

The Courier can see positive advantages to union representation in large organizations where the individual employe is no more than a badge number to his superiors.

Such representation is unnecessary in a city the size of Charlevoix where the city superintendent, the mayor and members of the council are on a first-name basis with most of the 35 city employes.

From a financial standpoint, there is no reason in the world why a city as solvent as Charlevoix cannot continue to keep its employes abreast of -- even ahead of -- their colleagues in other communities in the area of wages and fringe benefits -- without the dubious benefit of union representation.

Furthermore, since December there have been changes in the superintendent's office which promises to promote a better rapport between City Hall and the employes.

If the Court of Appeals upholds the election as the Employment Relations Commission had done, the Courier envisions no end of problems in the ensuing years, particularly relative to job classifications.

In the past, we have enjoyed the benefits of a rather loose organization whereby cemetery employes, for example, have been able to handle the skating rink during the winter and other employes have been shifted from department to department as they are needed. If is the only feasible way to guarantee full employment when dealing with a relatively small group of employes.

We are not at all certain this will be possible if and when the union steps in, since the unions have fairly rigid rules governing job classification and what employes may or may not do.

Furthermore, we see a future filled with interminable negotiations, the filing and processing of grievances and all of the time-consuming paperwork that suddenly becomes necessary when organized labor makes its presence felt. The added costs to city government will be staggering.

But the die is cast. If the Court of Appeals upholds the election, Charlevoix's city employes will be organized from here on in.

As things stand, the city's hands are tied.

But there is still time for the employes to reconsider whether union representation, paid for with union dues, is the real answer to their problem.

We strongly suspect that a large portion of that problem already has been resolved.

Toynbee Aghast at America

(Mrs. Albert Schaller of Conway came across the following article in the New York Times and thought northern Michiganders might be interested in how British historian Arnold J. Toynbee views the present situation in America.)

By Arnold J. Toynbee

LONDON — To most Europeans, I guess, America now looks like the most dangerous country in the world. Since America is unquestionably the most powerful country, the transformation of America's image within the last 30 years is very frightening for Europeans. It is probably still more frightening for the great majority of the human race who are neither Europeans nor North Americans, but are Latin Americans, Asians and Africans. They, I imagine, feel even more insecure than we feel. They feel that, at any moment, America may intervene in their internal affairs with the same appalling consequences as have followed from American intervention in Southeast Asia.

For the world as a whole, the C.I.A. has now become the bogey that Communism has been for America. Wherever there is trouble, violence, suffering, tragedy, the rest of us are now quick to suspect the C.I.A. has a hand in it. Our phobia about the C.I.A. is, no doubt, as fantastically excessive as America's phobia about world Communism; but, in this case, too, there is just enough convincing evidence to make the phobia genuine. In fact, the roles of America and Russia have been reversed in the world's eyes. Today America has become the world's nightmare.

Like Communist Russia, America has committed atrocities in the cause of truth and justice, as she sees them. We believe that American fanaticism, too, is sincere. This makes it all the more alarming.

In terms of the number of lives taken and of lands laid waste, America's score is, unhappily, far higher than any other country's since the end of World War II.

How is America dealing with her problems? As we see it, she is failing to deal with them, and this is the most terrifying feature of American life today. The American people seem to us to be moving rapidly toward civil war: middle-aged noncombatants against young men subject to the draft; the affluent against the poor; white against black; students against the National Guard (the most immediately perilous of all these multiple confrontations).

The American home front is more crucial than the ports in Vietnam and Cambodia and Taiwan and Korea and the Middle East. The decision on America's home front is going to decide the fate of the world, and the rest of us can do nothing about it. We have no say, but we, too, are going to be victims of America's domestic agony.

With growing anxiety, we watch a spectacle that we never expected to see. Who would have foreseen that America would repudiate George Washington's warning against entangling alliances? Or that America would cease to be a land of hope? And who would have expected to find himself wishing that America would box the campus for a second time within one lifetime—wishing, I mean, that America would retreat again into the isolation from which we were once so eager to see her emerge?

Is there, then, no hope of reconciliation on America's home front? I catch a gleam of hope when I recall some words that I heard an American officer let fall two years ago in a discussion on the international situation. "There are going to be many more Vietnams," this officer said, "though the mothers of America won't like it."

The mothers of America: This representative of the Pentagon had detected the great power that was going to be the Pentagon's most formidable adversary. The Pentagon versus the mothers of America. In Cambodia we now already have a second Vietnam.

The mothers of America have still to go into action, and I believe this is a battle that the Pentagon cannot win. In the mothers of America I do still see some hope for the world.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

I guess May will always be my favorite month. That's when I asked Judy to marry me. No that's not right. She asked me. No, that's not right either. Actually nobody asked anybody anything, and I'm beginning to suspect that's the way it happens with most couples.

We just decided, without fol-de-rol or formality, to set the date.

But every spring we start wondering just what happened to us in the merry month of May in 1963.

Actually, we met in September, 1962, at the Holly School District's annual faculty breakfast the day before school started. I was president of the teachers club and was given a list of the new teachers to introduce. Judy was one of them.

That night we met again at the Board of Education Tea. We bumped into each other on our way out and walked to our cars together discussing the various merits of VW's and Falcons. She had a VW and I had a Falcon. Today we have a VW, if that means anything, and I suspect it does.

During the fall semester we exchanged pleasantries in the hall and that was about it. Then in the dead of winter we both helped organize the Shiawassee Players, a community theater group. Judy helped build the set for "The Tender Trap" and I played a beatnik (Remember the word?) named Sol Swartz. In "The Heiress" Judy designed and supervised construction of the set and I helped her.

Then came May.

The toughest question a fellow faces when he decides to get married is how to tell his folks.

Now when you are 18 years old, it's not so hard. All you have to do is bound into the house and say: "Ma, I'm getting married." and nobody thinks anything about it.

But when you are in your 30's and a confirmed bachelor, it's another story. People expect something different.

So after we had set the date, I bounded into the house and said: "Ma, Judy's getting married and we're all invited."

Ma was standing in the kitchen icing a cake and her initial response was as predicable as April rain.

"And I don't have a thing to wear," she complained, plastering another glob of icing on the cake. "I could wear my blue dress but everybody's seen it. And I wouldn't wear my pink dress to a dog fight."

Ma, as you see, was a clothes horse, who, if the house caught fire, would put on fresh make-up, nylons and her newest outfit before running for safety.

"I suppose I'll have to buy something," she continued, making a curly-cue on top of the cake. "Who's she marrying?"

"Oh, some nut she met in Holly."

"Have I met him?"

"I think so."

"What's his name?"

The moment of truth had come.

"Me."

The word was scarcely out of my mouth before she was on the telephone belaboring my sister with her latest apparel problem. After all, the mother-of-the-groom has to wear something pretty snazzy.

Judy got her ring over on Memorial Day, parked in the "oval" at Muskegon beach overlooking Lake Michigan. It was the biggest and best diamond I could afford on a teacher's salary, but you have to have pretty good eyes to appreciate it.

We were married on schedule in August and the following May — Memorial Day, to be precise — little Katie Ann hove upon the scene.

So it's little wonder I'm so fond of the month of May.

August isn't bad, either.

Tale of Two Trips

By Jim Fitzgerald

You might call this a tale of 2 trips.

It was during the last meeting of our poker club that I was struck by the big difference between these 2 trips.

The Apollo 13 astronauts were on their way back from moon country. That's 1 of the trips. Between beers and shuffles, there was considerable talk about the 3 men risking their necks in space.

And later, when the space talk faded, the host of that night's party was asked the whereabouts of his wife. He explained that she was out of town but "she'll walk through that back door at 10:20 p.m."

He was predicting a splashdown time for his wife. And he did it with the confidence of a scientist broadcasting instructions from Houston to Apollo 13.

Which brings us to the 2nd trip.

None of the other players asked Mr. Host how he could be so certain of the time his wife would return. We knew. She had made the same trip so many times before, and so had he, that it was easy to set the clock by their departures and arrivals.

At 10:20 p.m., Mrs. Host came through the back door.

For the umptenth time, she had been visiting their son at a veterans' hospital in a nearby city. A year ago, he suffered a head wound in Vietnam. He is now almost totally paralyzed, almost speechless. There's almost no hope for recovery. It appears that this 22-year-old man, once so tall and straight and handsome, will spend the rest of his life in hospital beds. And his fine family will spend the rest of their lives visiting him and praying for the medicine or miracle they so richly deserve.

I haven't identified Mr. and Mrs. Host because that's the way they want it. Their friends already know. They see no reason to parade their tragedy before strangers. They don't want pity for their heartache; they don't want publicity for what they and their son have given to their country.

But I had to wonder, that poker night of Apollo 13.

Three astronauts soar away and return to the adulation and tears of an entire nation. Thousands of boys go to Vietnam and return battered, or in boxes. And only their families weep and care, really care.

Sure, I am awed by the incredible technology and courage that puts us on the moon. But I am saddened by a nation that sweats blood with the astronauts and doesn't care that 300 men were killed in Vietnam last week. Or that thousands of young men are doomed to hospitals for life.

Who has given the most for his country? And when will this country deserve what these few people are giving?

Shoot me if you will, but I don't give a damn about trips to the moon. Not as long as my friends are making trips to that hospital.

Charlevoix, Michigan

My Dear Mr. Clock:

Recently I had the great pleasure of being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gilbert when we made a very complete tour of your new elementary school.

It was a revelation to me to find such magnificent modern facilities in which to educate our very young. The community is to be complimented.

Also, was pleased to find that many of the art objects we have given to Charlevoix were so gracefully hung and displayed.

Quite frankly, seeing the art objects in such good surroundings justifies our making further gifts in the future and we shall select a few this summer to help educate our youth, with the understanding of the beauty of artistic endeavors that result from the work of dedicated artists.

Am pleased to inform you that on June 26th an exhibition of some 70 paintings and 14 sculptures from our collection will open at the National Gallery, Washington, D. C.

When the catalogue is printed we shall be pleased to send you a copy with our compliments. Also, we are honored to have the Metropolitan Museum in New York exhibit the same collection in June, 1971.

We expect to return to Charlevoix about July 1 and will again be at the Anchorage where we are adding a few more major sculptures in our gardens.

Sincerely yours,
Nathan Cummings

Library Notes

To commemorate Michigan Week - May 16th to May 23 - the Charlevoix Library will have a special display of books about Michigan which may be circulated for family reading.

The library would like to express its gratitude to Mrs. E.J. Wulfman for donating "Land Birds of America" a large and handsome treasure for the nature lover, the artist, the photographer, the sportsman and the professionol orinthologist. The full-length commentary was written by two of America's most distinguished orinthologists, Dr. Robert Cushman Murphy and Dr. Dean Amadon.

The photographs themselves will serve as an invaluable aid to bird identification. There is a special section on the techniques of bird photography by Eliot Porter. The book has 221 photographs in full color.

New non-fiction titles on the shelves include "Weight Watchers Cook Book" by Jean Nideteh. "Dagger In The Heart" by Mario Lazo, one of Latin America's most prominent and respected lawyers. He set himself the task of researching how Castro came to power, why the Bay of Pigs invasion failed; and why the missile crisis ended by guaranteeing Castro a protected sanctuary in the Carribbean. The resulting story is a revelation of American policies and policy-makers that will shock most Americans. "The Economy of Cities" by Jack Jacobs explains why some cities decline and die while others live and grow.

"The Lessons of History" by Will and Ariel Durant is an illuminating and thoughtful book in which these two outstanding authors have succeeded in distilling the accumulated store of knowledge and experienced from their four decades of work on the ten monumental volumns of "The Story of Civilization." The result is a survey of history.

"Present at the Creation" by Dean Acheson presents his record of his years of public service. Dean Acheson was not only present at the creation of the postwar-world, he was one of its chief architects. Even those who have been stung by his wit or bled by his logic, will not question the fact that he has been one of the strongest, most successful American statesmen of the century.

The book tells the story of an era on which the history of the world pivoted, and it is written by the man whose eye was perhaps clearest and mind the most decisive. It is certainly the best-written and probably the most important book to come from the high echelons of state since the writings of Winston Churchill.

A Treasure Trove Of Historical Data

By Mrs. Julius Gilbert

"Our most frequent request is for a short history of Charlevoix," says Dorothy Olmstead, chief librarian at the Charlevoix Public Library. "All we can do is direct everyone to the Michigan Room where we have among many other books and pamphlets, an address given by Mrs. Albert Bridge, called "Pioneer Days of Charlevoix" delivered at a meeting of the Shakespeare Study club in 1923, and a little hard-cover book entitled "Charlevoix–Vacation Glimpses" compiled by Earl B. Babst in 1944."

"Last summer a lady from California came here every day for two weeks and spent hours browsing through our fine historical collection. We don't know her name because that was before we had our guest book," Miss Olmshead says.

Glancing through the guestbook today one comes across the following comments, "a nostalgic visit to Charlevoix" or a "nice library and courteous librarian", or "fantastic–it's O.K."

Many of the visitors are interested in tracing their ancestors, but occasionally there are writers and scholars who turn to this area for reference material.

This week's small mail brought a letter from a New Orleans writer, Jo Anne Mazoue', who has a book half-finished concerning the Mormon colony which once lived on Beaver Island.

"Last summer I took a plane to do research at the Detroit Main Library. I am unable to come to Charlevoix and Beaver Island this summer, although I have many relatives in upper Michigan. In fact, I once lived in Charlevoix, and attended St. Mary's school when in the fifth grade.....Books I'm interested in concern James Jess Strang, Mormon ruler of that island from about 1849–1856 or books about Mormons in Michigan.....also the newspapaer called "Northern Islander." Of course I realize copies of such a newspaper are too valuable to release (if in existence) but I wonder if it's possible you would have any micro-film copies.....or do you have any micro-films of Michigan newspapers during that year, 1856?.....I will appreciate any help you can give me."

Speaking of help, it's a big help for everyone now that the cataloging of Michigan Historical books has been completed by Mrs. Hewitt Johnston, school librarian. The major portion of these rare books were collected by the late Earl B. Babst, a long-time summer resident of the Chicago Club. A memorial fund established in 1967 by members of his family and close friends has supplied the library over the last three years with over $650.00 in new acquisitions. These include such books as "Indians of the Woodlands" by George E. Hyde and "Indian Life in the Upper Great Lakes" covering the period from 11,000 B.C. to 1800 A.D. by George Irving Quimby. These books neatly complement an outstanding volume on the subject of Indian lore, a book signed by Mr. Babst in 1892 called, "Drake's Indians of North America" and published in 1880.

"Mr. Babst spent many hours personally indexing and binding the rare books he acquired during his lifetime," says Mrs. Johnston. "Here for example is the famous Burton Historical Collection, and there are folders with magazine articles about Charlevoix printed many years ago. It's not too difficult to add recent publications about Michigan if one has the money, but it is difficult to find books which are long since out of print."

For this reason, the Indian people are deeply grateful to the people of St. John's Episcopal church in Midland for making a reprint possible of a dual language hymnal in both English and Ojibway. A copy of this hymnal was given recently to the library by Jay Oliver in behalf of the congregation of Greensky Hill. It's a welcome addition to our collection of historical memorabilia housed in the library to be studied by future historians, writers and scholars.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

I am pleased to mention the City of Charlevoix is footing the bill to have the street parade float completely redecorated with the same theme but there will be a new vinyl-like material used—much more durable, fire resistant, water repellent, and more or less soil proof. The chamber is somehow going to pay for a tailor-made, 14-ounce, water repellent cover-all to protect this big beauty over the highway as well as in storage. Both expenses should prolong the use of the float.

This thought just occurred to me relative to the coming summer: During the last 14 months or so, there have been probably 18 to 20 summer rental units of one category or another withdrawn from our availability list. For instance, 18 units with a minimum average of three persons each, for a period of 90 days' rental potential, would be 4,860 persons. I know of no replacements. We are continually being swamped, not only with inquiries, but specific requests for summer accommodations. Even if 60 percent of the requests materializes, our rental units of one kind or another would be overtaxed.

To develop better communications, keep in mind the chamber's Eye-Opener get-together meeting, 7:30 a.m., Wednesday, May 20, at the Weathervane Inn. The Lakeside Hobbycraft Show, scheduled Saturday, July 11 should double in size this year, judging from recent requests for applications. This show, we believe, has quite a potential.

I understand from Mrs. Peg Driggett, head of the Waterfront Fair Committee, that the applications for this event are coming in per usual--very steady. This event to be held Saturday, Aug. 8, should be as beautiful and worthwhile to visit as any in the past.

The Venetian Festival as usual is the fourth weekend in July, July 25 and 26. My goodness! It wouldn't seem natural if there were no fireworks! Think about it folks. It costs money, and I might add that a street parade worthy of Charlevoix costs money too. Wouldn't it be fitting to have at least two more bands in the parade?

Probably some of you have wondered about our efforts to get Trans-Michigan Airlines on a regular schedule in and out of Charlevoix. A little complication beyond our control has stalled the promotion. However, I have reasons to believe that the idea has not been dropped. We will stay with it in hopes that things will work out satisfactorily for all concerned.

The chamber's board of directors will meet June 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the chamber office.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olsheve and the latters sister Mrs. Louis Gilbert of Detroit spent several days this week in their local summer homes.

Mrs. Lorena Beene has returned home after several days visit with her daughter, Mrs. Dan Sullivan, and family in Detroit.

Charles Cooper is a surgical patient in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey. He has the very best wishes of his local friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cooper and family of Detroit are with Mrs. Cooper at their orchard home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison of Middletown, Ohio, spent the last weekend at the home of her father, Ralph Price.

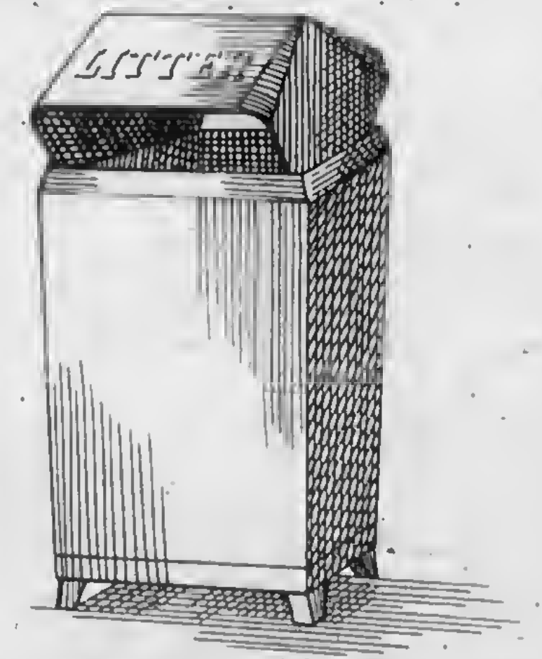
We were all saddened to receive word of the death of Mrs. Fred England in East Lansing Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. England have been summer residents in our community several years and have many local friends. They attended our local church. She will be missed by many. Mr. England and family have our sincere sympathy.

Our many thanks to Earl Kroll and his three boys for cleaning the church yard Saturday. Don Bennett also gave a helping hand.

I was very much interested in the report and remarks about the success of some of the high School graduates of Charlevoix. I have a copy of their school paper, "Chantileer," March, 1924, called the "Spark Plug Number." Albert Widdifield was the editor-in-chief and his staff were Freda McMillan, Margaret Krulik, Doris Hammond, Meg Fitch, Lawrence Parmelee and several others. The headline was: "CHS Steams up for Tournament." That year they made plans for a big year book which would be a peppy 60-page affair, made up of pictures and all activities and accomplishments of the year.

As far back as I can remember we have had two kinds of young people: One group is sincere and worth listening to. The other is spoiled, insolent and destructive. Too many parents have been too easy, have given too much and have not demanded the respect of their little ones. Consequently we have so many rebels today.

I don't see how they can expect the respect of the public when their personal appearance and arrogance is so deplorable and destructive. The sincere and respectful ones should be listened to more closely as they are the future leaders of the country and we must depend on them.



The Nation's Beauty Shop There it stands, the Nation's Beauty Shop. Millions of others like it are saying to us. "Give us your trash . . . let us help you beautify our country!" And all we have to do is to use this free beauty service — take a step or two extra to keep trash from becoming litter.

Each of us can do our part in giving our country a "facial" by patronizing these little "shops" set up for our convenience. Every litter bit hurts. So let's keep our face clean Michigan!

In three years the Essay Contest has expanded from a Lansing area competition, to a massive statewide program. The basis for this appeal is the concept of the competition...encouraging youth to seriously consider the heritage and future of America through the topic "What I Can Do For My Country."

Miss Potter's essay will now be judged in a statewide competition. First prize is a fully-paid four-day trip to Washington, D.C. for the student, his parents and teacher.

2 Plaques For City Gardeners

The Charlevoix Garden Club will award two plaques instead of one this spring and summer to families with the most attractive gardens on the north and south sides of town, according to Mrs Jerry Staublin.

Recipients for the month of May are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Loop, 108 Oak-st., for the north side, and Mrs. Florence Reiter, 115 E. Lincoln, for the south side.

Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Sims Baker, 509 Mason-st. and Miss Delora Richardson, 103 W. Garfield.

The awards are made on the basis of landscaping, neatness and the number and arrangement of flowers and plants.

Judges this year are Mrs. Conrad Klooster, Mrs. John Rowe, Mrs. William Paddock and Mrs. Jerry Staublin.

The May winners probably will not have plaques to display in their gardens, according to Mrs. Staublin.

The plaque used in former years has been stolen and two new ones have been ordered.

Charlevoix Hospital hosted five students from Central Lake High School last Wednesday. The students, all considering careers in the health care field, toured the hospital and interviewed all department heads.

Last week was Michigan Hospital Week.

Russell C. Graves, school counselor, discussed plans with Rollie Dudik, hospital administrator, regarding an affiliated "health orientation" program between the school and the hospital for next year.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If making tracks across a clean carpet to get to a telephone leaves your wife a little less than happy, then perhaps there's nothing so funny about an extension telephone in the garage or workshop.

Extension telephones make sense. They save time by letting you use a telephone wherever you are.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can put an extension in any funny old place you'd like.

Budget Hearing Is Next Monday

A public hearing on the City of Charlevoix's budget for 1970-71 will be held in conjunction with the next City Council meeting May 25.

The general fund budget calls for expenditures of $413,525 with budgeted revenues of $385,900. The deficit will be covered by transfers from the electric utility fund.

The new budget compares a budget of $234,511.87 last year, an increase of $151,389. Major portion of the increase is a grant-in-aid of $144,000 from the state Waterways Commission which will be used to construct boat ramp and sanitary facilities at Ferry Beach. The city will pay about $16,000.

Other sources of expected revenue will be $90,500 in property taxes, $199,150 from other governmental agencies in fees and taxes; $46,650 from public service enterprises (golf course, dock rental, etc.) and $49,600 from miscellaneous sources (parking meters, sewer extensions, etc.)

The street fund budget calls for revenues of $63,650, against expenses of $122,900. The deficit of $59,250 will be covered by transfers from the general fund.

The electric fund calls for revenues of $476,050 against expenditures of $392,175. The balance will be transferred to the general fund. ($83,875).

Water fund revenues are expected to come to $71,050, with expenditures of $58,330.

Sewage fund revenues have been estimated at $30,040 and expenditures at $30,550.

Millage

Superintendent Rex Milligan said the additional levy is needed to meet next year's budget of $1,199,171, up $191,123 from last year.

Included in the increase are the salaries of seven additional teachers (three in the high school and two each in the middle and elementary schools), pay increases for teachers in keeping with the higher cost of living and higher operating costs in general.

Residents of the district will vote on the increased millage at the annual school election June 8.

Most of the meeting was taken up by discussion of a proposal by board member Richard Donaldson whereby voters would be offered a number of different millage proposals, each earmarked for a specific purpose, such as operating millage, curriculum improvements, building repairs, athletic programs, a building and site fund and salary increases.

Some members of the audience said they feared the earmarking of millage might leave the district with insufficient operating funds, even though a number of the proposals passed.

Retiring board member Dale Boss endorsed Donaldson's proposals. He said whenever the district finds itself with extra money, the teachers try to get their hands on it first, "like rats in a basket."

Int. Board Hears Staff

Mrs. Max Ellison and Mrs. Hans Wiemer of the Special Education staff made several salary and fringe benefit proposals at a special meeting of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate Board Monday night.

They proposed a six percent salary increase, on a 13-step schedule, long term disability insurance, a more liberal transportation reimbursement policy and a continuing education program, either by payment of tuition or sabbatical leave.

The board also heard a proposal by Jim Shepard, consultant in vocational-technical education, that the district purchase a trailer to house its proposed mobile career guidance counseling center.

Paddocks Back On Meech-st.

Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Paddock have returned to their home at 307 Meech-st. after spending the winter in Venice, Fla.

Enroute home they spent five days in Washington, D.C., and attended the 55th anniversary of Paddock's graduating class from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Of a graduating class of 180, only 15 showed up for the reunion, Paddock said.

Paddock served as a naval officer in World War I and World War II.

Will Speak

The meeting is sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Friskie Dinner

But we want to make sure you can afford it too.

We don't want you to get in over your head.

Believe it or not, the bank doesn't like that anymore than you do.

When you sit down with somebody at Charlevoix County State Bank to figure out a plan (how big a loan, how much credit, whatever) you'll see it doesn't have to happen that way.

We won't give you more money than you can give us back. We won't give you any money if we don't think you can afford the extra burden. We might even say you ought to be saving money instead of borrowing it.

We don't want you to drown in your own affluence.

First Lansing, Then D.C., Friske Tells Supporters

In a speech more concerned with national issues than state problems, Charlevoix County orchardman Richard Friske kicked off his campaign in the race for 106th district representative Friday at a get-acquainted, fund-raising dinner at Stafford's Bay View Inn.

But Friske readily admitted that he considers the position of State representative merely a stepping-stone to Washington.

"With reapportionment, this is a one-term proposition," he told his supporters. "After that I'll go to Washington where you ought to have me."

Friske is among eight northern Michiganders who already have publicly announced that they are Republican candidates for the House of Representatives' seat presently held by Rep. Robert W. Davis, (R-St. Ignace), who is running for the Senate.

A former member of the German army who emigrated to the United States following World War II, Friske said America is suffering from illusions of "over self-confidence."

"We say we are too big, too large to be in danger. But the United States has never faced an enemy like the one it faces today — a house divided against itself and this the enemy knows."

"If you elect me, I would like you to turn out in numbers to express yourselves when I return home and never be afraid to pat me on the back and say: 'Richard, you are doing a good job," he said.

"Men are like mules," he added, "they like to be led but they don't like to be driven."

The apple and cherry grower cautioned his 65 listeners to keep their criticism of him within the family.

"I tell my customers that if they don't like my fruit, they should tell me about it; if they do like it, they should tell everyone about it."

A strong law-and-order candidate, Friske said America is still the "land of opportunity."

"We have something worth defending and fighting for and I will defend it and fight for it until I die."

He said, if elected, he will use the Constitution and the Bible as his only guides.

"If you send a man like this to Washington or Lansing, he can't go wrong. And I am that kind of a candidate," he said.

He said the situation in the nation's colleges and universities is among his greatest concerns. He charged that U.S. legislators have failed to live up to their commitments in dealing with campus disorders.

When protestors take over a campus, Friske said the school should be closed, the rebellious students and faculty members ousted and the school reopened for the non-dissenters.

He also had some harsh words for equal rights.

"There is no equality," he said. "God never intended men to be equal. Yet we seem to be bending over backward to make everyone equal."

"Free men are not equal and equal men are not free," he added, "and they never will be."

Questioned later about his stand on equality, Friske said that men have been selfish ever since the first man committed sin.

"Men try to out-do each other. We can be forced to live together equally, but then we are not free, we are slaves."

He also lit into the number of people in the United States who are "willing to accept government handouts instead of working for themselves."

"It is hard to believe a highly education people like Americans can stoop so low," he stated.

Friske had high words of praise for the free enterprise system which has made America "as great as it is today."

"We in Lansing have a lot to do with these things, too," he said.

Following are quotations from Friske's speech on other topics:

The war in Vietnam and Cambodia: "There can be no peace without victory. They (the Communists) have no thought of peaceful coexistence. Let's either get out of Southeast Asia or win the war and bring our boys home."

Sex Education and Abortion: "Sex education teaches them how to do it; then abortion tells them how to get rid of it. If abortion is all right at three months, why not 65 years? This is being done in Russia today."

Parochiaid: "If I choose a private school, I should be willing to pay for it. What government finances today it will control tomorrow."

Friske said if he is elected he will lease his orchard and devote full time to the duties of state representatives.

He estimated that his campaign will cost him about $7,000.

Asks $489,900

Gust Is Low Bidder For New Co. Jail

Gust Construction Co. of Cedar Springs was low bidder on construction of the proposed Charlevoix County jail, to be located on an eight-acre tract of land between Garfield and Carpenter-sts.

Gust's bid was $489,900, which was the only one of the nine bids under $500,000.

Financing charges will bring the total cost of the new jail to well over $1 million.

Roger Gust, owner of the firm, told Building Authority members that he would build the jail with both union and non-union employes (open shop) and could complete the job in 300 calendar days.

He posted a five percent bond, issured by the Aetna Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.

The Gust bid listed such options as a stand-by boiler at $4,300 and stainless steel fixtures at $3,000 addition.

However, the firm said it would deduct $4,600 from the bid if standard lighting fixtures are used, instead of the type recommended for jails.

The bids were read by Steve Gerganoff, the Ypsilanti architect who designed the County Building, in the presence of the Building Authority. Members are E. D. (Pat) Hawley of Charlevoix, Aldwyn Barden of Boyne City and Greg Boswell of East Jordan.

Following is a list of the other bidders, the amounts of their bids, options and completion times. All posted the required five percent bond.

Chain-O-Lakes Development Co. (formerly John G. Apfel Co.) of Bellaire, $504,900; stand-by boiler, $4,450; stainless fixtures, $3,237; non-union labor; no stated completion time.

Barnes Construction, Grand Rapids: $515,726; boiler, $4,225; fixtures, $2,200; union labor; 300 calendar days.

Henderson Brothers, Inc., Cheboygan, Mich., $517,200; boiler, $4,265; fixtures, $2,260; union labor; no stated completion time.

McReady and Sons, Inc., Gaylord: $511,280; boiler $4,311; fixtures, $2,241; union labor; 365 calendar days.

Montagne-Keith Construction, Inc., Whitehall, Mich.: $534,500; boiler, $4,250; fixtures, $3,100; union labor; 365 calendar days.

Omega Construction Co., Grand Rapids, $543,113; boiler, $5,400; fixtures, $3,000; less $4,500 for standard lighting fixtures; open shop; 365 calendar days.

Shaw-Henderson, Chebuygan: $506,700; boiler, $4,226; fixtures, $2,238; non-union labor; no stated completion time.

The architect and Building Authority will review all of the bids before reaching a decision.

The low bidder, Gust, has completed a number of jobs in the area, including the new addition on the Boyne Falls School; additions to the Harbor Springs high school and elementary school; and the new school at Pellston.

Gust presently is working on the Reed City Hospital and a new medical center in Kalkaska.

The county is under orders from the state Corrections Department to build a new jail or improve the present one which does not meet department standards. The present jail on Antrim-st. will be condemned by the state unless action is taken.

Memorial Rites Set

A parade and services at Round Lake and in Brookside Cemetery have been planned for Memorial Day, Saturday, in Charlevoix.

The VFW, the American Legion, their auxiliaries, the Coast Guard, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and the High School Band will take part in the parade, which will organize at 9:30 at the Congregational Church. Ben Gill is parade marshal.

The parade will proceed at 10 a.m. east on Park-ave. to Bridge-st. then south to the cemetery, with a stop at Round Lake to pay tribute to servicemen who lost their lives at sea.

At the cemetery, the Rev. James Lugibihl will deliver the invocation and benediction; Cecil Drost will be MC, Lynn De Fiedorek, will deliver the Gettysburg Address and Maj. Robert J. Dannacher of the Bay Shore Air Force Detachment will be speaker.

CHARLEVOIXANS turned out in force Thursday noon for a civic luncheon at the Weathervane Inn honoring Gordon Freedman (standing) who was named Michigan's Small Businessman of the year by the Small Business Association (SBA). He was presented a citation by Robert F. Phillips, director of the Detroit SBA office. Freedman is owner of Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp in Charlevoix

RETIRING Charlevoix station agent Lester Arndt works controls on swinging railroad bridge over Pine River Channel for the last time.

Long Career Ends For Railroad Agent

Lester F. Arndt, Charlevoix station agent and tender of the swinging Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad bridge over Pine River Channel, has retired after a span of railroad service that covered more than a half century.

Arndt joined Pere Marquette in November 1919 while the railroads were still operated by the U.S. Railroad Administration, created as an emergency measure during World War I. His first job was as a station helper at Scottville.

In those days, Scottville had six passenger trains stopping at the station every day and Arndt helped with the freight and baggage. Today, no passenger trains stop at Scottville.

He was laid off in January of 1921 and went to Chicago where he worked for a year with the Federal Huber Co., a manufacturer of plumbing fixtures.

But railroading was in his blood and he managed to land a job as a clerk with the Pacific Fruit Express Co., owned by the Union and Southern Pacific Railroads. He also started studying telegraphy in his spare time.

In September of 1923 he returned to Pere Marquette as a telegraph operator, working out of the Ludington office as a relief man. He spent five years in Walhalla, three years in Millord and seven years in Port Huron before moving to Ellsworth as station agent in March of 1938.

In Ellsworth he became active in village affairs, serving as village clerk for seven years. He resigned when he accepted the station agent's job in Charlevoix in December of 1959, the position he held until his retirement.

During the last 51 years, Arndt has seen many changes in rail service, particularly the decline in passenger travel due largely to better roads and better cars.

But he shares the opinion of his former boss, M.G. Buffin, assistant superintendent of the C & O's northern region at Manistee, that there are better days ahead.

Buffin, who was on hand to bid farewell to Arndt Friday, believes that the next 10 years will see a resurgence of rail travel, especially on long, cross-country runs.

Arndt also has seen the merger of many railroads, including the acquisition of Pere Marquette by C & O.

Arndt was born on a farm near Custer, Mich., east of Ludington May 17, 1900, and graduated from Scottville High School in June, 1919.

During his last few years in Charlevoix, Arndt has made his home at 207 E. Dixon-ave. He plans to spend his retirement at Houghton Lake.

Mrs. Maurice Dixon

Mrs. Dixon New Cashier

Mrs. Maurice Dixon, a director and assistant cashier of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, was named cashier by the board of directors at a meeting Friday.

Mrs. Dixon was appointed to the high bank post following the resignation of Robert Livingston as cashier and director. Livingston has held the cashier's post for 25 years.

The board accepted Livingston's resignation "with regret," according to bank President Jerrald H. Redeker.

Redeker said Livingston plans to relocate in Arizona.

Livingston's father, Archie Livingston, president of the bank for many years, has a winter home at Sun City, Ariz. He remains a director emeritus of the bank.

The board appointed Norman B. Lawton of Farmington, who has a summer home in Charlevoix County, as a director, replacing Robert Livingston on the board.

We're Growing

The unofficial population count for Charlevoix County is 16,131, according to County Clerk Clarence Rabach. The official count will be announced later by the Bureau of the Census.

In 1960, the official U.S. bead-count listed Charlevoix County as having a population of 13,421.

Charlevoix had a population of 19,157 in 1910 during the hey-day of the lumbering era.

City OK's 6 Percent Pay Hike

The city council agreed at the close of Monday night's meeting to give all city employes a six percent pay increase, retroactive to March 1.

Mayor William Fochtman said the increase has been included in the new budget, which was approved earlier in the evening.

Action on the increase has been delayed because of city efforts to determine whether the Communications Workers of America (CWA) can rightfully represent all city employes, when only policemen and firemen are subject to state compulsory arbitration laws.

The CWA has asked a 30-day delay in the city's request for a Court of Appeals decision and Fochtman said the pay increase might have to wait until fall unless the council acted promptly.

In other action Monday night, the council opened two bids for the proposed boat launching ramps at Ferry Beach, both of them well below the anticipated cost of $160,000.

Ivan Schworm and Son of Traverse City was low bidder at $127,624. Martin Construction of Mackinaw City bid $129,000. The bids were turned over to James Muschell of United Associates in Cheboygan for review.

The council also received petitions signed by 300 residents who object to the boat ramps on grounds they will infringe on beach property.

The council approved a general fund budget calling for expenditures of $413,525; street fund, $122,900; electric fund, $392,175; water fund $58,330; and sewage fund, $30,550. Local revenue will be raised with an eight mill levy on assessed valuation of $12,011,150.

The council also discussed barking dogs, city hall insurance, a request by Mrs. Edith Gilbert for more tennis courts and the airport contract. The Coast Guard lease of dock space was renewed.

School Unit Recognized

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate Board of Education Monday night agreed to recognize the newly organized Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Teachers Association as bargaining agent for the Special Education staff.

Mrs. Max Ellison, a school social worker, heads the new organization. Miss Mary Conterio, a speech correctionist, is secretary.

In other action, the board approved payment of 75 percent of estimated Special Education costs to local school districts for the current year. The payment will come to about $76,000.

Baccalaureate Choir Practice

Rehearsals for the Union Baccalaureate Choir have been set for Thursday, May 28, and Thursday, June 4 at 9:15 p.m. in the high school band room, according to Director C. A. Odmark.

The baccalaureate service is 8 p.m. Sunday, June 7.

Final Allocation

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board will adopt its final mill rates at a meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 27, at the county building.

At a preliminary meeting last week, the board agreed that schools would receive 8.1 mills, the county 5.65 mills, the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District .25 of a mill and the townships one mill of the 15-mill levy.

Petitions Buck Land Trade

Opponents of the proposed land swap involving the Medusa Portland Cement Co. and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) are circulating petitions in Charlevoix this week in an attempt to halt the transaction

The trade of 10 acres of land is being sought by the city in order to provide a site for Charlevoix's new sewage disposal plant.

Under the land swap plan, the DNR would trade 10 acres of limestone quarry land for 10 acres of Lake Michigan frontage which engineers say would be ideal for the sewage plant. The city would then buy the land from the DNR.

The petition drive came on the heels of a public hearing May 19 on the proposed swap. Although most of those in attendance favored the move, Joseph Stephansky, chief of the DNR's lands division, called the quarry site "prime recreational land" and said the DNR would not favor a trade unless the move had the overwhelming support of the citizens.

Most vocal opponents of the trade were Miss Anne Harsha of Birmingham, a summer resident of Boulder Park who doesn't want the sewage plant "in my backyard," and Greg Shadko, a retired state engineer. Shadko believes the city should look into spray irrigation as a means of disposing of waste water.

John Holland and Richard Leeke, engineers with McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor, said the tertiary treatment plant which the city would like to build south of Boulder Park would return water to the lake 99 percent pure.

Library Notes

New Library Books Are Just Plain Fun

A shipment of current new fiction has just arrived and will be on display in the library for light spring and summer reading. There is nothing weighty or earth-shaking or soul-searching here—just good entertainment for a few hours in the garden or on the front porch for the habitual bedtime book worms.

"Everything to Live For" is a new novel by Paul Hogan who has already written so many books that he needs no introduction. The scene is eastern Pennsylvania in the early '20s. The book is a new example of Hogan's ability to observe life and experience with humility.

"The Lowest Trees Have Tops" by Martha Gellhorn has a delightful title and is an equally delightful book. In her entertaining new novel, the author sets the scene in the beautiful Mexican mountain village of San Ignacio del Tule, where the reader becomes involved with some charming and different characters.

"The African" by Harold Courlander is an extraordinary novel of epic proportions exploring the transition from freedom to slavery and focusing on the uprooted Africans trying to survive in alien surroundings. It is a beautiful and moving story written by a man who has traveled widely in Africa and is an expert in African history, folklore and legends.

"Out of Shape" is a Harper novel of suspense by Leonard Greenbaum. The hero is a graduate assistant at Milton State University. He does his own sleuthing and the result is a lively and very, very funny book.

"The Vines of Yarrabee" was written by Dorothy Eden who has been hailed as the doyenne of romance and suspense by the critic. This is a sweeping novel about the beautiful Eugenia who marries Gilbert and becomes mistress of the great plantation and vineyard he had wrested from the wilderness. Eugenia becomes an unparalleled hostess, an understanding wife and splendid mother, but the convict slave laborers, the ever-present danger of vengeful escapes, the suffocating summer heat, and the merciless winters which imperil the precious vines of Yarrabeen–none of these is what a cultivated Englishwoman has been prepared to expect from life.

"And to My Nephew Albert I Leave the Island What I Won Off Fatty Hagan in a Poker Game" is a completely silly book by David Eliades and Robert Forrest Webb. Poor Albert does not really know what to do with the small-rock-bound island and the reader will have the chuckling experience of finding out exactly what happens when both the Russians and the U.S. Marines take over.

1890 ★ DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER ★ 1969

Dwight D. Eisenhower was beloved for many reasons. Here in America, his countrymen recognized the sincere patriotism that helped him lead the free world to victory during World War II and enabled him to lead this country as its 34th president for eight years. This love of country was one of Dwight D. Eisenhower's strongest characteristics. Today we honor him and those other Americans who loved their country enough to serve in uniform. Let us rededicate ourselves to making this country the citadel of freedom, so that those brave American fighting men's sacrifices might not have been in vain.

Kindergarteners Visit the Farm

KINDERGARTENERS paid their annual visit to "Smith's Little Acre" Wednesday with their teachers, Mrs. Ralph McRae and Mrs. Clayton A. Smith. Highlight of the trip was a horseback ride. Here Mrs. Smith helps youngsters aboard obliging saddle horse.

WHEN YOU visit a farm, the kindergartners learned it is a good thing to wear a pair of boots, "just in case." The youngsters put on their farm footwear before venturing into the barns and horse corrals.

THERE ARE few things more fascinating to a five-year-old than a new-born calf.

MARTHA STALEY and Allen Sutton keep tabs on a family of chickens.

County to Get HUD Funds

Charlevoix County is among 22 counties, cities, townships, regional planning commissions and four Economic Development Districts which will split $470,000 in federal planning funds to help solve housing and environmental problems, according to Gov. William G. Milliken.

The Governor said the Comprehensive Planning Assistance (701) grant was approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). It will be administered by the Office of Community Planning of the Michigan Department of Commerce. Part of the grant also will be utilized by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

Milliken did not say what share of the grand the Charlevoix Planning Commission will receive.

Teachers Pick New Officers

Duane Taylor has been elected president of the Charlevoix Education Association for the coming year.

Serving with him will be Robert Cook, vice president; Mrs. Dale (Sandy) Fassett, secretary; and Mrs. Walter (Betty) Hoffman, treasurer.

Charlevoix COURIER Editorial page

Earmarked Millage: An Invitation to Chaos

The Courier would like nothing better than to come out editorially in favor of the school millage program as outlined by Superintendent Rex Milligan at a special meeting of the school board May 18.

Mr. Milligan said an increase of 2.29 mills will be needed to run the schools next year in view of rising costs. The figure would have appeared on the ballot as 6.28 mills, taking into account the 2.99 levy which expires this year, a transfer of one mill from debt retirement to operation, and an anticipated decrease of .2 of a mill in the county allocation.

It would have provided for the increased cost of everything from floor wax to light bulbs, the hiring of seven new teachers to broaden the curriculum and an increase in teachers' salaries of about six percent, in keeping with the increase in the cost of living over the past 12 months.

But the school board is afraid the voters would never "buy" a ballot proposal calling for 6.28 mills or anything close to it. As a result, voters will be faced June 8 with four different millage proposals totaling 9.99 mills.

Of course, the board doesn't know which of the proposals --- if any --- will pass.

But it has left the door open for a chaotic situation in school financing come September if the "right" proposals fail to win approval.

No newspaper, in good conscience, could ever support such a downright irresponsible millage package.

The four proposals were distilled from a list of six which were drawn up by board member Richard Donaldson and submitted to the board at the May 18 meeting. Following, in brief, are the four proposals:

No. 1: Restoration of the expiring 2.99 mills, plus 1.2 mills for a cost-of-living increase in the salaries of all school personnel. Cost: 4.19 mills for three years.

No. 2: Curriculum improvements (including the seven new teachers) emphasis in the areas of vocational education, music and athletics. Cost: 2.5 mills for three years.

No. 3: Capital outlay and maintenance and repair, school buses, a fence around the football field, water and sewer facilities at the athletic field refreshment stand, enclosing a mall at the high school, sidewalk and roof repair and the moving of two portable classrooms from the high school to the middle school. Cost: 1.3 mills for one year.

No. 4: Creation of a building and site sinking fund for future construction and improvements. Cost: 2 mills for five years.

The last three proposals carry the lowest price tags and stand the best chance of passing. Yet the school absolutely cannot operate next year without the passage of proposal No. 1 --- which is the most expensive.

If Nos. 2, 3 and 4 pass and No. 1 fails, the school board is facing with the necessity of returning to the voters again this summer with a request for the needed 4.19 mills for operation. Taxpayers could end up paying 9.99 mills for a school program that Superintendent Milligan says should cost no more than 6.28 mills.

If No. 1 passes and No. 2 fails, there will be virtually no curriculum improvement, which is desperately needed next year, particularly at the middle school.

The Courier is irrevocably opposed to the earmarking of school operating millage for specific purposes.

Our school administrators are on top of school operating costs on a day to day basis. Our elected school board members are well aware how school operating monies must be spent.

Yet the board has decided to delegate its responsibility in the area of school financing to the general public.

It is elementary to point out that it is impossible to run a school system without a competitive wage scale for teachers. It is equally impossible to hold classes in a building with a leaky roof or a balky furnace.

School costs are so interrelated that any attempt to separate them is doomed to failure.

Unfortunately, the deadline for setting the school millage to be voted in the June 8 election has passed and the four proposals must go on the ballot as approved by the school board last Wednesday.

We regret that the school board has elected to ignore Superintendent Milligan's simple request for 6.28 in school operating millage. We feel the people of Charlevoix are sufficiently well aware of inflation to agree that the school district needs more money this year of all years. And we believe they would have voted the modest increase recommended by the superintendent without fuss or feathers.

As things stand now, however, we are in danger of ending up with a lot of frosting and no cake.

Bombshell---Or Egg?

Charlevoixans still aren't sure whether Joseph Stephansky dropped a bombshell or laid an egg when he announced at last Tuesday's public hearing on the proposed land swap for the sewage plant that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is not interested in trading Jordan River State Forest property to anyone for any purpose.

The statement by the chief of the DNR's land division came as a complete surprise to Mayor William Fochtman, members of the city council and other Charlevoixans interested in doing something promptly about the city's worsening water pollution problems.

On the advice of engineers, the city is attempting to obtain 10 acres of land on the Lake Michigan shore presently owned by the Medusa Portland Cement Co. for its proposed sewage treatment plant. Medusa won't sell, but it will trade the property for 10 acres of good limestone in the state forest adjoining the plant. Charlevoix would then buy the land from the DNR.

It must be remembered that Stephansky and the DNR got shot down 16 months ago at a public hearing over the proposed lease of 195 acres of state forest land to Medusa and the DNR is still gun-shy.

But the Courier feels Stephansky has misinterpreted the mood of the community today.

Ten acres is involved, not 195. The engineers tell us the Medusa site is the best in the area for the proposed sewage treatment plant. Furthermore, the city is acting on orders of the state Water Resources Commission, a companion agency of Stephansky's lands division.

Unfortunately, only those who object to locating the plant on the Medusa land had spoken prior to Stephansky's announcement. When supporters of the swap finally gained the floor, Stephansky softened enough to say that the DNR might change its mind if the city shows overwhelming support of the transaction. He suggested petitions.

Mayor Fochtman doesn't think a petition drive is necessary, but his opponents have picked up the idea and are circulating petitions of their own protesting the move.

In the meantime, the city continues to pump thousands of gallons of nutrient-laden waste water into Pine River Channel. And it will continue to do so until a new sewage treatment plant of some kind is in operation.

Blames Chaos On Parents

May 12, 1970

Mr. Editor,

These are times when opinions are a dime a dozen but solutions are seldom offered; at least those with any concrete foundation. I have met Bob Clock and respect him as a writer and a person deeply concerned with todays problems and their potential outcomes, but there is considerable doubt as to the validity of his opinions, so strongly stated in his recent columns.

With what is going on in the world today, naturally, we are all concerned but let's get to the grass roots before we start blowing off steam like the uneducated adolescents, attending our many universities, who are enjoying notoriety by dissent rather than obscurity by hard study.

We are in trouble, the United States is in trouble, the whole world is in trouble. What gain is there in pointing a finger at our present administration when blame is to be designated? Especially at this time when we need all the strength we can get at the top. Wouldn't it be some sort of help to know the cause in order to propose a solution to today's problems?

We are well into the third decade of a marked breakdown of the family structure, due primarily, to our desire for material gain in an affluent society. How many times we hear the words, "I want my children to have the things that I never had."

Mom and Dad hire a baby sitter and each find jobs so junior can have the things he wants and when he finishes high school, if he makes it, there is money available to send him on to college. During this period the youngster has missed out on two important steps in growing up. First, he has missed out on a balanced home life and second, with his wants furnished, he hasn't learned to face responsibilities.

Thus, we have created a permissive society, spawned in a time of war, raised in an era of competitive affluence. We are describing a minority number but one that makes a great deal of noise. Have you noticed how a spoiled child gets it's way by throwing itself on the floor and screaming until the dutiful parent supplies the demand? With a complete lack of discipline, a monster develops and when a number of these gather together on a campus, on a motorcycle, in a back alley, or anywhere, we have trouble.

It's time the "silent majority" did make some noise and bring back such proven remedies as patriotism, respect for law and order, discipline in the home and demand the same in our schools and institutions of higher learning. In other words, we need a rebirth of the things that made this country great in the first place. It was built on a Christian foundation and we had best keep building it with the same material and protect it with all our might. A great country can fall if the foundation crumbles or the structure decays within as the Romans found out, only too late.

Dear Editor:

I read last week's Courier when I visited my sister in Ellsworth in regard to the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. The piece was signed by Doris Schaller.

Doesn't your Charlevoix writer know that the WILPF is listed in a new book named Biographical Dictionary of the LEFT (Francis X. Gannon, published by Western Islands of Belmont, Mass.) as a radical group infiltrated by Communists and now used as a Communist front locally and nationally?

Two north Michigan natives (+) both well-known Communists have been active in an effort to abolish the Un-American Activities Committee in the Congress of the United States. Mrs. is also a member and worker in the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Is Communist world domination what the northern Michigan Women's League for Peace and Freedom really wants?

Yours truly,

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Sometimes I wish I didn't become so emotionally involved at public gatherings.

The civic luncheon Tuesday for Gordon Freedman is a good example.

Freedman, as you know, was named Michigan's Small Businessman of the Year by the Small Business Administration in connection with Michigan Week. More than 100 Charlevoixans gathered at the Weathervane Inn to congratulate him on receiving the award and wish him continued success with Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp., Charlevoix's largest single employer.

When all the fried chicken and mashed potatoes had disappeared, Mayor William Fochtman clinked on his water glass for silence and the serious business of honoring Gordon Freedman began.

Fochtman talked of the courage Freedman displayed in establishing a manufacturing plant 24 years ago in a predominantly resort area, creating jobs where there were no jobs.

He also talked about the high mortality rate of small businesses and how Freedman's "personal ability" has made Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. what it is today.

Then he read messages from Gov. William Milliken, Willflow Corp. officers, Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert and Rep. Robert W. Davis, saluting Freedman on his achievement.

Throughout all of this I stood by the salad bar taking notes and wishing I had a worn light-weight summer sports jacket instead of a woolen suit. It was a warm, muggy day, as you'll recall, one of the first really summery days of the year.

Then Robert F. Phillips, district of the Small Business Administration in Detroit arose to add his accolades to those of the mayor. Phillips said Freedman was a credit both to himself and his area and presented the honoree with the SBA award.

Now it was Freedman's turn to say a few words. He said he would be brief because his wife, Eleanor, would never let him talk too long.

He said all of the employes at Freedman Artcraft shared the award with him.

He said the business success he has experienced is something that could only happen in the United States of America.

He said Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. couldn't have made it without the SBA —" a bureaucratic set-up in the best sense of the word."

He also thanked the banks and the federal Office of Economic Expansion.

And he remembered the assistance and encouragement given him long ago by the late Bob Bridge and Harley Ochs, whose widows were in the audience.

Then he touched briefly on the internal dissension that is pitting American against American.

"We know all the bad things about America," he said. "We've gotten the picture. Now we can go ahead."

And he recalled how Bob Bridge once told him: "There's no one better than us."

Then he did an unusual thing. (A corney thing, he called it.) He asked us all to sing "America the Beautiful."

There we were in the dining room of the Weathervane Inn overlooking Pine River Channel — the most beautiful room, in the most beautiful building, in the most beautiful city, in the most beautiful country in this beautiful old world, on the most beautiful day of the year — and Gordon Freedman asked us to sing "America the Beautiful."

Suddenly the promise and the glory of this strife-ridden land of ours seemed to come alive and I was almost too choked up to sing. But I did.

If it Fitz

I'd Rather Stay Home

By Jim Fitzgerald

Miss America visited my hometown and I declined an invitation to meet her.

"There's something wrong with you, Dad," my son said. He said it when he learned I'd ignored an invitation to meet the Detroit Tigers at a luncheon.

One thing for sure, I am not my father's son. My late father was a near-professional when it came to after-dinner speaking. He was funny and warm and articulate – and much in demand. He always said "I don't know what I'll say" but he accepted every invitation and said plenty.

People are always asking me to make a speech. This is not because they think I can talk. It's because they have read this column which now appears in about 40 newspapers. (Just 1,046 behind Ann Landers.) And they figure anyone who can write so much nonsense should be able to talk enough to keep people awake for 20 minutes if they didn't eat too much Swiss steak. And besides, they'd like to get within throwing distance of me.

Egad, some program chairmen, in fits of desperation, have even offered to pay me a fee, plus travel expenses, if only I'll come talk about something – anything. This is conclusive proof that there are more dinners than after-dinner speakers. Which is similar to having more dentists than toothaches.

I reject all these speaking engagements, usually telling some lame lie about being busy that night. The only time I'm trapped is by teachers who ask me to speak to their classes anytime between today and the end of the world.

Somehow it seems unmanly to simply say "No, I'm a lousy speaker so I don't make speeches." This is true but it's not a good excuse. The world is full of lousy speakers and they are forever making speeches. Why should I be an exception?

And it seems ungracious to refuse by baldly stating "I hate after-dinner speakers so I refuse to be one." This is also true but the guy inviting me may have spoken at Rotary the day before. My writing offends enough people. Why make more enemies with my mouth, even while explaining why I keep it closed?

Besides, the total truth about my refusals is something else again. Obviously, I could have met Miss America or the Detroit Tigers without making a speech. In fact, there was a total lack of demand for my voice on those occasions. But still I stayed home.

To each his own. Many people are adapt at the chit-chat which abounds at social gotherings of more than 20 people, many of them strangers to each other. They enjoy it. Not me. I keep looking for the bar. Some place where a guy can squirrel in with a friend and converse without the hostess interrupting to see if you're having a good time, or the toastmaster clinking his glass so you'll shut up and listen to the introduction of some clown who needs no introduction.

Maybe, like my son says, there's something wrong with me.

But any man who cringes at the sound of "It is a pleasure and a privilege to introduce....." can't be all bad, can he?

The Case Against Abortion Reform

'But, Doctor, It's Still Moving'

(The following article was submitted to the Courier by W.L. Peters of Charlevoix as a graphic representation of the stand against abortion law reform taken by the Catholic Church. It is reprinted from the Camden (N.J.) Star Herald of April 24, 1970.)

ST. LOUIS – The fetus in the photo accompanying this story had just been removed from the womb of a woman in a private hospital in the Mid-West. The doctor performing the abortion placed it in the bucket and turned to look after his "official" patient.

Then the assisting nurse said: "but, Doctor, It's still moving.".

The surgeon replied: "That's all right. It will go to sleep soon. Let it alone."

He was right. It wasn't long before the fetus stopped moving, and the photo was taken of the 18-to-20-week-old fetus that had just been removed by Caesarean section for "social - economic reasons."

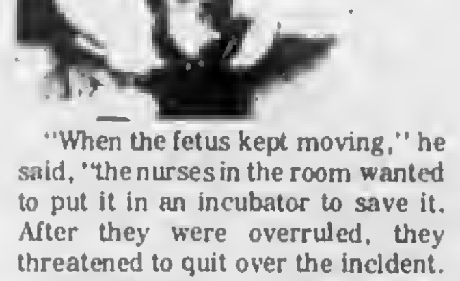
The incident took place in 1969 in a state where abortion for social-economic reasons is illegal. The woman had already had five children and didn't want the sixth, the one in the photo, so the surgeon and hospital obliged.

According to Harvey J. Johnson, director of the Central Bureau of the Catholic Central Union of America in St. Louis, the hospital (he would only say it was somewhere in the Mid-West) was one of several involved regularly in allowing illegal abortions.

He obtained the photo and the details of the "post abortion" comment from another physician who was on the scene and took the picture with a miniature camera.

"Although I can't give the name of the physician who supplied us with the story and photo," Johnson said, "I can say there are many doctors like him in the Mid-West who are strongly anti-abortion reform and have been aiding us in our campaign against changes in the existing laws."

Johnson said in a telephone interview with the Star Herald that there was "quite an uproar" over the incident described above by the nurses at the hospital.



"When the fetus kept moving," he said, "the nurses in the room wanted to put it in an incubator to save it. After they were overruled, they threatened to quit over the incident.

"The physician who supplied the photo also said the abortion in question also resulted in complications for the mother.

"She was laid up for about three months with physical and emotional problems following the abortion, although she had had no difficulties in the delivery of the other five children."

Johnson, who is also editor of Social Justice Review, a monthly journal, said he sent copies of the "bucket" photograph to 253 American bishops and cardinals and to other people and publications throughout the country.

"We tried for about two years to get a picture of an actual aborted child," he said, "but the pro-abortionists will not readily permit such photographs to be taken. We think that people seeing this picture will look at abortion reform in a new light."

The St. Louis editor said he was enthused over the number of physicians in the Mid-West who were coming out against abortion reform. He mentioned that several groups of doctors in Missouri have taken out full-page advertisements in daily papers to make their feelings known to the public.

In New Jersey, Fr. Thomas F. Dentici, director of the Trenton diocese's Family Life Bureau, said the fetus picture is "worth a thousand words. It's worth all the arguments we have heard for and against abortion."

Fr. Dentici said the picture shows the result of an operation that pro-abortionists constantly refer to as "simple, safe, sterile and humane: the removal of nothing more than a wart, a tonsil or other tissue."

In a letter sent last week (with a copy of the picture) to the New Jersey legislators, Fr. Dentici said: "Gentlemen, please put aside all the extraneous argumentation and face the central issue: is this human life or not?

"If this is not human life, why the delay and uncertainty in granting abortion on demand, no questions or price asked? If this is human life, then you are faced with the dilemma of legislating that some humans, though innocent, may be destroyed because they are classed as inferior.

"Indeed, gentlemen, with which decision would you be able to live?"

Fr. Dentici said the abortion reform bill recently passed in New York state permits an abortion up to the 24th week of pregnancy.

"This presents," he said, "the ironic situation of some doctors using all their skill to keep alive a six-month-old premature birth in one hospital while some of their confreres could kill the same child in another. Is this the sound medical practice abortion reform grants doctors?"

Holiday May Give Clue to What's Ahead

Traffic volume plus crowds at state parks and resort centers over Memorial Day weekend are expected to give the first noticeable indication whether factory layoffs and the drop in automotive production will hurt this state's tourism industry during the summer, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

A national AAA survey indicates that a predicted domestic touring increase of nine percent his year is less than half the growth rate experienced in 1969 nationally. Michigan tourism was up 20 percent in 1969.

Auto Club Touring Manager Jerry Fisher states that over three million cars should travel 700 million miles during Memorial Day weekend, which is equivalent to the mileage driven last year for this holiday.

Tells of Early Auto Journey

Charlevoix Kiwanians heard Bill Myer of Petoskey tell about an automobile trip from Charlevoix to Miami, Fla., in 1910 at the May 18 meeting.

A charter member of the Charlevoix Club, Myer said the automobile was a Aperson "Jack Rabbit," a so-called pleasure car, "but there was little pleasure in this car."

Myer, who was 19 at the time, said the trip took five weeks and the automobile went through 11 tires.

Myer also recounted some of the difficulties in the founding of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

Boosters Announce Winners

Mrs. James Alspaugh, president of the Charlevoix Band Booster Association, has announced the winners of the annual All-State Scholarships to Interlochen this year.

They are: Harold (Jim) Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, and Margaret (Peggy) Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berg.

Jim is a Junior Baritone player in the Charlevoix High School Symphony Band, while Peggy is a Sophomore French Horn player in the Charlevoix High School Concert Band.

In addition, Sue Pettis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pettis, a sophomore flutist in the Concert Band will be attending the sessions this year. Sue won the scholarship awarded last year, but could not be accepted, as the roster was filled at the National Music Camp for the All-State Intermediate Band session.

The Band Boosters, who recently made final payment on the $10,000 uniform purchase, are sponsoring a Spring Band Candy Sale to raise funds for their scholarships, and to finish the school year "in the black" after providing the major portion of the housing costs for the Concert Band's participation in the State Band Festival in Flint last month.

Road Funds Are Split

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections for the first quarter of 1970 are being distributed to Michigan counties, cities and villages, according to the state Highway Commission.

State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth said net receipts in January, February and March were $132.3 million, up .7 of one percent over the first quarter of 1969.

Of the $45 million earmarked for counties, Charlevoix county will receive $204,569, compared to $156,978 last year.

Of the $26.4 million earmarked for cities, Charlevoix will receive $17,340, compared to $17,219 last year.

Boyne City will receive $20,705, up from $20,654; Boyne Falls $2,174, up from $2.70; and East Jordan $11,317, up from $11,245.

The highway fund is made up of state gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license plate fees paid by motorists.

Of the total, the state Highway Department will receive about $60.8 million.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Here it is May 27, another month nearly gone. They certainly pass extremely fast. I have just been taking a little quiet inventory as to the chamber's efforts, progress, and what-have-you including the Board of Directors any myself for this month. I cannot see, and it is unfortunate, any noticeable change and/or improvement. Every phase I have traced in my own mind all the way along the line seems to have lacked a fuller and reasonable normal cooperation and participation. I have tried for nearly three years in this appointment to learn the answer.

Last Thursday noon, May 21, many persons attended a luncheon in honor of Gordon Freedman, president of Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. and witnessed the presentation, by the Michigan Division of Small Business Administration, the Man of The Year award for the entire state. I do not know exactly whether this is another first for Charlevoix, but at any rate, I dare say it is quite a compliment all the way around.

The Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce news release of May 16 indicates that the resort division of that chamber will present a clinic whose main objective will be to inform the people in the resort and hospitality business how to be more efficient, increase their profits, and, in general, to do a better job in their field. The consultants in this program will include Robert Mackintosh, extension specialist, Tourist and Resort Services, Michigan State University; Lesley B. Tebeau, president of the West Michigan Tourist Association; Aurey D. Strapaul, executive recreation director of the association; and K.D. Festerling of the Service, plus others in the hospitality field. I go along with the idea that most all of us humans think we are doing a pretty good job and no doubt we are, but I like to feel there is always room for learning and improvement. Accordingly, this clinic is scheduled for Thursday, May 28, at 1:45 p.m. at Stafford's Bay View Inn, with dinner at 6:30 p.m. Registration fee is $3 per person including dinner. Registrations may be made by calling the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce. Hope to see some of you there.

Down at Ellsworth for the second season the Funny Farm Center, miniature golfing, etc., will open for the season on Decoration Day weekend. There are a number of things entertaining to both youngsters and oldsters. Could be a nice side trip for some of our visiting friends.

Over 150 letters were received this week, having to do with vacations, etc., and one or another of our five events this Chamber is involved in. One of these letters was from a former Venetian Queen, apparently now married and living in Dayton, Ohio. This gal appeared to be extremely interested in our Venetian Festival. She suggested an animal show, however, this sort of thing costs money, and there again, you good people have it. My worry is knowing we cannot afford to pay for bands and sorts of participation, much needed in our parade, and also the $750 for the expected fireworks at our Venetian Festival, Sunday evening, July 26.

Our present board of directors is really scratching and accordingly, a special Board of Directors meeting was held Thursday.

The next regular monthly meeting of the board is June 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Our street parade committee for the Venetian Festival has not met as yet; however, the day is Saturday, July 25 in the afternoon. Other details will be announced as soon as they are decided upon. There should be as many or more entries as last year. I intend to appeal to our high school students for a float or two, such as the dandies they produce regularly for their homecoming street parade each year. I also have other groups I intend to contact. Of course, I hope all of our local participation last year will repeat this year bigger and better than ever!

Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we will pay for it and its installation by a participating Gas heating contractor. Repayment can be made on your Gas bill.

We'll buy the oil that's in your tank at the price you paid for it. We'll remove the tank from your home at no cost to you, and we'll even haul it away if you want.

Convert to thrifty natural Gas. Then you can start putting your money in the bank. Call us today for the name of a participating Gas heating contractor and full details.

One-Acts Enchant Charlevoix Audience

By Judy Clock

The three one-act plays presented by the Charlevoix High School Forensics Team Friday night were extremely well done. One basic set was used with skillful changes of furniture and pictures to indicate the different scenes.

The no-nonsense set allowed quick changes and easy mobility on stage.

The cast of "Romeo and Julia" by Don Lathrop took an ordinary Sunday afternoon and turned it into a hilarious comedy. Mr. Conway (Tim Anders) wanted to read the paper, but his wife (Chris Carey) thought he should paint the clothes posts. Daughter Elise was played by Lynn De Fledorek who stepped into the role at the last minute and did an excellent job.

Daughter Julia (Jeanne Smith) met a new boy, R. (for Romeo) Joseph Montague (Rod Sloan), and planned to spend the day at the beach. The simple plot was livened up by Kris Osterberg who played the sassy little sister, Cissie, to perfection.

All movements were natural and it was surprising to find high school students moving about the stage with such ease and confidence.

The second play, "The Open Window" was adapted by James Fuller from a short story by H.H. Munro. Unfortunately, the play was too sophisticated for many youngsters in the audience who made so much noise it was difficult to hear.

Jerry Dohm played an unsuspecting visitor, Frampton Nuttel to the Sappleton family's English country home. A member of the family, Vera, convinced Nuttel that Mrs. Sappleton had become mentally unhinged since the disappearance of her husband and son on a hunting expedition in a neary bog a year before. Vera said Mrs. Sappleton kept a window open hoping for their return. When Sappleton (Leon Perrin) and his son (Steve Kantola) return through the window, Nuttel flees in terror. Needless to say, it is Vera who is unhinged and given to tall-tales. The maid Maria (Geri Santek) had some wonderfully funny lines.

The cast of "Infanta" recently brought trophies home from the regional forensics competition in Gaylord.

An adaption by Lewy Olfson of a short story by Oscar Wilde, "Infanta" is the story of a 14-year-old Spanish princess, Maria (Sherry Austin) who lived during the Renaissance. Her only friend is LeBossu, an ugly hunchbacked dwarf with a beautiful heart played by Bill Moore. The Duchess of Albuquerque, Maria's aunt, and tutor was superbly done by Rindi Luedke. Maria's lay-in-waiting was played by Linda Gill.

A marriage had been arranged between Maria and the Lord Severe De Compiegne of France (David Hess) for political reasons. When the duchess discovers that Infanta Maria cares more for Le Bossu than she does for her position and country, she tortures LeBossu by bringing in front of a mirror. Shocked at his ugliness, he dies of a broken heart.

The audience sat spellbound through "Infanta" and the haughty Lord De Compiegne even rated a few boos. It is no easy task to keep such a mixed audience so enchanted

Mrs. Connie Ford has done a superb job in coaching her forensics team.

Birds Add Charm to Garden

By Mrs. Ross Alexander

Thirty one members of the Garden Club met Tuesday morning May 12 at the home of Marjory Dinwiddie for a May breakfast.

Mrs. Roy (Connie) Raymer gave a most interesting lesson on birds in your garden and how to attract them.

All who have closely studied birds claim that the damage they may do in gardens is more than offset by the good which they do. On the other hand gardeners without an intimate knowledge of birds are generally quick to recognize the harm done and slow to acknowledge the service they render.

There can be no doubt that taken as a whole birds do infinitely more good than hard and the gardener therefore should as a rule protect birds.

Nearly all our smaller wild birds live entirely on insects and their larvae during the summer months. The much maligned English sparrow is as industrious in his insect hunting as any bird during late summer and nearly all wild birds, including the grain eaters, feed their young almost entirely on insect food.

The greatest reward from attracting birds is the enjoyment they afford.

The activity, beauty and songs of birds supply life, color and charm. Birds ornament the homestead entertain the senses and afford natural companionship that is a joy to the majority of mankind. They are so keen and sprightly that they compel attention. In fact they are such an enjoyable feature of life that most people would not willingly part with them.

Birds may be attracted by means of landscaping, providing security during the nesting season, a good water supply, Bird Houses and food.

There is no bird more energetic than the tiny hummingbird that travels many miles to its winter homeland and returns in the spring seeking red, orange and purple blossoms for nectar.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Albert Edwards on Wickersham-rd. Tuesday June 9.

Most women who have changed to gas clothes dryers say, "For what one load used to cost, we now can dry five loads." And everyone says that the savings are substantial.

A gas dryer costs less to install, almost never needs repair, saves you money every time you use it.

Delicate fabrics get special treatment. Permanent press? You get no-iron results. And gas dries faster, more evenly. It doesn't bake the life out of your clothes. Or put new wrinkles in them. Your wash comes out soft and fluffy. Sunshine-fresh. And white things stay white.

Gas makes the big difference and costs less too.

Board Packages Millage In Four Ballot Proposals

Voters in the Charlevoix School District will be faced with four millage proposals when they go to the polls June 8.

The first two proposals will raise money for operating purposes; the second two will provide money for building and site funds.

The decision to make several millage requests instead of one was reached at a special meeting of the school board Wednesday noon at the elementary school.

The board feels that several small requests stand a better chance of passing than one larger request as proposed by Superintendent Rex Milligan.

Milligan suggested at the May 18 board meeting that the board ask for 6.28 mills, to cover 2.99 mills which retires this year plus anticipated increases in overall operation costs, including the hiring of seven new teachers.

The four proposals approved by the board come to a total of 9.99 mills. They were condensed from six proposals set forth by Board Member Richard Donaldson at the May 18 meeting.

Following is a breakdown of the various proposals and how the money will be spent.

No 1: Calls for 4 19 mills for three years to cover expiring millage and a six percent cost of living increase for all school personnel.

No. 2: Calls for 2.5 mills for three years for curriculum improvements, particularly in the areas of vocational education, music and athletics.

No. 3: Calls for 1.3 mills for one year for capital outlay and maintenance and repairs of existing facilities. It includes the purchase of two school buses, a fence around the football field, water and sewer extensions to the refreshment stand at the football field, enclosing one mall between high school buildings, roof and sidewalk repairs and the moving of two portable classrooms to the Middle School. No 3 will appear on the ballot as two proposals, one increasing the tax limit and another levying the needed money.

No 4: Calls for two mills for five years to create a building and site sinking fund which will enable the school district to make additions in the future without the added cost of borrowing money. Possible uses include a new running track, multi-purpose music, speech and drama room, expanded high school cafeteria, expanded library and materials center, swimming pool, expanded wood and metal shop, and an auto mechanics and small engine repair room. No. 4 also appears as two proposals.

Voters also will be asked to elect two board members to succeed Board President Jack Rader and member Dale Boss, who are not candidates.

Running for the vacancies are Mrs. Robert (Martha Jane) Lieberman, Donald W. Brown, Richard Way and Clement J. Wagner.

Fred Payne filed a petition, but has withdrawn from the race.

Candidates Give Opinions on School Issues

Mrs. Robert Lieberman

Donald W. Brown

Richard Way

Clement J. Wagner

Charlevoix School District voters will go to the polls June 8 to elect two new members to the Board of Education to succeed retiring board President Jack Rader and Dale Boss.

The candidates are Mrs. Robert Lieberman, Donald W. Brown, Richard Way and Clement J. Wagner.

To determine how they stand on various problems facing the school district, the Charlevoix Education Association, in cooperation with the Courier, submitted six questions to the candidates on current school issues.

Following are their responses to the various questions:

Q–Do you feel Charlevoix's vocational education program is adequate? If not, how could it be approved?

Mrs. Lieberman: Charlevoix does not have an adequate vocational educational set-up. In fact, we have to transport our students to Petoskey for their training. According to a recent study by the vocational education committee, Charlevoix could become a vocational education center and gain some state aid by taking in tuition students from the smaller surrounding schools.

Donald Brown: The program is inadequate. We have a small co-op program and have a group taking part in vocational education in the Petoskey school system, which means the students have to be transported to Petoskey for training. Other than these two small groups, we offer nothing in vocational trades. It could be improved by adding courses which would benefit students not going on to college. Rough and finish carpentry, auto mechanics and a nurses aid program are some of the course I think would benefit them. I undertand that some of these could be added during the 1970-71 school year if the taxpayers vote for the necessary millage.

Richard Way: No. By providing more classes such as the proposed building trades program.

Clement Wagner: No. Metal, wood working and small engines are areas to be explored. The men or women who work with their heads and hands are the ones who will be in demand.

Q–Do you believe in expanding and financing a complete exploratory program in the middle school?

Mrs. Lieberman: This question is a little difficult to answer. I would not be in favor of a complete exploratory program in the middle school, but I would favor some extra time during the day being spent on studies not normally offered in our curriculum.

Donald Brown: Yes. This program would fill many voids in the minds of the 7th and 8th grade students as to what their future fields may be. This can only be done if funds are available.

Richard Way: Yes.

Clement Wagner: I've had little exposure to this program. The trend is in the right direction, but I would like to study this before making further comments.

Q–The community voted one mill for three years for an instructional materials center. As board members, would you be in favor of professional staffing for these centers?

Mrs. Lieberman: The one mill was voted only to purchase materials. I am afraid we are not in a financial position to hire so-called professionals to staff these centers. By using non-professionals we are able to pay a portion of their salaries through the federal Title II program.

Donald Brown? I believe this is an incorrect statement. The one mill vote was for materials for the materials center. The centers should be staffed, but the staffing with professional librarians would be a greater cost than the voters should have to support. The use of para-professionals would reduce the overall cost but give students the required assistance in obtaining needed materials for study.

Richard Way: No.

Clement Wagner: A library has a librarian; if a need for staffing is there, it should be staffed.

Q–Should the board reinstate faculty sponsorship of clubs and activities not available in the system this year?

Mrs. Lieberman: I would like to see the various clubs reinstated for the students. These clubs naturally need sponsors, but they need sponsors who will be available when there is a meeting or a project to be worked on.

Donald Brown: At this time, I would have to give this subject further study. I understand some clubs and activities meet during school hours. For these sponsors, I feel no additional funds should be set aside.

Richard Way: Yes, if it's a worthwhile club or activity and only if the faculty is in 100 percent agreement.

Clement Wagner: Yes. Active clubs provide an opportunity for students to get involved in activities that interest them.

Call Special Meeting Of Chamber to Air Money Woes, Apathy

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce needs your help. Desperately.

Faced with declining financial support from businessmen and apathy on the part of the entire community in assisting with such events as the Venetian Festival, the Chamber may shortly become just another information service, handing out brochures and giving directions on how to reach Petoskey.

Charlevoix deserves something better.

That is why the Chamber's Board of Directors has called a special meeting Thursday, June 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the First State Bank.

The board is urging businessmen throughout the area, as well as interested townspeople, to turn out to let the Chamber officers know just what Charlevoix wants in the way of a Chamber of Commerce.

It is hoped the meeting will turn into a brainstorming session from which new ideas, new enthusiasm and new support for the Chamber and its activities will emerge.

The Chamber's problems are two-fold.

First, it lacks the funds to continue financing the five major events on the Chamber calendar. They are the Venetian Festival, the Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen, the Hobbycraft Show, the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament and the Color Cruise aboard the Beaver Islander.

The five events bring scores of thousands of visitors -- and spenders -- into the Charlevoix area every year. But only one event -- the Waterfront Fair -- actually pays its own way and adds a little to Chamber coffers to boot.

Of course, the businessmen of Charlevoix -- and all of us, indirectly -- benefit enormously with every new surge of tourist dollars. Yet to date, only 35 business memberships have been paid for 1970 -- out of a possible 200.

It is little wonder the Chamber is strapped for funds when it comes to hiring attractions for the Venetian Festival or providing prize money for floats and boats.

Secondly, the Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors cannot do the job alone. Volunteers -- lots of them -- are needed for every event. Also needed are new ideas on how to improve what we already have to keep the visitors coming back year after year.

Unfortunately, the Chamber's most active members are businessmen -- who are busiest during the summer when most of the events take place. That is why participation by the non-business community is so essential.

Remember, this is your Chamber of Commerce. It can only be as good as you are willing to make it.

Chamber President Bruce Bartlett and Secretary-Manager Wally Loder are hoping for a big turnout at Thursday's meeting to give the Chamber and its activities the big boost they must have to stay alive.

Their survival is up to you.

CHS to Graduate 103 Seniors

One of the largest graduating classes in the history of Charlevoix High School will begin commencement activities Sunday, June 7 with baccalaureate services at 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Commencement will be Tuesday, June 9, at 8 p.m. in the gym.

Principal Vane Smith says 103 seniors will receive diplomas this year, one of the largest groups to be graduated by Charlevoix High School.

The baccalaureate processional will be followed by a call-to-worship by the Rev. Jack Harris.

Rev. Wayne Olinghouse will deliver the invocation, Rev. Albert Mansen will read from the Scripture. Rev. Elmer Faust will offer the pastoral prayer and the Rev. Thomas Rash will deliver the baccalaureate address.

The Baccalaureate Union Choir will sing several selections.

The program will close with a benediction by Rev. Bob Rutledge.

At the commencement, the invocation will be delivered by Rev. Duane Imig.

Sharon Boss will deliver the salutatory, Lynn De Fiedorek the valedictory and the High School Band will play "Man of LaMancha."

Principal Vane Smith will introduce the speaker, Dr. James Roberts, a CHS graduate. The title of his address is: "And Now Tomorrow."

Smith will then present awards, the class will be presented by Superintendent Rex Milligan and honors will be conferred by Jack Rader, president of the Board of Education.

After the Alma Mater and the National Anthem, Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen will close the ceremony with a benediction.

THE CHARLEVOIX HIGH SCHOOL marching band led the Memorial Day parade up Bridge-st. from Park-ave. to Brookside Cemetery. Scattered showers kept marchers moving at a lively clip.

DEPARTING Charlevoix School Superintendent Rex Milligan (right) receives an assist from Jack Rader in opening his farewell gift. More than 100 school personnel and board members past and present attended a dinner in Milligan's honor May 28.

Agency Buys Novak

The Charlevoix Agency has acquired the Max Novak Agency, officers of the two insurance firms announced June 1.

In the near future, the Charlevoix Agency will move from its quarters in the Charlevoix County State Bank to 224 Bridge-st., the former Bill Pioch Clothing store.

E.D. (Pat) Hawley will continue as president of the firm.

Richard Martin, vice president and secretary, will continue as office manager.

Max Novak, former owner of the Max Novak Agency, will be director of sales.

The Max Novak Agency was formed 20 years when Novak bought the business from Charles Hampton.

The Charlevoix Agency was started by the late Robert Bridge more than 50 years ago. Hawley joined the agency in 1940 and the firm was known as Bridge and Hawley.

Over the years the firm has acquired the Sloan Agency, the Livingston Agency and the Carey Agency (formerly the Charles Hamlin Agency).

Principal carriers are Hartford and Trans-America, Aetna, St. Paul Fire and Marine and Reliance.

Mrs. William L. Supernaw and Mrs. Jan White will continue as office assistants.

Earl Youngs Donate Books on Museums

Charlevoix Library has received a dramatic and unusual contribution presented by Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Young. This magnificent set of 12 volumes presents the "Great museums of the World" – all especially photographed for this series and all reproduced in superb full color by the finest European printing processes.

Each volume carries an introduction by the museum's director and a lucid text commenting on the historical and artistic significance of the works and their creators, prepared by a distinguished staff of European art historians.

In presenting this handsome gift, Mr. and Mrs. Young designed a special bookplate, one of which appears in each of the 12 books. The bookplate reads: "To commemorate their 55th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Young present this 12 volume series of art books depicting the great museums of the world, to the Charlevoix Public Library, Sept. 21, 1915-1970.

The series includes: the Louvre, Paris; British Museum, London; Vatican Museum, Rome; National Gallery, Washington; Prado, Madrid; National Museum, Tokyo; Uffizi, Florence; Pinakothek, Munich; Art History Museum, Vienna; Egyptian Museum, Cairo; Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam; and Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.

The books will be on special display in the Library and may be circulated for home enjoyment.

Office Open

Beginning Saturday, June 6, the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company's office in Boyne City will be open from 8:00 a.m. until noon.

The company says the increased hours are intended to give better service to persons who live in another part of the State and are applying for electric service in this area for the first time. Bills may also be paid Saturday mornings.

This schedule will be in effect until Saturday, Sept. 26.

Skylark Custom

If it takes value to make you believe in a car, believe in the new Buick Skylark.

Every Buick is crafted with integrity. And filled with value.

You get things like a cooling system that should never overheat, even with air conditioning.

You get an automobile so well built that its drive train and chassis are literally tuned to the bias-belted tires that are standard equipment. So that they'll last even longer and provide even greater traction.

One other point. Value also has to do with the man who sells and services the car you buy. Good service can help you maintain the value of your new car.

Check the good deals your Buick dealer is offering right now on the Buick of your choice. If you're looking for something to believe in, you'll find it there.

'Doing His Own Thing'

It takes a lot of something to turn your back on a well-paying job for another that pays scarcely half as much, simply because you know, deep down, that you will enjoy your new job more.

Retiring Charlevoix School Superintendent Rex Milligan has that "something" in ample measure.

Mr. Milligan will leave the Charlevoix superintendency this month to return to his first love --- teaching school.

Behind him will be all of the headaches of the school superintendent's office --- raising money for operation, maintenance and expansion, trying to squeeze every last penny out of the state legislature, acting as liaison man between the board of education and the teachers, and handling the thousand and one problems that crop up day after day in running a million-dollar-a-year business virtually single-handed.

Such pressure is bound to take its toll and we can well imagine the relief Mr. Milligan must feel knowing that his days as superintendent are numbered.

We trust that Mr. Milligan has a good many years ahead of him in the classroom, teaching the three R's to elementary school youngsters, just as he started out to do in 1936.

Mr. Milligan began his teaching career at the Sethton School in Gratiot County, teaching 35 youngsters from kindergarten through 8th grade in a one-room schoolhouse, with only two years of college under his belt.

After three years as a rural schoolmaster, he returned to Central Michigan University for his B.A. degree, landing a job in 1940 as an agriculture, history and biology teacher at the Gaylord High School.

There he met and married the home economics teacher, the former Helen Ilkka.

In 1942, he took his first superintendent's job at Riverdale and has been a school administrator ever since, moving to Hale in 1943, Springport in 1947, Sandusky in 1953 and Charlevoix in 1963.

Mid-June will find him back at Central Michigan University, working on his elementary certificate and boning up on such subjects as "modern math" which have become a part of the school program since he left the classroom 28 years ago.

Charlevoix is fortunate to have had a man of Mr. Milligan's caliber at the superintendent's desk for the past seven years.

During his tenure, the duties of the superintendent have increased many fold. He has witnessed the necessary transformation of the Michigan Education Association from a tea-and-crumpets professional society into a beer-and-pretzels labor union. And he has helped make the transformation as smooth as possible.

He has managed to raise money locally for schools under mounting pressure to hold the line on taxes.

He has been the key man in a major expansion program which has given Charlevoix one of the most up-to-the-minute elementary school buildings in the country.

Quiet, unassuming and soft-spoken, Mr. Milligan has been a peacemaker and a diplomat during times when it has been difficult to be either peaceful or diplomatic.

Charlevoix will miss Rex Milligan, but we admire his determination to "do his own thing."

Stealing Our Thunder

Word from Traverse City has it that our fair neighbor down the lake is including a Venetian Night as part of its National Cherry Festival over the July 4 weekend.

The festival committee reports that "a royal wedge of cruisers" will deliver the National Cherry Queen and her court from the Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw to the Traverse City Marina" where the queens will join area spectators in awaiting a night-time parade of ornamented boats entered in the 1970 National Cherry Festival Venetian Night." (July 6)

The latest NCF press release announces that a variety of sail and power craft will be decorated around the theme "Treasure Island" and will be judged on originality, use of lighting, interpretation of theme, seamanship and costuming, with cash prizes going to the winners.

Although imitation is said to be the most sincere form of flattery, it comes as a surprise that another community so close to Charlevoix should adopt a "Venetian Night" boat parade as the high-point of its annual summer shindig.

As everyone knows, Charlevoix has had its own "Venetian Night" as part of the Venetial Festival ever since many of today's senior citizens were teenagers.

In the minds of many down-state tourists, Charlevoix is better known for its annual Venetian Night boat parade than for anything else.

Of course, as Chamber of Commerce Manager Wally Loder points out, Charlevoix does not have an exclusive patent on everything labeled "Venetian."

But the fact that our closest large neighbor to the south has adopted not only the same idea but the same name as Charlevoix's own special summer attraction doesn't sit too well with some of us.

Which is all the more reason this year's Venetian Night boat parade must be the biggest and best ever. We can't let Traverse City beat us at our own game.

Who ever heard of a Venetian Night boat parade in Traverse City?

Or a National Cherry Festival in Charlevoix?

Reader Attacks Abortion

201 Meech St.
Charlevoix, Mich. 49720
May 28, 1970

Dear Editor:

In the May 27th Courier there was an article on page 7 against abortion which caught my interest and to which I'd like to add my support.

It moves my heart and makes me yearn to reach out to all those little babies who are being destroyed by selfish, unconcerned, or, otherwise, thoughtless people. Can a parent, after having had an abortion, actually be so apathetic as to feel no grief, guilt, or loss what-so-ever? If the mother and father were to take a look at their aborted fetus, would they still be able to believe that this child is not a person? That he is no more than a growth or tumor? Then I say, these parents have lowered themselves to a level below that of an animal. For, isn't it true that even an animal feels some sense of loss over its dead baby? How then can a human being not feel even a twinge of "something"? And can the abortionist too go home and rest easily? I don't see how.

We have heard many a time that when our country falls, it shall fall from within rather than from an outward force. Perhaps such evils as these crimes of abortion or – in states where abortion is allowed – these "legal murders" are aiding in the destruction of our country. By destroying our own inward morals, how can our country stand up? It can't! It will fail unless we citizens bear the responsibility of holding up its moral standards and strike back against what is wrong. We cannot allow such an atrocity as abortion to continue. It must be prohibited and stopped!

Says City Workers Underpaid

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:

In response to your editorial of May 20, 1970, "Do City Workers Need A Union ?" may I make these comments?

The city workers in Charlevoix have long been patient in their employment and because of this fact they are far under paid by today's standards.

While money is the most important reason for collective bargaining, it is not for this reason alone that people choose to represent themselves. In the case of the city workers, some basic standards are not being met. There is not the proper compensation for overtime. Seniority is overlooked and individual problems are tabled.

To be on a first name basis with an employe does not mean that his rights will be considered. A paternalistic attitude by our city council is no substitute for a living wage and the right to discuss working conditions.

The so-called advances mentioned in your editorial were indeed brought about by collective bargaining and the insurance plan enjoyed by the city workers was paid in lieu of a much needed pay raise at a time when insurance was a cheaper way out.

In most vertical unions (where there are many different job classes), job assignments are usually the right of the employer. Since this practice is practical and has been done in the past I see no reason why it cannot continue by mutual consent. The city workers have proven that they are dedicated and loyal. Therefore most of the problems you envision may never come to light.

Also, a union in no way prohibits free communications. All good labor agreements provide for free exchange between an employe and his employer. Further, it is a violation of the National Labor Relations Act for a union to prohibit any employer from individual contact with his workers.

I feel that you are wrong to refer to a union, which is made up of all of the people involved, as a third party. If there is a third party, it would be the attorneys hired by the city and the courts needlessly involved by the city.

Finally, the law in question, which denies policeman and firemen the right to strike, but makes arbitration compulsory, is to the definite advantage of the city. It insures us against a costly work stoppage, thus eliminating the strongest bargaining tool of a union. Why any employer would argue this point escapes me.

I feel it is the council members, and not the city workers, who should reconsider their stand and eliminate needless expense and future ill will.

Donaldson Answers Editorial On School Millage Proposals

To The Editor:

In our society everyone is entitled to their opinion and I do respect this right, but I also think that people who have the tools (through their occupation or position) to inform (or lead) the public should exercise extreme care as to what they say. A case in hand that disturbs me is Mr. Bob Clock's editorial in the Charlevoix Courier on May 27, 1970, titled: "Earmarked Millage: An Invitation To Chaos."

At a time when the schools need all the publicity they can get in order to explain their position and "needs" to the public, Mr. Clock wrote an entire editorial "Knocking" Charlevoix's new and different (for this area) approach to the annual operating millage problem. Mr. Clock's editorial included some errors and half-truths and personal opinions (of Clocks') that should be answered, as follows:

(1) Clock says: "a transfer of one mill from debt retirement to operation." ...My reply: This is impossible, as you can not transfer funds that were voted by the people for buildings, to operations. The proper explanation would be that the school board would decrease debt retirement millage by 1 mill this year, thus the overall tax picture would show an increase in operating millage and the decrease in debt retirement.

(2) Clock says: "an increase in teacher's salaries of about six percent in keeping with the increase in the cost of living..." ... My reply: The Charlevoix School Board and its' Negotiating Committee have not yet discussed teacher salaries for next year. Mr. Clock's 6 percent is merely his guess! It is not a fact and should not have been presented as a fact!

(3) Clock says: "No newspaper, in good conscience, could ever support such a downright irresponsible millage package." ...My reply: I believe the key in this sentence is the word irresponsible. I personally spent considerable time developing the earmarked millage proposals and I think that my past record, in school, military service, city government, and business will show that I am not irresponsible! Some of Mr. Clock's recent columns in the Petoskey News Review might indicate that he is irresponsible. The school board studied and amended my proposals and put them on the ballot. I do not always agree with the other six members of the school board, but I think that Mr. Clock has done an injustice to all of the seven members of the board when he calls them or their actions irresponsible! Also, for Mr. Clocks' information (and the public too) there are other schools in Michigan using the same "earmarked" approach on the ballot this year including Bay City (5 proposals...endorsed by the Bay City Times, a newspaper!) and Ann Arbor (10 proposals). Do you think the school boards in these communities are irresponsible.

(4) Clock says: "Taxpayers could end up paying 9.99 mills for a school program that Supt. Milligan says should cost no more than 6.28 mills." ...My reply: You would first have to deduct the 2 mill Long Term Building and Site Sinking Fund from the 9.99, giving a net difference (9.99 minus 2.0 equal 7.99) of 1.71 (7.99 minus Milligan's 6.28) between the two programs...and the programs are not the same! The improvements to the program which are represented on the June 8 ballots include more music, more athletics, drama, and auto mechanics. If the public will approve all of the proposals at the June 8 vote Charlevoix will have the finest school program in the north and the individual taxpayers in the Charlevoix District would be paying much less than people in other nearby districts.

(5) Clock says: "We regret that the school board has elected to ignore Supt. Milligan's simple request for 6.28. We feel the people of Charlevoix are sufficiently well aware of inflation to agree that the school district needs more money this year of all years and we believe they would have voted the modest increase recommended by the Supt. without fuss or feathers." ...My reply: First, I would like to know where Mr. Clock was last year when Charlevoix had to vote 3 times before they could pass a lump sum millage request? Second, I think the voters are entitled to know how their money is to be spent. By earmarking the funds we give the voters a chance to tell the board if they want to continue just the program (the 4.19 ballot) we have now, or if they would like to include (add) improvements (the 2.50 ballot) to the program. Also, the building and site funds ballots (1.3 for 1 year only) (2.0 for 5 years as a set-a-side sinking fund) provides for additional funds restricted to only specific building, additions or maintenance purposes...it can't be used for operations or salaries. Just last year Charlevoix earmarked funds when the 1 mill materials fund for 3 years was approved by the voters. I didn't hear Mr. Clock scream about that!

I wish that I had the time to break down and answer to more of Mr. Clock's editorial, but I think (and hope) that the public understands the answers I have given here and that they also realize that Mr. Clock's expressed opinions are not to be construed as the gospel.

In closing I would like to state that last year Charlevoix School District voters were told (before the 1st 2 elections) that if the millage vote lost they would lose all athletics, band and other activities (a Negative attitude), whereas this year the School Board has stated that, through the use of earmarked funds, if you pass the millage we will add certain specified improvements to the program (a Positive attitude).

I do not advocate high taxes and I like to run a tight ship (no waste of money); but I do think that if the public will give the new school board and the new Administration the millage on the June 8 ballot they will really get their money's worth. It is worth a real try.

Sincerely,
Richard Donaldson

Recalls Venetian Nights of Yore

With the fate of the Venetian Festival hanging in the balance because of financial troubles and apathy on the part of townspeople, it is interesting to recall what the festival was like in other years. Following is a description of Charlevoix's Venetian Night gleaned from the pages of Mark Smith's novel "The Middleman", published in 1967. A former resident of Charlevoix, Smith is an instructor at the University of New Hampshire.

Tonight is Venetian Night: the annual carnival night of the summer season. The laughing, singing sounds of parties come from all the bars in town, from the ballrooms of the hotels and private clubs, from the large rented houses and from the staterooms and decks of anchored yachts. Japanese lanterns are strung from tree to tree and along the timbers of the bandstand in the park, and along the eaves of the verandas of the big hotels and houses.

The park is filling up with crowds, set and situation disappear and melt into the whole. People stand along the shore and in the high yards of their houses that look out upon the bay. The band in the uniforms of lion-tamers pipe and drum through "The Star Spangled Banner," and the crowd applauds. Now the trumpets sound a fanfare, the grand flotilla begins. Large and small boats, all with strings of paper lanterns along their riggings sail slowly in a circle around the lighted harbor, bells ringing, whistles blowing. The crews and passengers are dressed as pirates or gondoliers and crowd the decks and pilothouses or stand out on the bowsprit or daringly along the spars. As each ship swings past the anchored yacht on the quarterdeck of which the grand marshal stands dressed in the white uniform of a commodore, the grand marshal and his entourage salute, the crew and passengers aboard give out a cheer and the crowd ashore applauds.

Overhead the first skyrocket whistles skyward and the crowd caught unawares is made uneasy by the sudden flash of light and at the deafening bang that follows lets loose a scream of astonishment and apprehension that descends into a moan of adoration as the spangles of colored phosphorus fly free, umbrella and begin to fall, illuminating and coloring the boats and water of the harbor and those who stand along its shore.

The explosions are louder, more frequent — some of the crowd are crouching down and covering their ears. The climax approaches. Echoic and reboant the booms thunder out of town and are conducted westward by the waters until they rocket past the anchored paddle ship and leap across the lake into the silence of the long mid-summer night of yesterday.

Now Open for the season

"I wish I'd come here first!"

We hear this often from persons who unfortunately have made decisions on gifts or on their interior decor before reaching R & R. It's hurtful to be disappointed so we try to reach you (and them) by display and advertising to say that we have the most unusual, interesting, suitable and reasonably priced things to offer -- (gifts, accessories, fabrics, wallpaper etcetera) and that we have the most enthusiastically willing staff to help in pleasing you. Actually all of our happy clients think we're great and broadcast the work that we, too, try harder! We really do.

The bare facts of water heating.

The right moment for hot water is when you need it. Gas burners start up instantly and deliver more heat to the water. Gas is so fast that it keeps up with baths, showers, laundry, dishes, every hot water need.

The right temperature for hot water is the way you like it. Put the thermostat at any setting you want. Gas will automatically maintain the temperature you select.

The right price for hot water is what you pay for gas. Automatic gas water heaters cost less to buy. Less to install and maintain. And so little to operate that you can enjoy the luxury of using all the hot water you want around the clock.

Barely warm.
Nice and hot.
Change to an automatic gas water heater.

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

A few weeks ago a gentleman in the offices of the attorney general's department at Lansing had occasion to telephone me and at that time I was alerted that there are some certain contractors to whom he referred as "gypsies" working their way north in our state and he thought it would be well to alert as many areas as possible. Accordingly, it is well to know with whom you are doing business, whether it is a building job, roofing, siding, or what-have-you. If there is any reason to cause suspicion, then use your better judgement and don't become dissatisfied and furthermore don't hesitate to call the attorney general's office collect, if you have legitimate complaint, or call this office. But please be able to show evidence to back up your complaint.

So as to get to know the facts as they really are and to be better acquainted with this Chamber of Commerce and have some gentlemen like discussion, questions and answers, etc. there is scheduled an open meeting 7:30 P.M., Thursday, June 4 in Room No. 111 of the First State Bank.

I quote from a recent release from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States: "Let's Improve Quality of Spirit". "Our purpose to improve the quality of man's life must encompass more than the physical, outward and tangible aspects of life. The intangibles of spirit and attitude are necessary both to give meaning and satisfaction to life and to provide the drive and the motivepower for finding the answers to the flaws that we must admit exist and give rise to our problems." -- F. Ritter Shumway, President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Another quote is titled 186 to 8 to? "It took 186 years from the Declaration of Independence until 1962 before our Federal Government spent $100 billion in one year. But it took only eight more years for the annual budget to rise a second $100 billion, up to $200 billion.

Since my article in the last issue of the Courier, indicating the shortage of rent units in one category or another for the season, I have had only three contacts offering premises available. This will help, I am sure, and I appreciate it. However, I would like to hear from a few more of you folks.

Probably it's needless to mention, but nevertheless, I am quite satisfied that we do have a shortage of housing, whether it be for summer or all year. I think it's unfortunate something or other has not been started. One of our neighboring communities has an excavation well on the way for a mobile home park on the water's edge and a short distance away work has started for 175 condominiums, or 350 units. Maybe I am selfish, but I would rather have seen some of this come into our area. It's been talked about on occasions of some low-cost housing here in Charlevoix, but as yet I have not seen any dirt flying. This talking about it has brought contacts to this office but, unfortunately, we have nothing to offer.

We have not had any offers as yet for any groups or individuals willing to assist or take over some of the phases of the Venetian Festival. I have had a number of suggestions as to what it ought to be, which are much in line with many of ours, but in order to do these things, as I said before, it takes dollars.

District Court

The following cases were heard by District Judge Phillp Tschirhart of Cheboygan in Charlevoix last week in the absence of Judge W. Richard Smith:

John B. Martin, 21, Saginaw, was assessed $53 for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Ronald Anderson, Boyne City, was assessed $100 and sentenced to five days in jail on a charge of assault and battery. He will serve an additional 30 days if the fine and costs are not paid.

James Thompson, 23, East Jordan, was assessed $53 and sentenced to five days in jail on a charge of petty larceny. He will serve an additional 15 days if the fine and costs are not paid.

Vic Kishigo Enters Race for Davis' Seat

Victor S. Kishigo, 34, of Petoskey, a leader in self-help programs for local residents and a veteran of area policy making agencies, has announced his candidacy for the 106th Michigan Congressional house seat currently held by Rep. Robert Davis.

Kishigo's efforts to develop a 19 acre Indian Cultural Center has won statewide acclaim. This facility is designed to provide income for the indigent poor while preserving for the public Michigan's fading Indian culture. The project will contain facilities for producing and marketing Indian craft items, an authentic Indian village, an amphitheater for staging pageants, and a museum, all open to the public.

Kishigo is professionally associated with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee and with Cy Jordan, Inc., Petoskey realtors. Formerly, he worked as a marketing representative for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in the Chicago area.

Kishigo is also a member of the Ottawa-Chippewa Arts and Crafts Corporation and serves as administrator of the organization's Arts and Crafts Cooperative, a Petoskey business which purchases authentic hand-crafted items from local Indians and makes them available to the public. He was instrumental in developing the cooperative and guiding it through its formative stages.

As a member of planning organizations, he has directed intensive efforts toward improving living and health conditions of Northern Michigan residents. Currently, he serves on the steering committee of the Northwest Michigan Area Wide Comprehensive Health Planning Council, a body designed to coordinate health facilities, programs, and health needs in a ten-county area.

He is a member and past president of the Emmet County Action Committee, which provides self-help programs for the poor. Kishigo also served on the Executive Board of the Northeast Michigan Community Action Agency (NEMCA). NEMCA is a twelve county community action program funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

A Republican, he is a member to the Emmet County Republican Executive Committee.

VICTOR S. KISHIGO

Kishigo is a native of the Harbor Springs-Petoskey area, having attended high school in both cities. He went on to earn his Bachelor of Arts degree from Michigan State University.

Kishigo is an Army veteran and served as a liquid-oxygen production specialist in support of the Redstone Missile Program. He was assigned to the Army Engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va. He received his honorable discharge in 1961.

Kishigo, his wife, Trisha, and daughter, Anne Kathryn, live in rural Petoskey.

Gene A. Farley, 33, East Jordan, was assessed $15 for speeding.

Candidates Give Views On Education Problems

Q—Do you feel that a board's principal role in education is that of acting upon policies initiated by the superintendent and principals?

Mrs. Lieberman: The board must give careful thought to all policies offered by the administration, but it is also the board's responsibility to study the effect of any such proposals and enhance or modify them in accordance with majority welfare.

Donald Brown: Basically no, because of the way this question is phrased. A school board member is elected by the people, therefore it is the duty of a board member to listen to the people who elected him as well as the superintendent and principals. From these suggestions, a board should set policy and direct that these policies be carried out within the system.

Richard Way: No.

Clement Wagner: Yes, by changing the word policies to recommendations and having the policy develop. The board is a "moonlighting" group, working with the school administration.

Q—Should the school provide courses on various levels, designed to meet the differing abilities, interests and needs of the students?

Mrs. Lieberman: This would, perhaps, be the ideal situation. Such a program, however, would require more space and many more supplies. First of all, there would have to be highly trained, impartial personnel to make the decisions about the child's ability.

Donald Brown: Yes. Many of our students could use courses in several fields that are not geared for the college-bound. A basic working math course, for one, is much needed. Students who are going on to college need courses, too, that are not offered at the present time. Here again, funds are earmarked in one of the four proposals coming up for vote.

Richard Way: Yes.

Clement Wagner: Yes. Not all students are capable of one certain level. The more advanced students should have the opportunity to further their knowledge. Those students who are not college-bound should have programs in which they can further prepare for the future.

Asked for additional comments on their educational philosophies, the following remarks were made:

Mrs. Lieberman: A good community is built around a good school and a good school is built through cooperation — cooperation and mutual respect between the board of education, the teachers, the students and the taxpayers. We have a common goal — to give our children the best possible education.

Donald Brown: It is good to see something come forth from the CEA (Charlevoix Education Association) that will be helpful to the general public in making a selection of candidates to represent them on the school board.

I think something that we all tend to overlook is that these children and students of today are the adults and leaders of tomorrow and we should give them every opportunity possible to better their future and our future.

Somewhere along the way, we as adults have lost the faith and respect of some of the younger generation because they think we don't care and have let them down. Two ways to help gain it back is to give them their educational opportunity and to be available, as teachers and parents, when needed for assistance and guidance.

Richard Way: Before adding any class, I feel the economics should be studied very carefully to make sure we are getting the most for our tax dollars.

The May meeting was also a work shop for the Guilds annual fund raising project.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Freedman, thanked the many volunteers who knitted and sewed throughout the year. The layette committee has 20 completed layettes on hand. Mrs. Gerald Staublin reported 80 completed puppets ready for Child patients and Edith Chamberlain has seven bootie and hat sets to start next years layettes.

Park Law Studied

The Charlevoix City Council decided Monday night to "sit" for at least two weeks on a proposed ordinance which would give police broad powers in regulating activities in parks, beaches and other public places.

The ordinance was drawn up by City Attorney John Michael on the request of the council to give police authority over loitering, camping and rowdyism on city property.

However, Michael said he would like the council to study the proposed ordinance for at least two weeks before reaching a decision.

The ordinance would give the police authority in the area of campfires, firearms, pitching of tents, littering, obscene language, sleeping outdoors in the nighttime, advertising, selling, malicious destruction of property, parades, drills and concerts and destruction of public property. Some of the activities would be subject to approval by the city administrator.

In other business, the council:

—Authorized McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor to do a feasibility study on the separation of storm and sanitary sewers, at a cost not to exceed $10,000. The study was asked by the state Health Department as a prerequisite to the granting of state funds for construction of the proposed sewage treatment plant.

—Approved a bid of $127,624 by Schworm, Inc., for the construction of two boat launching ramps at Ferry Beach. The state Waterways Division will pay 90 percent of the cost. Completion date is Sept. 30.

2nd Meeting Thursday on Hippie Influx

A second civic meeting to discuss what the community can do to curb lawlessness in Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township this summer has been called for 6 p.m. Thursday, May 11, at the VFW hall on U.S. 31 north.

The meeting was called by Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud in an effort to organize a citizens' patrol to assist police officers and sheriff's deputies in maintaining law and order during the summer months.

About 40 residents of the city and the township attended the initial meeting last Thursday evening.

Normal law enforcement problems have been complicated in the past few weeks by the establishment of so-called "hippie communes" at Bells Bay and North Point as well as in Charlevoix.

Stroud reported Monday morning that the group at North Point had removed their tents, which had been pitched on private property, but that members of the group are still in the area.

At least one group of long-haired out-of-towners was still camped at Bells Bay over the weekend.

At the initial meeting, Sheriff Philo Sumner reported that he is under staffed and his men are underpaid. He says he will soon have a staff of only four men to cover the entire county.

"If you're asking help from me, we're too small," he said.

However he was against the organization of any type of "vigilanti" group, pointing out that he could have 25 law enforcement officers on the scene in 25 minutes in case of a major disturbance.

Stroud said no one wants to get "vicious", but said there are "three or four" places in the township and the city that need policing.

He would like to organize a citizens' patrol, armed with CB radios, to alert law enforcement officers in the event of trouble.

Dale Boss, who lives in the township, said he visited the hippie camp at North Point. He described open containers of peanut butter and tuna fish and wine bottles "stacked like cordwood."

"I've been in cleaner barnyards," he said.

Sumner said he and his men are powerless to make arrests unless violators are caught in the act of breaking the law.

Operation Millage Is Approved

Clement J. Wagner and Mrs. Robert (Martha Jane) Lieberman were elected to the Charlevoix Board of Education in unusually heavy voting Monday. A total of 1,013 ballots was case.

Voters also approved two proposals calling for 6.69 mills for operation, but turned down two others which would have provided money for building and site funds.

In the school board election, Wagner polled 547 votes and Mrs. Lieberman 456. They will succeed incumbent board members Jack Rader and Dale Boss who did not run for re-election.

Wagner is office manager at the Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s Charlevoix plant. He served on the board for nine months two years ago as an appointee.

Mrs. Lieberman is the wife of Charlevoix clothing merchant Robert Lieberman.

Two other candidates, Donald W. Brown and Douglas Way, polled 441 and 406 votes respectively.

The "yes" vote on the two operational millage proposals guarantees the school district sufficient operating funds for the coming school year.

The first proposal was for 4.19 mills, covering 2.99 mills which expire this month, plus an additional 1.2 mills to cover rising costs of education. The vote was 533 to 470—a margin of 63 votes.

The second proposal was for 2.5 mills to improve the current school program in the areas of vocational education, home economics, music, art, physical education, English and adult education. It passed by a vote of 503 to 497—a margin of only six votes.

The building and site proposals appeared on four different ballots, two authorizing increases in the tax limit and two levying the required millage.

The short term building and site proposal (1 3/10 mills) was defeated by votes of 564 to 434 and 578 to 415.

The long term building and site proposal (2 mills) was defeated by votes of 648 to 315 and 646 to 348.

Boat Launch Ramp Under Way at Point

Work is under way on a new boat launching ramp to accomodate lake trout fishermen in the Nine Mile Point area, according to Glenn J. Oligney of Beulah, construction superintendent for the Waterways Division of the department of Natural Resources.

The site is located near the foot of Burgess-rd., just east of Elzinga Roadside Park.

Oligney said the project will be completed in from three to four weeks.

In addition to the gravel boat ramp, the project includes:

—Removing rocks from the lake in the vicinity of the launching area.

—Construction of a parking lot for 10 cars and trailers, and —Erection of two vault-type restrooms.

Working with Oligney are five Waterways Division employes from the Cadillac-Copemish-Mesick area. They are Albert Rackow, Harold Findstrom, William Gaylord, Kenneth Abraham, Jerry Micek and David Rosa.

They are using a buildozer, loader, three gravel trucks and a post-hole digger.

Oligney said the project carries a price tag of $9,000, which will come from the marine fuel tax.

Land for the launching site was acquired from the state Highway Department.

Construction of the new ramp was suggested by Leo Burnett of Bay Shore, with the backing of the Hayes Township Board, William Grimm of the Emmet County Soil Conservation District and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Keith Wilson, chief of the Waterways Division, initially was against construction of a launching ramp in the area on grounds it would lure fishermen with small boats into treacherous Lake Michigan waters.

However, fishermen have continued to launch their boats from the rocky peninsula in Elzinga Park and the Waterways Division apparently decided a gravel ramp at Nine Mile Point would be preferable to no ramp at all in the area, particularly when fisherman seek shelter in a sudden blow.

The new ramp is located on the east side of Nine Mile Point, offering some protection from north and northwest winds.

The ramp will be the third boat launching facility to open in the Charlevoix area this summer. In May, Charlevoix Township had ramps constructed on Lake Michigan near the Medusa Plant and on Lake Charlevoix at Pine Point.

The City of Charlevoix is expected to have two additional ramps constructed at Ferry Beach by next fall.

Council Reviews Master Plan for Area

Members of the city council sat in on a preview June 3 of what the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission recommends for the city of Charlevoix and the surrounding area.

Main speaker at the meeting was Larry Miller, a consultant with the Grand Rapids planning firm Williams and Works.

The Planning Commission was organized in December, 1965, and has been working ever since on a comprehensive zoning plan for the city and surrounding townships.

The main concern of the planners is a lack of parking space in downtown Charlevoix. The situation will be seriously aggravated if and when the state Highway Department ever decides to ban parking on Bridge-st.

The planners also recommend that such businesses as auto dealerships and gas stations look toward the outlying areas when the time comes to expand — releasing downtown space for small retail businesses and parking.

They also feel auto showrooms and service facilities require more room than is presently available downtown.

Miller said the amount of money generated in the downtown shopping area compares favorably with shopping centers in larger communities. Shopping centers average $49 per square foot, compared to Charlevoix's $44.

Miller said most older communities show only about 50 percent efficiency.

He also cautioned that as more businesses are added downtown, provision should be made to increase parking to accommodate the new shoppers.

Mayor William Fochtman commented that the parking situation in Charlevoix would be worse than it is if both banks did not have drive-in windows.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud commented that traffic flow through town could be improved if the bridge tender could control the Clinton-st. traffic light, permitting traffic to clear on Bridge-st. after bridge openings and closings.

Turning to residential areas, Miller suggested that space be provided for multiple housing. He said nationwide 50 percent of new housing construction is in the form of multiple units, compared to 20 percent in 1963.

As possible sites he suggested the south shore of Round Lake and the Stover-rd. area.

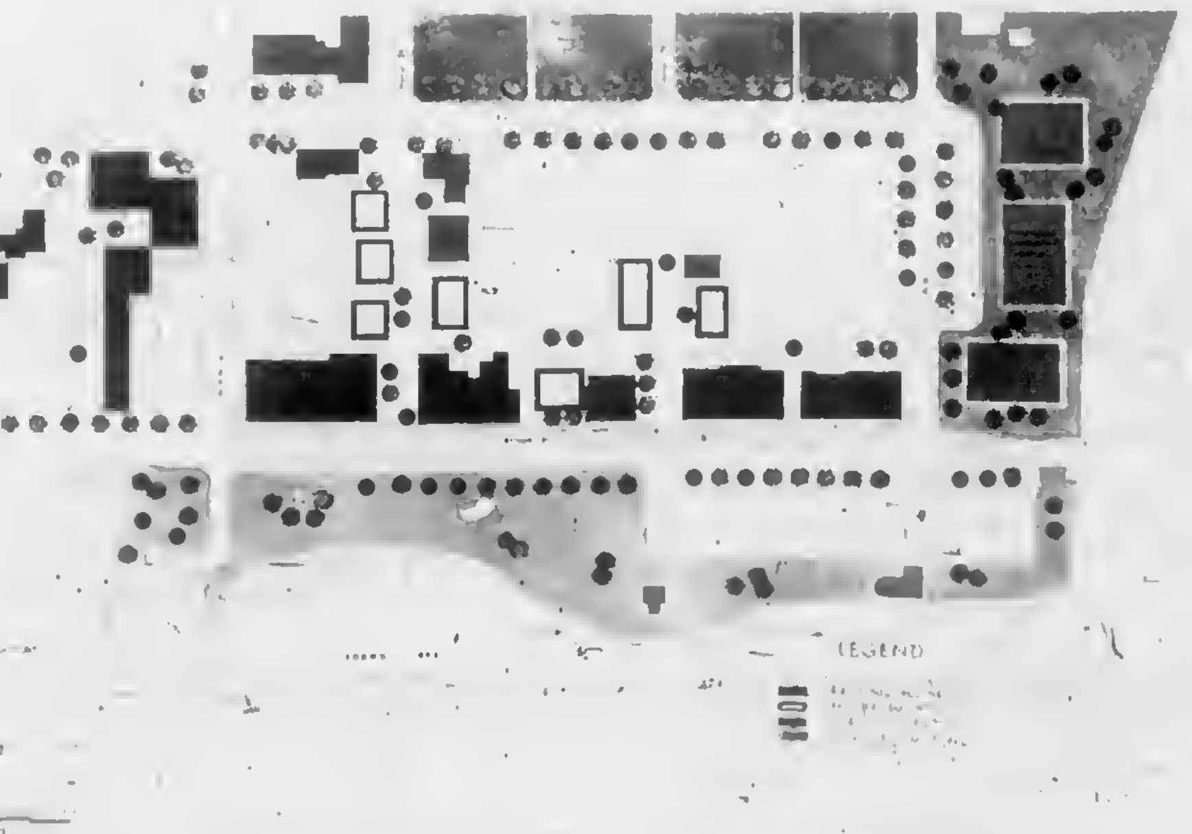
He added that areas that are mixed at present can go a number of different ways.

Miller said that the city may want to look into turning a section of the city golf course at Mercer-blvd. and U.S. 31 into a residential area and find another location further out for the golf course.

Stroud objected, pointing out that in Florida whole communities are built around golf courses.

The same presentation will be given to businessmen of the community at a second meeting scheduled for June 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

The planners' recommendations will be taken into consideration in future zoning changes by the city and Charlevoix and Marion townships.



HERE IS HOW the planners envision downtown Charlevoix in years to come. This drawing was presented to the city council Wednesday night by the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission. It will also be one of the presentations to be made at a meeting the planners have scheduled with businessmen of the community at 7:30 p.m. June 17 in the city hall. The planners believe the city will need vastly more downtown parking in years to come, particularly if the state Highway Department ever bans parking on Bridge-st.

Summer School

Summer school classes will be held at Charlevoix Elementary School June 15 to July 10, according to Principal Glenn Snider.

Tuition is $25 for three hours a day, 8 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Remedial classes in reading and arithmetic are scheduled as well as science (nature study) and art.

Art Instructor Howard Hoot also will hold classes for teenagers and adults at the school from 11 a.m. until noon.

For the first time, the Charlevoix School District has federal Title I available to finance bus runs to bring youngsters in from the outlying areas.

Chest Budget Meet June 16

The Charlevoix Community Chest will hold its annual budget and admissions meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 16, at the Charlevoix County Building.

Representatives of agencies receiving funds through the Community Chest will appear before the board to present their budgets for 1971 and submit their requests.

Any new agencies wishing to join the Chest are asked to contact Mrs. Don J. Anders, executive secretary.

Check Report

City police are investigating a report by William Pioch that someone in a passing automobile fired two shots at him about 4:30 Sunday morning while he was walking on Antrim-st.

Graduates Take Part In Ceremonies

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," 103 Charlevoix seniors are taking part in commencement exercises this week at the high school.

Baccalaureate service was held Sunday night, with commencement on Tuesday.

Baccalaureate speaker was the Rev. Thomas Rash who cautioned the graduates to not to over-emphasize the material things of life.

"Material possessions cannot lead to a happy, abundant, full life, when the soul is neglected," he said.

Also taking part in the service were the Rev. Jack Harris, the Rev. Wayne Olinghouse, the Rev. Albert Masen, the Rev. Elmer Faust and the Rev. Bob Rutledge.

The Charlevoix Community Choir sang "With a Voice of Singing," "Create in Me a Clean Heart," "Holy, Lord God of Hosts," "Brother James Air," "Almighty God of Our Fathers" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." The audience joined in singing "Rise Up, O Men of God."

Speaker at commencement exercises was Dr. James Roberts, vice president for academic affairs at Slippery Rock State College, Slippery Rock, Pa. He was introduced by Principal Vane Smith.

The invocation was offered by the Rev. Duane Imig. Sharon Boss delivered the salutatory and Lynn DeFiedorek the valedictory.

Senior Class Advisor Max Novak presented awards, Superintendent Rex Milligan presented the class and diplomas were presented by Jack E. Rader, president of the board of education. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen offered the benediction.

T.C. Academy Is Signing Up Seafarers

Northwestern Michigan College is currently enrolling students for both the June and September classes of its newly-founded Great Lakes Maritime Academy in Traverse City.

The Acodemy, a division of the two-year community college here, opened last fall with a pilot class of 13 students. The only fresh water maritime school in the nation, it was developed to train qualified high school graduates to serve as officers aboard commerciol ships of the Great Lakes.

The 33-month maritime training program combines technical courses and liberal arts studies with spring and summer work experience aboard ships owned by the academy on ore corriers and other vessels that serve the Great Lakes. The Great Lakes fleet presently totals approximately 240 ships.

The new academy is pointing towards a 300-student enrollment in five years. It will begin its next class on June 22. Start of the fall class has been set for September 21.

Small Turnout at Chamber Meeting

Only 12 persons, including four representatives of news media, showed up June 4 for a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce colled to sound out the citizenry on what it expects in the way of chamber activities.

The chamber directors had hoped for a big turnout to generate interest in the chamber and raise additional monies for chamber activites. They also are concerned about the apathy of townspeople toward such chamber projects as the Venetian Festival.

Secretary-Manager Wally Loder reported that the Chamber has a bank balance of $1,900, of which $1,000 must go toward the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament, scheduled later in June.

So far this year, the chamber has taken in $4,890 in memberships. A city contribution of $1,770.85 brings total revenue for 1970 to $6,660.85.

He said 106 members who paid in 1968 and 1969 have not yet contributed during the current year. The additional memberships would bring in an estimated $5,435. City contributions for the remainder of the year should total $2,379.33, Loder said.

But even with the addition money, the chamber will fall far below its budget of $21,345.

Robert Miles suggested eliminating the minimum amount for a voting membership ($50) to get more people involved in the chamber.

"You are a closed corporation," he said. "No one can get close to you."

Fred Cohrs suggested that the chamber hold monthly fund-raising dinners. He said industry could help by buying blocks of tickets for employes.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the board of directors decided to look into the purchase of booster buttons in a last-ditch effort to raise money.

The board was reluctant to drop any of its activities as an economy move, on grounds that it would be all the harder to generate interest in them if they are ever resumed.

Kiwanians Fete 'Sheriff'

Ralph Hamilton made a special presentation to Kiwanis Sheriff Ralph Richardson for his outstanding performance of duties at the June 1 meeting of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

Vane Smith discussed the upcoming millage increase being requested by the Charlevoix Board of Education.

The guest speaker, Carl Nelson, was introduced by Robert Burns.

Nelson's presentation was entitled "The Economical, Sociological, Ecological Aspects of Mechanical Cherry Harvesting."

Library Notes

New books in the Charlevoix Library this week include several which are particularly entertaining.

"Textures of Life" by Hortense Calisher is the author's second novel and it has secured her a place in the front rank of American writers. The book opens with a toast to the bride and immediately the reader is caught up in the world of Liz and David Pagani who have renounced the middle-class tyranny of "the nice things."

In their Bohemian loft across Manhattan from "that china shop" that was her mother's home, the young couple decide to meet life on their own terms. The book is a study in motives, conflicts, ambitions and fears which only a writer with Miss Calisher's sensitivity and insight could fully explore.

"The Yellow Gold of Tiryns" is a light novel of romance and suspense written by Helena Osborne. The story is set against the vivid background of Greece. There are amusing characters and a frolic of a plot.

Lydia Barnett set out for Greece as a summer traveling companion to a rich American woman. She hoped to visit the fabled ruins and perhaps have a summer romance, but before she had been in Greece even 24 hours, she found herslef deep in more excitement and danger than she had bargained for, even in her wildest imaginings.

"Mrs. Westerby Changes Course" is simply another fine novel written by Elizabeth Cadell. The plot centers around Gail Sinclair, a pretty and young secretary in a London publishing house. One thing leads to another and a series of events provide mystery, romance and humor – the hallmarks of Elizabeth Cadell at her best.

"Snow Country and Thousand Cranes" is a marvelous book written by perhaps Japan's most distinguished novelist, Yasunari Kawabata. These two novels in one volume are his only works which have been translated into English. "Snow Country" is the story of a little geisha, Komako, who gives herself without illusion to a hopeless love affair. It is a touching work of great beauty. "Thousand Cranes" a Nobel prize winner, is a memorable and poetic story set against the ceremony of tea, the venerable Japanese ritual celebrating refinement, simplicity and harmony.

As a final book on this week's list of recommended reading, we suggest "The Affair of the Poisons" by Frances Mossiker. Here in a rather massive volume is the incredible world of Versailles -- the intrigue; luxury, harshness of life, the progression of mistresses and the overwhelming personality of Louis XIV.

The book reveals the mysteries connected with the Poisons Affair inquiry that brought the most oncient names of France to trial and the part Montespan played in these grave crimes. Montespan, the King's favorite and the mother of his five "legitimized" children, was an arrogant, highborn beauty who dazzled society with her wit and the brilliance of her conversation. But during the trial, her name wos by royal edict forbidden to be mentioned and all evidence was destroyed.

But from private journals secretly kept by the chief of the police and diaries and letters, the author presents the powerful and exciting history using the brilliant technique that distinguishes her eorlier work.

Stanley McRae Joins Race for House Seat

Stanley McRae, Mackinaw City businessman, has announced his candidacy for the position of Representative from the 106th district on the Republican ticket.

Born and raised in the district, McRae graduated from Pellston High School, and went on to graduate from Michigan State University with a B.S. degree in Agriculture. He worked several years on farms, and spent three years in the Agricultural Extension Service, working as County 4-H Club Agent.

Stanley McRae

Five years in the Infantry during World War II saw him rise from private to the rank of major. Pre-war college football turned into a year and a half with the professionals after the war until an injury forced his retirement.

Married to the former Muriel Melms in 1942, there are two sons in the family. Bruce graduates this month from the USAF Academy in Colorado, and Eric has completed his Junior year at Mackinaw City High School.

Elected to the Mackinaw School Board in 1960, he was with thot group until 1966 when he resigned to serve as a teacher for a half day for the school year. Hippie Invasion

The hippies have arrived in town to the dismay of most Charlevoixans.

Although the dictionary publishers haven't come up with a definition of "hippie" as yet, the term usually is applied to young people -- both boys and girls -- who belong to the so-called "turned on" generation, whatever that means.

Hippie boys generally wear their hair too long to suit their fathers. They also go in for beards, moustaches, skin-tight jeans or cutoffs and shirts open to the belly-button.

Hippie girls also prefer long hair, the straighter the better, and any kind of apparel their mothers wouldn't be caught dead in.

Both hippie sexes enjoy guitar music, sunglasses, beach parties, beer and a free-and-easy camaraderie that would give their grandparents apoplexy.

They also like lazy summer days in resort towns like Charlevoix.

So far so good. What resort town-worthy of the name wouldn't appreciate an influx of fun-loving young people to add color and excitement to its summer season?

Unfortunately, according to people who are in a position to know, the hippies have brought with them some of the accoutrements of modern society that Charlevoix can well do without -- namely marajuana and LSD, the twin scourges of the alleys and ghettoes of oug big cities.

According to the same sources, the hippies also subscribe to standards of moral conduct that would make a billy-goat blush -- standards that can only lead to disillusionment and dispair. These, too, Charlevoix can well do without.

But the hippies themselves are not the real problem, in spite of the bad press they are certain to give Charlevoix this summer.

Our main concern is that they have proven to be an irresistible attraction to a good number of our own young people, many of whom already have adopted the dress, habits and morals that are the mark of the hippie culture.

It is naive to believe that they, too, are not smoking marijuana and popping pills. The problem is, or should be, of the gravest concern to all Charlevoixans.

Judging from remarks at a special citizens' meeting called last week to discuss the problem, there are some among us who yearn for the old days when such rascals could have been "ridden out of town on a rail" without so much as a beg-your-pardon.

But the old days are long gone.

Police Chief Joe Smith and Sheriff Philo Sumner tell us they are helpless to do anything about the situation until the hippies are caught in the act of actually breaking the law.

And the hippies, by and large, are not dummies. They are equally familiar with the law and their rights as citizens of the United States.

But there is one thing that we as citizens and parents of Charlevoix can do -- now.

We can make damn sure we know, every minute of the day and night, where our youngsters are and with whom they are associating.

It won't be easy. It is never easy to put toothpaste back in the tube. There will be back-talk, tantrums and recriminations on the part of the young, particularly from those who have never felt the smart of a strong hand on their backsides.

Yet no court in the land, no matter how liberal, will ever deny the right of a parent to protect the health, well-being and future happiness of his children.

If there has ever been a time for the parents in town to lay down the law, it is now. Today. This very minute. And their efforts will be more effective if they work together.

In years to come, some parents may be surprised to receive a belated "thank-you" from their grateful offspring.

CWA Chief Answers Courier on City Union

Dear Editor:

A recent editorial appearing in this newspaper asked the following question, "Do City Employes Need a Union?" In exercising its freedom of the press, this newspaper then went on to render its own opinion relative to that question. As President of Local 4106, Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, the Union which is responsible for representing the employes of the City of Charlevoix, I had considerable cause to disagree with that editorial. For that reason, I requested the Charlevoix Courier to print the following rebuttal. The fact that you are now able to read and discuss both sides of this question speaks well of this newspaper.

For the benefit of those readers who may not be familiar with all the issues surrounding this question, back on Oct. 7, 1969, the employes of the City of Charlevoix participated in a Union representation election and selected CWA to represent them for the purpose of collective bargaining. The margin of our success was 27 to 5. Like all such elections, which was conducted by the State Employee Relations Commission, there are certain rules and regulations which both the Union and the city must follow. One of which is that any challenge to an election must be made and filed within five days after the election results have been tabulated. The fact that none was filed during that required period, we assumed the city would now sit down with us for the purpose of collective bargaining. Forty three days later, 38 days beyond the required dead-line, the city filed a formal challenge to the election, requesting that it be thrown out. Needless to say, such an attempt was destined to failure from the very onset; but it took the unnecessary spending of local tax dollars to prove it.

It is interesting to note that not once during those 43 days did the city indicate to us their intent to carry out this action. Even though on a number of occasions during this same period of time, we exhibited a desire to meet with them. Their stated cause for having submitted this challenge was due to the State Legislature having passed an act providing for compulsory arbitration of disputes involving policemen and firemen. Consequently, the city wanted these two employee groups under a separate set of bargaining rules. The union never knew this to be an issue until after the objection was filed. Prior to the election, the city attorney and the city superintendent agreed that these two groups would be in the same bargaining unit. In fact, the mayor of Charlevoix co-signed that agreement on Sept. 11, 1969.

It took exactly five months for the Employee Relations Commission to render its decision on this matter; and as indicated earlier, the commission ruled that the election which took place on Oct. 7, 1969, would be honored. As a result of that opinion, we felt that we were now in a position once again to negotiate; but for some unknown reason, the city found it necessary to add insult to injury.

On May 1, 1970, the city chose to appeal the Commission's decision through the Court of Appeals. Recognizing that this decision represented further delay along with the continued drain of local tax dollars required to satisfy out-of-town attorney fees, our International Union contacted the city and posed the following question, "Would the city be willing to withdraw its appeal if the union in turn would voluntarily give them what they were asking through the courts?" We are saddened at having to report that the answer our union received to that offer was "No". We are further saddened at having to report that the city has just recently participated in further evidence of poor faith by dealing directly with an employee group on the matter of wages without first having negotiated this matter with the union, which is their certified bargaining agent. This decision unequivocally represents an unfair labor practice charge. If the union elected to file such charges, we are confident that this would only represent further delays and a further waste of local tax dollars.

It was for these two reasons plus a continuing effort on the part of CWA to maintain a responsible relationship with the city, that our International chose not to exercise that option. It would be complete folly for the city fathers to interpret these attempts at co-operation as a position of weakness. We would hope that it would be recognized and accepted in the same spirit in which it was given, that being in the spirit of good faith.

We would like to ask the citizens of Charlevoix, including the Mayor and Councilmen and other centers of power, "Why couldn't we, at this piont, sit down and negotiate an agreement satisfactory to all parties concerned." Allow us to have the one thing we want most, a reasonable and responsible community minded Union.

Takes Issue With Friske On 'Equality'

Dear Bob,

I must respond to Richard Friske's very disturbing words about equality. He stated, "There is no equality. God never intended men to be equal. Yet we seem to be bending over backward to make everyone equal."

These words fly in the face of American history and the Bible. The Declaration of Independence says, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal. That they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Abraham Lincoln in his Gettysburg Address said, "Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

In the Bible, the Apostle Peter says in Acts 10:34 "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons." Paul states in Romans 10:12 "For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him."

Though men are not necessarily equal in intellect and abilities, they are equal in human dignity and worth. America is founded on and must be dedicated to providing the unalienable rights of freedom and opportunity, "with liberty and justice for all."

The selfishness of some men makes the doctrine of inequality a very dangerous philosophy: It makes a very good basis for them to lord it over others. Hitler did not believe men were equal but that the Germans were a superior race. He thus set out to dominate other peoples and exterminate some.

Only when you see that men are equal with certain basic rights can you have a nation of free people. Only will you be a free people when you protect the equality and rights of everyone. This is basic to America's greatness as a nation, which our forefathers recognized. May God have mercy on our land if we ever adopt Richard Friske's position.

Sincerely,
Jack Harris

New Bounce In Courier

Dear Mr. Clock:

I guess you were on a leave of absence from the Courier or something but I'm glad you're back. The newspaper was as dull as dry old toast for about four months or so. I was definitely not going to renew my subscription in October, but now that it has it's old bounce and sparkle back, I'll continue to subscribe.

Sincerely
Mary Toomey
(Mrs. Bernard C.)

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Elsewhere on this page is a letter from Mrs. Bernard C. Toomey of San Diego, Calif., expressing appreciation for the changes that have taken place lately in the Courier.

Needless-to-say, we are trying once again to become the best weekly newspaper in Michigan. No matter what business you are in, there is little point in attempting to be anything less than the best – whether you run a hamburger stand, a dry goods store or a multi-million dollar manufacturing enterprise.

As you probably have noticed, some of our long-neglected area correspondents are back. Readers tell us they want "locals" in the Courier – news about the comings and goings of our townspeople and their country neighbors. Mrs. Jasper Warner of Barnard and Mrs. Stanley Lord of Norwood are again covering activities in their neighborhoods and Mrs. Thomas Maxwell of Hayes is keeping the community calendar.

Of course, Mrs. Anne Osterbaan of Ellsworth, Mrs. Marian Martin of St. James and Mrs. Ross Alexander of Ironton are continuing to keep us abreast of activities in their communities.

There also have been some changes on the editorial page. Our editorials are once again the home-grown variety, commenting on local issues as we see them. We also intend to comment from time to time on state, national and international problems as they affect us in Charlevoix.

And here's the best part. You, the readers, are cordially invited to do the same. The Courier looks upon its editorial page as the heart of the newspaper – a public forum where the issues of the day can be debated and, hopefully, some conclusions reached.

The number of letters to the editor we receive has increased markedly in the past few weeks and the editorial page is livlier, brighter and more thought-provoking because of them.

We also will print from time to time articles from other publications that you think the people of Charlevoix area might be interested in. A case in point is the piece on abortion reform which Bill Peters dropped off a couple of weeks ago. I was a staunch supporter of abortion reform until I read the moving account of an actual abortion. Now I am not so sure what I believe.

The Courier also is attempting to cover all the local news possible in a 168-hour week – everything from city council and school board meetings to the latest grass fire. After all, this is what a weekly newspaper is all about. So far as we know, the Courier is the only newspaper in the world interested solely in what happens in Charlevoix, Mich.

Happily, the people of Charlevoix have responded warmly to the new emphasis on local happenings and local issues in the Courier. Newsstand sales have jumped 250 papers in the past month and every mail brings a batch of new subscriptions and renewals.

Unhappily, however, the days of weekly newspapers like the Courier may be numbered. Some experts say the weekly newspaper will be a rarity in 20 years. Others say our time is much shorter.

As everyone in the communications business knows, there is a tremendous competition afoot these days for advertising dollars. The competition in the Charlevoix area comes chiefly from the throw-away shopping guides which you find stuffed in your mailbox every week.

The main claim of the shopping guide owners is that their publications blanket the entire area. And we'll admit their mailing lists are impressive. Of course there is no way of knowing how many shopping guides find their way, unopened, into the post office waste basket or the backyard trash barrel.

A few advertisers have been taken in by the "blanket coverage" sales pitch, losing sight of the fact that their advertising has a guaranteed audience in a newspaper that is bought and paid for by the subscriber. You simply don't throw away something you have paid good money for.

Some advertisers also apparently overlooked the fact that a paid-subscritpion newspaper like the Courier still reaches the vast majority of their potential customers in the Charlevoix area – the people who do most of their trading in Charlevoix. We don't have too many subscribers in Bellaire and Mancelona, but then not too many residents of Bellaire and Mancelona travel to Charlevoix to buy underwear and cucumbers – or even appliances and automobiles.

Courier advertisers do not pay to have their advertising message disseminated in areas where it will be of little value to them.

What makes the shopping guides worrisome competitors is the fact that their operation is pure gravy. They don't have to hire an editor and reporters to cover local news, because they do not pretend to carry news of any kind. No engagements, weddings, anniversaries, birth notices or obituaries. No news of the city council or the school board. No features. And, worst of all, no editorial page.

The shopping guides, in short, have no civic responsibility whatsoever in the communities from which they derive their support.

So to stay alive, weekly newspapers like the Courier must try harder than ever before to meet and beat the competition.

And that is why the lights burn late at the Courier office.

I, for one, cannot imagine Charlevoix without the Charlevoix Courier.

If it Fitz

BY JIM FITZGERALD

"It isn't just their long hair and goofy clothes," said John Straight. "But they act so silly. Getting high on grass and strumming guitars. It's disgusting."

John was talking about "those damn kids." He is a member of what the kids call "the Establishment" and he's proud of it.

"The so-called Establishment is what makes this country great," John Straight is fond of saying.

I guess all my friends could be considered Establishment. I cannot deny membership myself. At my age, and with my paunch, I fit into no other category. I'm just not in shape for romping in the meadows with the Love Children. And I don't have time for protest marches. I must work or the milkman will be protesting non-payment of his bill.

But I've got a problem, doctor. Every time my friends start talking about what's wrong with this country, I begin to squirm.

Hair is a good example. I know men who turn purple at the sight of a boy with long hair. To guys like John Straight, there's nothing worse than some dumb kid who doesn't get a short haircut every 2 weeks. He sneers audibly every time he comes near a long-haired male.

"They are all communists," be explained to me. "Only communists would disgrace this country by looking so terrible."

I usually argue with the Straights, even if they're buying the lunch. I don't care how a kid wears his hair. It's his hair, I figure. And that seems like a pretty fair attitude for The Land of the Free, doesn't it? There's gotta be more important things to fret about.

John Straight says maybe I'm not a card-carrying communist but I'm certainly a pinko and I'd better watch what I say or I'll be buying my own lunches. The Establishment will disown me.

Well. I figure Ron Ziegler is a member of the Establishment. He's President Nixon's press secretary. The other day, at a Washington party, Ziegler was pushed into a swimming pool by a Democrat. He was wearing his best blue suit.

Ziegler didn't just glub-blub. The guy who pushed him was Len Bickwit, an employee of Senator Philip Hart. Ziegler enlisted the aid of three friends who promptly dunked Bickwit. Sly Bickwit slipped out of his suitcoat before he was tossed in the water. But Ziegler wasn't thwarted. He had the jacket thrown in, too. "We got it as wet as we could get it," he later told Bickwit. So there, you grandfather's moustache.

It wasn't reported whether Ziegler and Bickwit and friends were boozing. But I'd hate to think they'd act that way sober.

My point is simple: Ziegler and Bickwit have short haircuts. Their clothes are conservative, when dry. They are full-fledged members of the Establishment.

Now, I wouldn't say it is dangerous to approach a full pool in the company of any man with a short haircut. I'll even concede all short-hairs who push clothed people into pools are not communists.
But they are obviously communist-inspired. Everyone knows the communists want to poison our water.

Don't invite Spiro Agnew to your pool party.

Denies WILPF Harbors Reds

Dear Bob:

As the old saw goes, "It's not the things you don't know that get you into trouble. It's the things you know for sure that aren't so."

So many of us are so certain about everything. To arrive at firm conclusions without adequate information is a form of frightening self-delusion.

Perhaps that is why in 3400 years we have had only 235 years of complete peace. At any rate, working with and for groups seeking only a better world for themselves and all mankind should be high among our priorities.

BIRCH PUBLICATION

The book "Biographical Dictionary of the Left" quoted from in a recent opinion column letter in the Courier May 27, 1970, signed by Ada Marshell from Central Lake, is of John Birch origin. The publisher, Western Islands is a division of the John Birch Society. This organization, by publishing the book, attacks the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (WILPF) and calls it a Communist-front organization.

For the past three years I have been working on a history of the WILPF and so far have not found any evidence to support such a claim. I am still studying and I suggest the writer of the letter do further study on the John Birch Society and decide which group she should support.

The fact that the WILPF has official recognition as lobbyist in the U.S. Congress precludes its being a Communist organization.

GIVES HISTORY

Womens International League for Peace and Freedom started in the spring of 1915 when a group of European women - Dutch, British, German and Belgian – met at the Hague. The group met from April 28 to May 1, 1915. The Women's Peace Party in the United Statea sent a delegation of 45 women, headed by Jane Addams. Women came from 12 countries. The full story can be read in Jane Addams' book, "Women at The Hague", Mercedes Randall's "Improper Bostonian", and "The History of the WILPF" by Gertrude Bussey and Margaret Tims. The first president was Jane Addams, Nobel Peace Prize Laureate.

In 1919 a meeting was held at Zurich and the present name adopted. The League moved from Amsterdam to Geneva (with Emily Greene Balch as its first resident secretary.) where it continues to this day at 12 rue du Vieux College. At the second meeting, members affirmed the principle that peace without freedom was impossible. They stated that no human being should be deprived of an education, prevented from earning a living, debarred from any legitimate pursuit or be subjected to any humiliation, an account of race or color. The rights of minorities (Indians, migrant workers, Negroes) are defended by the WILPF.

The WILPF has official non-governmental stutus at the United Nations, and maintains laison with its major specialized agencies.

The WILPF has shared in the struggle for civil rights legislation, anti-lynching and anti-poll tax bills, a federal fair employment act, state fair housing laws and implementation of Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The right of a people to decide their own form of government was enunciated at the Hague Congress in 1915. They have consistently opposed economic imperialism, all forms of colonialism and apartheid. Our own government's intervention in recent years in the affairs of Guatemala, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and the tragic wars of intervention in Korea and now in Vietnam and Cambodia are, they feel, not only immoral but opposed to the best interests of the people of the United States and of people everywhere. They have dissented vigorously to all such interventions.

They have joined with groups of organizations in urging our country to ratify the conventions on genocide, forced labor, slavery and political rights for women.

DRAFT REPEAL

Recently, the WILPF stated, "The governments of both our country and the Soviet Union know that for either to use its nuclear power against the other would inevitably mean the destruction of both nations and of civilization – perhaps the human race. To bring an end to conscription may break the evil spell that binds our government to blind continuation of its mad policy. The awakening of one of the two great powers to the light of truth might open the eys of the other, thus freeing youth from participation in war and humanity from subjection to military slavery."

The WILPF believes that conscription is one of the most obvious forms of repression in our country.

The organization supports, the principle of obediences to law and seeks to change unwise or unjust laws through legal methods. However, to work within the law confronts those who are morally opposed to conscription with a paradox; Should the persons who consider conscription wrong disobey the law? Laws represent an attempt to balance conflicting claims in the interest of the common good, and should not be lightly broken. However, if a law or its application interferes with the exercise of human or constitutional rights, the WILPF recognizes that refusal to obey may be the only moral or effective method of challenge. In such case, they support nonviolent civil disobedience.

NEW APPROACHES

Since there has been only 235 years of complete peace in 3400 years the present methods of handling conflict seem inadequate.

The WILPF joins other groups in advocating a new science of peace research and an increased citizen involvement in concerns for peace, hopeful that the world will move closer to sanity.

The WILPF has endured because of its conviction that wars are not inevitable. The organization accepts its responsibilities in helping build a society free from war, poverty and discrimination.

Firemen Douse Hay Fire

Charlevoix firemen extinguished a fire in baled hay behind the home of Harold J. Wilson on Black-rd. Thursday evening.

The fire apparently was started by spontaneous combustion.

The baled hay formed a windrow on the west side of the Wilsons' vegetable garden.

A Gas incinerator eliminates a lot more than trash.

It eliminates any kind of combustible trash and garbage. Even things like corncobs, cloth and bones—things you wouldn't dare drop into a garbage disposal.
It eliminates odor. Smoke. Noise.
It eliminates slogging through rain and mud.
Nothing else gets rid of so many different kinds of rubbish. Or so many different kinds of problems.
No more risking back trouble lugging rubbish. No more pollution from burning trash outdoors. No more arguments about who carries out the trash.
In fact, no more trash problems.
See your appliance dealer or contact Michigan Consolidated Gas Company about installing a Gas incinerator in your home. Then watch your rubbish problems disappear.

Why pay up to $259* more for a compact when Maverick gives you all this?

Why pay more when Maverick saves you money right from the start? And however you figure it . . . size, power, economy . . . Maverick gives you more in the bargain!

Maverick is no lightweight. Its wide tread and stability makes for a sure grip on the road. Yet there's no excess weight to cause acceleration lag or reduce fuel economy.

Maverick is perky. Some competitive makes have four cylinders. Maverick's got a 170 CID six-cylinder that delivers 105 hp. It gets you up to expressway speeds in less than 15 seconds . . . without getting you in hock at the gas pumps.

Maverick is economical to drive. Test drivers averaged 22.5 mpg in simulated actual driving conditions. This means you could go up to 350 miles or more between gas stops.

Maverick is simple to park. It's less than 15 feet long and has a turning diameter of only 35.6 feet. So you can nip in and out of tight parking spots and tough traffic, easier than the big guys.

Maverick is simple to maintain. You can do it yourself. The Maverick Owner's Manual is packed with simple diagrams and instructions.

Maverick is easy to own. So easy, in fact, with its low, low price, that you can even move up to a jazzy Maverick Grabber and still beat that compact price.

Maverick is America's biggest selling small car. And that means you can expect top dollar resale value when it comes time to trade. Maverick just doesn't know how to stop saving for you.

Kids and Adults Lock Horns Over Hippies

More than 250 Charlevoix parents and their offspring locked horns June 11 at a meeting called to discuss establishment of a "citizens' patrol" to help maintain law and order in the area this summer in the face of a growing number of "hippie" residents.

The group included about 50 young people, mostly resident of Charlevoix, who are sympathetic to the hippie philosophy that what a man does with his life should be of no concern to anyone but himself.

Adults in the audience were concerned that out-of-town hippies are corrupting the morals of their youngsters by introducing them to drugs and inviting them to all-night beach parties at Bells Bay.

The meeting was called by Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud who believes local law enforcement agencies need the backing of a citizens' group to help patrol hot spots at night, alerting police and sheriff's deputies whenever trouble is threatened.

With Stroud at the speakers' platform were Dale Boss, a candidate for township supervisor; Prosecutor Harvey Varnum of Boyne City; Sgt. Vaughan Blake of the Petoskey State Police post; Sheriff Philo Sumner and Deputy Byron Stockwell. No Charlevoix police attended.

Stroud kicked off the meeting by defending the beach parties that have been traditional among Charlevoix young people for generations.

"We don't want to stop anyone from having beach parties," he emphasized.

"Then just what is the score, what's going on?" asked Oscar Ward from the audience.

Stroud explained that some of the parties and hippie encampments have been on private property in violation of the trespass laws.

Prosecutor Varnum interrupted to say that he was happy to see so many citizens aroused to the point "where they want to do something."

However, he pointed out that if any effective action is to be taken, citizens must be willing to sign complaints, back up their law enforcement officers and work through established legal procedures.

He cautioned them not to rely on "rumor, suspicion or conjecture" when making their complaints.

Varnum said there already are laws covering trespassing (one of the chief complaints against the hippies), the use of foul language in the presence of women and children and interferring with the rights of others by creating disturbances.

He said he is absolutely opposed to the use of private patrols and private arms to main law and ortler.

"Just point a gun at someone, and you could be charged with assault with a deadly weapon," he warned.

"As long as they (the hippies) obey the law, they have the same rights as anyone else," he pointed out.

He suggested that if township officials feel they need additional police protection, they can establish their own police force or work through a duly elected constable.

Boss said he wanted the kids to know that he is behind them 100 percent.

"I've spent eight years on the school board and every vote I cast was for the benefit of kids," he said.

He added that he also has driven many teenagers down to the gas station for gasoline, or pulled them out of snow or sand, when they became stranded in the dunes around Mt. McSauba, long a favorite haunt of young people. Boss lives at North Point near Mt. McSauba.

He also pointed out that his political opponent, Oscar Stroud, at 58, is one of the chief proponents of constructing a drag strip for youngsters in the area.

"The only thing that concerns me is the use of dope," he pointed out. "It is illegal in Michigan and through the country."

Builder Steve LaBlance wanted to know what the community can do to help resolve the drug problem.

Varnum answered, saying that some communities have had success with educational programs using both films and speakers.

Danny Simonson, one of the young people in attendance, asked Varnum to discuss the effects of so-called hard-narcotics.

Varnum said Simonson "probably knows as much about the hard stuff as I do." He explained that he is no expert on drugs.

Miss Rindi Luedke, another of the young people, said that visitors sometimes pitch tents and find out too late that they are on private property.

Varnum suggested that campers pitch their tents where camping is allowed.

Stroud said that some campers will put up a pup tent for two people and invite 50 to 75 of their friends to spend the night.

Richard Wood, owner of the Woodshed, said that out-of-town motorcyclists are a worse problem than the hippies. He cited an incident over the last Fourth of July weekend during the motorcycle races when he was forced to close his bar and restaurant because of rowdy motorcyclists.

He said the motorcyclists get drunk in town and then head for Bells Bay to sleep it off.

"They're not camping," he said.

He suggested better policing of Bells Bay..

Dan Geneit said Bells Bay, one of his favorite campgrounds, has acquired a "stigma" because of the bad publicity it has received in recent weeks. He said he camped at Bells Bay three weekends in May and didn't run into any trouble.

"Yet a girl called "Sound Off" (a radio program) the other day and said she was afraid to go to Bells Bay. I don't know what she was afraid of, but we have to take the stigma off Bells Bay."

Stroud asked Geneit what he thought about establishing a curfew at Bells Bay to protect campers who go there to rest and relax. He said he knew of one beer party at the campground this year that lasted until 8:30 in the morning.

Varnum cautioned the crowd against "mass hysteria", hinting that the problem may not be as bad as many people imagine.

"On three different occasions we had plainclothesmen in here to investigate what were supposed to be pot parties. They waited until 2 o'clock in the morning, but the parties never happened," he said.

His remark was greeted by a burst of laughter from the young people.

"The dope problem has been blown all out of proportion to what it actually is," Varnum said. "Isn't that right?" he asked, turning to Sgt. Blake of the State Police.

Sgt. Blake nodded agreement.

Andy Essenburg said he had heard a lot at the meeting about kids' rights.

"Now I'd like to say something about adults' rights. Doesn't a businessman like Mr. Wood have a right to keep his business open during one of the busiest weekends of the year? If it's only four percent of the kids who are causing the problem, I'm all for using our cars as police cars and getting rid of that four percent.

His remarks were welcomed with applause.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY Prosecutor Harvey Varnum (standing) tells Charlevoix are residents to stick with established legal procedures in dealing with threatened lawlessness because of hippie invasion. He also warned against "mass hysteria" and said the drug problem has been greatly overrated.

Rader Quits, Is Then Appointed To Serve Rest of England's Term

In a surprise move Thursday night, Charlevoix School Board President Jack Rader resigned from the board only to be appointed moments later as a board member to replace Charles England, who is moving from the district.

Rader, who had intended to step down after serving four years on the board, will fill out the remaining one year of England's turn.

He said he agreed to serve the additional year because he feels his experience will be of assistance to incoming Superintendent Robert Miller. Miller will take over July 1, replacing Rex Milligan.

Board member Dale Boss nominated Rader to fill the vacancy created by England's leaving in order "to give continuity" to the school board. The terms of both Boss and Rader expire June 30 and neither was a candidate for re-election. England's departure would have meant three new members on the board.

Rader's appointment came as a surprise to some visitors at the meeting who had assumed that Donald Brown, who came in third in the June 8 school board election, would be appointed. Winning candidates were Clement Wagner and Mrs. Robert Lieberman.

Jerrald Redeker will serve as president of the board until new officers are elected at the July meeting.

England is moving to Jackson, Mich., with Consumers Power Co. as supervisor of transportation services. He had been in charge of the information center at the Big Rock Point nuclear Power Plant since June of 1965.

The board also:

–Heard a report by Robert Cook that 33 of the 108 members of this year's 8th grade class have such poor academic records they are in for certain trouble once they reach high school. He said the group generally is two years older than the rest of the class. Cook added that a vocational education program for the 21 boys in the group is being organized, to be financed by federal vo-ed funds. A similar program for girls is anticipated.

–Learned that Middle School Principal Raymond Carr has stepped down and will teach 7th grade mathematics next year. No successor was named.

–Agreed to let city Recreation Director Deano Davenport use the school gymnasium beginning June 15 for a two-week basketball clinic. They set the charge at $100 a week, or $5 per boy.

Arrest Murder Suspect

Woman Shot In Eveline; Mate Held

Charles Dale Ponder, 47, of Eveline Township, was charged with first degree murder Sunday morning following the fatal shooting of his wife, Marjorie Myrtle Ponder, also 47, outside Ponder's home on Old Lake 26-rd. about 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Sheriff Philo Sumner said an autopsy was performed on the dead woman Monday morning at Munson Hospital in Traverse City.

He said Mrs. Ponder apparently was shot with a .22 caliber rifle.

Mrs. Ponder, a resident of East Jordan, was visiting at her husband's home when the shooting occurred.

Ponder reportedly returned to northern Michigan from Florida three weeks ago where he had been picking oranges. Mrs. Ponder had remained in East Jordan.

The shooting was reported to the sheriff's office by telephone and Sumner, Medical Examiner Dr. Robert Martin, Prosecutor Harvey Varnum, and Deputies James D. McCallum and Byron Stockwell rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Ponder was dead in the yard of the one-story cement block cabin and Ponder was taken into custody.

Ponder was arraigned in District Court in Charlevoix Monday morning.

Mrs. Ponder's survivors in the area include her mother, Mrs. Omar Steenburgh of East Jordan; and four sisters, Mrs. Ivan Barnes and Mrs. Donald Fitch of East Jordan and Mrs. Ray Whitley and Mrs. Clayton Sarasin of Charlevoix. A son, Claude H. Autry jr., lives in Detroit.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Watson Funeral Home.

RICHARD HODGSON, new owner of Walker Marine Agency, talks "boats" with Charlevoix Yacht Club Commodore George LaBlance, who handled the transaction for Colwell & Co. Realtors.

Hodgson Takes Over Walker Marine

Richard Hodgson, 30, formerly of Grosse Pointe, has taken over as owner-manager of Walker Marine Agency on the south shore of Round Lake.

Hodgson, who purchased the business from D.D. Walker, will continue to sell Aerocraft, Trojan, Crosby, Century and Chrysler boats and other marine products, including Citgo fuel.

The transaction was handled by Colwell & Company Realtors, represented in Charlevoix by George LaBlance.

A former North Carolina land developer and owner of a parking garage in downtown Detroit, Hodgson also purchased 750 feet of lake frontage at Ironton from Walker. He sees it as a possible site for expansion of boat storage facilities.

Hodgson and his wife, Lois, have three sons: Richard jr., 8; Eric, 5; and Mark, 3. They live at 101 Maple-st., North Point.

Hodgson is a graduate of Grosse Pointe High School and attended Wayne State University.

The appearance is one of literally hundreds the wife of former Gov. George Romney is making throughout the state before the Aug. 4 primary election.

Mrs. Romney will begin the day at Traverse City, meeting with local press and radio representatives at 9 a.m.

At 10:15 she will speak at a GOP reception at the Antrim County courthouse in Bellaire, leaving about 20:45.

Thirty-five minutes later she will be in Charlevoix where she will speak and answer questions until 11:45.

At 12 15, she will address a luncheon meeting of the Petoskey Rotary Club at Stafford's Bay View Inn. After the luncheon, she will spend the afternoon at the inn, conferring with her staff.

James Shepard Faces Charge

James F. Shepard of Charlevoix, manager of Brow Marina, demanded preliminary examination June 12 when he appeared before District Court Magistrate John Connolly on a charge of larceny by conversion in the amount of $17,000.

Shepard posted $5,000 bond and the examination was set for 10 a.m. July 2 before District Judge W. Richard Smith.

The complaint against Shepard charges him with "fraudulently converting to his own use the property of another; to wit a 35-foot Chris Craft Coruntbian boat in the value of $17,000."

The complaint was signed by Darrell E. Dinwiddie of Charlevoix, secretary of THL (Thomas H. Loeb) Inc., former owner of Brow Marina. The complaint alleges that the boat actually is the property of THL, Inc.

Brow Marina was purchased from Loeb in April by Eino Nurme of Birdland; Harvey Rattner of Strawberry Cove and Kenneth Robinson of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tabor of Morrison Lake have been guests this past week at the home of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Neilsen.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet at the Church Monday evening, June 22, to make the final plans for their Beef Barbecue Luncheon to be held Thursday, June 25 at 11:30 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Brehm have returned to their home in Arlington Heights, Ill. after spending a week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Christensen.

After the Church Service Sunday morning, a reception was held in the church dining room for our local graduates, Becky Williams, Mickey Walker, Guy Smith and Jerry Parcel. Coffee punch and cookies were served and each graduate was presented with a gift from our church, congratulations and the very best wishes for their future.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olsheve are spending this week in Traverse City with their son Joe and his family who have a new son.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vincent have moved in their new home in East Jordan after living several years in Charleston, S.C., Mrs. Vincent's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Neilsen and sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tabor, of Morrison Lake were their guests Saturday evening.

June 5,6,7, was probably one of the most eventful weekends in the lives of five Ironton School and four Conway School children who were chosen to enter the Special Olympics in Kalamazoo. This was all made possible from their two day bake sale, a bazaar of their handmade items and several generous donations. Several of these youngsters returned with gold, silver and bronze awards. Two, perhaps three, girls are eligible for the Chicago Olympics in August.

What wonderful achievements are being made to help these handicapped children to make their way in the world today. Much credit is due to the instructors, leaders and the parent cooperation in this most satisfying and worthwhile work to help make a world for them.

Stroud asked Sgt. Blake if he'd care to comment.

"Nothing takes more time with less results than narcotics investigation," Blake said. "I have a three page report on my desk right now about kids smoking and pushing marijuana. But until we get the information we need, it's a tough proposition."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson said that parents are helpless to do anything about the narcotics problem "unless the kids help us."

"We can have our hearts torn apart, but we can't do anything unless kids – every one of you – help us," she said.

The audience applauded.

Blake said his department has the names of 50 percent of the marijuana pushers in the area, "but we can't do anything without evidence."

Varnum said law enforcement officers will be almost ready to make arrests "when something comes up, sometimes in the newspapers, to blow the case."

William Supernaw suggested that the young people caucus to select representatives to present their side of the problem. They selected Greg Sikorski, Rindi Luedke and Paul Belding, who moved to the speakers' table.

Attorney Donald Berlage then asked Belding if any of the youngsters attending drinking parties at Bells Bay are minors. Belding said he didn't know of any, adding that most of the party-goers are from Detroit.

Berlage pointed out that the parents could be found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor if they allow their youngsters to drink.

Mrs. Larry Edwards pointed out that some adults set a poor example for children "with their extra marital affairs and teachers smoking pot."

"Is this supposed to be a good example?" she asked.

Jerry Shupert took exception to her comments.

"Don't blame all of us for what some dirty adults do," he said.

Miss Luedke said that too many parents have made things too easy for their children.

"It's too easy to buy liquor, and it's too easy to have your friends buy it," she said.

Mark Peterson then asked if he has to be grown up to have people understand his problems.

He was answered by his father, Ronald Peterson, from the back of the room.

"I don't always agree with him, but he has a right to be heard," the senior Peterson said. "If I told you he has never given us fits and problems, I'd be lying. But I think he is a good boy and will grow up to be a good citizen."

Belding said adults make a mistake when they classify all bearded, long-haired youngsters as "hippies." He said he himself is working full time.

A member of the audience asked Belding about the responsibility of young people to the community, "aside from sitting around in the park all day making themselves pretty."

"Youth never has had much responsibility," Belding said.

"Do you have to have responsibility to live?" interrupted Mike Etienne from the audience. "It is not a requirement of the human race to have responsibility," he added, answering his own question.

Etienne said he has not had a job in five months.

William Coon of Gaylord, a candidate in the 106 representative district, asked Etienne: "Why did you give up on life? What did you find wrong with system? If we can find out, we may be close to an answer."

Etienne didn't answer.

Miss Luedke said it is the responsibility of young people to "take over."

"Our responsibility is to make America the best country in the world. This is what we are preparing for. This is what we are going to do," she said.

Sikorski, said he is 25 and married, with a child on the way.

"I am going to watch out for my own child," he said.

He said he came to the meeting because of all the talk he had heard about "vigilanties" and deputies with shot guns loaded with rock salt.

Bill Moore spoke up from the audience:

"Pot, beer. It's all wrong. There's no age limit against pot. It's the parents responsibility to teach right and wrong. But when you get down to facts, it's their (the young peoples') decision."

In response to a comment on raising children from an unidentified woman in the audience, Danny Simonson asked if she had ever read her children Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

The woman said she had.

"It was written while Mr. Carroll was on opium," Simonson said.

Mrs. Ray Wood asked if charlevoix's curfew ordinance couldn't be of some assistance in keeping youngsters off the streets at night. No one in the audience knew the provisions of the curfew ordinance. (See editorial page.)

Miss Luedke commented: "You have raised us. Most of our life patterns were established in the first six years. Now it's our problem."

Another unidentified woman who said she was a 20-year-old mother, said she is "sick of hearing teenagers blame parents" for their problems.

Richard Wood said the state is partly responsible for the problem with its stringent restrictions on employment of the young.

Essenburg spoke up again: "When we were young we didn't have cars to drive. We didn't have snowmobiles. We didn't have an unlimited number of dollars to spend. Maybe we aren't perfect. Maybe our feet are made of clay. But we worked for what we have."

Etienne, who wears his hair to his shoulders, asked Essenburg if he would give him a job in his grocery store.

"People wouldn't come into my store if I did," Essenburg said. "I'm in business for profit, not love and affection."

Mrs. Abe VerWys in the audience said she has raised six children and wondered if there were any teenagers present who had a good rapport with their parents.

Hands shot up all over the room.

Stroud closed the session in order to clear the room for a VFW Auxiliary meeting. But small groups continued to discuss the hippie problem for almost an hour in the front yard of the VFW hall.

YOUNG PEOPLE attending the meeting on the hippie problem caucused mid-way through the session to pick spokesmen for their group. The discussion attracted one of the largest turnouts on record at the VFW hall on U.S. 31 north.

Curfew Ordinance Offers Some Hope

"What about Charlevoix's curfew ordinance?" asked Mrs. Ray Wood at last Thursday's city-township meeting to discuss the "hippie problem"

"Can't it be enforced to keep our children off the streets at night?"

Mrs. Wood is mainly concerned about the number of young people in town who have attached themselves to the embryo hippie cult that is developing in Charlevoix this summer.

Unfortunately, no one at the meeting was in a position to answer her question.

However, Charlevoix does have a curfew ordinance, adopted in 1943, which could prove to be an important weapon in our law enforcement arsenal this summer -- if it is diligently enforced. Following is the ordinance in its entirety:

ORDINANCE NO. 209

An Ordinance to regulate the time that children may be permitted and allowed upon the public streets, alleys, parks and other public grounds within the city of Charlevoix.

The city of Charlevoix ordains:

Section 1: That it shall be unlawful for any person under the full age of 14 years to be and/or remain upon any of the public streets, alleys, parks and other public grounds with the city of Charlevoix, between the hours of 9:30 in the afternoon and 6 a.m. the following forenoon, unless accompanied by an adult person while returning home from some school function, or while in the discharge of an errand under the direction of his or her parent, parents or legal guardian.

Section 2: That it shall be unlawful for any person under the full age of 16 years to be and/or remain upon any of the Public Streets, Alleys, Parks' and other Public Grounds within the City of Charlevoix, between the hours of 11 in the afternoon and 6 a.m. the following forenoon, unless accompanied by an adult person or while returning home from some school function, or while in the discharge of an errand under the direction of his or her parent, parents or legal guardian.

Section 3: That any child who shall knowingly violate this ordinance may be deemed a delinquent child in the Probate Court of Charlevoix County, Michigan.

Section 4: That any person who shall willfully or knowingly permit any child of whom they are the parent, parents or guardian, to violate this ordinance, shall be guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor child, and upon conviction, either on confession or after trial, shall be subject to a fine of not exceeding the sum of twenty-five (25) dollars and costs of prosecution, and in default of the payment of said fine and costs, may in the discretion of the court be confined in the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty days.

Section 5: It shall not be necessary that said child violating the provisions of this act shall be adjudged a delinquent child before a prosecution of said parent, parents or legal guardian be instituted and trial had, and the parent, parents or legal guardians guilt or innocence adjudicated.

Section 6: It shall be the duty of the police officers of the city of Charlevoix to enforce this ordinance.

Section 7: This ordinance shall take effect twenty days from the date of its publication.

(Signed) Robert Bridge, Mayor, (Countersigned) Ray S. Hamilton, city clerk; state of Michigan, county of Charlevoix.

I hereby certify that the adoption of Ordinance No. 209 entitled "An ordinance to regulate the time that children may be permitted and allowed upon the public streets, alleys, parks and other public grounds within the city of Charlevoix" was adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council of the city of Charlevoix, the state of Michigan, on the 19th day of April, 1943, A.D. and published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper published in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, on the 21st day of April A.D. 1943. (Signed) Ray S. Hamilton, city clerk.

So there you have it. Charlevoix does have a curfew ordinance. And it is up to the police to enforce it.

Charlevoix Police Chief Joseph Smith says the ordinance is enforced and that quite often his men pick up children on the streets and take them home.

The Courier thinks it would be better for officers to take violators to the police station and have their parents pick them up. The inconvenience of crawling out of bed at 2 a.m. to pick up your wayward child at the police station might be just the thing to prompt lax parents to shoulder more responsibility for their offspring.

The curfew ordinance, coupled with another ordinance the city council is presently weighing to govern a wide range of activities in city parks and on city beaches, might be just enough to nip the "hippie problem" in the bud.

Of course, to be effective, any ordinance must be assiduously enforced.

It looks like a busy summer for Charlevoix's men in blue.

Bricks & Bouquets

June 7, 1970

Dear Bob:

My half sister, a blood relation, was most put out at being called a step sister, a relation by marriage only, in your article.

It seems too many times if I personally knew anything about the thing being reported there were errors. I recall a picture of a basketball team saying it was the 7th grade which I knew it wasn't, as my kid was in it. Also an article on players that would be lost to the team by graduation. And I knew some of them wouldn't be graduating. I then was skeptical of the names listed from around the area.

There things leave me more inclined to go along with Vice President Agnew and do make me wonder about what I'm reading. I realize how difficult also reporting must be.

Dear Bob:

Your editorial in June 10 issue of Courier was very good and I would like to compliment you on it. The one on the hippie invasion. You looked at both sides and came to a conclusion I certainly agree with. Again may I compliment you and I'll even go along with your use of damn used in this instance.

Sees Threat In Proposed Bldg. Code

Route 1
Charlevoix, Mich.
June 4, 1970

Dear Editor:

Whenever, in the history of Michigan has an attempt of this kind been made to inspect all homes, including farm houses, dwellings of all kinds in villages and rural areas? This is a most iniquitous attempt to pass legislation for legally authorized intrusion into anyone's private home.

Should a state commission have simple control, state-wide, over the construction, erection, reconstruction, alteration, conversion, repair, demolition, use, occupation, maintainance and equipping of all building and structures, including land area contigent thereto?

Well, if this does sound unbelieveable, please read the proposed new state construction code act.

Who will enforce the rules, who are the people and where are they from? This will be a double barrel deal. The "enforcing agency" will be on the county level, but it "shall include the staff of the commission". All of this of course, sounds very familiar to me, a man who escaped dictatorship, where regard for private property did not exist. Must this be permitted to happen here? Does our Constitution not give us some rights, that we ought not delegate to others? Our Constitution says: A home shall be a man's castle. Well, if everyone is permitted to intrude, to me this no longer remains my castle.

Now, is violation of these codes a felony? Believe it or not, penalties run as high as $1,000 or a year imprisonment, or both. Each day of violation may be a separate offense. Read page 82, Section 9.

Some legislators say they don't want inspectors entering homes. That makes little difference. He does not have to come inside to dictate your house to be painted, resided, or re-roofed. Homes not meeting Lansing standards would have to be "brought up to code" at owner's expense.

According to Section 105, page 60, of said Building and Construction Codes, the inspector will come inside and inspect your entire home, if you want to rent out even one sleeping room or an apartment you must have a "certificate of compliance" to rent any habitation unit.

This same manual states on page 85, Section 13, "No building or structure constructed shall be used or occupied in whole or in part until a certificate of use and occupancy whall have been issued by the appropriate enforcing agency;" etc.

Everyone of my readers ought to be alarmed and concerned enough to write his representative, in this area it is Rep. Robert W. Davis, State Capitol, and ask for a free copy of "Report of Commission on Housing Law."

Let your lawmakers know you do not want them taking away your property rights. You will never vote on these measures, but you can vote against the politicians who let them pass.

My unconditional objection to these proposed laws is that they put control of all Michigan homes and property into the hands of the governor and men appointed by him.

In my vocabulary there is only one name for all of this "dictatorship," but call it whatever you want, we still arrive at the same result deprivation of our Constitutional rights by a few power hungry bureaucrats.

Is this what you want? If not, then speak up to your legislators.

For your Constitutional rights.
Yours truly,
Richard Friske

Eels Get Treatment

The second round of treatments to control the lamprey eel in Lake Michigan is now under way and will probably be completed in 1971, according to U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries specialist Leo Erkkila at Ann Arbor

"We don't know how low lamprey levels in Lake Michigan have fallen," he said, "but less than four percent of cohos, chinooks, and steelheads from Lake Michigan showed lamprey scarring last fall."

By contrast, Erkkila added, 65 percent of salmon from Lake Huron showed scarring last fall. No trout were handled on that lake. Lake Huron scarring is expected to drop sharply as treatment programs proceed on the lake.

Treatment started on Lake Superior in the late 1950's, advanced to Lake Michigan, and is now moving through Lake Huron. Lake Erie has always had a low level of lampreys, but Lake Ontario, last of the five Great Lakes, will be the final target as soon as work has advanced sufficiently on the upper lakes.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Some residents of Charlevoix were surprised Thursday morning to find the following mimeographed message slipped under their front doors:

"Attention Younger Generation: The Generation Gap is just a trusting problem. You younger people just don't trust us parents and responsible adults. Why won't you believe us when we say marijuana is not good for you?

"We know those 'quack' doctors haven't proved it harmful yet, but just wait. We also know you haven't caused anyone any harm, but yourselves. It's just that we have lived our youth and want to show you how to live yours. We mean; Look at the fantastic job we did with ours. What more can you ask for?

"So in conclusion, 'Trust us.' Then when you grow up we'll let you join our Charlevoix Key Club. You know, where we change partners, or maybe you can go sociable drinking with us.

"Also, if you are real good, we'll let you go back to the early part of our history and play Vigilanti.

Respectfully yours: The Vigilanties."

It goes without saying the message was prepared and distributed by members of the younger generation, who are quick to point out, and rightfully so, that their elders at times are woefully guilty of not practicing what they preach.

Charlevoixans also don't have to be told who the Vigilanties are. That is the name popularly applied to the "citizens' patrol" being organized in the area to back up city police and the sheriff's department.

It also goes without saying that the writer of the message recognizes the inconsistency – phoniness, if you want to call it that – of the over-30 crowd.

And the writer, whoever he is, is right. So right. Some adults set poor examples with their own lives, yet they expect their youngsters to be models of virtue and rectitude.

Yet this should not be a valid reason for children to mess up their own lives.

In fact, it seems that just the opposite should be true.

A child who grows up knowing full well the unhappines that results from alcoholism and extra-marital relationships on the part of his parents should be all the more determined to achieve something better for himself and his future family.

But the writer of the message which was slipped under the Courier door seems to feel that adult transgressions pave the way for even more grievous breaches of moral conduct on the part of the young. His attitude is: "They do it; why shouldn't I?"

Frankly, I had expected something better from our young people.

Until recently, I was firmly convinced that people were becoming "better" with each passing generation. I know, for example, that my generation is far more tolerant and understanding in racial situations than the generation that went before us.

And I have witnessed even greater progress in the area of civil liberties and human rights in the generation that is just behind us.

To their everlasting credit, the young people of the United States are opposed, almost to a man, to the horrible carnage we have been engaged in for the past half-decade in Southeast Asia. Their demonstrations and arguments in the cause of peace are one of the most heartening indications that they, at last, may be able to find an acceptable alternative to war.

But narcotics may well undo all the good our young people have proved themselves capable of doing. Their high purposes and noble goals will never be achieved if they allow themselves to be sidetracked by the fleeting pleasures of a narcotic-induced euphoria.

This is something most parents understand only too well, regardless of their own moral conduct. They want their youngsters to succeed where they have failed.

They also are victims of an overpowering urge to protect their young, a deep-seated primmordial instinct that today's pot-smoking and pill-popping generation will not understand until they have children of their own.

Call it love, if you will, because love has more powerful manifestation.

This is what we would like to tell our young, if only they would listen.

If it Fitz

The General Chokes

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A kid from Illinois, while doing his duty in Vietnam, got a bullet in his heart. Somehow, he didn't die, thus getting his name on a lot of front pages.

The Associated Press reported: "Army surgeons have removed a Viet Cong bullet from the heart of a 20-year-old American soldier in what they call an operation unprecedented in the Vietnam war.

" 'We've never had a case like this before,' said Dr. Elias Hanna, cardiac surgeon at the army hospital in Saigon. 'There have been cases in which the heart was punctured by fragments, but this is the first time a whole bullet has been removed from the heart.' "

All of which turns me on – and off. I'm naturally tickled the young man will live. But Holy Cow, Mabel.

What a lousy world it is when we must celebrate the removal of a bullet from a heart. It would be the same thing if the Detroit Tigers burned all their bats and tried to hit the ball with toothpicks. And then had a joyous festival because they only lost the game 20 to 1 instead of 20 to 0.

What's to celebrate? Why did the big boobs burn their bats in the first place?

Why did humanity put that bullet in the boy's heart in the first place?

Batting at baseballs with toothpicks is no way to win games. Any player with such a silly idea would be straightened out quickly by his manager.

Fighting wars is no way for a 20-year-old youth to live to vote. Most bullets in the heart, and elsewhere, are extremely hazardous to the health. But the boys keep going to war anyway. Blame it on stupid management.

Maybe someday there will be more unusual surgery resulting from war. It could be performed on this stupid management – the big shots in Washington and Moscow and Hanoi and Saigon. The stuffed shirts who talk peace endlessly in Paris while boys bleed endlessly in Vietnam.

The Associated Press might report the operation like this "Surgeons at Walter Reed Hospital have removed a large mass of liquid from the throat of General Butch McWinwright, the Pentagon veteran who gained fame by using computers to count dead bodies.

"The general was choking on the liquid which was later identified as the blood of a 20-year-old soldier killed the day before in Vietnam.

"General McWinwright is expected to recover completely although it appears his speech will be affected. He used to shriek like a hawk but now he coos like a dove."

Is Board Afraid of 'New Blood'?

June 12, 1970

Editor-Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Editor:

The people of Charlevoix have been losing confidence in the school board and administration as has been evident in past years when they repeatedly voted down millage for the school system. Now, this year, some of the lost confidence has been regained, as evident by the passing of the millage on a first ballot.

It seems this confidence may be shaken again by the board's action at the Thursday night meeting. It looked like the "Old Guard" political party once more.

Charles England resigned from the board at that meeting (because he has been transferred to another city) and a motion was made by Mr. Boss to appoint Mr. Rader (before he resigned as a present Board member) to fill this vacancy. This motion was seconded by another member of the board before the legality of such a motion could be questioned. Mr. Rader resigned on the spot and Mr. Boss again presented his motion to appoint Mr. Rader. It was seconded and approved to seat Mr. Rader on the board until the next regular election in June 1971.

The voting public elected two new members and two lost by a very close margin. It seemed to be public opinion that the "runner-up" would, or should, be appointed to fill the vacancy. If Mr. Rader was so interested in remaining on the school board, why didn't he file for re-election?

Is the present board afraid of losing some of its power by admitting "new blood" to represent the people of this community?

Says Board Overruled Electorate

Charlevoix, Mich
June 11, 1970

Dear Mr. Clock,

I wonder why it was necessary to have an election for school board members this past week. It seems the present school board members feel they are irreplaceable. Example: At the June 11 meeting, the present board had one of their members resign and turned around and reappointed him to fill the vacancy created when Mr. England resigned (because he is moving from the city.)

Why didn't the board have the "guts" to appoint one of the two candidates who had the initiative to run for the office in last week's election and were so narrowly defeated?

Perhaps it would have been easier if the present board could have appointed all three of their new members and saved us the mockery of an election!

Please withhold my name.

Romneys Pinch Pennies

(The following was submitted to the Courier by H.E. "Cap" Paddock.)

"We're being extra conservative these days" the housewife commented. "We don't take vacations, we don't have a maid, and George helps me with the dishes." A frequently heard remark lately, but not one you would expect from Lenore Romney, whose husband earns $60,000 as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Or did, until he decided to return one-fourth of the salary to the Government as his "personal contribution to the battle" against inflation. George Romney said he hoped others would do the same, but acknowledged that he had "decided to light a candle regardless of what anyone else may do." Despite the penny-pinching measures the Romneys have already taken, Mrs. Romney thinks they can do better. "Perhaps I'll begin taking up my own hems," she mused.

Proud to Be 'Donaldson Man'

June 11, 1970

Dear Editor:

It has been said that one of the reasons I lost the election was because I am a "Dick Donaldson" man.

If being a "Donaldson" man means that I am for:

1. The best education for our children with the money the tax payers can afford.
2. Spending countless hours compiling facts and figures to present to the voters for approval, and
3. Letting the citizens know what has taken place during the preceding year and how their money is spent, then I am a "Donaldson" man, and proud of it – win, lose or draw.

Cherry Festival Will Bring Touch of Home to Viet GI's

"All the boys were so happy and cheering when they mentioned 'Traverse City. . .I was very happy to hear that you were going to celebrate the Traverse City Cherry Festival over here." ..

So went a letter from Eugene Farkas, a Marine from Charlevoix, now stationed near Da Nang, South Vietnam, to his great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Beer of Traverse City.

The letter goes on to describe the feelings of the servicemen as they anticipate the first National Cherry Festival to be staged at the China Beach USO with the help of residents throughout the cherry region.

"I went to a big USO last week and, guess what?" Marine Farkas writes. "They had a sign up saying, 'If you are from northern Michigan please come in the office.' When I went in they asked me if I ever heard of Traverse City. I said, 'Why sure, I live not too far from it and have relatives there.' "

"They got a letter from the National Cherry Festival office with information on your Cherry Festival, for they are going to celebrate it here in Vietnam at the same time you do in July and they want to take my picture. . .for attending the celebration of National Cherry Festival Week. Your festival office is going to send them a bunch of cherry stuff made of cherries from northern Michigan."

PFC Farkas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Farkas, 102 Green-st., Charlevoix.

Traverse City residents and others from northern Michigan are sending cherry cookies, candies, and similar treats to the service organization in an effort to share the annual cherry celebration with those serving in Vietnam. The festival office in Traverse City has sent pictures, brochures, decorations, and taped greetings from the 1969 National Cherry Queen Barbara Ann Beckett.

Eugene Farkas

The sister-festival is scheduled for July 6 - 12, giving residents some two weeks left to mail packages of cherry treats in time for the event. The NCF office suggests that the packages be labelled "National Cherry Festival" for ready identification and mailed as soon as possible to:

Miss Christine Thoren,
Assistant Director
China Beach USO
APO San Francisco 96695

Any type of cherry goodies will find its appropriate end in the stomach of an appreciative serviceman who will no doubt long remember the northern Michigan people who took time out to "send the Cherry Festival" to those unable to celebrate with them in the cherry capital.

PFC Farkas' addresses is: PFC Eugene Farkas, 2614111 / HQ Co. Security Platoon / 1st Marines FPO San Francisco; Calif. 96602.

JOHN GIBSON of Charlevoix took a first place Sunday in the stock car Chevy II class in Tri-City Hot Rod Races in Midland. Gibson averaged 94.33 mph on the quarter-mile track, covering the distance in 14.54 seconds. Gibson brought home a trophy from his first race.

YOU can now be a professional type chef with a better than 'charcoal' flavor

Some of America's finest eating places now feature "Charcoal Broilers"....but seldom is "charcoal" used. Most skilled chefs now use ceramic briquets heated with gas. Their professional reputations are based on being able to consistently prepare meals of the same high quality time after time.

Gas-fired charcoal rocks give chefs the necessary temperature control to maintain this uniform quality. Flare-ups and smoking can be restrained with gas.

Your Siegler Gas-fired Barbecue gives your meals that professional touch. By controlling smoke and flame, your Siegler brings out the matchless flavor of the finest cuts....even the more economical cuts of meat can be transformed into masterful delicacies.

No longer will you need the poker and shovel for coals. You can do away with the sprinkling can or bottle of water for dousing flames when fat gets in the fire....No more running to the store to buy additional charcoal....No more flying sparks or foul-smelling starting fluids, and you won't ever have to dispose of messy ashes again.

You, and your Siegler Gas-fired Barbecue, can now turn out a professional quality meal....with all the fun and zest for living that goes with being outdoors.

ONLY A HANDFUL of people turned out for a crash meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce to discuss money problems and apparent apathy on the part of townspeople toward chamber of commerce activities.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Help is needed for the Venetian Festival, Saturday and Sunday, July 25 and 26: We appeal for participation in the street parade, such as old cars that have power with some added color decorations, maybe a couple of boat trailers with small boats with decorations and comedy fishermen. It is hoped our variety of business places will have floats or other participation. Of course, as usual we are expecting our good high school marching band headed by director C. A. Odmark, and by the way if any of you good people have any ideas of a couple more bands, please quickly present them as we certainly lack music.

The chamber will, of course, prevail on neighboring communities for their participation as before. Here's an opportunity for some of you interested people to display some of your ideas on a voluntary basis. How else?

What would the Venetian Festival be without a boat parade and fire works which attract people from all over the state? However we must plan regardless, it's scheduled.

We have severed financial difficulties due in part to an anticipated expenditure of $750 for fire works. The boat parade momentarily is on a teeter in as much as our old standby Lyle Miles was compelled to resign as chairman and co-ordinator of the boat parade. However, Lyle will co-operate to the fullest extent with any committee or organization who will take over the arranging of the boat parade.

At a special meeting June 10, members discussed two newly organized yacht clubs in the boat parade.

We all feel that it woud be a good thing for all concerned if these two new units would get involved.

I noticed with interest in a recent publication that the Senior Citizens group at East Jordan have joined the Chamber of Commerce there. How nice.

From all appearances, "Keep Michigan Beautiful Month" lasted at least that time. (Litter that is.)

Boating, especially the outboard jobs, is enlarging with leaps and bounds. Accordingly it behooves the boaters "learn the rules of the road" and then start to practice common sense and courtesy.

A retired gentleman known to me as "Joe" has a couple of feathered friends here at Harborside, a pair of mallard ducks, the female either has a clipped wing or otherwise is injured somehow so she cannot fly. I have often noticed, no matter where this pair is, in the water or on land, when they see Joe coming with his little brown bag, they head for him and he generally feeds them almost hand to mouth.

Your board of directors, at the moment, is involved in a special drive for funds to assist the chamber for the $1000 they seem to be liable for in order to get the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament here at the Belvedere Club. They have raised slightly over half that amount in a few short days. And there are more calls to make.

Be reminded July 11, our 2nd annual Lakeside Hobbycraft Show, East Park, downtown. How about it? Have you made your application for space?

Hails Increase in Swamp Tax

State Representative Robert W. Davis (R-106th District) has hailed the passage of legislation increasing the amount of revenue to local municipalities and school districts from land placed in the Commercial Forest Reserve-Act as "good news for all of northern and upper Michigan".

The revenue is referred to locally as the "swamp tax."

Representative Davis is a co-sponsor along with al Upper Peninsula and northern Michigan legislators of the bill (House Bill 3940) which passed June 9 in the Michigan House. The prime sponsor of the bill is State Representative John D. Payant, Republican of Kingsford.

"This legislation increases the annual specific tax paid by private landowners from a sliding scale of 5 cents to 10 cents per acre to a uniform payment of 15 cents per acre," Davis said.

"It also increases the annual payment made by the state to local units from 10 cents per acre to 25 cents per acre. The effect of this will be to approximately double the payments by private landowners and State government to local units of government," he added.

"Passage of this bill is another move on the part of the Legislature to bring equity in revenue on state-owned lands in the Upper Peninsula," Davis said, "and I do not anticipate any trouble in passing this bill in the Senate."

Magistrate's Court

The following cases were heard last week by District Court Magistrate John Connolly:

Resort Areas Buoyed by Traffic Count

Motorists drove a record 621 million miles in Michigan during the Memorial Day weekend, traffice analysts for the Department of State Highways report.

Some economists believe Memorial Day traffic is a good indication what resort areas can expect during the remainder of the tourist season.

The count, running from Thursday through Sunday, is a preliminary estimate based on figures from traffic recorders placed throughout the state.

The previous four-day Memorial Day weekend record, 620.4 million miles, was set last year.

When children discover a playmate wets the bed—the result can be merciless teasing. And serious psychological problems.

Even the entire family can be affected. The cost and work of taking care of a bed-wetting child can cause friction and irritability among parents.

Walter C. Alvarez, M.D., Prof. Emeritus, Mayo Clinic, says;

"Bedwetting . . . is hard on the unhappy child and on the mother . . . even if his parents do not scold him, he cannot help feeling that he is a terrible nuisance and a disgrace to the family."

But now bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Safely. Permanently.

Pacific International has ended bedwetting for tens of thousands of children and adults from ages 4 to 57 in the past two decades.

WE ASK YOU

Should a bank make bread with your dough and give you the crumbs?
A bank that offers "low monthly balance" savings accounts can really make out — with your money. Here's how. Let's say you withdraw 2/3 of your money to cover an emergency and then put it back 4 days later. That's no crime. But the bank penalizes you by paying interest only on the 1/3 you left behind. The other 2/3 that they had the use of for most of the month was a nice present from you. They made some bread, and you got the crumbs. Charlevoix County
State Bank pays daily interest and you got the crumbs. Charlevoix
County State Bank pays daily interest on savings.
That means you pay no penalty for taking some out.
The day you put it back is the day it starts earning interest again. Not a month or so later. In fact, every deposit begins earning immediately, even if it's made after the 10th of the month. Ask your bank if your savings interest is paid on the low monthly balance. If that's the case, you may want to pay us a visit, because here you can earn interest every day on every penny of your savings. So don't settle for half a loaf. Get the whole thing, at the Charlevoix County State Bank.

Lenore Breezes Into Town

Mrs. George (Lenore) Romney, a GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate from Michigan, breezed into Charlevoix last Wednesday morning to meet with local Republicans at the county building and give her views on the Vietnam war, crime, and the state of the economy.

The sprightly wife of the former Michigan governor was on a whirlwind tour of northern Michigan in advance, of the Aug. 4 primary. She said she plans to return to Charlevoix again, probably for the Venetian Festival.

Escorted by two press agents, Mrs. Romney arrived in Charlevoix from Bellaire where she had met with Antrim county Republicans. She had other speaking engagements in Petoskey, Mackinaw City and St. Ignace before calling it a day.

She said that the nation must stop moving from crisis to crisis and program to program in the manner of Democratic Sen. Phil Hart, whom she hopes to oppose in November.

She made it clear she is using Hart's record in the Senate as an example of things she is against.

Following are her comments on the various issues:

Vietnam: We should never have gone into Southeast Asia with land troops against the advice of former President Eisenhower. We made a terrible mistake committing troops in Vietnam. I want to pull out by the

C of C Ousts Loder; Oestrikes Take Over

Wally Loder, secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for the past three years, has been replaced by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Oestrike of Pine Point.

Loder was asked to step down by the board of directors in the face of growing financial problems. Only 35 business memberships have been paid so far this year, out of a possible 200.

The announcement that Loder had been replaced was made at the chamber's eye-opener breakfast at the Weathervane Inn June 17 by President Bruce Bartlett.

The new managers of the chamber are natives of Flat Rock, Mich., who have lived in the Charlevoix area since last July.

Oestrike, 31, is a manufacturers representative for ski wear and ladies sportswear, whose position will allow him to spend about half of the year in the Charlevoix area. When he is out-of-town, his wife, Sharon, will fill in for him at the chamber office.

Oestrike graduated from Flat Rock High School in 1957 and Central Michigan University in 1961 with a major in business administration and a minor in physical education.

After serving one year as assistant buyer for the J.L. Hudson Co. in Detroit, he went on active duty with the Air National Guard at Denver, Colo.

After his graduation, he managed Ski, Inc., at Denver for 18 months before becoming a buyer in the ski and active sportswear department of May D & F Department Store in Denver.

In 1967, Oestrike began his own manufacturer's representative business, working out of Munroe Falls, Ohio.

"Since we were spending more time in northern Michigan than we were in Ohio, we decided to move to Charlevoix last year," Mrs. Oestrike says.

She also graduated from Flat Rock High and Michigan University, majoring in sociology and psychology. She later attending the Detroit Police Academy and worked as a Detroit policewoman from 1961 until 1963.

The Oestrike's have two daughters, Heidi, 5, and Krista, 3.

Loder, who will be 70 in December, says he hopes to remain in Charlevoix if he can find a job.

He and his wife, Marie, moved to Charlevoix eight years ago from Cleveland where he had been an industrial traffic manager. They operated a resort on U.S. 32 north and started the Wal-Mar Beauty Salon, in Oleson's shopping center.

Dems to Meet

The Charlevoix County Democratic Party will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 1, at the Charlevoix city hall.

Chairman Peter C. Johnson, who has announced his candidacy in the 106th representative district, is expected to offer his resignation as county chairman.

Crackdown Ordinance Passes

The Charlevoix City Council Monday night passed a sweeping ordinance giving police broad powers to regulate activities at the city's parks and beaches. It will go into effect July 13.

The ordinance was drawn up by City Attorney John Michael to give law enforcement officers more authority over a number of a number of drifters who have moved into Charlevoix this summer.

The new law expressly prohibits loitering in parks and on beaches between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. and outlaws sleeping in public parks during the night time.

Other provisions govern the erection of booths and tents, disposal of rubbish, the use of firearms, the location of cooking fires and bon fires, parades, drills, political and religious meeting, the use of obscene language and control of motor vehicles.

In other business the council:

--Waived a six-inch depth restriction on a sign to be erected above the new Col. Sanders' fried chicken establishment on Bridge-st. The sign will extend 10 inches.

–Learned that representatives of the city, Medusa Portland Cement Co. and the Department of Natural Resources will meet again next week to try to work out a land-swap for the proposed sewage disposal plant.

House Candidates Tee-Off on Campaign Issues

The race for the 106th district seat in the house of representatives picked up steam last week when nine of the candidates laid their cards on the table at a meeting called June 18 by Mrs. Katharine Hafstad, Emmet County GOP chairman.

The meeting came less than 24 hours after county chairmen from throughout the district agreed at St. Ignace to endorse only four of the candidates: Ted Miller of Elk Rapids, John Kujawski of Boyne City, William Coon of Gaylord and Stanley McRae of Mackinaw City.

Charlevoix County GOP Chairman Oscar Stroud said he was against the formal endorsement by the county chairmen.

The move apparently was made in hopes that the remaining candidates would drop from the race, but only one, Wendell J. Marzolf of Gaylord, did so following the endorsement. Del Terrill of Charlevoix dropped from the race two weeks ago.

Attending the June 18 meeting at the 4-H Center in Petoskey were Miller, Kujawski, Coon, McRae, Gerald Olson of East Jordan, Richard Friske of Charlevoix, Donald Stark of St. Ignace, Victor Kishigo of Petoskey and Martin Brennan of Conway.

The only active candidate who did not attend the pow-wow was Glenn Law of St. Ignace who said he was advised against attending the meeting following the endorsement announcement.

The candidates were each alloted three minutes to say something about themselves and their political philosophies.

Stark, a former mayor of Petoskey, was the only candidate to publicly mention the GOP endorsement.

"I was asked to drop out of the race this morning," he said. "I would have preferred the support of the party. I feel my record of public life is as good or better than most of the candidates. I have served the public in both the Lower and Upper Peninsulas. I am going to run and let the voters decide in August who they want to represent them."

After their introductory speeches, the candidates were asked four questions:

I – What are the three or four most important issues facing Michigan?

Friske: Education, crime and pollution.

Brennan: Campus disorders, education, crime and drugs.

Kishigo: Pollution, education and unemployment.

Miller: Educational financing, pollution and social welfare.

Stark: School financing, crime and money problems.

McRae: Education, pollution and crime.

Kujawski: Law and order, drug abuse and pollution.

Coon: Environment and fiscal reform in education. "If we don't care of the environment, we won't have to worry about any other problems."

Olson: Pollution, education, drugs and lawlessness.

II – Which method of school financing do you prefer: (1) Local property tax, (2) State-wide property tax or (3) Lowered property tax and income tax.

Friske: No. 3. It is unfair to ask the property owner to carry the heaviest load; however the property tax is all right if only property owners vote on taxes.

Brennan: No. 3. Down below, a good many people live in apartments and don't pay property taxes, at least directly. I would also favor support through a corporate income tax.

Kishigo: No. 2. We have from $5,000 to $55,000 behind each child in the various school districts, depending on the wealth of the school district. Children in the poorer do not receive a comparable education.

Miller: No. 3 would insure quality education.

Stark: No. 3. We all hate to see more taxes, but when you lower one, you have to raise another.

McRae: No. 3. Basically it's wrong to penalize people who have been thrifty and saved money to buy property.

Kujawski: No. 3. Often our property assessments are not fair. An income tax would be more equitable.

Olson: I don't agree with any of the three. Gaylord lost millage this year. A state-wide property tax distribution would take something away from us. I have never voted against school tax because I believe in education. I think we have to look real close at this problem.

III – Is restrictive legislation necessary to control pollution. If so, what kind of laws would you propose?

Friske: I would work hard to prevent the leasing of state land to oil companies. Tourists bring in a greater number of dollars. I would like to see our welfare people (recipients) get out and pick up bottles. We also should enforce the anti-littering laws, not just slap violators on the wrist.

Brennan: We should fine industries found polluting our rivers, like Germany did industries in the Ruhr Valley in 1904. We also should have stiffer fines for polluting.

Kishigo: The biggest problem is disposable containers. It costs something like 35 cents to pick up every piece of litter. We should have stiffer penalities and an educational program to tell kids pollutions costs something.

Miller: Better law enforcement is the answer, and the state is to blame. The Elk Rapids Packing Co. is an example. The state checks the quality of water in the Elk River around Thanksgiving and again before the annual cherry pack begins. They never check during the pack when they'd find plenty of pollution. Someone has been paid off.

Stark: Our present laws are sufficient. I don't know what the problem is up here. No new legislation is needed.

McRae: Like Topsy, we've just growed and so has the problem of pollution. I'd prefer an educational approach. Convince the young they're going to be living so close together they're going to have to clean up.

Kujawski: We have enough laws, but I would emphasize such things as greenbelt ordinances. Beverage bottlers should return to refund containers and stop using throwaways.

Coon: Recognition of the problem is 9 10ths of the solution. We will do exactly what you want us to do. I'm concerned about septic tanks, boats and manufacturing concerns. We should make the polluters clean up.

Olson: Yes, restrictive legislation is necessary. Then we should rely on law enforcement and education.

IV – How do you stand on state aid to non-public schools? Do you believe in (1) Release time, (2) Shared time, or (3) State subsidies.

Friske: This is like asking someone if he still beats his wife. Parents of children in parochial schools should be exempt from school taxes. I am not in favor of financing parochial schools. What the state finances today, it will control tomorrow.

Brannan: I am against parochiaid, although I went to a non-public school myself.

Kishigo: If we don't support non-public schools, they will fold. I believe the shared time concept, as practiced in Petoskey. I also believe some consideration should be given to a state subsidy for lay teachers.

Miller: We would be opening a Pandora's box if we went to parochiaid. I am not in favor of using public funds to subsidize non-public schools.

Stark: I don't have an answer, but I'm afraid we'd be spreading ourselves too thin.

McRae: I am in favor of release time so children could receive religious instruction. I believe in the principal of separation of church and state. Parochiaid would be in violation of this principal.

Kujawski: I am against tax dollars being used for religious purposes, but I do favor shared time.

Coon: I cannot favor subsidies for non-public schools. However I am familiar with the shared time principal and it works. Parochial students receive specialized instruction they would not otherwise receive.

Olson: If the legislature had an answer to this question we couldn't be talking about it tonight. I've lived in Ellsworth and I admire those who paid their school taxes and support a private religious school as well. Shared time is as close as I can come. If we subsidized private schools, it wouldn't be long before they'd have to remove the Bibles and other books they may use.

Library Notes

Summer time in Charlevoix means company time, and hostesses will be busy searching for new and interesting and cooling recipes to satisfy and impress their guests.

The library has three outstanding new cookbooks which deserve applause. "Larousse Gastronomique" is the unquestioned world authority on food, wine and cookery. It is the international bible-encyclopedia with 8,500 recipes. There is a copy in the kitchen of every superior restaurant anywhere in the world, but until now, it has not been available except in French. It is an enormous volume with 1,100 pages and 1,000 illustrations, many in full color. All in all, it is a champion book, the number-one cookery book for anyone who cares about good food and the fine art of preparing it. This handsome treasure is a gift to the library from Mrs. Gregory Williamson, our generous patron who has donated so many wonderful books for our shelves.

"The American Heritage Cookbook" contains, in addition to over 500 tested recipes, an illustrated history of American eating and drinking. This unusual and colorful book views our past in terms of the foods our forefathers ate, such as Indian pudding, succatash, Kentucky hurgoo, and the special dishes from many lands which were brought to America. Beefsteak and kidney pie, Louisiana panettone and bouillabaisse, Cape God Oysters, to mention only a few. It is such a beautiful book that even if one does not care to cook, the illustrations make it wonderfully worth while. A special chapter "dining Out" by Lucius Beebe is one of the most entertaining parts of the book.

"The New York Times Cook Book" edited by Craig Claiborne is the first quality cook book for daily use in the home kitchen. In 717 pages it gives nearly 1,500 recipes for all occasions, selected from more than 10,000 that have appeared in The New York Times. It is beautifully illustrated and it also contains traditional American recipes and selected recipes from 20 different countries.

Other books on the library shelves for the busy Charlevoix summer hostess include: "The Hot Dog Cook Book" with a unique collection of over 150 hearty recipes highlighting the hot dog's versatility; "Chicken Cookery Around the World", a complete cookbook featuring an international array of delicious chicken recipes and appetizing accompaniments; "Rice, Spice and Bitter Oranges" a handsomely designed book for all who are interested in colorful traditions and travel. It contains a complete collection of Mediterranean foods and accounts of their most important festivals.

"The Pleasures of Japanese Cooking" is a charming small book with favorite recipe secrets of the East, adapted for the kitchen of the West.

Hobbycraft Show To Double in Size

By Bernice Wexstaff

The Hobbycraft Show is gaining fast in interest both within the local craftsmen organization and craftsmen throughout the state. The news of Charlevoix's goal of total commitment to establishing the city as a summer art and craftsmens' showplace has doubled the requests for applications to the Hobbycraft Show slated for Saturday, July 11.

Applications have already come in from the Detroit (Grosse Pointe), Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo areas to supplement local entries. However, East Park is spacious enough to handle the crowd. Hopefully the 100 applications forwarded by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to hobbyists throughout the state will bear out the chamber's prediction of an annual increase in showings that will one day equal the popular original art show, which occurs at a later date.

Local applicants are also urged to pick up applications and file them with the Chamber of Commerce at an early date to secure desirable spots to display their products.

Slow pitch Tourney

Freedman's slow pitch entry emerged the top team in the eight team tournament that officially launched the summer softball program. The eight team tournament found Andy's and Freedman battling their way into the finals. In fact, Andy's took a two run lead into the seventh inning in the championship game. But the Artcraft nine were not to be denied. D. Cunningham and Devries collected basehits. Gale Sheldon drew an intentional walk so that they could pitch to Glen Cunningham. That bit of strategy backfired when Cunningham lifted a grand-slam home run just inside the left field foul pole for four runs and an 15-13 victory.

Ken Balch, Dennis Warner, Lee Cross, and Bill Supernaw had clouted homers earlier for Andy's. Bowman and Moore had each banged out round trippers earlier for Freedman.

In the consolation playoff, Howard's Oilers of Boyne City got two home runs by Shorty Smith and Jim Evertts, but the Air Force got more balanced hitting to post a 12-5 win.

The remaining teams Weathervane, Medusa, Townhouse, and American Mold all played two games before dropping out of contention.

Novak's a surprise

In the fast pitch season-opening tournament young Novak's Insurance surprised Morweld with an 8-3 win. Larry Potter went the distance scattering two hits. Loose fielding by the losers allowed four fourth inning runs to score without benefit of a base hit. Jim Annis collected both hits for the losers.

County State Bank and Mold hooked up in a mid-season affair before the Bank squeezed out a 3-2 victory. Veteran pitchers Sonny Wright and Nate Boss battled each other with Wright striking out 15 and allowing five hits while Boss struck out six and allowed four hits. Denny Warner had two hits for the winners while Lee Cross collected two singles for the losers.

The two winning teams, County State Bank and Novaks were to play in the finals at press time.

Peanut League

The defending champion Cards were dumped by the Astros in the opening game by a 6-3 score. The Cards who have dominated the league for the past several years, gave up four first-inning runs and never caught up. Connie Russell banged two hits for the winners with Jerry Danbert collecting a like number for the losers. The Braves served noticed that they are serious about winning the title as they dumped the Tigers 6-2. Walks proved to be the Tigers downfall as their pitchers sent eleven batters to first via the base-on-balls route.

Kiwanis Youth League

The defending champions, the Maroon Sox, posted an impressive opening win over the Red Sox, and in doing so established themselves as a contender in the six team league.

The Blue Sox polished off the Black Sox in the second game, serving notice that they too will be tough in the 7-10 year old circuit.

BALLS AND STRIKES......

The Slow Pitch league has generated much excitement and enthusiasm......Ken Balch made the catch of the week running ala-Willie Maye away from home plate and catching n pop-fly on the dead run. Andy's struggling young pitcher Bill Supernaw dropped a short fly ball and immediately took a time out to get a better glove from his dugout. He didn't drop another popper the whole game—course he didn't have any hit to him either......Why not walk Gayle Sheldon?......The season's first miracle—getting the field ready for play last Tuesday after the late afternoon shower. It took 50 men and lots of work to do it.....

Who Wants to Join A Bicycle Club?

The bicycle -- America's long-neglected mode of transportation -- is making a comeback after years of neglect.

Pedal power received its latest push from ecologists who point out that if more people rode bicycles there would be less auto exhaust in the air.

In Charlevoix, more and more adults have decided the bicycle is just the ticket for quick trips downtown. And they have discovered that riding a bike is more fun than driving an automobile. Furthermore, it is far easier to find parking space for a two-wheeled spider than a four-wheeled dreadnought.

A few years ago, only children, deliverymen and exchange students seemed to see merit in cycling, according to the National Geographic Society. Now, in the vanguard of a new golden age of the bicycle, some 60,000 riders are pumping along highways and byways across the United States.

Old and young pedal to stay fit, students and professors ride bikes to classes and in the big cities commuting businessmen weave expertly between lines of slow-moving cars.

Cycling became an American craze in the Gay Nineties as doctors, lawyers and merchants abandoned their horse-drawn carriages for the smaller bicycle.

Dandies sporting handlebar mustaches whistled "Daisy Bell" as they happily pedaled their ladies on bicycles built for two.

Then came the automobile and the bicycle was forsaken for speed and comfort.

Many Americans now in their 60's and 70's never even learned to ride a bicycle, because the automobile was the "in" means of transportation when they were young.

Gradually, in the 1920's the bicycle returned as a young people's toy, where it has remained until fairly recent times.

Today, Washington, D.C., San Francisco and Chicago are among the cities leading a revival in bike paths. In the capital, a new commuter bicycle route winds all the way from fashionable Georgetown to the city's sports stadium across the city. And in New York, more and more commuters are learning how to brave the hazards of big-city traffic on a bicycle seat.

With more and more Charlevoixans riding bikes, Sheriff's Deputy Joe Etienne thinks it's time for the organization of a bicycle club in town – with an eye toward family bike outings and bicycle tours to nearby communities.

And the Courier heartily agrees. The more fun things a family can do together, the more appealing family life will become to the young.

If you are interested in forming such a club, stop in at the Courier office or give us a call at LI 7 - 6558. A bicycle club might be the start of something good for Charlevoix.

A High-Mortality Job

Serving as secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is a high-mortality job. Wally Loder's three-year tenure is one of the longest in recent history.

The task, essentially, involves pleasing 100 percent of the people 100 percent of the time, and even Abraham Lincoln would tell you that pleasing people is a good deal more difficult than fooling them.

Mr. Loder wants no bones made about the fact that he was fired, pure and simple. Beset with financial problems and apathy on the part of the townspeople, the board of directors felt that the job required new blood and told Mr. Loder his services would no longer be needed.

Perhaps it would have been "nicer" if Mr. Loder had agreed to resign, but Mr. Loder doesn't believe in pulling punches. He did the job as he saw it to the best of his ability and he feels no one could have dome more.

And the Courier agrees.

However we also agree, with no discredit to Mr. Loder, that it probably is time for new blood in the chamber office. We believe that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oestrike will be able to pick up where Mr. Loder left off in promoting Charlevoix as a good place to visit and spend money.

The Oestrikes are young, energetic, sports-minded people and should be able to present a whole new image of Charlevoix to the public, via the chamber of commerce office.

To Mr. Loder we say: "Thanks for a job well-done." To the Oestrikes we say: "Welcome aboard."

At Least We're Talking to Each Other Again

Although there have been few tangible results from the June 12 meeting at the VFW hall to discuss the hippie problem, the meeting may not have been a total waste of time.

As you will recall, the meeting was attended by adults who see the hippies as a threat to established life values and by a number of young people who insist on their perogative to live life they way they see it.

The major difference between the two groups concerns the use of drugs.

Even though both groups are still poles apart, certainly some good should come from the mere fact that once again we are talking to one another.

If we can succeed in keeping our lines of communication open, we all may learn something.

Etienne Answers Questions

June 19, 1970

Dear People of Charlevoix.

I am writing in regard to an article in the Courier. It said that while I was attending a meeting in the VFW hall I was asked a question: "Why did you quit life?" and, it said I couldn't answer.

But what the paper didn't say was the reason I was asked that, was because I quit a job. Well, here is my answer:

I do not believe that just because a person quits a job he quits life. I think there's more to it than that. After that meeting I thought a little about life. I thought of the people I love and the people I dislike. I thought about why I disliked them and the answers I got were foolish. So I began thinking of ways to maybe improve my friendship with them. Maybe that's only a small part of life, but it means a lot to me.

I hope my life is long and plentiful and that I can accomplish more than just having had a job.

Another statement was that I had shoulder length hair. Well, anyone who knows me can see my hair is not anywhere near my shoulders. Besides, at the rate it's going, I doubt that will ever get there.

A question that was not in the paper, but asked to me at the meeting, was: "How do you eat?" Well, a very nice lady sitting near me gave a very good answer. She said: "Tell him it's none of his business."

But if you really want to know, I will tell you. While I had my camp at the Mountain, my friends brought me food. I didn't have to beg for it either; they just brought it.

There's one more thing I would like to clear up. This has nothing to do with the meeting or paper, but I heard that some people saw me cashing $20 bills and would like to know where I got the money. The last time I cashed a $20 bill of my own was when I had just gotten my income tax refund. And one other time I cashed a 20, within the last two months. It was not my money. So I hope these people don't lay awake at night worried about me cashing $20 bills. Thank you.

Friske Answers Harris

Route No. 1
Charlevoix, Mich.
June 15, 1970

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to Wednesday's (June 10, 1970) article by Jack Harris attacking me for having made the following statement at a Memorial Day speech in Petoskey; "There is no equality. God never intended men to be equal. Yet we seem to be bending over backward to make everyone equal."

I would first of all like to say that Mr. Harris should either find himself a reliable source of information or actually listen to my speeches before he makes any future attempts at elaborating on half truth quotes. If Mr. Harris would have heard my speech - which he did not - he would have realized that I made the above mentioned statement with regard to material and intellectual equality amongst man. The Bible says that some of us shall have one talent, some five talents, and some ten talents. Since we are of different intellectual levels, it follows also that we will be unequal in our financial standing does it not?

The reason I made the previously mentioned statement, was to emphasize the fact that I am opposed to any government policy which tries to force us to be equal by taking from the producers and giving to the non-producers. The Communists have forced equality upon their subjects, and look at the results! I doubt that even Mr. Harris would care to live under those "equal" circumstances.

I certainly believe in the precepts of our Constitution, which grants us all equal opportunity to succeed or fail and guarantees us all equal treatment under the law. It certainly does not, however, guarantee us full equality, as Mr. Harris implied, for that would require an Utopian situation.

In conclusion, I believe Mr. Harris owes me a public apology for having written a half-truth quote, and having compared my beliefs to those of a despot such as Hitler. If no such apology is forthcoming, I can only presume that Mr. Harris deliberately wrote a half truth in order to slander me.

Yours truly,
Richard Friske

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

There's a new sound in the Clocks' kitchen these days.

It's the tinkle and thunk of the automatic ice-maker we purchased with our new refrigerator a few weeks ago.

And it certainly makes a fellow feel good, particularly these hot summer days, knowing there's a gadget in the kitchen working night and day to keep him cool.

Actually, it's like having a mother cat in the refrigerator. Every time I open the freezer compartment door, there's a new litter of cubes in the ice cube tray.

Unlike most of the appliances we have purchased over the years, we really didn't need a new refrigerator. The old one worked like a charm.

"But there's no room in the freezer compartment," Judy kept complaining. "Here it is asparagus time again, and we can't freeze any."

Of course, she knows my weaknesses better than I do. If there's anything I like better than fresh or frozen asparagus, it's more fresh or frozen asparagus.

It seems I have spent most of my life waiting for spring and a new crop of asparagus to come on the market. Now, with a freezer in practically every home, asparagus is as commonplace in January as it is in June.

So to join the asparagus in January crowd, we purchased a new refrigerator with a comodious freezer compartment.

"We'll need the ice-maker, too," Judy said. "The secret of freezing asparagus is cooling it off thoroughly immediately after blanching. We'll need lots of ice."

I had a few other uses for ice cubes in mind, aside from cooling asparagus, so I could easily see why the ice-maker was an absolute necessity.

But every time a new batch of cubes tinkles into the ice-cube tray, I can't help thinking how far we've come in the refrigeration business in a few short years.

When I was a kid, my folks had a wooden ice box in the kitchen which was visited every other day or so by our friendly ice man, Al Brake. Ma had a big card with "25" and "50" printed on one side and "75" and "100" on the other. She put the card in the window to let Al know how much ice we'd need on that particular day. If "25" were on top, he'd bring 25 pounds of ice, more or less. If "50" were on top, he'd bring 50 pounds.

Al delivered his ice in a rickety old pickup truck, which I thought was pretty snazzy. All of his competitors in our neighborhood were still peddling their ice from horse-drawn buckboards.

Al's ice was protected from the the sun by a heavy, wet tarpaulin and layers of soggy sawdust. With a skillful hand and practiced eye, he'd use an icepick to chip off as much ice as you needed and tote it into the kitchen with a pair of ice tongs. There he'd slosh water over it in the sink to remove the sawdust and plunk it down in the ice box.

I should confess that this was a part of the operation I usually missed because I was out in the back of Al's truck poking around in the sawdust for slivers of ice to eat. When pickings were poor, Al would sometimes chip off a corner from one of the bigger blocks for me and I'd wolf it down, sawdust and all.

I've often wondered since why I never came down with Dutch elm disease, bark beetles or some other horticultural ailment, but I guess I must have had a pretty strong constitution.

But ice never tasted better, not even the [illegible] and thunk variety bathed in [illegible] and vermouth and garnished with an olive.

If it Fitz

Hunting Made Easier

There should be a wolf at every door so a sportsman could shoot it without getting his boots dirty.

This thought occurred to me while watching a Sears Roebuck commercial on TV. I know that sounds strange, Doctor, but I really haven't been feeling well since Agnew became a household word. My neck is sore from typing antiadministration columns while looking back over my shoulder.

Anyway. Sears is selling a "sonic fish call" for only $9.95. It's battery operated, you see, and hangs on a line. You drop it in the water and the fish come swimming, lured by some sort of mating sound. And when the fish gets to the sound, and doesn't find another fish waiting with open gills, you know what he does. He bites your hook.

"You'll catch more fish than you ever did before," Sears promises.

Gee, that certainly is marvelous.

Now if Sears could just do something for those wolf hunters. I learned about them via TV, too. Let's face it, TV is a splendid source of education. If it weren't for the tube, I wouldn't know anything. I wouldn't even know that Doris Day is hazardous to the health of diabetics.

But about the wolves: This travel-adventure film showed a pack of them running across the snow in Alaska. They were being chased by a low-flying airplane. The wolves didn't have a prayer. The plane swooped down and a man leaned out and pointed his high-powered rifle. Bam, bam, bam. Dead wolves all over the place. What fun!

But it's work, too. And dangerous. That shooter might fall out of his plane. It would be nice if Sears could develop a sonic wolf call. Bring the wolf to the hunter.

Or how about this idea? Play sad, sad music in the woods. Constantly. This would depress the animals. They would commit suicide. The hunter's toughest job would be strapping the carcass to his fender or airplane wing. Sears could use the animals' suicide notes in their advertisements.

Of course, animal suicides might take some of the glamor out of that great TV show, The American Sportsman. That's the one where movie stars in armored tanks risk their lives shooting jungle animals with telescopic cannons.

But perhaps the Great White Hunter could prove his virility by standing nearby and actively encouraging the suicide. From the bottom of a cliff he could holler up to a tiger: "Go ahead and jump, you bum."

So he wouldn't have to get too close, Sears could sell him a megaphone. Battery operated.

Onward and Upward.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Manager Bids Farewell

(Because of opinions expressed, Wallace Loder, former secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has agreed to have his last installment of "Chamber Chat" appear as a letter to the editor.)

Well, as they say, there is a first time and last time for everything. Consequently, this will be the last Chamber Chat so far as I'm concerned and the first time I experienced being replaced in somewhat of a railroaded fashion.

I think in all fairness you should know some of the delayed membership contributions have been slowly coming in since the first invoicing early in the year at which time it was followed up by the usual avalanche of checks. A second invoice for a great many years has always been forwarded sometime during the month of June, and, of course, with as much personal follow-up time would permit. There is a sizable amount yet due of those on the record, which heretofore, most all of this has filtered in to meet the fixed expense demand without enforcing a great deal of pressure. This second invoice was about to be handled, but under the existing circumstances, the replacement individual might have other ideas and I would not, of course, want to be part of any conflict or confusion.

Sorry to report, as I see it, at this time the Venetian Festival program is far from being completely accomplished. So far as I am concerned I have done my part in the act, so to speak. However, the boys apparently are hard at it.

A few days ago, an extremely interested person came to the office quite provoked and very critical of a certain act which was: at the park in the beach area on Lake Michigan, she witnessed the approach of an automobile and occupants, which was caused to stop in the roadway and one of the occupants leaned out a door and deposited a large grocery bag containing garbage and other waste, apparently from a picnic lunch at the premise. This was not far from several containers for this purpose. She wrote down the license number of this vehicle and wanted to report the incident to the police, to whom I directed her. After work I drove over there and I located the scene and here was a bag of garbage then broken open and watermelon rhines, etc. were scattered on the pavement.

I think it fitting and I trust the editor will allow the following few more lines.

One night about 10:30 p.m. or thereabouts, I received a telephone call at home indicating that the board of directors unanimously voted me the new secretary-manager. I thanked this gentleman for the compliment and told him I had something to say about it and would like to meet with them later in the week, which was granted. At that time, I in very plain understandable language told them they truly needed a miracle man, and by the way, they still do, and that I felt sure I could carry things out satisfactorily recognizing the fact that I nor anyone else could satisfy the population 100 percent, and I assured them I was not selling real estate, used cars, insurance, shoes, or anything else on the side, my attention would be undivided. They agreed and I picked up from there. One of the first things I did was to review the by-laws having to do with the manager. All the while I have worked here I have enjoyed it, recognized it as a privilege to represent and promote a fine community, and, furthermore, I did not play any favorites, so to speak.

The repeated announcement over the radio about this replacement situation, of course, is easily misunderstood. Therefore, I should like to point out that the manager, as are the directors, first of all is obliged to carry on according to the by-laws and, of course, there is no specification to extent of effort they perform beyond this. The manager cannot possibly do the entire job. The manager needs a working board of directors. From my observation and association with other chambers about the state, I observed in most every instance that where there was noticeable success these two factions worked together physically and beyond mere discussions and arrangements of ideas. Also, based on my experience and the association I have had with four or five former managers of this chamber, I cannot understand how a manager can do the job that is necessary. Of course, when suddenly and without any hearing, no criticism, etc., I was told in so many words that the board had decided on a replacement for me–a man and wife team–after exchanges of a few words, one of a number of things I stated was that I am not at all surprised. However, not based on anything I did or did not do, but based on some observation, a sort of a method appeared to be taking place in the past few weeks, which, of course, didn't worry me at all. I also indicated I had no quarrel, it would be useless to allow myself to get all upset, remembering one of my pet phrases, "A man is no bigger than the little things he allows to upset him."

You might as well know I was asked for a letter of resignation to which I did not fully agree, but indicated I would think it over and possibly I might come up with one. After a short time, possibly a half hour, with a little concentration, I thought along the line of my philosophy of trying to be honest with myself each day as they come along, I left the office and went to one of the directors that had earlier been here and told him in words to the effect that I definitely would not turn in a letter of resignation because in order to do so, I would have to lie about it and this I would not do. I indicated if there had to be any announcement of it, then the truth should be told–"that the board of directors had decided to replace me with a man and wife team".

In closing, I want you all to know that I have honestly enjoyed working for you all and I am sorry, of course, that I could not satisfy all of you individuals 100 percent–that is impossible. This entire community was very receptive of my family and myself after we had vacationed here for so many years and when we chose to move into Charlevoix eight yrs. ago. We made many friends and have enjoyed the relationship. We also appreciate the support in both of our businesses. At this time having to do with any exact plans, I have nothing to offer except as long as there is a little fire left, so to speak, I intend to seek some sort of employment that might be fitting. Once again, thanks a million for everything.

St. Ignace Druggist Joins House Race

Glenn W. Law 27, of St. Ignace has announced his candidacy as state representative of the 106th district on the Republican ticket. A registered pharmacist, Law works for his father at Law's pharmacy in St. Ignace.

Marine Safety Program Is Reimbursed

Charlevoix County received $5,656.42 of the nearly $500,000 that was recently distributed to 78 counties by the Department of Natural Resources as reimbursement for more than half of last year's costs of carrying out local marine safety programs in this state.

The DNR's Marine Safety Section drew upon a fraction of revenues collected from Michigan's motorboat registrations to partially offset expenses which these counties initially met with their own funds in 1969 for marine law enforcement, boating safety education, search and rescue operations, boat livery inspections, and the recovery of drowned persons.

Normally, the DNR's Section repays counties for two-thirds of these costs for the previous year. However, it only had enough funds this year to cover about 52 percent of those expenses for 1969.

The DNR's smaller payments were equally prorated among the counties for the grants in aid they had earned.

Legislation is now being sought by the DNR to strengthen state funding for local marine safety programs.

D. C. Stark Candidate For House

Donald C. Stark, 41, of St. Ignace has announced his candidacy for representative in the 106th district.

A native and former mayor of Petoskey, he served in the U.S. Navy one year following his graduation from Petoskey High School in 1945.

Stark moved to St. Ignace in 1963 where he is a member of the St. Ignace School Board, serving as vice president. He is a member of the Lions Club and is a past member of the Elks and Eagles.

Stark is married and has seven children.

After discharge, he attended Western Michigan University and received his law degree from the University of Detroit in 1950. He worked for the federal government before returning to Petoskey in 1952 when he became probate judge.

He was married in 1951 to the former Arlene Krusell of Petoskey: They have five children.

Judge Murphy has been active in the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Court Judges Association, serving as state president in 1963.

In addition to serving as judge, the candidate has maintained a private law practice in Petoskey, which he will give up under rules governing the new district probate court.

He also is active in legal and judicial organizations, veterans groups, Boy Scouts and programs of St. Francis parish.

The bare facts of water heating.

The right moment for hot water is when you need it. Gas burners start up instantly and deliver more heat to the water. Gas is so fast that it keeps up with baths, showers, laundry, dishes, every hot water need.

The right temperature for hot water is the way you like it. Put the thermostat at any setting you want. Gas will automatically maintain the temperature you select.

The right price for hot water is what you pay for gas. Automatic gas water heaters cost less to buy. Less to install and maintain. And so little to operate that you can enjoy the luxury of using all the hot water you want around the clock.

Barely warm.

Nice and hot.

Change to an automatic gas water heater.

C. E. Belfy Steelhead Skipper

Chester E. Belfy, 22-year veteran patrol boat officer for the Department of Natural Resources on Michigan's upper Great Lakes waters, has been named the new captain of the DNR's survey vessel, the "Steelhead," stationed at Charlevoix.

He succeeds the boat's former skipper, Walter J. Palmer, who left the DNR in April.

Belfy's appointment, announced by C. Troy Yoder, the DNR's regional manager for the northern Lower Peninsula, follows Civil Service rules and procedures.

Belfy, one of the DNR's senior patrol boat officers, has plied the waters of lakes Michigan, Superior, and Huron since 1948, enforcing commercial fishing regulations, and inspecting commercial shipments and other operations of the industry at port towns.

Prior to joining the DNR, he piloted a passenger ferry for the Beaver Island Transit Company. During World War II, he served as a seaman in the Pacific Theater.

STEWART COLEMAN, son of the late Rayder coach Stewart "irish" Coleman, received plaque named for his father at Lions Club luncheon June 13 at the Weathervane Inn. Presentation was made by Lions Club President John Michael.

Launch Site Completed at 9-Mile Pt.

10 Parking Spaces Provided for Anglers

The Nine Mile Point Public Fish Site has been completed. This project was sponsored jointly by Hayes Township Board and the Northwest Michigan RC & D District of which the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners are cosponsors with 12 other Soil District Boards and County Board of Commissioners.

The purpose of this project was to provide a public access, boat launching, car and trailer parking areas and sanitation facilities to meet the demands of fishermen in fishing Lake Trout in Lake Michigan in the Nine Mile Point Area.

The site was constructed by the Department of Natural Resources under the supervision of Glenn Oligney of the Waterway Commission Division. The project cost $9,000 of which came out of the Marine Gas Tax Fund monies. The site includes two cement vault type rest rooms, litter barrels, gravel parking for 11 cars and boat trailers, boat launching ramp and numerous rocks and boulders removed out from the ramp area. The area was constructed to retain much of the natural, scenic and protective cover.

Individual efforts by both John Wieland, R-2, Charlevoix, Director of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District and member of the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation Development District and Leo Burnett, Bayshore, and Hayes Township clerk did much to coordinate the efforts of the various State, Federal and local agencies and private individuals in establishing the first unprotected open water boat launching area on Lake Michigan. It was put in on an experimental basis.

"Future expansion of additional facilities pretty well rests on the users of the facility" stated Leo Burnett." These Lake Michigan Waters can be dangerous and all fishermen should use good judgement before going out to fish. He also pointed out that all users should make sure that they do their part in keeping the area clean.

ROOM FOR 10 cars and boat trailers has been provided at the new Nine Mile Point boat launching ramp on Lake Michigan at the foot of Burgess-rd.

Local Groups Work To Secure Roadbanks

The Charlevoix County Road Commission is cooperating with the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation and Development program sponsors of which the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District are cosponsors with 12 other County Boards of Commissioners and Soil District Boards in curbing sediment pollution on roadbanks and other critical eroded areas.

This year, the Charlevoix County Road Commission entered into a project measure, operational, and maintenance agreement with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service for road bank erosion control of 22 acres along the Camp Ten Road in Hudson Township, Barnard road, Marion township, and Bracy road in Eveline township.

Approximately $30,000 in RC & D financial assistance from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service has been earmarked for roadbank stabilization projects to assist Local Units of Government in controlling sediment pollution in the NW. M.RC & D. Total cost of the Roadbank Stabilization areas in Charlevoix County this year is $6,500 with the Charlevoix Road Commission and U.S. Soil Conservation Service each contributing 50 percent of the cost.

Herb Fell Company from Goodrich, Michigan was awarded the contract for the Grand Traverse, Antrim, Charlevoix, Benzie, and Mason Counties Road Stabilization Projects. A Hydro-Seeder Mulcher is used to apply seed, fertilizer, straw mulch, and asphalt emulsion to the roadbanks and ditch areas.

These plantings, will greatly help to reduce the sediment pollution, beautify the landscape and provide demonstration areas.

Bill Grimm, District Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Boyne City assisted the Road Commission with the planning, seed and fertilizer recommendation and type of seed bed preparation.

Members of the Charlevoix County RC&D Steering Committee are John Wieland, R-2, Charlevoix (Charlevoix Soil Conservation District Director); Harry Griffen, Walloon Lake (Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners); Mrs. Ted Kotawich, East Jordan; Fred Leslie, Consumers Power, Boyne City.

Teacher Contracts Stalled

Teacher contract negotiations in this part of the state generally are progressing very slowly due to the failure of the legislators to agree on a State Aid Bill.

Recent millage elections voted in by the people have made bargaining somewhat easier, but the fact that the State Aid is not known is proving a deterrent to completion of the entire package.

In many districts, negotiations have been mutually suspended until late July or August, according to Mrs. Maruine Wyatt, MEA Field Representative for the upper part of the Lower Peninsula.

"Three Professional Negotiations Consultants have been assigned to work with teachers in this area," according to Mrs. Wyatt. "Walter Williams of Elk Rapids, Leonard Staley of Charlevoix and Harry Bishop of Midland will be available to assist local units.

Sp. Ed. Seeks New Offices

The Charlevoix-Emmet intermediate School District is looking for new quarters for the Special Education staff, presently located in the Michigan Bell office on State-st.

Telephone company officials say they will need the building after Aug. 31, Superintendent Charles A. Robinson told the Intermediate board Monday night.

In other business, the board agreed to adopt the state reimbursement formula for the reimbursement of local school districts for special education programs. For the school year just ended, the state's share was some $38,000 less than the original estimate.

At a special meeting earlier in June, the board agreed to pay special education teachers with B.A. degrees salaries ranging from $7,640 to $11,850 in 13 steps. M.A. teachers will receive from $8,370 to $12,570. Teachers also will receive $10 a month for car operation, in addition to 10 cents a mile. Another new fringe benefit is long-term disability insurance.

Hi...

I'm Reese Lamb, Michigan's Truck Driver of the Year.

I'd like to ask you a favor.

Keep your cool driving on the hot Fourth of July.

The highways will be crowded... traffic may move like a snail... and tempers may flare.

Don't let a hot temper cause you to blow your stack.

When your stack blows... your patience goes ...And you may be heading for trouble.

This is how accident statistics are made.

You don't have to be one if you keep your cool. So keep your cool on the hot Fourth of July.

If more people do... fewer will die.

Donate Time, Money To Michigan Amateur

Dozens of businesses and individuals have chipped in with time, effort and money to make the 1970 edition of the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament a success, Dick Oestrike, secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce reports.

Oestrike says 27 local businesses have donated money to make up the $1,000 bonus the chamber gives to the golf association every year to help make the annual tourney possible.

Needless to say, the tournament participatnts and spectators pump many times than amount into Charlevoix's early summer economy.

Many local volunteers also turned out at the refreshment stand at the Belvedere Golf Course to keep the golf crowd well fed and watered.

Following is a list of business contributors to the golf kitty, as compiled by Oestrick:

The Weathervane, the Lodge, Villa Moderne, Capri Motel, Timber Inn, Wayside Motel, North Star Motel, the Argonne Supper Club, the Bay Chalet, Lieberman's, Shop of the Gulls, Hess Furniture, the Polly-Kay Shop, the Little Shop Around the Corner, Benjamin Twiggs, Airport Bar, the First State Bank, the Charlevoix County State Bank, Parkside Restaurant, Neffs Grocery, Central Drug Store, Murdicks Fudge, Archway Motel, the Woodshed, Kings, the Chicken Roost and Schroeders Drug Store.

LSD Trip Made Him Feel 'Pregnant', Ex-User Says

Picture, if you can, a strapping, handsome 22-year-old male suffering for weeks from a delusion that he is pregnant.

Or picture the same young man carrying on perfectly lucid conversation with a grove of trees. Or introducing the same trees to the "mushroom people", an equally talkative horticultural species.

These are some of the experiences of Gil Boilore of Alpena, a lecturer for Northeast Michigan Community Action, Inc., on the problems of drug abuse.

Boilore feels he is better qualified than most people to speak on drugs, because he has gone the route himself and is only happy he has made a safe landing after his 20th trip on LSD.

Boilore talked candidly about hallucinogenic drugs and their effects at the June meeting of the Charlevoix Council of Social Agencies at the Weathervane.

Like most drug users, Boilore started experimenting with marijuana and over a period of three years found himself sniffing heroin and taking trips via LSD.

He said he was tempted to try LSD after seeing an anti-drug movie depicting the psychedelic hallucinations of drug users — such things as melting faces and solid brick walls that suddenly become fluid and distorted.

Boilore said he suffered no apparent ill effects from his first 19 trips on LSD, coming back to reality after "peaking".

However, the 20th trip was something different. Boilore said he continued to peak time and time again until he became frightened. He thought the effects of the drug would wear off after a night's sleep. But they didn't.

The next morning the hallucinations continued and he began to feel "pregnant." He was in excruciating agony and it took him an hour and a half to get out of bed. He said much LSD is adulterated with poison, often strychnine.

The next three months were a devastating experience for the Boilore family. Boilore tried to kill his father and take his own life before he was finally committed to a mental hospital in a straight jacket.

Fortunately, Boilore recovered, although he sometimes, even a year later, suffers from frightening "return trips" that last up to 15 minutes.

EX-DRUG ADDICT Gil Boilore of Alpena told horrors of drug addiction to members of the Charlevoix Council of Social Agencies. With him is program chairman Jan Dunnette of Advance.

Snowmobile Races July 4

East Jordan will host a summer snowmobile race July 4 at noon on grounds owned by the East Jordan Snowmobile Club, on Alba Road at the outskirts of East Jordan.

Inside the Courier...

There's plenty of good reading in this week's Courier, as Charlevoix moves into the balmy month of July.

–Remember the Richard C. Robison family, slain at Good Hart two years ago this summer? The killer has never been brought to justice, but "Clockwise" on the editorial page offers some interesting speculations on the case.

–Also on the editorial page, the Courier sounds off on the endorsement of only four candidates in the 106th district by the county GOP chairmen. And our readers sound off on everything from Richard Friske and Mike Etienne to the school board's appointment of Jack Rader as a successor to Charles England.

–On the center fold, you'll find the Courier's first "Summer Section" for 1970 – advertisements and stories about things to do and places to visit in the Charlevoix area.

–Everybody likes a wedding. You'll find plenty of them in the Women's Section on pages 2 and 3.

–All this and more in this week's Charlevoix Courier.

Community Chest Seeks $21,014

Goal in the Charlevoix Community Chest drive this summer and fall will be $21,014, according to Mrs. Donald Anders, executive secretary.

The figure was arrived at June 16 following the annual budget and admissions meeting in the county building.

Total agency requests came to $26,373, some $7,959 more than was requested in 1970, according to Mrs. Anders.

After hearing presentations by representatives of the various agencies, the budget committee pared the allocations to $20,114.

Campaign and administrative costs of $900 bring the total amount to be raised to $21,014.

Thirteen local agencies and 36 state and national agencies benefit from contributions, Mrs. Anders said.

Following are the local agencies which will benefit from the drive:

Mt. McSauba Recreation Program, $1,000; Charlevoix City Recreation Program, $1,800; Charlevoix Association for Retarded Children, $1,500; Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council, $2,000; Scenic Trails Council-Boy Scouts, $2,600; Michigan Children's Aid, N.W. Branch, $2,000; Salvation Army, East Michigan Division, $900; Charlevoix County Chapter, American Red Cross, $2,000; Charlevoix Hospital, $2,000; Charlevoix Community Nurses General Fund, $2,000; Charlevoix Community Nurses Emergency Fund, $200; Charlevoix County Big Brothers Association, $500; Michigan United Fund, $3,014; Campaign and administrative costs, $900. Total: $21,014.

Homes, Cottages Needed

Do you have a rental unit you could make available for the summer months?

If so, Dick Oestrike, secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce would like to hear from you. Stop in and see him at the chamber office or telephone 547-2101.

Oestrike says he receives requests every day for homes or cottages for rent in the Charlevoix area and his list of available rentals is just about depleted.

He says the major demand is for single housing units, although he is still receiving some requests for rooms, particularly from young people who will be working in the area this summer.

So if you have a spare bedroom suitable for occupancy and would like to take in some extra dollars during the tourist season, give the Chamber of Commerce a call.

Art Classes Start July 6 at Library

Artist F. Douglas Greenbowe will return to Charlevoix this summer to offer instruction in watercolors, oils and acrylics, according to Mrs. Elaine Retherford, coordinator of the program.

Classes will be held at the Charlevoix Library, beginning July 6 and continuing through July 31.

A winter resident of Scottsdale, Ariz., Greenbowe's style is reportedly "loose, bold and exciting," covering a wide range of subject matter.

F. Douglas Greenbowe

"Mr. Greenbowe has a way of making one feel comfortable and at ease in the medium in which you choose to work," reports Mrs. Retherford, who has studied under Greenbowe in Arizona.

Beginning watercolor students will meet Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 a.m. until noon. Beginning oil and acrylics students will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings at the same time. Advanced watercolor classes have been schedule Monday and Wednesday afternoons, with advanced oils and acrylics Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

A fee will be charged for the eight lessons.

Art classes for children and adults, sponsored by Portside Arts Fair, will begin Thursday, July 2, at the East Jordan High School. All area residents and vacationers are welcome. Children's classes are from 8:30 until 11 a.m. Adult classes are from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Boat Parade, Fireworks Are Moved to Saturday

MR. AND MRS. D.D. Walker of Charlevoix escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon in an LP gas explosion aboard their pleasure craft, Stormy Petrel II off Gray's Reef. A gas line had remained disconnected after new linoleum was installed. The explosion blew out the windshield, several other windows and the rear wall of the cabin. The Walkers were taken to St. Ignace by the Coast Guard where Mrs. Walker was treated for burns. The boat was returned to Charlevoix under its own power Saturday night by Dave Miller. Here Walker examines damage.

Weather Factor in Change

The annual Venetian Festival Boat Parade, followed by fireworks over Round Lake, will be staged this year on Saturday, rather than Sunday, Dick Oestrike, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce has announced.

Oestrike said chamber directors decided on the change to allow more visitors to witness the colorful spectacle, the high point of the summer season in Charlevoix.

The change also will give the festival planners a backup day in the event of foul weather.

If it rains Saturday, both events will be postponed until Sunday.

Oestrike said the festival will open July 26 with the selection of the Venetian Queen at the high school gymnasium. There also will be music in East Park.

Saturday morning, Bridge-st. booths will open for business as the visitors begin arriving. At 2 p.m. the street parade is scheduled.

The boat parade will begin shortly after dark, followed by fireworks.

Sunday, the Chamber of Commerce hopes to have music in East Park and other activities.

A complete Venetian weekend schedule will appear in next week's Courier after details are finalized.

Novak Offered Principal's Job At Middle School

C. Max Novak, veteran educator and a member of the Charlevoix school faculty for 30 years, was offered the position of Middle School principal by the Charlevoix board of education at a special meeting Wednesday.

C. Max Novak

He was selected from among three candidates for the position being vacated by Raymond O. Carr who had filled the post for one year. The Middle School concept became effective in Sept. 1969 when the former elementary school was remodeled to take care of grades five through eight.

Though he had applied for the position final details such as salary had not been worked out before Novak left Monday on a week's vacation trip with his family. However, it is assumed that he will accept the assignment.

At the same meeting, the board approved a new policy regarding head coaches, hired two teachers and set the date for an organizational meeting.

Novak will move into the administrative position from the high school where he has taught government, economics and social studies since Jan. 1946 when he returned to teaching – after having served as an officer in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

A native of Charlevoix and a graduate of the Charlevoix High School, he is a graduate of Alma College, has his Master's degree from the University of Michigan and has done undergraduate work at Central Michigan and

Mary D. VanderArk Wed

In a setting of silver candelabrum and baskets of yellow and white mums, Mary Dell VanderArk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard VanderArk of Ellsworth ond Frederick Blake Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maruice M. Toylor Sr. of Ellsworth were united in marriage in the brides' home Thursday June 18, 1970.

Rev. Harry VanderArk of Grand Rapids and uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of their immediate families.

The bride was attired in a white voile dress designed and made by herself. She carried a nosegay bouquet of miniature yellow roses nnd white daisies.

Diane VanderArk of Grand Rapids was her sisters' only attendant and wore a yellow and white print voile street length dress and carried a nosegay bouquet of miniature roses and baby's breath.

Arthur Miller cousin of the groom was the best man. As the couple knelt for prayer, Diane Vander Ark sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride's mother chose a white knit dress and wore a yellow miniature rose corsage. The groom's mother selected a navy and white knit dress and wore a miniature white rose corsage.

Mrs. Dan VanderArk, Mrs. Jerry Holley and Diane assisted at the reception given in the home. Mrs. Robert Greydanus was in charge of the punch bowl.

The couple left on a short honeymoon in Canada. They will make their home in Ellsworth.

The groom is employed as a tool and die apprentice at Morweld Steel Corp. and the bride is employed at Charlevoix Fabric and Upholstering Co. Both are 1969 graduates of Ellsworth Community High School.

VISIT BEAVER ISLAND THIS SUMMER

Try Beaver Island For a Change of Pace

A visit to Beaver Island is like taking a trip to yesterday.

Located in the middle of Lake Michigan northwest of Charlevoix, America's "Emerald Isle" offers a relaxed way of life that is becoming more of a rarity in the United States with every passing year.

Six miles wide and 14 miles long, the verdant little island has only one community – St. James – named after the Mormon ruler James Jesse Strang, who had himself crowned "King of the World" on Beaver Island in the mid-1800's.

In those days, Beaver Island had a population of about 2,500 persons and was a major refueling stop for wood-burning steamers plying the Great Lakes.

The Island also boasted the first newspaper north of Grand Rapids, the Northern Islander and was a bustling center of government and commerce.

Following the assassination of Strang June 16, 1856, Irish settlers on the shores of northern Lake Michigan moved in, bodily evisting the island's Mormon pioneers.

Since then, Beaver Island has truly been a bit of the Auld Sod, transplanted on American soil. Even today, there is a trace of Irish brogue in the language of the native islanders.

The island is reached either by air or water from Charlevoix. The Beaver Island Boat Co. maintains regular shuttle runs between the mainland and the Island during the spring, summer and fall, carrying automobiles, cargo and passengers. The 32-mile trip from Charlevoix to St. James takes two hours and 15 minutes.

The island also has an excellent airfield only a 15-minute hop from the Charlevoix Municipal Airport.

During the early 1900's, one of the island's most famous residents was "Dr." Fyodor Protar, an exiled Russian nobleman who became so enchanted with the island on his first visit that he returned to spend the rest of his life.

Although he had no formal medical training, Dr. Protar served as the island's only physician for more than 20 years until his death in 1927.

The weathered cabin where he lived and his burial place near Bonner's Bluff are dutifully cared for, even today, by the islanders who loved him.

Charlevoix-the-Beautiful

Every year more and more travelers are discovering Charlevoix-the-Beautiful and are adopting it as their second "hometown."

The city of Charlevoix is located on a narrow bridge of land between the pounding surf of Lake Michigan and the tranquil waters of Lake Charlevoix.

In the heart of town is a placid body of deep water called Round Lake, which offers excellent docking facilities for pleasure craft.

The picturesque docks, marinas, dwellings and woodlands on the banks of Round Lake make it one of the most-photographed spots in the whole beautiful state of Michigan.

In the past few years, Charlevoix has become the hub of one of the finest fisheries in the world. The major game fish is the scrappy lake trout, which are being caught in unprecedented numbers, particularly in the Nine Mile Point area northeast of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan.

Some fishermen trailer their own boats to Charlevoix, launching them from ramps at Ferry Beach, Pine Point, Lake Shore-dr, near the Medusa Cement Plant or at Nine Mile Point.

Others rent or charter boats to take them to the prime fishing grounds.

Many fishermen take their daily limit (five) in a few hours, returning home with a string of lake trout each weighing from five to ten pounds or larger.

Later in the season, the big coho salmon planted in the 1960's will make their spawning runs in Charlevoix waters.

Charlevoix also has three excellent bathing beaches, a city-owned golf course and a wide range of recreational activities sponsored and supervised by the city Recreation Department.

The city of Charlevoix has a year-round population of about 3,000, the figure swells to several times that number during the summer. Since before the turn of the century, Charlevoix has been a mecca for vacationers from throughout the Midwest. Two private clubs – the Belvedere Club and the Chicago Club – are located in the city, adding a touch of yesteryear with their elegant summer homes.

In recent years, many fine motels have been constructed along the approaches to Charlevoix, offering excellent accommodations to short-term vacationers and travelers. The city's exquisite "summer shops are second to none in Michigan."

The city also boasts a number of superb restaurants which are enhancing Charlevoix's reputation as a good place to visit.

During the winter months, many skiers make Charlevoix their headquarters, since it is less than a half-hour's drive to the finest skiing areas in the Midwest.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners

Gentlemen:

We, your resolution committee wish to concur with the Chairman of the Isabella County Board of Commissioners in the request for funding meat inspection in the State of Michigan.

We believe it is essential that meat should be inspected before and after slaughter.

We further believe without the funding of meat inspection by this State, a great many slaughter houses will be unable to operate, thus throwing a great many people out of work and increasing the unemployment roll.

We feel it is the duty of the Legislature to fund this important item of the Governor's Budget and not surrender meat inspection to the federal government.

Be it resolved that copies be sent to Governor Milliken, State Senator Schweigert, State Representative Davis and A. Barry McGuire, Executive Director of M.A.C.

Respectfully submitted, Harry Tompkins, Barney, Milstein, Committee.

Motion carried.

The State Department of Social Services to increase their percentage contributed to County Medical Care Facilities by 6.8 percent, and

The State Department of Social Services to increase its differential percentage contributed from 40 percent to 43 percent which would reflect a similar increase of 6.8 percent, and,

The State Department of Social Services make this change retroactively, effective January 1, 1970, and allow for similar cost of living increases in 1971 and annually thereafter, and

That copies hereof be sent to Senator Schweigert and Representative Davis and to all counties having Medical Care Facilities, and A. Barry McGuire, Executive Director of MAC.

DISTRIBUTION OF HIGHWAY FUNDS

Moved by Commissioner Richardson and supported by commissioner Taylor that the following resolution be adopted:

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners, Charlevoix County

Members of the Board:

Whereas the proponents of proposed legislation on highway funds for a new distribution formula to cut the road tax percentages to smaller counties, and,

Whereas, if the afore mentioned legislation is passed the smaller counties will suffer considerable loss of road maintenance and bridge improvement monies; and

Whereas, this would only lead to a deterioration of smaller county road systems through lack of maintenance and repair.

Therefore be it resolved that the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners go on record as being opposed to the new proposed distribution formula for county road tax monies,

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to our State Representative and Senator and Barry McGuire.

Funds OK'd For Guidance Van

Congressman Phil Ruppe has announced that three grants of $9,000 each have been approved by the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to assist certain school districts in Northern Michigan, including the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, in purchasing mobile vans equipped as career guidance centers and staffed with professional guidance counselors.

These funds, in conjunction with an earlier $34,800 grant from the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to the Michigan Department of Education to help equip, staff and operate mobile guidance vans, will enable students in small school districts to take advantage of occupational guidance and training opportunities not ordinarily available to them.

Other areas to be served are the eastern Upper Peninsula and the counties of Ontonagon and Gogebic.

It is anticipated that the vans will be in operation starting this fall.

Wednell J. Marzolf of Gaylord is still a candidate for representative from the 106th district, contrary to a report in the June 24 Courier.

It was erroneously reported that Marzolf had dropped from the race following endorsement by the district GOP chairmen of only four of the 11 candidates.

A long-time civic leader in northern Michigan, Marzolf is owner of Marzolf's Alphorn Shop in Gaylord and is president of the Gaylord Rotary Club.

He is a three-year member of the executive board, Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America. He also belongs to the Gaylord Area Chamber of Commerce, the Eastern Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, the Northland Sportsman's Club and the Sporting Goods Advisory Council for "Outdoor Life."

He was manager of the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce and Caberfae, Inc., from 1949 until 1951.

Marzolf was executive secretary of the Mount Clemens Board of Commerce for six and one-half years. In 1956, he entered the association management field and affiliated himself with the American Petroleum Institute and the Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan.

Tom Maxwells Hurt in Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maxwell of See-rd., Hayes Township, suffered severe facial lacerations and other injuries when they were involved in an auto accident June 20 in Traverse City.

Mrs. Maxwell reports that she and her husband were traveling north out of Traverse City on U.S. 31 when an automobile directly in front of them on the inside lane stopped short to make a left turn across the median strip.

The other vehicle was driven by Miss Zandra Anne Martineau, 20, of Traverse City.

The Maxwell car slammed into the rear of the Martineau car, throwing Mrs. Maxwell forward with sufficient force to break the windshield. Their automobile was totaled.

The Maxwells were taken to Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital for treatment of their injuries. In addition to lacerations, Mrs. Maxwell had glass from the windshield lodged in her throat. They were released from the hospital Tuesday.

Miss Martineau was treated at Munson Hospital and released.

Maxwell was cited by the Grand Traverse Sheriff's Department for not having his car under control.

The GOP Endorsement: A Political Boo-Boo

The recent endorsement by the county Republican chairmen in the 106th representative district of four of the 11 candidates seeking to replace Rep. Robert W. Davis came as a surprise to most area Republicans.

The county chairmen decided in caucus June 17 to throw their support behind Ted Miller of Elk Rapids, John Kujawski of Boyne City, William Coon of Gaylord and Stanley McRae of Mackinaw City.

And certainly all four are fine men, worthy of the GOP endorsement.

But what about the seven other men who have filed as Republicans candidates in the 106th district? Are they not worthy of some consideration by the party bosses?

We are at a loss to understand just why the endorsement was made in the first place. After all, it is the function of the primary election (Aug. 4) to let the electorate decide who they would like to run in the general election next November.

Admittedly, 11 is an unusually large number of candidates to run for a House seat on one ticket in a single representative district. And it is to Rep. Davis' credit that he has made the House seat such an attractive office to hold.

But we fail to see why the GOP chairmen had to go out on a limb endorsing only four of them.

Candidates Richard Friske of Charlevoix, Martin Brennan of Conway, Wendell O. Marzolf of Gaylord, Gerald Olson of East Jordan, Victor Kishigo of Petoskey, and Donald Stark and Glenn Law jr. of St. Ignace certainly are worthy of some consideration.

According to one source, the GOP endorsement was made on the basis of the candidates' service to the Republic Party.

But at least one of the endorsed candidates, William Coon, has never even been a member of the party.

Other see the endorsement as a move to "get Friske" whom some people see as a dangerous candidate because of his affiliations with the ultra right-wing John Birch Society. But if it is, it is also a move to "get" Brennan, Marzolf, Olson, Kishigo, Stark and Law.

From here, it appears that the endorsement was made on a purely geographic basis, since the four candidates come from widely-separated areas, stretching from Elk Rapids on the south to Mackinaw City on the north.

To his credit, Charlevoix County Chairman Oscar Stroud voted against the party endorsement of the four candidates, but he was outnumbered by his counterparts in the other six counties of the 106th representative district.

The Courier views the endorsement as an attempt by the party to tamper with duly-established election procedures and an infringement on the rights of the non-endorsed candidates, all of whom were asked to pull out of the race after the party leaders' pow-wow.

We only hope the endorsement does not reflect adversely upon the candidates who did win the endorsement. Most of them were unaware of what the GOP chairmen were up to until the endorsement announcement was made.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Walk to the foot of Dixon-ave. in Charlevoix, face to the north-northeast and treat your eyes to one of the most magnificent vistas of land and water in the world.

In the foreground stands that impressive sand dune, Mt. McSauba. Beyond lies the broad entrance to Little Traverse Bay. And beyond the entrance to the bay rise the lofty highlands of Emmet County, which drop down abruptly to the Lake Michigan shore.

If you let your eye wander to the last microscopic point where the lake and the land become one, you will be focusing on the scene of the most horrible crime in Michigan history.

For on that lonely, windswept scrap of Lake Michigan shoreline near Good Hart, six members of the Richard C. Robison family were brutally murdered just two years ago last week. And their slayer is apparently no closer to arrest today than he was 23 months ago when their badly decomposed bodies were found seeping into the floorboards of their comfortable summer home.

It is almost inconceivable in this age of scientific crime investigation the perpetrator of such a foul deed should go undetected for so long. But the killer is still at large and the chances of his being apprehended grow slimmer with every passing day.

As you'll recall, Robison, 42, a wealthy Detroit area magazine publisher and advertising executive, was found dead in the cottage, along with his wife Shirley, 41, two strapping teenage sons, Richard, 19, and Gary, 17; their little brother, Randy, 12; and the boys' sister, Susie, 8. All had been shot with .22 and .25 caliber shells and little Susie's head had been bashed in with a hammer.

The investigation got off to a bad start right from the beginning. The killer had a month's head start to cover his tracks even before the bodies were discovered by caretaker Chauncey A. Bliss. Bliss and his Indian helper, Steve Shenanaquet visited the cottage July 22, 1968, to investigate what neighbors described as a foul odor emanating from the building.

Bliss opened the rear door of the cottage, saw Mrs. Robison's feet sticking out from under a blanket on the floor and notified the Emmet County Sheriff's Department by telephone.

The next few hours will probably be etched forever in the memories of those who had occasion to visit the scene. State Police Crime Lab detectives were called in immediately from Lansing to aid in the investigation. The cottage was cordoned off and virtually every law enforcement officer in the area was pressed into service to search the grounds for clues – from the steep, wooded escarpment behind the cottage to the sandy beach in front.

The clues, if there ever were any, had long since disappeared.

After the preliminary investigation by the crime lab, the bodies were removed one by one in plastic bags to the Emmet County Fairgrounds, where autopsies were performed. Then they were taken to Royal Oak for service and burial.

Almost immediately the search for the killer switched to the Detroit area, where the Robisons maintained a swanky winter home in Lathrup Village and where Robison allegedly was connected with various business dealings involving vast amounts of money. Two detectives were assigned full-time to the investigation, but after more than a year of fruitless search, they were moved to other assignments.

In the meantime, the Robison's cottage – completely unfit for human habitation because of the lingering aroma of decaying flesh – was demolished on orders of the National Bank of Detroit, executor of Robison's estate.

Nothing remains today except a tool shed behind the cottage site, a grim reminder of what happened nearby.

As a reporter who covered the story, I have had a vague hunch, almost since the bodies were discovered, that the killer is a local product, still prowling the awesome, silent woods of the Good Hart area.

There is ample evidence that the killer returned to the cottage sometime after the murders were committed to close the drapes and rearrange a note over two bullet holes in a window near the rear door. The note said the Robisons would be back the first week in July.

This return visit is something an out-of-town killer would never have dared, since it would involve a serious risk to his own safety.

But as months, and now years, roll by, details of the case are beginning to blur. Was the wife's name Shirley, or was it Virginia? Was Susie the youngest, or was Randy the baby?

But there is one man in this wide world who surely must, even today, remember every last detail of the Robison murders. The crime is with him when he awakes in the morning and when he goes to bed at night. Shadowy ghosts of Dick and Shirley Robison and their children interrupt his meals and intrude upon his most pleasant reveries.

He is the man who killed them.

By Jim Fitzgerald

A medical doctor confessed to me that he doesn't like to be called Doc. I know exactly what he means.

Looking around the crowded bar where the doctor and I sat, I could see 3 other "Docs". None of them is a doctor. One guy is called Doc because his late father was a veterinarian. Another man is a Doc because he used to jerk sodas in a drugstore. The 3rd man is a Doc because he once dated a nurse.

"I worked and studied a lot of years to become a doctor," my medical friend explained. "I like to be called Doctor. Or by my first name or my last name; or both. But not Doc. I think I've earned more respect than men who might be called Doc because they sell band-aids, or because they're in a cartoon with a rabbit who wants to know what's up."

Yeah. When a man earns respect, he likes to get it.

Listening to Doc's (whoops) Doctor's problem, I almost sobbed aloud. It's not only that I'm naturally sympathetic and I had a lump I wanted him to look at between drinks. But I was reminded of the day I was promoted to Corporal. You probably won't believe what happened but keep reading anyway. There's nothing but reruns on TV while I've never told this story before...

IT WAS LATE 1945 at Camp Polk, La. I had already been in the army about two years. My presence in Germany helped us win the war there. The mere threat of my presence in Japan led to our victory there (I was about to set sail for the South Pacific when Japan heard about it and surrendered).

Despite this tremendous contribution, I was still a Private First Class. This rankled. My mother kept writing that all her friends' sons were admirals and generals. She threatened to pull the shade in front of the blue-star flag in her window. I was ashamed. I was also dreadfully sick do doing KP and scrubbing floors. Corporals and sergeants didn't have to do that dirty work. Only privates.

Suddenly, my luck changed. I was made an assistant to the Catholic chaplain who was a full colonel. He was a vain man and he didn't want any lousy private working for him. He immediately promoted me to corporal. Wow.

I immediately purchased 62 sets of corporal's strips and mailed out 32 change-of-address cards, mostly to my mother. I was stenciling strips on my arm that evening when the sergeant said it was time for a GI Party. That means scrub the lousy barracks. I just sat there and laughed.

"It's great that we non-commissioned officers don't have to do such awful work, isn't it, Sarge," I said to my new comrade, slipping my arm around his shoulders. "Let's you and me slip over to the NCO club for a beer or 12. Let these slob privates scrub away."

The sergeant handed me a broom and showed me a written notice just received from the company commander. It said that, due to an unusual number of promotions, there were no longer enough privates to do all the KP and clean all the barracks. From this date forward, it said, corporals would also do KP etc. Just as if they were privates."

And when I fell on the floor, screaming and kicking and scratching at my new stripes, a dumb private looked at me and said:

"What's up, Corp?"

Raps Birch Society Candidate

Dear Mr. Clock,

I have always been of the opinion that during a political campaign, letters to the editor from aspiring candidates were not published, but in your paper, I see this is not the case. So, I am requesting equal time with my following letter to the editor.

Unfortunately, we have a candidate in the race for the State House of Representatives that is determined to tear down most of the institution, laws, and regulations that have made this state and country as great as it is today. His last letter to you is a prime example of what I am writing about. He indicates that the Government is taking over and that no one has any rights, etc. When actually, we the people, are the Government. Apparently, he has not been in this country long enough to know and understand what our democratic system means. We all know that our system isn't perfect, but most of us are optimistic and willing to use constructive methods to bring about any necessary changes.

The person of whom I speak is very negative in his opinions, and his views of the present and future of our country are appalling. I personally do not know how he feels he could actually represent all the people of this district when a representative has to have an open mind at all times. This persons mind seems to be closed to most issues and ideas except his own or those perpetrated by the John Birch Society.

He must receive tons of propaganda from his John Birch Society, and he must receive direction from its leadership on just how, when, and where to use this negative, warped, information in an attempt to disrupt our form of Government. I am sure this person does not write his own material, he merely signs his name at the bottom of this prepared literature in order to receive as much name exposure as possible in an election campaign.

This country, has been more than gracious to him, judging by his show of material wealth. He has taken much from this country and has given little in return and now he stands before groups and expounds at great length about how bad our system has become, and he informs us that he is extremely anxious to make wholesale changes the first day he takes office.

He indicates that if elected his first actions would be to remove completely, any agency or department that spends money that he personally does not agree with spending, such as welfare, social security, workmens benefits, mental health care, etc. If the majority of the people are in favor of something, this person is usually opposed, and I mean opposed! Watch him in action some time.

I do not know if you are personally interested in supporting this person or not, but you surely give him plenty of exposure, and let him use you and your paper to promote his philosophies.

I would like to make a suggestion to the person I am writing about and it is this. "Sir, you should get down on your knees 10 times a day and thank God you are permitted to live in the country that has been so good to you. Thank God and then quit trying to tear apart the governmental agencies that have made this country great."

Mr. Clock, you may wish to withhold my name, if so, I will understand but, what I have written should be printed so that people are aware of what is going on.

Sincerely,
William A. Coon

(Editor's Note: The Courier has not expressed itself editorially as yet on any of the candidates for the House of Representatives in the 106th District. However, we do feel that when a candidate is attacked in our letters-to-the-editor columns, he has a perfect right to rebuttal in the same columns. We do not believe in muzzling anyone – ever – even in the heat of a political campaign.)

'Who Paid For Mike's Groceries?'

Dear Editor,

In regards to Mr. Etienne's letter in the Courier: Yes, he has the right to wear his hair as he chooses, work or not work and live as he pleases if he is not hurting anyone else. He also comments on his camp out at the mountain and how proud he was that he didn't beg for food – that his friends brought it to him – Hurray! So your friends didn't let you starve - - now that's real friendship. But where did his friends get the food - either by working or friends that were working or from their parents. Someone has to work in order that others are able to get by without a job.

So as one of the uptight older generation, I will keep on working and finding pleasure and satisfaction in doing so. You do your thing and I'll do mine.

Sincerely,
D.W.A.

'If You're Perfect, Why Vigilanties?'

Dear Mr. Clock

After reading "Clockwise with Bob Clock" I decided to write this letter. I am a member of the so-called "younger generation".

I think that the writer (s) of the message you printed in the June 17 Courier is 100 percent right. I know we, the younger generation, aren't perfect, but then neither is the older generation. It seems that whatever we do or say is wrong, but whatever the older generation does or says is right.

Why is this so? If the older generation is so perfect, why did they form a vigilanti group? If we, the younger generation did such a thing we would be considered no-good law breakers, juvenile delinquents, or what have you, but the older generation are just considered concerned parents.

The older generation thinks the things we do are outrageous but after listening to my father and other adults refer to the good ole' days, I know that they sure weren't perfect angels. I think that it is about time that the older generation realizes that we aren't any worse than they were.

Also, just because people have long hair most adults consider them hippies, drug addicts, or just plain ole' people of no good use. This is not true. Was George Washington a drug addict or a hippie? How about Benjamin Franklin or Thomas Jefferson or Thomas Edison just to name a few of the long haired men of the past.

I think that it is about time that both the younger generation and the older generation realize that there are a few bad ones in every generation and there always will be, but that is no reason to consider the whole generation a bunch of no-good bums or drop-outs from society.

We just ought to be thankful that there are only a few drop-outs, for the generations before us have made this such a dog-eat-dog society that it is almost unbearable. To a few it is unbearable, and thus we have some society drop-outs. Thank you for printing this letter.

Respectfully,
A member of the younger generation.

Friske Won't Be a 'Yes Man'

June 25, 1970
Rt. 1 Box 174C
Boyne City
Michigan 49712

Dear Editor,

Well, Well, the Republican party has finally found a man that will not be a yes man to the oligarchy of "party bosses!" In order to make sure that this man will not get in office, they have decided to insult the intelligence of the public by taking the completely unprecented action of picking and supporting several candidates before the primary elections in August.

The man of whom I am writing of course is Richard Friske. It has been acknowledged by many that he is a leading candidate, and I am sure that there is little doubt in the minds of most people that he will not knuckle under to the wishes of the party bosses. In personal conversation, Mr. Friske told me a long time ago that he was personna-non-grata with the party because he refused to endorse all the candidates picked by the party for office.

Although the Republican party seems to have slipped into the control of collectivists, I believe Mr. Friske can still in good conscience run on the Republican ticket, because he understands the meaning of the word. The name was taken from the word Republic, which simply means the rule of law not men. This law is based on Gods word and not on man's. This law protects the rights of the individual from encroachment by any egotistically minded person or persons, and there is no doubt about the fact that Mr. Friske supports this law wholeheartedly.

I believe it was high time that we had a candidate that would not compromise moral and Constitutional principles in order to get the blessing of the party. It seems to make little difference anymore as to who gets in office, for once they are in office, the majority of them, give more regard to the wishes of the party oligarchy than they do the wishes of the citizens. That time has finally arrived, and I as one concerned citizen, believe that the voters must demonstrate to the "party bosses" on Aug. 4 via the ballot box, who is really in charge of choosing the candidate of the peoples' choice!

Very cordially yours,
Mrs. John Mathers

Offers Jack 'Hoss' Sense

Dear Jack:

In the past I too decided to enter the Rodeo Race. Prize being, a seat on the school board. Drawed a good hoss, and he give me a good ride, and I came out a winner, so the judges decided.

After four years, Jack, I too decided to hang up my spurs.

But the arena gate hands did not leave the back gate on the chute open, so that I could come back in un-expected.

In the case, Jack, I think the arena gate keepers, including 100 percent Boss, were wrong. So why don't you hang up your spurs again, Jack? And if you so desire, there will be another go around next year, just as sure as the sun rises.

How All-Day Drinking Party Ended in Murder

THIS ISOLATED cabin on Flag-rd. in a heavily wooded area of Eveline Township was the scene of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Marjorie Ponder, 47, June 13. Her husband, Charles Dale Ponder, also 47, has been bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of first degree murder.

Dale Charles Ponder, 47, of Eveline township, has been bound over to the July term of Circuit Court on charges of first degree murder in the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Marjorie M. Ponder, 47, of East Jordan on June 13.

The decision that Ponder must stand trial on the charge was reached by District Judge W. Richard Smith following Ponder's 2½-hour preliminary examination at the Charlevoix County Courthouse July 1.

Prosecutor Harvey Varnum of Boyne City said the first degree murder charge may be reduced after he confers with Ponder's court-appointed attorney, Robert Hoffman of Charlevoix.

Hoffman moved at the end of the examination that the court drop charges against Ponder on grounds that he acted in self defense.

The shooting occurred about 10 p.m. the evening of June 13 after the late Mrs. Ponder visited the three-room cement block home on Flag-rd. two miles west of Ranney-rd. occupied by Ponder, his common-law wife, Mrs. Mary (McSauba) Washegeshik and several of her children, grandchildren and other relatives.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Ponder arrived at the cabin in a truck late in the evening, forced her way into the cabin through the kitchen door, grabbed Ponder by the arm, swung him around in the middle of the room and demanded: "What are you going to do about the divorce." They said Mrs. Ponder then called him a profane name.

Then, the witnesses said, she proceed to beat him and scratch him.

When Ponder broke away, Mrs. Washegeshik's daughter, Donna Jean Washegeshik, 13, and her two cousins, Lois McSauba, 12, and Sandro McSauba, 13, both of East Jordan, struggled with Mrs. Ponder to get her to leave the cabin.

Finally, Donna Jean's brother, Richard Bolton, 33, of Union Lake entered the cabin, grabbed Mrs. Ponder and pulled her outside the cabin.

In the meantime, Ponder went into a rear bedroom where he had a .22 cal. rifle and picked it up, saying to Mrs. Washegeshik: "I'll fix her; I'll get her out of here."

In the kitchen he encountered the girls who wouldn't let him outside until they removed the clip from the rifle.

When Ponder stepped out of the door, Bolton had dragged Mrs. Ponder back to the vicinity of the truck when she suddenly escaped his grasp and rushed toward Ponder who had the weapon cradled in his arms.

The girls, who had followed Ponder out of the cabin, said Mrs. Ponder halted for a split second before the weapon discharged, sending a bullet into Mrs. Ponder's head from a distance of about eight feet. She fell over backward with one leg crumpled underneath her.

Dr. Robert T. Lossman, a pathologist from Munson Hospital in Traverse City who performed an autopsy on the body June 15, said Mrs. Ponder probably was killed instantly.

First witness on the stand was Deputy Thomas Sumner, the son of Sheriff Philo Sumner. The younger Sumner was night man on the desk at the sheriff's office when a call was received from a Mrs. Sutliff who reported a shooting at the Irvie Bowen place on Flag-rd. Ponder was renting the cabin from Bowen.

Sumner said he immediately reported the call to his father, who had just retired for the night, and Deputy James McCallum. The two men left for the scene immediately.

The deputy said he also was notified by radio later to have Medical Examiner Dr. Robert Martin and Prosecutor Varnum go to the scene.

Later, when Ponder was brought to the jail, Sumner said the defendant "could have been intoxicated to a degree."

Sheriff Sumner was next on the stand. He said there were three other cars in the driveway of the Bowen place when he drove in. There were four passengers in one of them, including a John Keshik who told him he had reported the shooting to the Sutliff's.

Sumner said Mrs. Ponder was lying in the yard.

Keshik told him Ponder had shot his wife and was inside the cabin.

"The house was lit up, so I told the deputy (McCallum) to cover me while I knocked on the door. Someone said, "come in," Sumner said.

As Sumner entered the kitchen Ponder appeared through another door at the rear of the room. The Sheriff said he told him he was under arrest and advised him of his rights. Then he asked him what he had done with the weapon.

Ponder led him into a back bedroom and handed him the .22 cal. rifle.

"This is the gun I used," the sheriff quoted Ponder as saying.

Sumner said he worked the bolt and an empty shell popped out of the chamber and

Medusa, DNR Trade Is Still Up in the Air

IT WAS BOUND to happen. The Charlevoix Fire Department was called to extinguish a brush fire on Murray-rd. in Hayes Township Friday -- just as a pleasure boat signaled for the U.S. 31 bridge to open. When large boats pass through Pine River Channel, a fire truck is stationed on the north side until the bridge closes.

Propose 3-Way Swap

The proposed swap of 10 acres of land between the Medusa Portland Cement Co. and the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is still very much up in the air. Mayor William Fochtman reported to the council Monday night.

It was hoped Medusa and the DNR could work out a trade of a parcel of frontage on Lake Shore-dr. for a similar parcel of land in the Jordan River State Forest. The DNR would then hopefully deed the Lake Michigan frontage to the city as the site of the new sewage treatment plant.

However at a meeting July 1 attended by representatives of the state, the cement plant and the city, it became apparent that the DNR is reluctant to yield any portion of its state forest land without replacing it with land of equal value.

The DNR suggested a three-way swap, in which the city would buy a tract on the Pre-Schoolers Must Have Rubella Shots

A recently passed amendment to the school act, includes Rubella Vaccine as one of the required immunizations for school enterers. This is the same amendment that also provided for pre-school vision and hearing screening as a requirement for school entrance.

Rubella vaccine is available at most doctors offices, and is available on clinic days at the Health Department.

Rubella vaccine is not the same as the regular measles vaccine. It has been available only within the last year. If your school enterer had a measles vaccine over a year ago, chances are it was not the Rubella vaccine, but was the vaccine for the red (hard) measles.

The Health Department clinics locations, dates and times are as follows:

Charlevoix County courthouse, second Monday of every month, from 1 until 3 p.m.

Boyne City Presbyterian Church basement, second Tuesday of every month, 1 to 3 p.m.

Bellaire, Antrim County courthouse, second Monday of every month, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Library Notes

This week the Library must boast about some new books which can only be called showcase treasures or the type of handsome volume proud owners display on coffee tables to impress and interest their envious friends. The one thing they cannot be called is "run-of-the-mill". They are exceptional, and we know our patrons will be delighted when they see them.

The first of these is a large and handsome "Dictionary of Art and Artists" The authors, Peter and Linda Murray, both trained as painters, and this tremendously-fine book is an example of their work as art historiana. It offers a sweeping survey, in text and pictures, of the history of Western art. The reader can roam through the illustrated section, studying more than 1,100 reproductions which have been grouped together according to the great national schools and major art movements. Thia valuable reference work cannot be taken from the Library, but we urge our patrons to come in and enjoy using it.

"Decoration U.S.A." was compiled by Jose Wilson and Arthur Leaman, both of whom have had vast experience in the home-furnishing field in their professional capacities as magazine editors. This highly original book is destined to become one of the major works on contemporary decoration. Every aspect of the decoration of houses and apartments is covered in detail, with separate chapters and devoted to color schemes, furniture arrangements, space and storage sections and lighting.

"The Great Cars" by Ralph Stein is a show-case which will appeal to boys and men of all ages. The author has narrowed the wide world of automobiles to the twenty-five greatest marques ever built: Alfa, Bugatti, Mercedes, Rolls, Invicta, Hispano-Suiza, Lincoln, Jaguarm Isotta-Fraschini and others. The prose is stylish, the color photographs magnificent.

"The Flammarion Book of Astronomy" is the great modern classic by the famous astronomer Camille Flammarion and his successors. This enormous volume is a complete and authoritative treasury of astronomical history and knowledge for the general reader, from the basic laws of the universe to the beginnings of man's adventure in space. It is a brilliant synthesis of modern knowledge made readable for the layman by the quality of its style and the faultless translation into English. There are nearly 1000 illustrations, diagrams, rare scientific photographs, ancient woodcuts and hundreds of supberb photographic plates, each linked to the text, each fully explained.

"The Dictionary of Antiques and the Decorative Arts" will have great appeal for those collectors who stumble across descriptive words or period names with which they are unfamiliar. It is a valuable source of information for dealers, decorators, students and everyone who has inherited or bought a few antiques and would like to know more about them. There are 5,500 entries of definitions, descriptions, short biographies of craftsmen and brief histories or artistic periods, all arranged in alphabetical order and thoroughly cross-referenced. It is beautifully illustrated with color plates.

Garden Club Hears About Biennials

The Charlevoix Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Albert Edwards on Wickeraham-rd. with Mrs. Marjory Dinwiddie as co-hostess. The lesson was given by Esther Ringler and Hilda Alexander on biennials and their adaption to the garden.

Biennials is a term used to cover plants that live but two years. The seed is sewn in the spring or early summer. The plants bloom the following year and then die.

There are very few true biennials and not more than two or three are known to the average gardener the rest are either of small value in the garden or are difficult to raise.

The only true biennials of real importance are Canterbury Bells and Siberian Wallflower.

Hollyhocks are a perennial but in some places are more successful as a biennial due to the rust that forms on the lower leaves. The best method is to sew choice seed every year or two. Seed sown in early spring will give flowering plants the following year and they will be at their best the second year. If rust develops, use sulphur dust.

Snapdragons can be biennials but may be troubled with aphis. If so use nicotine.

Some plants used as biennials are Campanulas, Chinese Forget-me-not, Digitalis or Foxglove, Sweet Rocket, Honesty, Iceland Peppy, and Sweet William.

Pansies and Violas are truly perennials but are more widely used as biennials. Violas prefer cool conditions and are less tolerant of hot weather than pansies.

Old time gardens always provided a place of honor for the well known Sweet William which blooms more freely as a biennial but can be a perennial.

Poppies can be biennials. They are extremely hardy the seed can be sown in the fall, in the winter upon the snow, or in the summer to extend the season of bloom the seeds germinate be in cool soil. Poppies are like good friends in the garden, they are not mere callers, nor guests. Some people believe that poppies are not good cut flowers. Even a poet bas written– "For pleasures are like Poppies spread.

–You pluck the flower, its bloom is dead."

But the poet did not know that if he had plucked the poppy in bud just before it had shed its green calyx it would of lasted well in water. Poppies are exquisite cut flowers when cut properly.

The next meeting will be July 14 at the home of Mrs. Mildred Ochs.

FAST PITCH

By delivery time the lead in the Fast Pitch circuit will have been decided as the two undefeated teams, Morweld and County State Bank will have clashed.

Morweld stayed undefeated by beating American Mold 9 - 2 behind the pitching and hitting of Ken Richardson. He collected two important base hits and limited the losers to four scattered singles.

County State Bank scored early jumping out to an 7 - 0 lead, then had to hang on as Novak's made a run at them scoring five times in the late innings. Gary Stutzman homered in the 7 - 5 victory for the bank boys.

SLOW PITCH

Freedmans continued along undefeated in the slow pitch with an impressive win over Andy's 13-4. Bernie Devries led a steady hitting attack with two long home runs for the winners.

The Weathervane ran hot and cold during the week. They looked sharp in whipping Howard's Service of Boyne 10-4, but Medusa pounded out homers by Larry Nunemaker, Hank Archey, and Bob Spence then pulled out of a crucial situation in the last of the seventh for a narrow 7-6 win.

The USAF got into the win column behind the home run bat of Ed. Thompson who collected two round trippers. Six late inning runs did the trick for the Servicemen 8-4.

Howard's Service scored eight times in the top of the seventh to break a 9-9 deadlock wide open against the luckless Townhouse. Bill Dunlop emerged the hitting hero with three long blasts over the fence. The M boys – Mitchell and Middelton – each had one for the losers.

The Townhouse couldn't contend with American Mold earlier in the week and fell by a 12-4 score.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

DeYoungs bumped off its two nearest rivals during the week to take a commanding lead in the Junior Circuit. Against Freedmans they waited until the bottom of the sixth before posting the margin of victory. And then it was walks and errors that lead to Freedmans downfall in the 5-2 contest. Ron Himbaugh deserved better fate as he allowed the winners only one hit. However eight walks and several errors kept him in hot water.

Novak's gave them a brief scare, jumping out to a 3-0 lead. The league-leaders pecked away however, and finally Jim Potter's double around singles by Gary Moore and Tom Moore gave them the cushion of victory.

Ellsworth Firemen On the Job

By Anne Osterbaan

Ellsworth's 11-man volunteer fire department is ready to go at a moment's notice.

In addition to fire runs, the firemen meet on the first Tuesday and the third Monday of every month during the summer. In the winter they meet once a month.

They also meet with East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City firemen once a year to discuss mutual problems. The area fire departments also work together in fighting major fires.

The men are paid by the village of Ellsworth and Banks township.

Officers this year are: Art Ruis, chief; Willard VanderArk, assistant chief, Bud Tornga, secretary and treasurer; and Art Drenth, Chester Farrell, Larry Essenberg, Alan Vanninam, Levi Donaldson, Andy Kooyer, Barney Smith and Marvin Wynsma, firemen.

Charlevoix-the-Beautiful

Every year more and more travelers are discovering Charlevoix-the-Beautiful and are adopting it as their second "hometown."

The city of Charlevoix is located on a narrow bridge of land between the pounding surf of Lake Michigan and the tranquil waters of Lake Charlevoix.

In the heart of town is a placid body of deep water called Round Lake, which offers excellent docking facilities for pleasure craft.

The picturesque docks, marinas, dwellings and woodlands on the banks of Round Lake make it one of the most-photographed spots in the whole beautiful state of Michigan.

In the past few years, Charlevoix has become the hub of one of the finest fisheries in the world. The major game fish is the scrappy lake trout, which are being caught in unprecedented numbers, particularly in the Nine Mile Point area northeast of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan.

THERE are few sports equal to the thrill of piloting your own dune buggy over the sand hills at Bells Bay. The sport is growing in popularity with every passing year. Here Ron Ward of Petoskey gets ready for a heart-stopping plunge. The versatile soft-tired vehicles will go almost anywhere.

VISIT BEAVER ISLAND THIS SUMMER

THE VILLAGE of St. James lies on a fishhook of land encircling beautiful Paradise Bay. This picture was taken near the U.S. Coast Guard Station, looking toward the downtown section.

Try Beaver Island

A visit to Beaver Island is like taking a trip to yesterday.

Located in the middle of Lake Michigan northwest of Charlevoix, America's "Emerald Isle" offers a relaxed way of life that is becoming more of a rarity in the United States with every passing year.

Six miles wide and 14 miles long, the verdant little island has only one community – St. James – named after the Mormon ruler James Jesse Strang, who had himself crowned "King of the World" on Beaver Island in the mid-1800's.

In those days, Beaver Island had a population of about 2,500 persons and was a major refueling stop for wood-burning steamers plying the Great Lakes.

The Island also boasted the first newspaper north of Grand Rapids, the Northern Islander and was a bustling center of government and commerce.

Following the assassination of Strang June 16, 1856, Irish settlers on the shores of northern Lake Michigan moved in, bodily evisting the island's Mormon pioneers.

Since then, Beaver Island has truly been a bit of the Auld Sod, transplanted on American soil. Even today, there is a trace of Irish brogue in the language of the native islanders.

The island is reached either by air or water from Charlevoix. The Beaver Island Boat Co. maintains regular shuttle runs between the mainland and the island during the spring, summer and fall, carrying automobiles, cargo and passengers. The 32-mile trip from Charlevoix to St. James takes two hours and 15 minutes.

The island also has an excellent airfield only a 15-minute hop from the Charlevoix Municipal Airport.

During the early 1900's, one of the island's most famous residents was "Dr." Fyodor Protar, an exiled Russian nobleman who became so enchanted with the island on his first visit that he returned to spend the rest of his life.

Although he had no formal medical training, Dr. Protar served as the island's only physician for more than 20 years until his death in 1927.

The weathered cabin where he lived and his burial place near Bonner's Bluff are dutifully cared for, even today, by the islanders who loved him.

BASTILLE KEY

The United States is the home of the best surviving souvenir of the storming and wrecking of the Bastile on July 14, 1789, the incident that started the French Revolution. The Marquis de Lafayette gave the key to the Bastille to his friend George Washington, who hung it in Mount Vernon where it remains today.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony Marek

Pamela Selph Weds Ludington Man

Miss Pamela Kay Selph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Selph of Charlevoix, became the bride of John Anthony Marek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marek of Ludington in a nuptial mass at St. Mary's church Saturday, June 27.

Performing the ceremony was the uncle of the bridegroom, the Rev. T. R. Sniegowski of Suttons Bay. Assisting him was the Rev. E. Francis Denay.

Altar boys for the double ring service were Dan Marek and William Sniegowski, brother and cousin respectively of the bridegroom. Mrs. C. D. Geiken was at the organ accompaning Mrs. Doyle Warner as soloist.

Escorted to an altar decorated with arrangements of yellow and white gladioli by her father, the bride wore and Alfred Angelo style gown of white organza with long bishop sleeves complimented with lace. Scalloped Venise lace encircled the Juliet neckline and followed down the front to the hem of the gown. Satin bows marked the empire waistline with streamers falling over the attached train. Her shoulder length veil of English illusion was held by Venise lace florets centered with teardrop pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white glamellias and yellow roses.

Maid of honor was the sister of the bride, Julie Selph. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Hulett of Grand Rapids, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Thomas Kiebel of Petoskey. All wore identical gowns of maize sheer over matching taffeta with sash and back bows of the same taffeta. Val lace trimmed the jewel necklines, cuffs and skirts of their gowns. Their headpieces were bows of yellow taffeta and each carried bouquets of yellow and white pompoms.

Roger Marek of Ludington, brother of the groom, assisted as best man. Ronald Marek, another brother, and Roger Selph, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Tim Selph and Tim Marek, also brothers of the couple, seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Selph selected a mint green original, a sleeveless sage coat over a long sleeved pur silk dress trimmed with lace and pearls with white accessories.

Mrs. Marek choose a powder blue linen coat and dress ensemble with matching accessories. Complementing both of their costumes were corsages of white carnations and yellow roses.

Assisting at the reception held at the V.F.W. hall were Sue Staley, Mrs. Jack Stockwell, Mrs. Nicholas DeYoung, Candy Hulett of Lansing, Mrs. Nancy Kirkham and Theresa and Rita Ruby of Ludington.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the Mareks will make their home at 3824 Washington st., Ironton.

The bride is employed in the office at the American Mold Engineering Co. The bridegroom is a recent graduate of Ferris State College.

Guests attended the wedding from Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and several Michigan cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Marek hosted a rehearsal dinner at Grey Gables Friday evening.

Camp Charlevoix Corral Chatter

It was a most beautiful opening day for our 45th. year, as boys from 13 states arrived to begin their camping experience for this summer. The states represented are: Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa; Michigan, California, Nevada, New York, Connecticut, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Kentucky. We are very International this summer with a counsellor from Wales, two men from France, one from Mexico, and one from the Panama Canal Zone. The day started off with a phone call from Rusty Smith in California, wishing the camp a happy opening day, and this call was followed up by another call from Dan Ross, Cincinnati, where Dan and Alice became proud parents of a little boy. Russ Washburn and his wife Sharon of last year's staff also became proud parents about ten days ago. Boys started to arrive about 8 a.m. and all day long cars were pulling into camp, unloading happy boys who were most anxious to meet their friends from last year, or boys who are new to the camp and are starting to build lasting friendships. It is alwaya a pleasure to see parents meet old friends here, friends they haven't aeen since college days. This seems to happen every year. The weather was perfect all day long, and many parents remarked on how well everything looked, the lawns, the flowers, the waterfront, the equipment, and it showed that the staff of 55 really worked hard the last week putting everything in shape.

Among the permanent staff who are here are: Bill and Ruth Townsend (Bill has been director of activities for the last 15 years); Harry and Monica Bingham, who handle the business end of the camp, Harry being here for 35 years; Glynn and Ina Gardiner, Glynne being our caretaker for two years, and Ina is assisting in the infirmary. Our camp nurse is Mrs. Pearl Grate of Charlevoix. Merrill Stahell of Cedar City, Utah, is our head cowboy for the second year. His wife, Mary, is one of the tutors. Louie Warren, our genial cook, is here for his 13th year, assisted by Rose Hilton, 12th. year, of Charlevoix, and Bill Stephens from West Virginia.

The first big all-camp program was held Saturday night with the Annual Pillow Fights. This is a good mixer and provides much excitement for the boys. The results of these matches were: Steve Osborn, Dearborn, Mich., beat Bill Bissell of Grosse Pointe; David Auslin, Park Forest, Ill., beat Tim Gardella, Grosse Pointe. Glenn Graber, Ann Arbor, won over Bill Bauer, Mt. Pleasant; Jeff Zoeller, East Lansing, beat Ben Dancer, Stockbridge; Paul Edison, Grand Rapids, beat John Wanamaker, Grosse Pointe; Jamie Zitsman, Springfield, Ohio, beat David Danaher, Grosse Pointe; Mac Pfeiffer, Birmingham, won over Clayton Tuthill, Grand Rapids. Billy Gates, Grand Rapids, won over Martin Fields, Bloomfield Hills; John Harbeck, Grand Haven, beat Chris Sayles, Spring Lake; Larry Engle, Birmingham, won over Derrick Van Mell, Chicago; John Kahle, Logansport, and Tom Cullison, Muncie battled to a tie; Peter Perron, Bloomfield Hills, won over Richard Cook, Grosse Pointe; Bob Danaher, Grosse Pointe and Steve Taylor, Ann Arbor, fought to a tie; Jim Rush, Lafayette, Ind., won over Dave Timmons, Coshocton, Ohio; Steve Baker, Milford, won over Chip Ballinger, Muncie; Tom Harbeck, Grand Haven, beat Jim Eberts, Grand Rapids; Brad Hillis, Kokomo, won over Joe Jenny, St. Louis, Eric Artman, Pittsfield, Ill., won over Gil Pearsell, Birmingham; Bill Doolittle, Grand Haven beat John Rosenfield, Springfield, Ohio; Dick Geddes, Wauseka, Ill. beat Steve Woodward, Middletown, Ohio. The boys enjoyed this event and the cheers were loud and long when the cowboys took to the pole and really let go in an exciting match. Lee Fernstrum and Tom Dorsek, two popular counsellors, put on a good match, both falling off the log and the firat swing of their pillows. The evening was ended with the singing of "Taps" and the boys returned to their cabins for their first night in camp.

This might be a good place to say that is sure seems great to have a smaller enrollment. We decided last summer that we were going to take less boys this summer and we cut the enrollment by 40 boys. We feel that after all these years we have earned the right to keep our enrollment down so that the pressure will not be so great.

Sunday morning at chapel, which was held in our outdoor chapel, Ken gave the first talk speaking on "Building a Reputation". Chuck Zeltsman gave the Scripture, and Dick Geddes read a prayer. At Sunday dinner, each staff member introduced himself to the boys, and we found that we have 23 different colleges or universities represented, from 11 states and five foreign countries, Canada, Mexico, France, Wales, and the Panama Canal Zone. In totaling up the number of years in camping among the staff, we came up with the amazing figure of 234 years. That is really a lot of camping experience. Sunday evening, we had a fine rain, much needed in the area. The entire camp met in the Bigwam for a Vesper Service featuring some folk singing led by John Nesbitt and Chris Olsen. We had a gentle rain in the evening and it was most helpful as everything is dry.

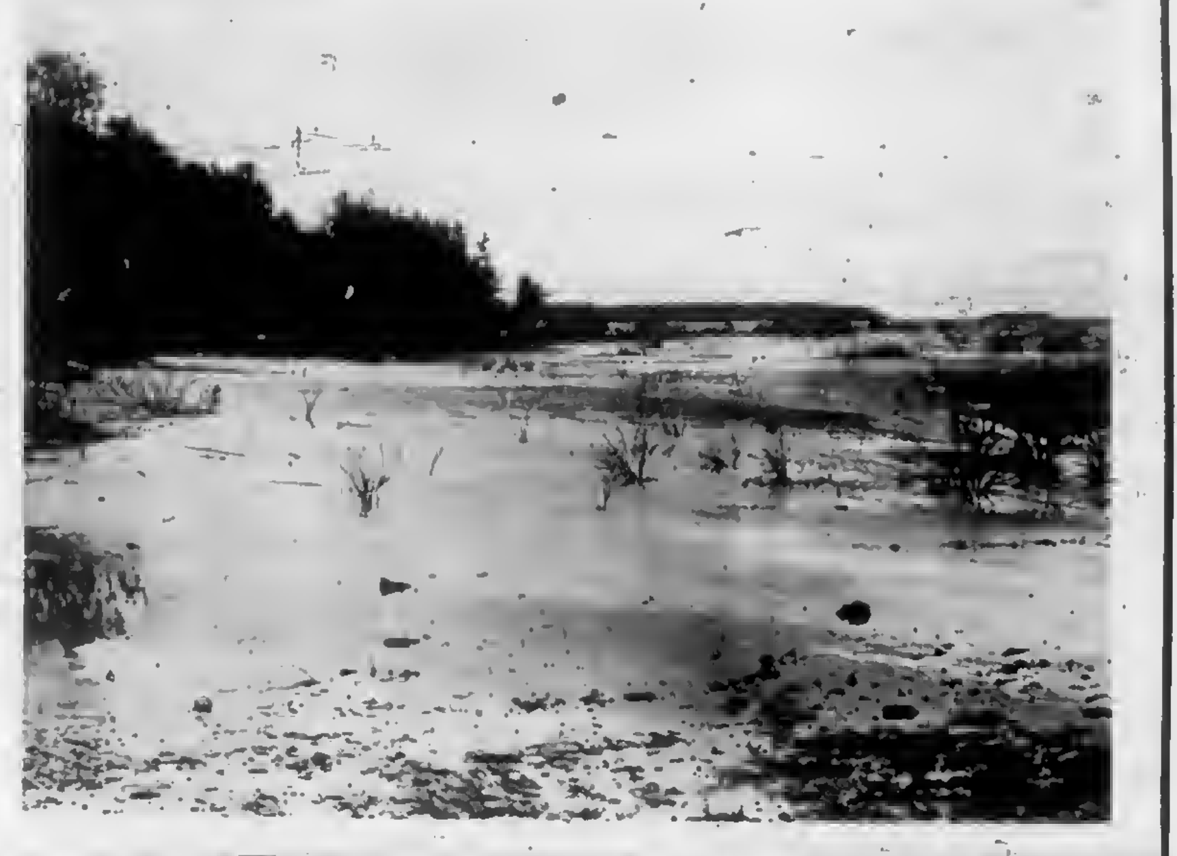
Monday morning boys started their regular activities, and this was a real hot day and the waterfront was a popular place. The water has warmed up now and everyone is anxious to get into the water. We are using both our junior and our senior waterfronts this year. In the afternoon, our two cabins of our oldest boys took off for a hike to Susan Lake and to stay overnight. Mike Coulter and John Deane took their boys, who were: Chris Cojeen, Casey Cronin, Dick Geddes, Mike Griesz, Ben Miller, Bill Doolittle, John Rosenfield, Tommy Smith, Steve Elzemeyer, Hutch Rogge, David Swain and David Tripp.

Tuesday, another hot day, with camp going full force and boys eager at their activities. Cabins 21 and 20 returned from Susan Lake and reported a very enjoyable overnight. The waterfront was a popular place on Tuesday and as the swimming tests have been completed, boys know the area in which they can swim. Tom Dorsek took his boys of cabin 17 on an overnight. These boys were: Jimmy Eberts, Paul Francisco, Chuck Zitsman, Jim Cronin, Tom Harbeck, Chris Hurst and Brian Koonce.

Wednesday, another hot day, temperature around 85, and once again the waterfront was a popular place. After the noon meal, the boys met and elected the leaders in the Green-Grey competition which goes on all summer long, and gets very tense at times. The boys chosen for these important leadership spots were: Junior Greens: Capt. Ben Dancer, Lts. C.J. Ghesquiere, and Mark McCardel; Junior Greys: Capt. Peter Kay, Lts. Tim Gardella and Peter Gardella; Prep Greens: Capt. John Harbeck, with his Lieutenants being: Dave Townsend and San Greenawalt; Prep Greys elected Jim Shook as Captain, with Jim Zitsman and Bruce Johnson as his lieutenants; intermediate Greens elected Capt. Brad Mast with Bobby and Dave Timmons as the lieutenants. Intermediate Greys chose Capt. Steve Scherer Baker, with Lts. Chris Boesel, and Eric Musekamp. The Senior Greens elected Ben Miller as captain with Steve Elzemeyer and Tim Washburn as his lieutenants. The Senior Greys chose Chuch Zitsman as captain with Tom Harbeck and Mark Acher as lieutenants. These are the boys who will attempt to lead their teams to victory. In the afternoon, Cabins 18 and 19 took off on an overnight to the campcraft area which is down the lake about a mile. As this is a permanent campcraft area, it is always set up for a good overnight. These boys were: John Ferelli, Tim Washburn, Brad Hillis, Bob Wittmer, Larry Lepard, Joe Jenny, Mark Achor, Don Beatty, Doug Halby, Eric Artman, Gilbert Pearself, John Swan, and Jim Waller. In the evening, as it was still very warm, the evening activities were called off and everyone went to the waterfront for an evening swim.

Thursday, another scorcher, but great for camping. Cabins 14 and 15 left for an overnight down to our campcraft area. Chuck Lieder and Doug Otto were the counsellors and the boys on this trip were: Rod Kirsch, Frank Perron, David Roe, Steve Taylor, Brian Weeks, Robert Dadaher, Chris Boesel, Bob Bauer, Dave Elzemeyer, Eric Musekamp, Jimmy Rush, Tupper Upham, David Timmons, and Bob Wittmer. This was cook's day off, so as is the custom we had a big picnic outside and the boys loved the sloppy Joe's, baked beans, potato chips, sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, onions, carrot sticks, fruit punch (bug juice in the camp language) and ice cream. Everyone always enjoys this weekly cookout.

More next week, and let's hope the weather stays this great.



TONS OF A muddy substance made up of water and cement dust literally "paved" a section of the Lake Michigan shore last week when a canal at the Medusa Cement Plant became blocked. The cement mixture cascaded through the woods, over Bells Bay-rd. and spread along the shore. Plant Manager Fred Cohrs called the incident "an unfortunate accident." Flow was diverted to a second basin when the overflow was noticed. Plant workers scraped the cement from the road and Cohrs said the beach would be cleaned up this week.

Special Programs Benefit 1,100 Kids

Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District's Special Education Department provided service for over 1,100 students during the 1969-70 school year.

Speech defective students constituted the largeat group served. Four full-time and one part-time speech correctionists assisted 547 students from kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

The Intermediate District's diagnostician evaluated 177 students in order to determine their eligibility for special education placement. Many of these students were subsequently placed in special programs in order to provide them with an optimum learning environment.

Those students having personal, home or school adjustment problems were aided by one of the three school social workers employed by the Intermediate School District. This service was extended to 165 students of the 10 constituent school districts.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Program, assisting students through on-the-job training, serviced 93 eligible students. Many of these students receive auxiliary aid such as physical and psychological evaluations, dental and visual examinations, tools and uniforms required for work as part of the service provided.

The Learning Disabilities Program, a relatively new Intermediate District service to students, provided diagnostic and evaluation services to 46 students from 7 constituent school districts.

Teachers having students in their classroom who are classified as emotionally disturbed were assisted by the Consultant for the Emotionally Disturbed. This assistance was made available to 45 students and their teachers.

The Homebound and Hospitalized Program serviced 28 students.

Tennessee Walkers Come to Charlevoix

Dixie Horses Win Friends in North

TENNESSEE WALKER shows usually graceful on command from Mrs. James Driggett.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES DRIGGETT pose with Tom Mack K and MK Go Go, two registered Tennessee Walkers at their farm. The horses are full brothers. Their grandsire was Midnight Mack K, a World Grand Champion.

The Tennessee Walkers are coming to town, thanks to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Driggett of Charlevoix.

Four of the prized show, parade and riding horses already are housed at the Driggett's farm on Barnard-rd., and more are expected to be boarded this summer as the interest in Tennessee Walkers spreads northward.

According to an article by Susan Marrs in the Michigan Horse Show Association "Blue Book" for 1970, the breed originated in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

They were originally bred by plantation owners who wanted a strong horse with an easy, ambling gait and the ability to canter straight so that it could be ridden through rows of crops.

"To fill this need, the Tennessee Walker was bred and trained to excel in three gaits: the walk, the running walk, and the canter," Miss Marrs writes. "It is the second gait which gives the breed its official name, although these horses are also commonly known as Plantation Walking Horses due to their original use."

"The first of the breed's three gaits is the slowest," she continues. "This is a flat-foot walk involving a diagonally opposed movement of the feet.. The second gait is the Tennessee Walker's natural gait. It is slightly faster than the flat-foot wolk, and is smooth, combining an accentuated nod of the head with each step. Show horses overstride when performing this gait, that is, they place their back hoof in front of the print of their fore hoof. Overstrides of more than 50 inches have been recorded for Tennessee Walkers, and it is said that this horse in the only one which can overstride naturally."

Tennessee Walkers grow to an average height of 15½ hands and an average weight of between 1,000 and 1,200 pounds. Their color can be black, white, sorrel, chestnut, roan, bay, brown, grey, or even yellow. Markings include blazes, strips, snips, or stars on the face; stockings, stocks, coroneta, or fetlocks on the legs; and occasional white markings on the body.

Their tails are flaxen and are held like pennants while they are being ridden.

Further more, the breed is intelligent, gentle and affectionate, Miss Marrs concludes.

The Driggetts own three Tennessee Walkers: Tom Mack K, a two-year-old stallion; MK Supreme, a one-year-old filly; and Golden Spark, an 11-year-old stallion. They also own several Half-Walkers.

Walkers boarded by the Driggetts include MK Go Go, a full brother of Tom Mack I, owned by Carl Meggitt who plans to be at the Driggett farm this summer to work with the horses.

Most of the animals have championship bloodlines.

The Driggetts also maintain a stable of riding horses at their farm.

THE DRIGGETTS maintain a stable of riding horses. Here, returning from a canter, are guide Jeannie Wilcox (left) and Barbara Stemple, Patty Blair and Tim Stemple, who are spending the summer at Bay Shore.

MISS JEANNIE WILCOX of Charlevoix, guide at the Driggett farm, poses astride Tennessee Walker. Because of their unusual gait, the horses are prized show animals. They also are known for their smooth, almost motionless ride. The horses were bred originally by southern plantation owners who wanted a horse which would stay between crop rows.

Register Your Boat Now In Venetian Night Parade

Charlevoixans are invited to participate in the 1970 Venetian Festival yacht parade to be held on Saturday, July 25, 1970. Vessels may be decorated, strings of lights will be furnished (as available) on request; such decoration is not necessary, however. It is the opinion of the Committee that Yachts, with just running and cabin lights, are, in themselves, a beautiful sight, according to John Barnes, chairman.

All participants are to pick up their instruction package (and lights, if requested) at the Chamber of Commerce Office on Friday, July 24, or Saturday, July 25 before 5 p.m.

The instruction package will show time and exact location of rendezvous for the yachts in your fleet. It will also assign your position in that fleet. Generally, assembly will be between 8:00 and 8:30 p.m. east of the railroad bridge in Lake Charlevoix. The package will also include a sketch of the course and your estimated time of departure (inbound - through the railroad bridge). Please be sure to have the instruction package on board and follow the instructions exactly.

Local businessmen have donated beverages and prizes to the Committee, so a party and drawing will be held for all participants and their crews on Sunday, July 26 at, or about, 1 p.m. Exact time and location will be given in your folder.

If there are any question, please call Barnes at 547-6584 or 547-2000.

Please complete the entry form below and mail it to Barnes as soon as possible at P.O. Box 352, Charlevoix 49720; or drop it off at the Chamber Office.

How All-Day Drinking Party Culminated in Fatal Shooting

landed on the floor. He said he didn't pick it up right awsy, because he was keeping his eye on Ponder. Later he and Dr. Martin found the shell and taped it to the weapon with the clip, which was given to him by Mrs. Janice Shenoskey, 19, of Farmington, another daughter of Mrs. Washegeshik. The weapon, clip and shell were submitted as evidence.

The sheriff said Ponder warned him when he worked the bolt: "Watch it; it has already killed; it can kill again."

Sumner said Ponder was then taken into custody for investigation of murder and transported to the Charlevoix County Jail by Deputy McCallum. Sumner stayed at the scene to question witnesses and take statements. The body was removed to the Charlevoix Hospital morgue.

Under cross examination by Hoffman, Sumner said he didn't recognize the victim immediately, although he recognized her later from file photographs. He said she had been in jail two or three years ago.

Asked about Ponder's physical condition, the sheriff said there was blood running down his face and "he was excited, plenty excited." He said there were several other people in the cabin when he entered and they also appeared "scared and excited."

Dr. Martin was next on the stand. He said he examined Mrs. Ponder only long enough to determine that she was dead. He said there was a wound and blood on the top of her head.

Next witness was Dr. R. T. Lossman, the Munson pathologist who performed the autopsy on Mrs. Ponder. He said she died of a gunshot wound to the head, which had resulted in fracture, shock and hemorrhage. He said there was considerable damage to brain tissue, but that only a small fragment of lead from the bullet was found.

Under cross examinstion, Dr. Lossman said the wound definitely was caused by a buullet rather than by a blow to the head.

"The wound did not have the blunt edges that would have resulted from a blow," he said.

Ponder's common-law Indian wife, Mary Washegesick, was next on the stand. She said she and her children had lived with Ponder about four years and that they had returned May 24 from Florida where Ponder had been picking oranges.

She said the family had some money saved up and that Ponder was "taking things easy" until the cherry harvest is ready for picking.

Mrs. Washegesick said she, Ponder and other adult members of the family had been drinking most of the day with occasional trips to East Jordan for beer, wine and groceries. She said the drinking actually started the night before when her son, Richard Bolton, arrived from southern Michigan for a vacation.

At 4 in the afternoon, they made a trip to the Charlevoix Hospital after her grandson, Raymond Shenoskey, 1½-year-old, became ill.

When Mrs. Ponder arrived at the cabin, Mrs. Washegesik said she was in a back bedroom with one of the youngsters and two other children were in bed in a middle room which separated her room from the kitchen.

She said she heard the car (truck) drive up and then heard one of her nieces (Lois McSauba, 13) tell Ponder: "A girl wants to see you." Ponder said he didn't want to see anyone. Lois left the cabin and returned moments later to say, "Bill wants to see you." (The identity of Bill was not made public at the examinstion.)

Then Mrs. Ponder reportedly entered the cabin and confronted Ponder. While the girls and Bolton were struggling to get Mrs. Ponder out of the cabin, Mrs. Washegesik said she tried to keep the children quiet.

Then Ponder entered the bedroom and said: "I'll fix her; I'll get her out of here." He took the rifle.

Mrs. Washegesik said Ponder hod gotten the rifle from Irvie Bowen, owner of the cabin to shoot porcupines which had been gnawing on the toilet seat.

The next witness was Donna Jean Washegesik. She told substantially the same story. She added that Ponder opened the kitchen door to see who was outside and when he saw it was his estranged wife he slammed the door. Then the door flew open and Mrs. Ponder rushed into the room and the scuffle with Ponder ensued.

At one point, Donna's sister, Mrs. Janice Shenoskey, 19, of Farmington, cried: "Look out for the babies," but Mrs. Ponder replied, " — the babies," Donna said.

After her brother, Richard Bolton, got Mrs. Ponder out of the house, Donna said she removed the clip from Ponder's rifle before he went outside she said. He put the weapon on "Safety."

She said after the shooting, Sandra McSauba asked Ponder why he had shot his wife. Ponder's reply was, "Well, look what she did to me."

On cross examination, Donna said at first she thought Mrs. Ponder were drunk, "but if she were drunk she wouldn't have been so strong."

When Bolton took the stand, he said that Ponder was "very well intoxicated" at the time of the shooting.

"I was with him all day and he had been drinking," Bolton said.

Bolton, who stands six feet tall and weighs 220 pounds, also described Mrs. Ponder as being very strong. He said he had trouble getting her out of the house. He said he told her: "Get out of here; we don't want to be bothered."

He said she fell once near the pump and then squirmed away from him when they reached the truck.

Bolton said after Mrs. Ponder was shot he checked her pulse and found she was dead.

Mainlining

with Beth Baldwin

By Beth Baldwin

How much weight will the younger generation pull in elections if given the right to vote at 18? Will they get out and vote or will they be as apathetic as some of their parents? Does suffrage at 18 mean that politicians will cater to their ideas and demands? Are 18, 19 and 20 year olds quaiified to vote?

These questions plus many others are popping into the minds of individuals, both young and old, as the question of the 18-year-old vote is being considered by the United States Supreme Court as to it's constitutionality.

Young people right now, even those who haven't yet reached the voting age, are affecting the decisions of legislatures and political parties. Remember the riot at Michigan State in East Lansing not too long ago where store windows were smashed? And on the other hand, keep in mind that a tremendous amount of students participated in the Moratorium and in Give Earth A Chance Day. It has come to my attention that the Michigan legislature proposed that Wayne State's budget be decreased with the cut earmarked for the campus paper "Sound End" because of the apparent unconcern for professional journalistic ethics plus the fact that too many four letter words were making their appearance. Definitely, students and other members of this particular age group already help sway the decisions of our policy and lawmakers.

Young people including those under 21 have shown that they are not apathetic. Again, remember the demonstrations against the war in Vietnam and the invasion of Cambodia and the draft. Perhaps their reasons were not always sound or their means of protesting correct and valid but they did now that they care and wanted their feeling known. One thing for sure, they do not just sit there and pass the time with idle complaints. Once in a while they offer solutions, maybe not the best, but at least it shows they are thinking about the problems. Right now those under 21 have not got many justifiable means to present their opinions. The ballot would be and should be a wsy for them to do this.

Another point in behalf of lowering the voting age is the fact that the younger set participates in political campaigns, traveling across the state or nation to win support for their candidstes.

As for qualifications, a large percentage of persons in the 18 to 20 year age bracket go to school where they study government, history, political science, economics and sociology, not to mention reading current political books in English classes or doing journalism research.

From my experience, much of college life revolves around current events, politics and foreign affairs. Not just academically but also socially.

Those not at school have usually entered the field of work and they too are aware of what's going on.

Another possibility is that some form of military duty is being served. These young men certainly would like to have a voice in electing government officials who determine foreign policy.

Admittedly there are members of this particular age group who just don't care what happens. And hopefully there are just a few who want to cop out on life and all that goes with it.

Why lower the voting age? Why not?

Mothers-in-Law, Cadillacs And the New County Jail

"I feel like the fellow who just watched his mother-in-law drive off a cliff in his new Cadillac."

The speaker was Charlevoix County Prosecutor Harvey Varnum and the occasion was the groundbreaking for the new county jail on Garfield-st. in Charlevoix.

Like most of us, Varnum has mixed emotions about the new jail, which is being built at a cost of just under $500,000, plus another $600,000 for financing.

We are grateful that the Board of County Commissioners has been able to comply with the state law governing minimum standards for jails, but we can see so many other places we would rather spend $1,100,000.

Of course, it is only humane to house prisoners in a safe, sanitary building. But somehow our priorities have gotten mixed up. It seems to us that the money that is going into the new jail could be better spent in alleviating some of the conditions which foster crime and make jails necessary in the first place.

The amount of money would buy fifty-five $20,000 homes for the county's underprivileged families, the same families which will provide most of the occupants for the county jail itself.

The same amount of money would provide the same 55 families with free medical and dental care at the rate of $400 a year for 50 years.

The same amount of money would provide the same 55 families with wholesome, nutritious food, at the rate of $25 a week, for 15 years.

Of course, handouts to the underprivileged are not the answer to the social ills that beset Charlevoix County. Pouring money into welfare schemes if little better than pouring it into new jails.

But just one-quarter of the cost of the new jail -- $275,000 -- would provide $5,000 job training or retraining courses for the breadwinners of the 55 families, allowing them to provide for themselves and their families for ever after and, indirectly, reducing the future jail population.

Or the money could be spent on water mains and sewer lines -- both of which are still sadly lacking in virtually every community in the county.

All of which is to say that the Courier shares Prosecutor Varnum's mixed emotions about the new jail.

Varnum said that in years to come society may come up with a better solution to the problem of crime than locking up miscreants in the county pokey. But he didn't say what the alternatives might be or how soon we should look for changes in the handling of public enemies.

In the meantime, we continue to build jails because we don't know what else to do.

Although Charlevoix County residents undoubtedly will take a certain amount of pride in their new jail when it is finally completed it is still a shame we have to lose our new Cadillacs just to get rid of our mothers-in-law.

Glorious 4th A Bell-Ringer

The Glorious 4th is over, and although some of us might have appreciated a few more BTU's in the atmosphere, the day certainly was a bell-ringer for those Charlevoix merchants who elected to keep their doors open.

And, for our money, staying open on summer holidays is only good, common sense in a resort community like Charlevoix.

It would be far better for us to celebrate Independence Day on Feb. 4 and Labor Day on the first Monday in March than to close up shop when all the tourists are in town. There are days in mid-winter when it hardly pays to get out of bed.

Of course, the weather was a factor in this year's bustling 4th of July business, as chilly vacationers abandoned the beaches for the warmth of stores and restaurants in town.

We hope our blustery 4th of July gave out-of-towners an idea of what Charlevoix is like during the so-called "off-season" from September through May.

Only then the streets are uncrowded and there's a real zip in the air to clear out the cobwebs of city living.

We wish some of our visitors would return to see Charlevoix-the-Beautiful in her gaudy fall wardrobe or when winter turns the landscape into a crystaline wonderland for skiers and snowmobilers.

That's when Charlevoix really shines.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

"Throw it out. Throw it all out," I said to Judy at lunch the other day. "It's just a lot of junk we'll never use again and there's no point in giving it house-room."

I was referring to the accumulated clutter on our "side porch," a little-used appendage on our big barn up on Dixon-ave. Although the porch is fully enclosed, it is too cold to use in winter and summers in Charlevoix usually are so cool that the room really doesn't get much traffic even in July and August.

But this blistering summer is something different. The side-porch catches every errant breeze and would be a wonderful place to relax with a cool drink if it didn't happen to the repository for all the old books, newspapers and broken toys we want to get out of sight in a hurry whenever company comes.

It is sort of a second basement — above ground.

So Judy has been in the process of cleaning up the porch with an eye toward making it liveable once again. But she didn't know what to do with all my junk and brought the subject up at the lunch table.

"Are you sure you want me to throw everything away?" she osked.

"Everything," I said as emphatically as I could with mouth full of potato chips.

"Even the old pictures?" Judy pursued. "There's o whole drawer full of them."

"What pictures?" I asked.

"Oh, you know. All those old pictures of your family."

I vaulted into the side porch in one leap and started burrowing into the drawer Judy mentioned. And there they all were, stacks of faded photographs I had almost forgotten.

Judy and the kids joined me and we went through them one by one. Most of them were taken shortly after the turn of the century at my mother's hometown, Oxenden, Ont., on the shores of Georgian Bay.

You probably have a lot of pictures like them yourself. There were photos of logging camps and lumber mills. In the foreground of each was a pile of logs draped with the lanky, raw-hide frames of my long-dead great-uncles in their chin-whiskers. They looked out soulfully at us across the years.

There were pictures of old shingled houses that my forebears called home and others of corseted young ladies in ankle-length skirts, women I had known as dottering grandmothers when I was a boy.

"Look here," I said to the kids. "Here's your Great-Great Grandpa Mallard with two bear cubs he found in the woods. He taught them to do tricks and took them to all the country fairs."

Grandpa Mallard died long before I was born, but I had heard the story of grandps and the bears hundreds of times when I wos a kid from my great uncles and aunts.

The picture was eagerly seized by three pairs of little hands.

"And here's another of your Great-Grandma and Grandps Winter when they lived at Port McNichol. That little girl with the long hair was daddy's mother, your grandmother."

Six little eyes studied the picture carefully.

"And here's another of your grandma when she was a teenager."

"Oh, she cut her hair," Katie said dismally.

"And here's a picture of Old Bruce. He was a hermit who lived at Oxenden when grandma was a girl. He used to come to the village with a paper bag on his head and give boiled eggs to the children. He stayed one winter with Grandpa Mallard but he grew his own tobacco and it smelled so bad grandpa had to turn him out."

All eyes turned to the picture of Old Bruce wearing his paper bag.

And so it went for the rest of the lunch hour, a nostalgic visit to yesteryear, right smack in the middle of 1970.

"Shall we throw them out?" Judy asked when we finished but she already knew my answer.

Maybe someone, someday, will want to get rid of my old pictures. But when that happens I'll be tucked away at the Oxenden cemetery with the young fellows in the chin-whiskers and the girls in their ankle-length skirts.

I won't need them anymore.

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote. . .

A familiar answer was received when I asked Anne how come she cried when my wife had a sore throat.

"You just don't understand women," she said.

So true.

My wife, Pat, had a rusty throat last week and when she talked it sounded like s screen door being opened for the first time in 50 years. Anne told Pst that she couldn't converse with her at any grest length because her (Pat's) scrstchy voice made her (Anne's) eyes water.

This incredible empathy didn't surprise Pat. It's no wonder. She cries when she sees the beams of huge searchlights sweep across the sky because gas station is having a grand opening and she is touched by the meaningfulness of the occasion.

I have heard tales of husbands having sympathy pains when their wives were pregnant, but I have never actually known a man who has experienced this phenomenon. Myself, I didn't feel a thing until months later when Blue Cross rates went up. Therefore, I remain dubious about Jack gagging when Jill is choked. But there was no arguing with Anne; those were wet, real tears in her eyes.

I asked how such a thing could be and that's when I go the standard you-just-don't-understand-women answer.

Ther is no reasonable retort an honest man can make when faced with this declaration of feminine omnipotence. A man can know a woman so well he can safely predict her reaction to a given situation — she will always prefer a restaurant 15 miles back, for instance. But he can never understand how, while passing it at 60 mph, she can be absolutely certain the skipped restaurant served better food than is offered at the crummy dive where he stupid husband stopped. She even knows there is soap and clean towels in the rest room 15 miles back, and she has never poked her smart nose inside the place.

If you ask her how she knowa such things, she'll tell you it's because there was s cute baby sitting in a car parked in front of the restaurant. And if you get frustrated enough to drive 15 miles just to prove she is wrong, you'll find out she is right.

So what man could understand?

Take our dog, and someone did. We gave it away. This Monster Dog did nothing except bark and chase cars and it plainly needed a home in the country.

Except st the actual time of delivery, there were few Fitz tears shed over the departure of Monster Dog. It was generally agreed, after considerable brainwashing by Old Dad, that big dogs do not belong in the city. Even softhearted Pat went along with the giveaway. "No more Monster Dogs for us," she vowed, looking at the table leg Monster Dog had chewed in half.

But as I type these words, there is another Monster Dog on our back porch. It has been there several days. No one knows where it came from. I know where it is going - nowhere. My wife and children are feeding it.

"If you feed that mutt, it will never go back where it came from," I said with usual male logic, all brilliant.

"It's hungry," my wife said. "Where's your heart?"

"Yeah, yeah, yeah," said the kids who will feed that dog faithfully until I say it can stay and then they will never feed it sgain, I will.

"But you said you'd never own another big dog," I whimpered.

"This is different," Pat said with usual female logic, all dense.

Don't ask me to explain this. The only thing different sbout this brown and white collie is its bark — it's hoarse.

Which brings us back to Anne and her empathy. She may be credible, after all, because every time that lousy dog barks, I cry.

Letters on Hippies, Election and Swans

'Have Hippies Ever Caused Violence?'

Dear Bob,

I'm writing this letter in reference to the growing hippie population in Charlevoix and the surrounding towns. In answer to a lot of people's questions (both older and younger generations included) I'd like to pose a question of my own. Have any of the so-called Charlevoix hippies ever caused any violence? Hava they ever shot anyone, or raped any women? It seems to me that olcohol has more to do with this situation than the hippies. The murder in East Jordan a few weeks ogo was certainly not the work of any hippie! I believe the answer to my question can be answered by you as well as I and that answer is a definite No!

Have these kids ever done anyone in this town, as an individual, any harm. I honestly think not. Why in God's name then don't you leave them alone and let them live their own lives in peace. Just because they have long hair doesn't mean thot they are hunted criminals. This is supposed to be a free country. A man's life is supposed to be his own. A citizen of the United States is supposed to have certain basic rights granted to him; such as the freedom of speech, the freedom of assembly and the right to bear arms as long as they are registered. Yet, as fellow citizens of this grand country, you seem like you would not grant these people the same rights as you yourselves have. For your own sakes, give these kids a chance, before you lose them altogether. Don't go plunging into the deep in your opinions and views of the kids. I cash twenty dollar bills, too. Does anyone think this strange? They may have been given to me, too. Don't accuse without proof. A man is innocent until proven guilty.

The world has enough problems, without us, as individuals, making more. Why can't we get our heads together and come up with a logical solution?

Surely there is one! Racism, war, dissent, drugs, and the generation gap are tearing this country into small, seemingly unmendable pieces. Isn't there something that we, as individuals, con do? The law, according to the Constitution of this country, rests in the hands of elected or appointed low enforcement officials. It is up to these officers to enforce the laws of our cities, towns, villages and states.

If the law enforcement officials cannot enforce the laws, however difficult, or no matter how close to home a certain case may strike, then it is time to either elect or appoint new officers or officials. It is not the time for local citizens and businessmen to take the law into their own hands as members of a citizen's patrol. That is what law officers and heads of state are paid to do. Private and individual citizens are not.

Also, as a final point, I'd like to say that I'm sick and tired hearing rumors in this town. For example, someone had officers investigate a supposed pot party at the Bell's Bay campground. A party that never materialized. I should think that officers hove better things to do with their time than investigate rumors.

Let's get together!

Thanks for listening,
sincerely,

Bob Bergmann

Courier Gets Thank You For Support

Dear Bob,

On behalf of the Hayes Township Board, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your support and efforts in assisting us in obtaining the boat launching ramp, car and boat trailer parking area and rest room facilities known as Nine Mile Point, located on U.S. 31 in Hayes Township, Charlevoix County.

Construction has been completed and the facilities are already in use providing many hours of recreation and enjoyment for those who want to take advantage of the increased Lake Trout fishery off shore from this site in Lake Michigan.

Thanks again for your cooperation and interest.

Swans Win Renown

2721 Towne House Dr. N.E.
Cedar Rapids, Iowa 52402
June 29,1970

Dear Sir,

Being far from home we naturally glean the Courier each week for news. But you can imagine our surprise to note in the Cedar Rapids Gazette of Sunday June 28, 1970, quite a nice article tracing the history of the swans in the Charlevoix—Traverse City area to a pair of mute swans, Pericles and Aspasia, who were brought from England to the estate of George Bruce Douglas, "Brucemore," in Cedar Rapids in 1918. The article stated "since Pericles the cob threatened the children every time they came near the pond at Brucemore, Douglas had them removed in 1919 to the Chicago Club on Old River, a resort area between East Jordan and Charlevoix Mich."

Yes, we noted the error of placement of the Chicago Club but nevertheless were pleased to see a spot of cool, crisp Northern Michigan here amoag the tall corn of Iowa. The fact that the swans have stayed so long in the area and prospered so well from their environment speaks highly of the type of person who lives in and visits the area. It is hoped the people of Charlevoix will continue to make the town a pleasant place to live—not only for the swans but for one another and their many visitors as well.

Charlevoix, you're beautiful! Change with the times if you must, but always change to improve yourself. Let the word go forth that Charlevoix is truly a beautiful place to live in and to visit.

Sincerely,

Glenn R. & Mary J. Snider

Following is a reprint of the story about the Charlevoix swans which appeared June 28, 1970, in the "Around the Town" column of the Cedar Rapids Gazette:

Traverse City, Mich., has a growing flock of swans which now number some 300 birds. Research conducted by W.L. Gelston, a school superintendent in Traverse City, shows that the flock has a history dating back to 1918 and an itinerary starting with England and including stops in Iowa and East Jordan, Mich.

According to Gelston, the swans are descendants of Pericles and Aspasia, a pair of mute swans imported in 1918 by George Bruce Douglas, who brought them from England for his estate, Brucemore.

Since Pericles the cob, threatened the children every time they came near the pond at Brucemore Douglas had them removed in 1919 to the Chicago club on Old River, a resort area between East Jordan and Charlevoix, Mich.

Mrs. Howard Hall who presently occupies Brucemore with her husband, and Mrs. Barbara Dixon, 314 Nassau SE, both daughters of Mr. Douglas were among the children to be frightened and chased by the Swans at Brucemore. Mrs. Dixon recalls a time when one of the swans knocked a cousin out of a dinghy at Charlevoix.

By 1935, the flock had grown and settled at the mouth of the Jordan river. A severe winter in 1948 led to the migration of a single pair of the swans to Traverse City, presumably because the river and Lake Charlevoix had frozen over. That they survived and grew in number may be due in part to the spunkiness of great—great—great—grandpappy Pericles, who once chased the children at Brucemore.

Calls Coon 'Wishy-Washy' Candidate

Dear Mr. Clock:

I would first of all like to compliment you for allowing the people to read how the candidates of this district stand on the issues that concern the voters, even the "open-minded" wishy-washy candidate who attacked Mr. Friske in the last edition of your paper. You are indeed an editor of distinction, for you are the only editor in this area that gives the citizens this privilege.

The second part of this letter, I would like to direct at the aforementioned wishy-washy candidate. Anyone who read the editorial page last Wednesday knows, of course, that the candidate about whom I am writing is Mr. Coon. If he is as ignorant as he portrayed himself to be in his editorial, I feel sorry for this state if he should ever get elected for any office.

He made the allegation that Mr. Friske is trying to tear down our government and destroy our institutions. My only reaction is, that he is either very destitute of knowledge about American government and the Constitution, or he is entirely unacquainted with the deep love and respect that Mr. Friske has for this great nation and its government.

This preverter of the truth also states that Mr. Friske has taken much from this country and has given very little in return. Since I happen to be quite well acquainted with the accomplishments and unceasing contributions of Mr. Friske to our country, I beg to differ with such atrocious lie. He was a prosperous farmer, and outstanding tool and die man, a well-to-do coal yard operator, and now a very prosperous orchardist. In addition to adding huge sums of money to the government treasury coffers, via taxation, he has been very active in civic and community affairs.

Finally, in conclusion, I would like to comment that from what I have seen and heard of this man, he gives me the impression of being the type of politician, as Mr. Friske so aptly described them in one of the pamphlets which he handed out, "who portray the image of being 'for' everything and end up standing for nothing."

Truly yours,
Ole T. Olson

Festival Salutes Guard

This year's Venetian Festival will salute the U.S. Coast Guard, according to Dick Oestrike, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Oestrike said local Coast Guard units will supply the color guard for the Venetian street parade.

The CG cutter Sundew will be positioned in Round Lake during the boat parade to throw a spot light on the participating watercraft.

Plans also are being made for an Coast Guard air-sea rescue in Round Lake Sunday afternoon.

The cutter Sundew also will hold "open house" during the festival, Oestrike said.

The victim was identified as Harrison Andrews, 53, of Wynne, Ark.

Andrews, Canady and another son-in-law, Willard Rushing, 29, of Galesburg, were fishing from a small boat when Andrews stood up to cast, capsizing the craft.

Canady and Rushing were swam 100 feet to shore, but Andrews was unable to make it to safety.

The accident occurred about 2:30 p.m. Friday. The body was recovered from the weedy lake bottom at 6 p.m. by scuba divers from the Petoskey and Gaylord State Police posts.

The body was taken to the Watson Funeral Home in East Jordan and was later flown to Arkansas for service and burial.

The fatality was the first death by drowning in Charlevoix County this year.

Direct Long-Distance Dialing Coming to Charlevoix in '72

Charlevoix is one of 12 northwestern Michigan communities slated to go over to direct long-distance dialing in the spring of 1972, Kenneth T. Harrold, manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. office in Petoskey has announced.

The change will mean that Charlevoixans will be able to dial numbers as far away as California without even talking to an operator.

The new system will be installed after completion of Michigan Bell's new $3 million telephone exchange at 514 E. Mitchell, Petoskey. The building will cost $1.5 million and the equipment another $1.5 million.

Other communities to be served by direct distance dialing are Petoskey, Boyne City, Cheboygan, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Indian River, Mackinaw City, Mancelona, Pellston, Walloon Lake and Wolverine.

Charlevoix, Petoskey and Cheboygan will have what is known as "ANI" – all number identification – whereby a machine times telephone calls and records all other necessary information. No operator is heard.

To place a long distance call, telephone users in the three communities simply will dial "1", followed by the Area Code and telephone number of the party they wish to reach.

The other communities will be part of an "ONI" system, which stands for operator number identification. Dialing is carried out in the same manner as in the "ANI" system, but an operator will come on the line to record the caller's telephone number.

The direct dialing project will enable about 20,000 customers in the dozen area communities to dail anywhere from coast to coast to more than 100 million telephones in the United States and Canada.

Construction of the new telephone office will necessitate demolition of the former Michigan Bakeries, Inc. Bell purchased the property in December, 1968, to prepare for the expansion.

Already erected on the site is the radio tower which relays calls to and from Beaver Island.

General Contractor for the new building is the Barnes Construction Co., Inc., of Grand Rapids. Architect is Ellis Naeyaert Associates, Inc., of Warren, Mich.

Completion is slated for September of 1971, when installation of the new direct-distance dialing equipment will begin. The equipment will be built, assembled and installed by Western Electric Co. at a cost of $1.5 million.

The project includes a turbine to provide emergency electrical power.

Michigan Bell is spending a record $270 million this year to improve its facilities in the state.

Petoskey's present dial office went into service in June, 1941, with less than 1,700 customers. It now serves 4,900 customers in Petoskey, plus an additional 15,000 in outlying communities

Art Fair Entries Pass 200 Mark

The number of entries in the 12th annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen scheduled for Aug. 8 passed the 200 mark recently according to Mrs. James Driggett, general chairman, who said that July 15 would be the deadline for entries.

This date was set in order to prepare for placing the entries and having programs printed she said.

The Waterfront Fair committee held its final meeting before the show at a luncheon at the Weathervane Inn hosted by Mrs. Driggett.

At the meeting all committees reported and received final assignments.

Mrs. James Shepard, co-chairman with Mrs. Driggett, reported the lay-out map which she is making for use in the main booth and on name tags; Mrs. Richard Martin and Mrs. Ted Lass were assigned the job of distributing posters throughout the north; Mrs. Duerr and Mrs. Robert Martin, hostesses at the booth and the Nathan Cummings exhibit; Mrs. J. F. Webb reported that the event would be held at the Charlevoix high school if forced inside by inclement weather; Mrs. Max Hosmer and Mrs. Arthur Skelton, junior hostesses and Mrs Julius Gilbert and Fran Martin, publicity.

Mrs. Gilbert said that the Nathan Cummingses, internationally recognized art collectors and part-time residents at the Anchorage on Lake Charlevoix would again loan an art masterpiece, "probably a Matisse, since this is the one-hundredth anniversary of the famous French Painter, Henri Matisse".

Library Notes

Who Ruined Renoir With Red Lipstick?

New titles for summer reading include three special display shelves in the library. The books were carefully selected for diversified reading, and there should be something for everyone.

"The Short Throat, The Tender Mouth" by Doris Grumbach will remind each reader that whether or not a generation displays a collective conscience, the struggle of the young student to find and understand himself is absorbing and sometimes tragic.

"Rags of Glory" is a major novel about the Boer War by the author of "The Turning Wheels," Stuart Cloete. This is a large and impressive novel with a bibliography. The author lived among Boers while cattle ranching in Africa. He rode and walked over many of the battlefields and visited their tiny neglected cemeteries. ft took ten years to write this immense book, and it offers wonderful entertainment and interest to any profound reader.

"Finding Out," a high-spirited comedy, has to do with the world of art. When the newest acquisition of the Van Buren Museum of Art is unvelled, It is discovered that a large painting by Renoir displays a smear of orange-red lipstick on the mouth of one of the nymphs. "Vanitas" is printed in the same garish color at the bottom of the canvas.

The quest to unmask the vandal brings Thomas Baird's extraordinary gift for hilarious situations into full play. ft is a fast-paced narrative with inventive plotting and, at the same time, the author unfolds an absorbing tale of manners and motives and reveals what makes the wheels of a museum--and many other organizations–go round.

"The Chantic Bird," by David freland, is a serious story narrated by a 16-year-old rootless boy whose daily life is characterized by wanton cruelty and destruction. The boy cannot understand why his parents did what they did. Despite his aloneness, he feels a fragmentary attachment to his orphaned younger brothers, sisters and the girl who cares for them. This is a book to be read with thought, compassion and understanding.

"The Edge of Sadness" by Edwin (The Lash Hurrah) O'Connor, is the story of a middle-aged priest and the several worlds in which he finds himself. In this story of past and present, told through the narration of Fr. Hugh Kennedy, the ordinary day-to-day life of a priest is portrayed with thoroughness, sympathy and truth. ft is an unforgettable reading experience.

"Don Quixote, U.S.A." is a very silly book by a very funny author. ft has to do with Arthur Peabody Goodpasture, a descendant of an old and respected Boston family. However, he has always been a disappointment to his family. He was insignificant in appearance, he chose the University of Florida instead of Harvard, and he studied agriculture instead of pointing himself toward a career in banking, bonds or law. He was, obviously, not the stuff from which heroes are fashioned, and the reader is left to find out what happens.

The bare facts of water heating.

Barely warm.
Nice and hot.

The right moment for hot water is when you need it. Gas burners start up instantly and deliver more heat to the water. Gas is so fast that it keeps up with baths, showers, laundry, dishes, every hot water need.

The right temperature for hot water is the way you like it. Put the thermostat at any setting you want. Gas will automatically maintain the temperature you select.

The right price for hot water is what you pay for gas. Automatic gas water heaters cost less to buy. Less to install and maintain. And so little to operate that you can enjoy the luxury of using all the hot water you want around the clock.

Change to an automatic gas water heater.

You have a right to expect hot water at the right moment, the right temperature, the right price.

Mainlining

with Beth Baldwin

"Take off! Hide! The vigilantes are on their way!"

No, the scene isn't Charlevoix, although there are some who would say it sounds like it.

In the mid 1800's the first vigilante committee was formed in San Francisco to put an end to the violence, crime and corruption that abounded the coastal city.

Between Dec. 24, 1849, and July 22, 1851, six major fires broke out in the San Francisco area. After fire number five, Sam Brannan helped organize a vigilante committee that would rid the city of its evil. It did just that, establishing courts, selecting new leaders and trying criminals. It also hanged four men, flogged one, deported 28, turned 15 over to authorities and released 41. However, the job done wasn't permanently. A repeat performance took place again in 1856.

San Francisco wasn't the only place where citizens took the law into their own hands. On Jan. 10, 1864, a vigilante committee fashioned after those in California, hung Henry Plummer, who was sheriff for both Bannack and Virginia City and also the head of an organized gang. Naturally, he just ignored the lawlessness that was occurring in spite of complaints.

Montana also boasted a vigilante committee. In 1884, a drive throughout the eastern part of the state was conducted by Granville Stuart, onetime California gold rusher and Montana pioneer, also a ranching friend of Theodore Roosevelt and later a U.S. minister to Uruguay and Paraguay.

Nowadays vigilantes refers to a group of parents and adults who supposedly patrol the city and surrounding area to help the local police who haven't the manpower to cover every suspected hippie hang-out.

Sorry to disappoint some people but the vigilante committee in Charlevoix hasn't quite got off the ground. As a matter of fact, it didn't even reach the drawing table. And to clarify a bit, the title vigilantes was dubbed on a group who called themselves concerned citizens. They met to talk things over, let the local law enforcement people know that if they ever needed any help or backing in any way, just in the lines of cruising the city, that they could count on this group.

As is common knowledge by now, the second meeting these "concerned citizens" held was attended by members of the younger generation. So far that is as far as this group has gone.

It is my understanding that there are some private individuals who do some checking around. But they do this as individuals not as members of a group and probably are doing it in the interests of their own children. This is a free county and no one can stop them from getting into their own cars and driving around town. Perhaps they may even be going out on a harmless ride, as people have done for ages. But now any parent or older person who does this leaves himself wide open to dubbed a vigilante.

One morning last week I found on my desk the following comment which was typed, I believe, with my typewriter on office paper. I have my own ideas as to how it got there, however, here's what I found:

"We the young of Charlevoix have a say in this town too. After all we have to live here too. The V.G.C. have no right to cut off partying because of just a few who cannot have fun without trouble. I feel we, the young, can and will get rid of these few."

Of course the young of Charlevoix have a say but right now it's very small. Think twice if you believe that breaking laws will give you more say. The V.G.C. (vigilante committee, I believe) has not issued any mandate declaring that parties were to be abolished. On the contrary, the City Council passed an ordinance outlawing camping and overnight sleeping on any public property unless so designated for such purpose. However, this ordinance was not intended to discourage beach parties. As long as no trouble arises, party-goers probably will not be disturbed.

Finally, I would like to direct a question to the author of the note or to anyone else who can supply an answer. How do you plan to get rid of these few who are causing so much turmoil?

JIM DENNY of Ellsworth had belts, headbands and other leather goods for sale at the second annual Lakeside Hobbycraft Show in East Park Saturday.

Corral Chatter

Friday of the first week started out as a hot day, but a very welcome thunderstorm visited us in the afternoon, and as everything has been so very dry it was most welcome. In the evening, the boys saw a movie which they enjoyed very much. It was "Goliath and the Dragon" starring Steve Reeves. Cabin 13 took an overnight down at our campcraft area, Bob Pardee and Larry Boardman took these boys, Rick Cook, Bob Swain, Jim Chalberg, Scott Foster, Lock McKelvy and Peter Perron.

The Glorious Fourth of July arrived not so glorious as it was dark, and rainy. It rained hard during the night and left everything wet, wet, wet. In the morning the entire camp met in the clubhouse for games and the boys enjoyed this as prizes were candy bars and nothing beats candy bars for boys. This is always the day to start the Green-Grey competition for the summer and in the afternoon the annual track meet was held, as the kick-off for the summer. Boys were excited and ready to gain points in the events. In the Junior Section, Peter Kay won three events. Others winning were Ben Dancer, Mark McCardel, Tommy Weidner, Tom Buckley, Chris Jones, Glenn Graber, Paul Edison, C.J. Ghesquiere, Jim Bennett, Jeff Zoeller, Billy Bissell and Jamie Sullivan. The Greys won in the Junior Section, 44-42.

In the Prep Section, the first place winners were: Rex Buckley, Aaron Chatterson, John Harbeck, Sanny Greenawalt, Larry Engel, Jim Shook, Billy Gates, Bruce Rea, David Cronin, David Townsend, David Taylor, Howard Kay and Jamie Zitsman. The Greens picked up the point in this section, winning 47-38. In the Intermediate Section, the Greys won by a mile, 53-29. The first place winners in this section were: Rod Kirsch, John Kahle, Steve Baker, Robert Swain, Eric Meixner, Steve Taylor, Bob Bauer, Mike Harris, Brad Mast, Frank Perron, Bob Healey, and Jay O'Neill. The Senior Greys won in their section, 56-28. The first place winners being: Chris Cojeen, Chris Hurst, Steve Woodward, Mark Achor, Bill Doolittle, Mike Glesz, Bob Wittmer, Jim Cronin, Hutch Roggee, Chuck Zitsman, Tom Harbeck and John Ferella. So the Greys start off the season with three big points against the Greens' one point. For the evening dinner we had a huge buffet set up along the shore and our cooks, Louis Warren, Bill Stephen, and Rose Hilton, really put on a spread with thick roast beef, and everything to make the meal a real standout. The boys loved it. This was followed by a movie "Slaves of Babylon" starring Richard Conti. And then at dark everyone assembled on the sand at the waterfront where John Deane and his committee had the fireworks all set up ready to go. We use eight mortars to set these rockets off and it was a glorious sight. It is always great to know that people all around the shore, our neighbors, enjoy these fireworks, too. To close the evenings festivities, each boy is given a box of sparklers, and when these are all lighted, it does indeed make a beautiful sight. It was late when everyone got to bed, but it was worth it, as it was a really fine day in celebration.

Sunday morning dawned bright and sunny, with our chapel service being held in our outdoor chapel which the boys and parents find most restful and worshipful. Lee Fernstrum gave the talk, reading several passages of scripture, speaking on "Love For Others". Curt Huber, our trips man, gave the prayer. The ushers were Lock McKelvy and Scott Foster. After chapel, the waterfront was opened to those boys wanting to pass swim tests. The camp photographer arrived about noon ready to take pictures. He is Jack Marion, of Brown City, Mich., and took the camp pictures last year, too. In the afternoon, each section met in competition, softball, soccer, football, and at the end of each game, the two teams broke even, so that each side got two points. So the score at the end of Sunday was Greys-5, Greens-2. Sunday evening, the two Vesper Services were identical. Chris Olsen and John Nesbitt, our two troubadours, taught the boys some new songs, played their guitars, and everyone had a good time. Steve Swengel of our swimming department gave a most interesting and thoughtful talk on "Pollution and Ecology." The boys were very interested, especially the Senior Boys who discussed this at great length, and are very knowledgeable on the subject.

The second week of camp started on Monday morning with a beautiful day and the camp photographer busy snapping cabin and activity pictures. Boys enjoy having their pictures taken, as they will want to have a picture of their cabinmates this summer. This was "Mugwump" Day, the day the boys look forward to as this part of the HARD AT WORK are these boys from Camp Charlevoix who are picking up litter on Ferry beach. They, and fellow campers, cleaned all three local beaches early last week.

Tuesday was a beautiful day. The temperature was around 70-75 and everyone enjoyed their activities. There was much Mugwump activity, with the Greys having it in their possession at the end of the day. Cabins 8 and 9, with John Stauffer and Dominique Attalin and Robb Howell as counsellors took an overnight to our campcraft area. These boys were: Carl Pfeiffer, Rex Buckley, Tommy Fox, San Greenawalt, Mike Healey, Bruce Johnson, Clayton Tuthill, Lloyd Bennett, Jeff Edison, Martin Field, Billy Gates, Howie Kay and David Taylor.

Wednesday was a dark and dreary day, but activities went along as usual. Cabins 5 and 7 went down to our campcraft area for an overnight. Dave Webber, Dave Washburn, and Jim Garvie were the counsellors and the boys on the trip were Paul Edison, Chris Jones, Tom Kassab, Peter Kay, John Bauer, Steve Cullison, David Danaher, David Minas and Jamie Zitsman. In the evening, the all camp event was "Capture the Camper". Boys love this game as they hide in the woods and the counsellors go out to find them. The team having the least number caught is the winner and there is a possible four points, one in each section. When the hunt was finished, the Greens had won one point, the Greys had won two points, and there was a tie in the Junior Section.

Thursday was a rather warm day, cloudy, but no rain. Cabin 3 with Nesbitt and Winstead took their boys on an overnight down the lake to our campcraft area. These boys were: Don Cook, Glen Graber, C.J. Ghesquiere, Billy Bauer; Cabin 4 with Chris Olsen and Mike Kelly took their boys down to the campcraft area, too. These boys were: Jimmy Bennett, Ben Dancer, Mark McCardel, Jamie Sullivan, and Jeff Zoeller.

The season is going very fast, and it doesn't seem possible that about two weeks have passed. The boys are preparing for a water-skiing show on Sunday, with Casey Cronin being the star performer. The boys are all looking forward to this. The camp carnival is on July 18.

Saturday, and as parents are invited, and friends of the camp will be here, the boys are already thinking about their booths and the games they will run. It will be a great day.

Green-Grey competition is most exciting. The Mugwump this year is a wood figure made this year in the shape of a British soldier. It is about 12 inches high and made thin at the bottom so a boy can grab it. In the evening the Senior Section, under Tom Dorsek, section head, went into Charlevoix and cleaned up the three beaches in the town.

Your Michigan Bankard Is Now Good Nationwide

Michigan Bankard, Michigan's largest bank card system, has officially joined the nationwide and worldwide BankAmericard system effective July 1, it was announced by Frank A. Shumway, Vice President and General Manager of Michigan Bankard.

Michigan Bankard is currently the most widely held and most widely accepted bank card in Michigan, with approximately 870,000 cardholders, 18,000 member merchants, and 80 participating Michigan banks having 300 offices throughout the State. It joins BankAmericard, reportedly the largest bank card system in the world, which has approximately 31 million cardholders, 670,000 merchants and 3,600 banks around the world. BankAmericard is honored in all 50 states and 52 foreign areas.

The new card, called the "Michigan BankAmericard", will retain the Michigan Bankard red, white and blue identification in the upper left corner, while the rest of the new card will have the blue, white and gold format of the standard BankAmericard.

Michigan Bankard member merchants and banks will start conversions to Michigan BankAmericard on July 1, and are expected to complete the conversion by September 1.

Michigan Bankard Holders in good standing will automatically received their new Michigan BankAmericard shortly after July 1. Upon receipt it will automatically replace the Michigan Bankard and can be used immediately at any business establishment in the United States or around the world displaying the blue, white and gold BankAmericard emblem.

Shumway explained that the conversion to Michigan BankAmericard will have a two-fold effect. Not only will it enable former Michigan Bankard holders to use their card throughout the United States and in foreign countries, but also it will bring a considerable influx of business from out-of-state BankAmericard holders to Michigan. He cited figures from the Michigan Tourist Council stating that 15 million visitors come to Michigan each year; spending over $1.3 billion dollars. Reports from other states indicate that a substantial number of these tourists are, or will be, BankAmericard holders.

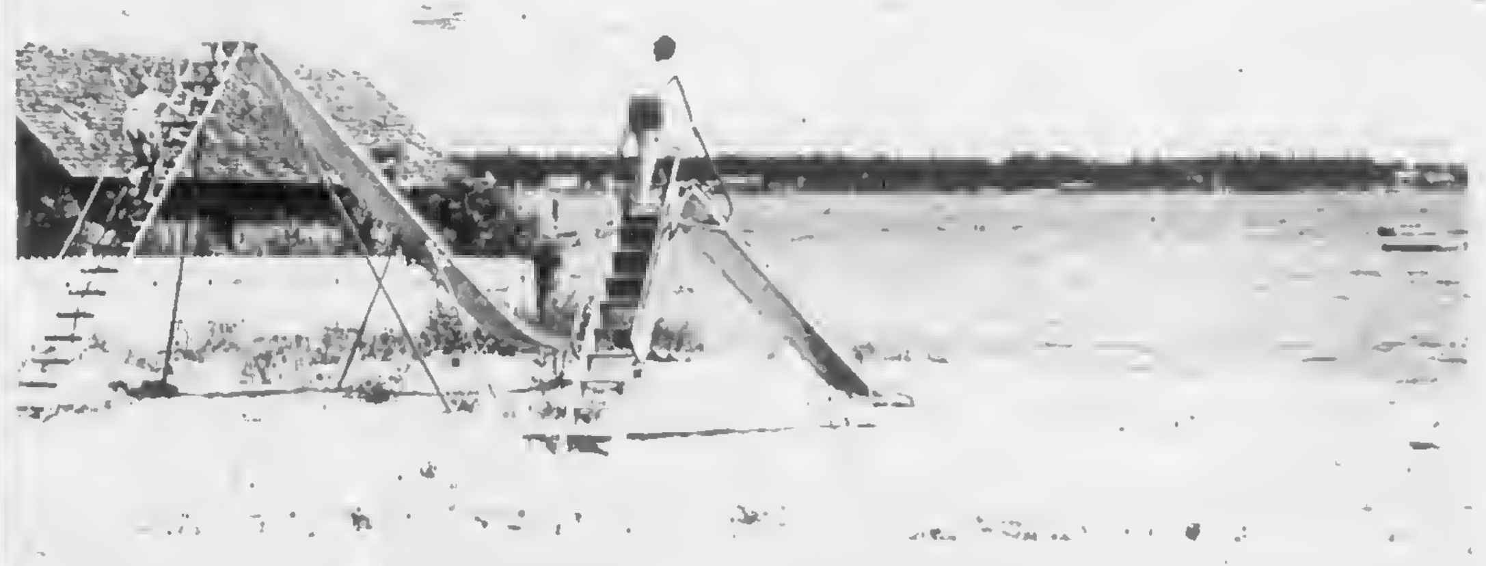
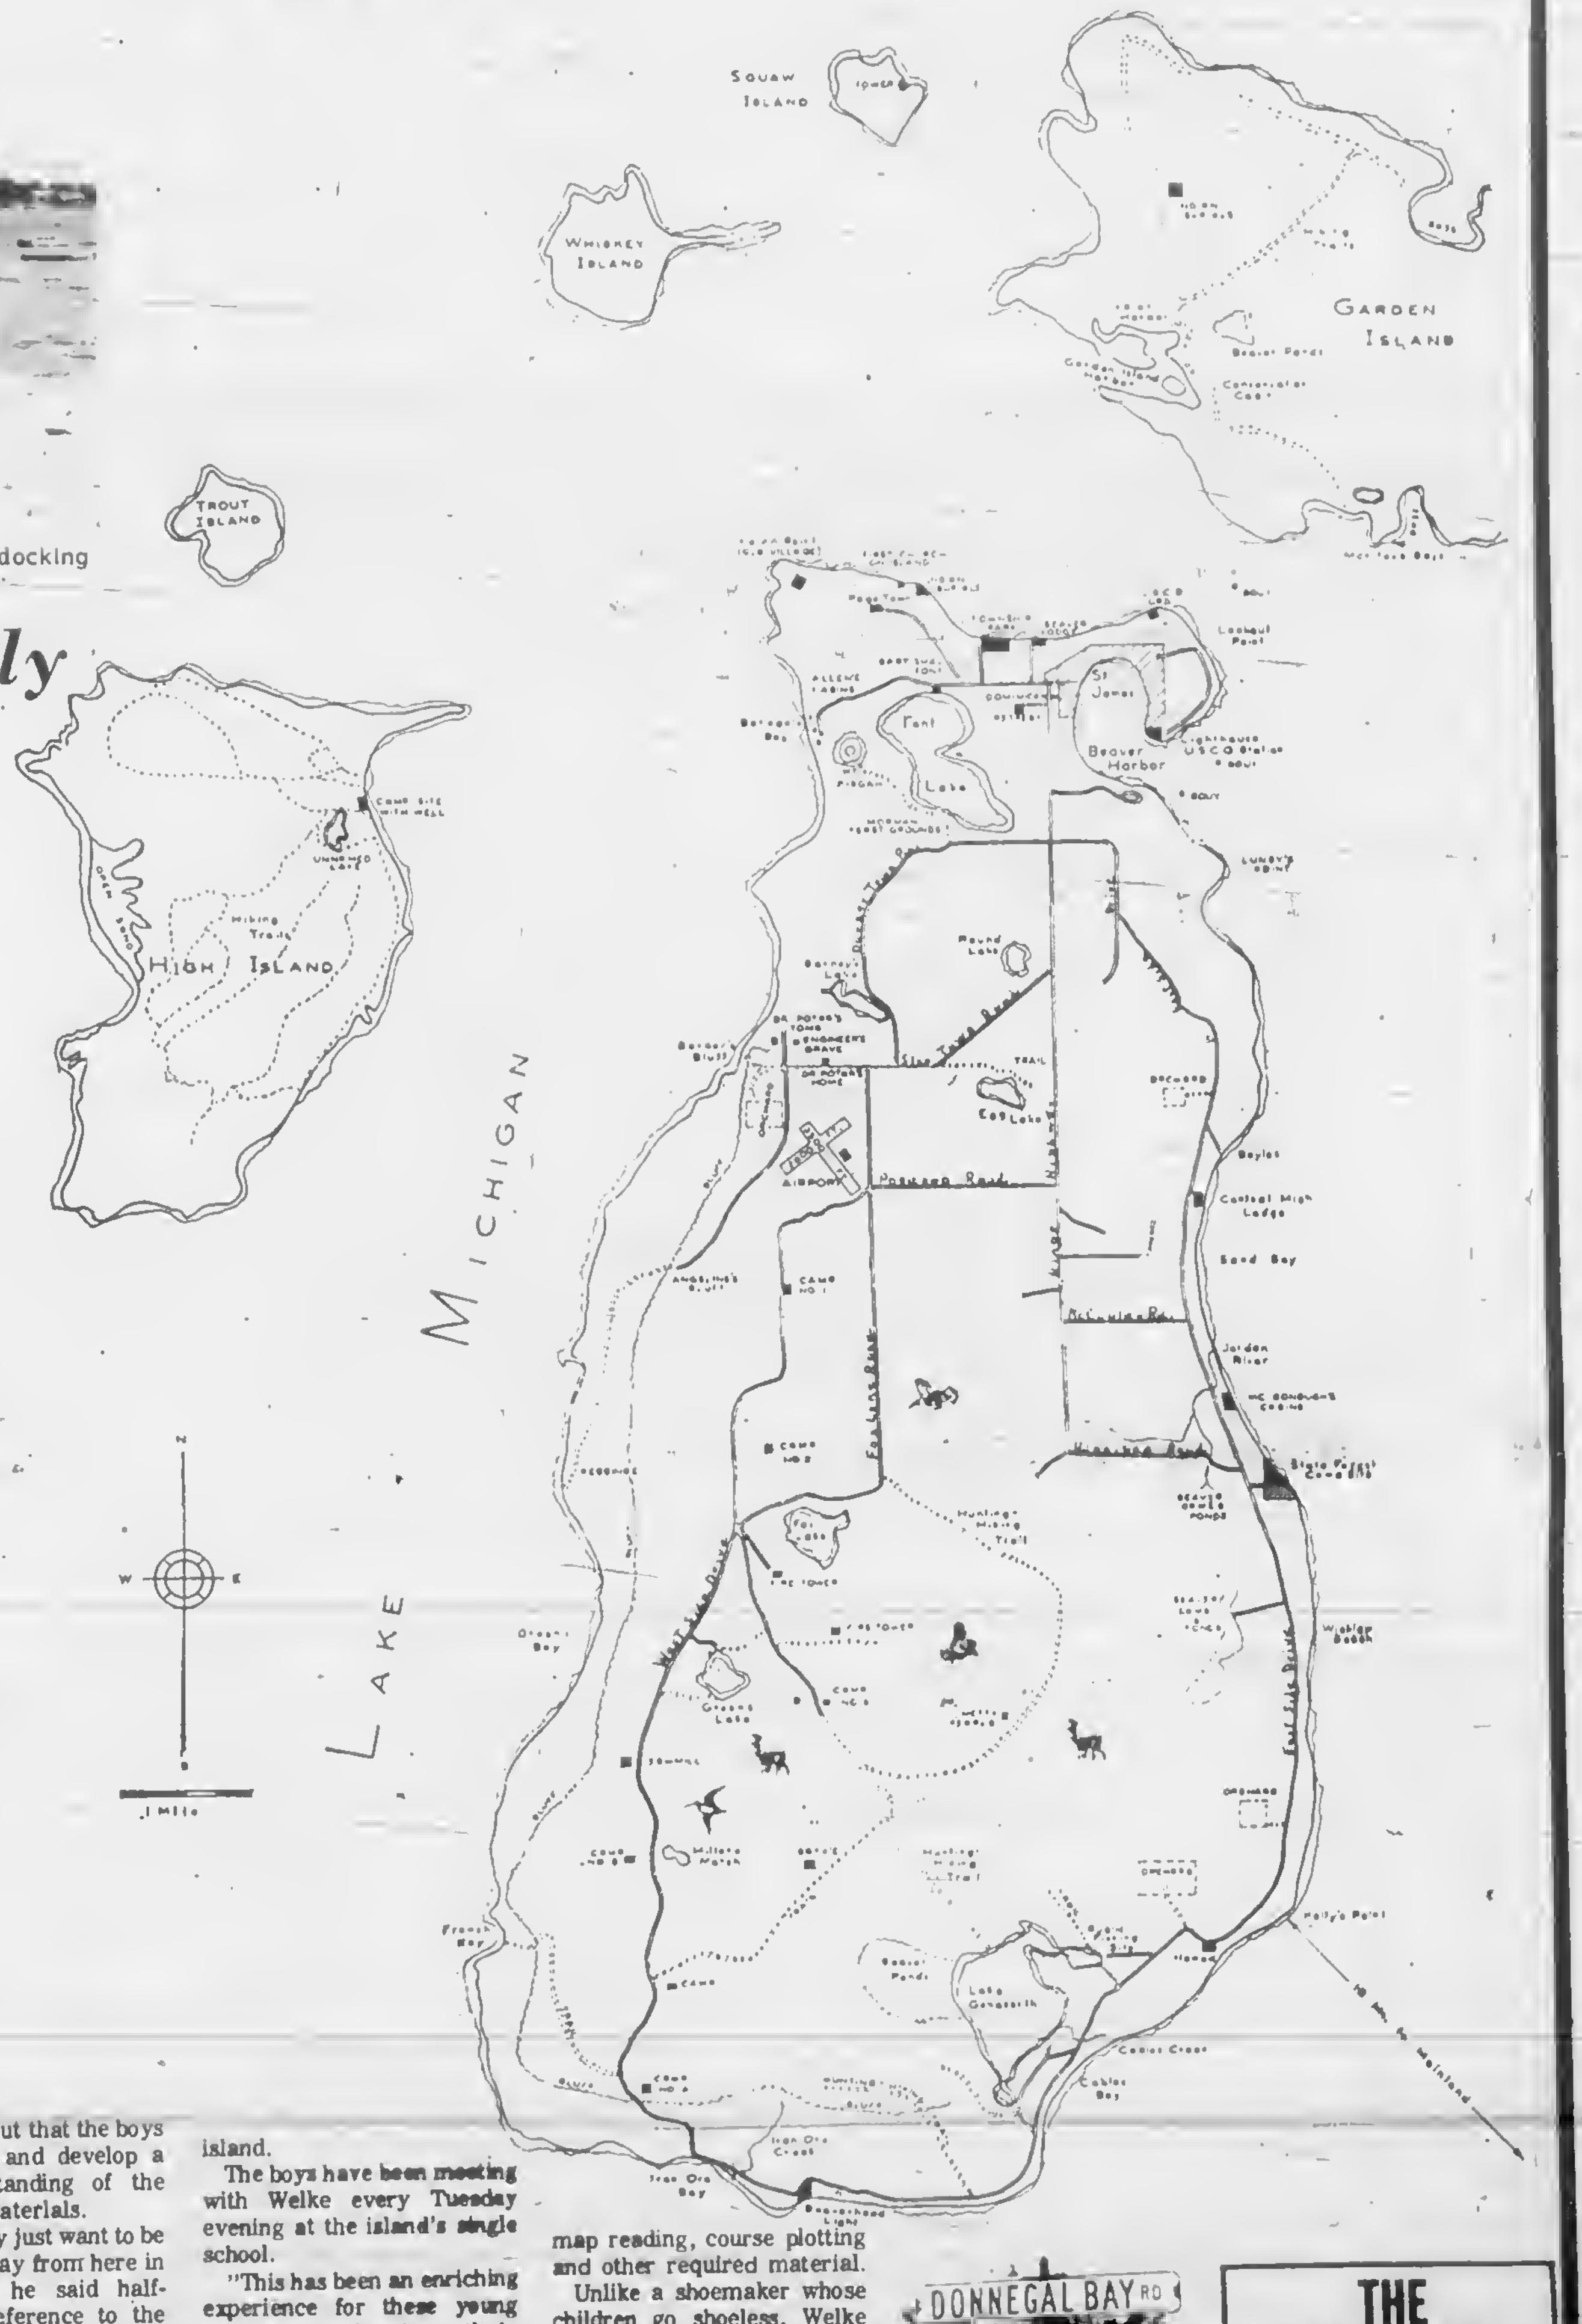
VISIT BEAVER ISLAND THIS SUMMER



CLEAN SAND and clean water are the twin attractions of the bathing beach at St. James, Beaver Island. The island also has excellent boat docking facilities for pleasure craft.



Beaver Island Boys Learn To Fly

This northern Lake Michigan island is unique in many ways, but is especially unique in the world of 4-H

The domain of King Strang and a colony of Mormons in the 1800's "is one of the few, if not the only, 4-H flying clubs in the United States aiming for 100 percent official pilot certification," points out Keith Lamkin, extension 4-H youth agent for the Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan county area.

William Welke, a Beaver Island resident formerly of Walled Lake, serves as leader for the 4-H flying club. He also will serve as the island's deputy sheriff this summer.

The professional pilot owns and operates two planes and has carved a landing strip out of a forest on his property a few miles south of St. James, the port town of the 6 by 12 mile island about 30 miles northwest of Charlevoix.

Welke recently explained that since last October he has been teaching the all-boy group general aviation information and Federal Aeronautics Administration (FAA) regulations. A stack of well-worn FAA flight regulation manuals, creased maps and a display of dexterity with course-altitude calculators by several of the boys supported the statement.

"What are the four factors affecting an airplane in flight?" Welke asked a 14-year-old.

"Thrust, drag, gravity and lift," the young man answered quickly.

Welke predicted, "We should have a couple of boys out of this group with pilot licenses by next year. Some will be qualified sooner but will have to wait until they are 16 years of age – the minimum age for private pilot license certification."

He pointed out that the boys are attentive and develop a rapid understanding of the voluminous materials.

"Maybe they just want to be able to get away from here in the winter," he said half-jokingly in reference to the some 200 permanent residents' isolated condition when Lake Michigan freezes, stopping ferry boat trips to the mainland. Then airplanes are the only means of transportation to and from the island.

The boys have been meeting with Welke every Tuesday evening at the island's single school.

"This has been an enriching experience for these young people considering their limited opportunities," emphasizes one of the four Roman Catholic nuns who serve as teachers for the kindergarten through twelfth grade public school.

All 14 of the boys in the club have flown with Welke. The boys – 11 to 16 years of age – start flying lessons in Welke's two-seater this summer after demonstrating a thorough understanding of instrument reading, flying regulations, map reading, course plotting and other required material.

Unlike a shoemaker whose children go shoeless, Welke has provided his sons with excellent pilot training. Paul, 20, holds a pilot license. Mark, 15, and Carl, 13, are among the 4-H members who hope to qualify for their licenses soon.

The 54-square-mile island still teems with wildlife, including grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese, deer and wild turkeys.

Fishing in the Beaver archepelago also is generally excellent.

The island has a number of excellent hotels, motels, restaurant and taverns to accommodate visitors most of whom are reluctant to leave after they set foot on America's Emerald Isle.

Magistrate On Agenda

The board of county commissioners met July 14 to approve the appointment of Gilbert Sturgell as District Court magistrate at East Jordan and approve appointments to the Charlevoix County Economic Development Council.

Sturgell will replace the late Charles Landers who died early this year. Magistrate Howard C. Talboys of Boyne City has served as East Jordan magistrate on an interim basis.

TIE IN FAST PITCH

The Fast pitch league was thrown into a turmoil when Morweld and County State Bank both were beaten during the week.

Mold scored early, then coasted to an easy 8-2 win over previously unbeaten County State Bank. Lee Cross led the hitting attack while Nate Boss scattered four hits. Dennis Warner collected two of the four to lead the losers.

Novaks scored six times in their final two times at bat for a 9-6 win and handed Morweld their first loss. Stewart Coleman banged two hits for the winners while teammate Larry Potter was allowing the losers only five hits.

DeYoungs remained the team to beat in the Junior circuit as they continue to remain unbeaten. Novaks won a thriller from Freedmans posting a 4-3 win. Gorden Skeel continued with his timely hitting collecting two important safeties for the winners. Bryan VanLoo scattered five hits. Tim Carey allowed the same in a losing cause. PEANUT LEAGUE

The Astros needed a win over the Braves on Saturday night to force a tie for the Peanut league lead. The lions have a 4-1 record. An Astro win will give them an identical record. The Cards saw their title hopes fade when the Tigers scored twice in the bottom of the seventh without benefit of a base hit to post a narrow 7-6 win.

FREEDMANS ON TOP

Freedmans continued their winning ways with a 14-8 win over American Mold. The lusty hitting Artcraft boys stayed with the long ball as Bill Dietrick, Bernie Devrles, Glen Cunningham, and Merritt Clark all connected for the four baggers. Veri Thompson belted one for the losers.

Second place Andy's kept their faint hopes alive by blasting the Weathervane 12-5. Tom Collin's grand slam homer did most of the damage for the winners.

Medusa slipped a notch as they split a pair, winning 8-4 over the Townhouse. Denny Spence homered for the Cement crew. Against the USAF, however, it was a different story as the Servicemen banged out an easy 19-4 win. H. Gibbs homered for the winners as the entire lineup contributed some lusty hitting.

Boyne's Howard's Service squeaked by the Air boys 6-4 in a well played contest earlier in the week.

The Weathervane "found" themselves for a convincing 16-7 win over hapless Townhouse. Sam Supernaw's two homers led a parade of circuit clouts hit by Roxy VanLoo, Bob Elliot, Glen Taylor and Jay Ferguson.

Mrs. Feindt Secretary of Title Group

Mrs. Lawrence (Mary) Feindt of Charlevoix was elected secretary of the Michigan Land Title Association at a meeting of the organization last week in Traverse City.

Serving with her will be Montgomery Shepard, St. Joseph, president; William M. Quinn, Lansing, treasurer; and Robert J. Wilson jr., Birmingham, vice-president. Trustees are Earl B. Morden, Bad Axe; Paul J. Kennedy, Pontiac; and David F. Upton, Benton Harbor. J. William Yogus of Howell will continue as executive secretary.

Main speaker at the meeting was Edward A. Proctor jr., president of the Mortgage Bankers Association.

He said tight money, high interest rates and their psychological impact are continuing to cause a slowdown in building and real estate sales. He added that there are signs that interest rates will ease slightly toward the end of the year.

Garden Club Makes Early July Awards

Garden club plaques have been awarded for the first two weeks in July.

South side winner was Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bearss, 1000 Meadowlane, who were cited for their rose border, window boxes and vegetable garden.

Honorable mention went to the F.R. Bulow residence of 508 Meadowlane.

Judges for the south side were Mrs. Harold Totten and Mrs. Max Hosmer.

Mrs. Gordon Freedman, 409 Michigan-ave., was awarded the plaque for the north side because her garden showed so much work and was so well spaced on a relatively small lot.

The James Lawyer home of 200 Cherry-st. received honorable mention and also the Hubert Paddock residence at 307 Meech.

Mrs. Ross Alexander and Mrs. Albert Edwards were the judges.

MRS. GORDON FREEDMAN of 409 Michigan-ave. is the winner of the garden club plaque on the north side for the first two weeks in July.

Hobbycraft Show a Success

Judging from the crowds in East Park Saturday, the second annual Lakeside Hobbycraft show was a whopping success.

Instead of the 22 craftsmen who were expected to take part, there were more than 30 and the hundreds of visitors were doing more than looking. They were buying.

Unlike the Waterfront Art Fair, scheduled this year on Aug. 8, the Hobbycraft Show welcomes craftsmen of all stripes, even those who work cannot be legitimately considered in the realm of fine arts.

Many ceramic pieces of the highest quality were on sale, along with painted rocks, stuffed animals, Christmas tree decorations, jewelry, leather goods and quaint objects fashioned from Petoskey stones.

The organizers deserve a hearty "well-done" for attracting so many entrants with so many diversified interests from so many different cities around the state.

The weatherman also deserves a bouquet, serving up a perfect day for what we hope will become a regular event on Charlevoix's summer calendar for years to come.

Victories on Peace Front

Good news relative to the war in Vietnam came last week from Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R-Michigan) and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Griffin announced in Washington July 15 that the federal government is stepping up its efforts to assist returning veterans find jobs.

Also in Washington, Secretary Laird announced that the withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam in the next three months will surpass the rate of 50,000 set by President Nixon.

Griffin said that a new program soon will be unveiled by the government to help find jobs for returning veterans and to cushion the economic impact of defense cutbacks.

He said between two million and two and one-half million veterans will return to civilian life in the next two years, with 75 percent of them entering the labor force. He didn't elaborate on what the remaining 25 percent will be doing.

In a prepared statement, Griffin said military procurement will require only six percent of the nation's workforce by 1970, down from eight percent when President Nixon took office.

"New jobs will have to be found for the 600,000 workers displaced by the cutback," Griffin said.

He added that the President has named a special committee to handle the nation's transition "from a defense-oriented economy to pursuits of peace."

Secretary Laird said that by Oct. 15, the level of U.S. troops in the Vietnam war zone will have reached the lowest point since February, 1967. The projected troop ceiling by mid-October is 384,000 down from 543,000 when President Nixon took office in January, 1969. The United States presently has 410,000 men in Vietnam.

All of which sounds like good news from where we sit.

Yet we can't help wondering what the status of the war would be today if the people of the United States, led by the dissatisfied young, hadn't made it abundantly clear to the Administration last fall and winter that they are fed up with the pointless slaughter that has taken place in Vietnam for the past half decade.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

Sometimes in the newspaper business, as in all businesses, you can't help wondering if the new ways to doing things are always the best.

A case in point is the obituary of Timothy Dwight Smith, 82, which appeared in the Charlevoix Courier April 7, 1915.

Now there aren't many people living in Charlevoix today who even remember old Tim Smith, a fisherman and sailor who lived on Beaver Island in Charlevoix most of his life.

But a fellow named Frank V. Phelps who lives in King of Prussia, Pa., was sufficiently interested in Mr. Smith's life and times to write to the Courier last week asking for a copy of his obituary.

He also wanted copies of the obituaries of a William Smith, who died May 20, 1882, and a Thomas Horatio Smith, who died Jan. 30, 1898. Unfortunately, neither of those years is on microfilm at the Courier office.

But Tim Smith's "obit" was on file, so we had it copied and sent to Mr. Phelps, as he requested.

As I perused the write-up which appeared in the Courier after Tim Smith's death, I began to wonder about the quality of today's obituaries compared to the long, flowery tributes to the dead which appeared in newspapers in years past.

Today we satisfy ourselves with a brittle recitation of birthdates, occupations, church and fraternal associations and survivors, along with the time and place of the funeral and the name of the pastor who performed the final rites.

But things were done differently in Tim Smith's time. Just listen to the opening paragraph of his obituary:

"The long and useful life of Timothy Dwight Smith passed out Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock at his home near the shore of Round Lake on Belvedere-ave., after a gradual failing in strength covering a period of over a year. Mr. Smith was 82 years of age and practically all his life had been passed in this vicinity.

Then followed the fact that Mr. Smith was born in Chilie, N.Y., Feb. 4, 1833, and came to Michigan with his parents when he was two years old. When he was 17 he moved to Beaver Island to become a fisherman and when he was 23 years old married Miss Ella Mary Johnson at Middle Village on the island.

"It was during this period of time that King Strang held forth on Beaver Island," the obituary continued, "and Mr. Smith was well residents of the Mormon colony. In 1856, after the reign of the Mormon king had ended, Mr. Smith moved to St. James, where he continued in the fishing industry until 1870, when he moved to Charlevoix."

The obituary went on to say how Mr. Smith became a tugboat operator and was "one of the best known sailors of northern waters. He was thoroughly acquainted with every mile of the lakes as far south as Manitou Island north to Cheboygan, and the entire lower part of the Upper Peninsula shore. Elements were given little consideration when "Tim" made up his mind to put out for some port. It was due in great measure to his fearlessness, in connection with good seamanship, that no serious accident happened to him.

Then the obituary told about the changes Mr. Smith had seen in his lifetime:

"During his early days on the waters of this section there were but few settlements. Charlevoix consisted of a few loghouses, and the roads were nothing but Indian trails. Where now are cities, cement roads, stately mansions, automobiles and electric lights were then the frequent Indian camps, the blazed trails through unbroken forests, the ox cart, the tallow candle, the log dwelling."

(Do you get the idea that the writer thought 1915 was a pretty snazzy time to be alive?)

"He was a man of good habits, strictly honest, of a kindly disposition, and few men had so large a circle of acquaintances in this vicinity."

The obituary concluded with a list of survivors, including "his aged wife" and four children.

So there you have it. After I read Mr. Smith's obituary, I sort of wished I had known him and I wondered if today's newspapers aren't a trifle too cut-and-dried when it comes to summing up the hopes and dispairs of a lifetime.

To check on the possibility that some of Tim Smith's descendants might still live in the area, I called Fran Martin, the sage of Nicholls-st. She said the family is all gone, but recalled one Tim Smith story she heard from her father which is worth passing on.

It seems Mr. Smith never could get the hang of the telephone, which was a relatively new-fangled gadget when he was an old man. Whenever someone would call and ask: "Is that you, Tim?", Tim would sit there and nod his head in the affirmative.

Poor Old Joe Single

By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote.....

Out of the Jimmy Hoffa trial, of all places, came another sneaky jab at my hero, the bachelor. A news item lamented the lonely time the 12 jurors had, locked away from the rest of the world for six weeks. With which I will not argue. But then this insidious propagandist added:

"Juror Patrick Haverty had the easiest time of it. He was the LONE BACHELOR in the group." (The caps are mine; so is the neck pain).

There is a one-sided war going on in the world. All the married people are fighting to get all the single men down the middle aisle in a rented suit. For some reason I don't understand, the bachelors are not fighting back with vigor. As a result, Joe Single is easy prey for the nice couple around the corner who know this lovely girl who Joe should meet, he really should.

So Joe meets her, under the influence of free steaks and booze. His married friends show off their pretty children, well-bribed to behave for the first time since Christmas eve Mr. and Mrs. talk glowingly about delicious dinners, Sunday papers read in bed, and a light in the window. No mention is made of mortgages, dirty diapers or chocolate fingerprints on favorite books. The usual sighing remarks are made about "How do you stand it all alone in that tiny apartment over the poolroom, Joe?" In no time, the guy is hooked.

And then Joe can say: "I never knew what living was until I got married, but then it was too late."

I am not here to knock marriage per se. It is an ok type of life and I wouldn't sell my family for any amount of swinging freedom. Lease or rent, maybe, but I would always insist on retaining ownership. God, in his almighty wisdom, invented Love, a formless substance which somehow cements the most unlikely relationships and can make a husband forget any number of undies soaking in the bathroom sink or sticky candy in his favorite chair.

But it is time that some married man told Joe Single that he is not necessarily an unfortunate slob, merely treading water until some doll comes along to show him what swimming really is. As a man always interested in seeing a pat on every back, and a kick in every seat, I am volunteering to answer such "poor bachelor" nonsense as planted in the Hoffa trial story.

Why was it easier for Patrick Haverty, rather than the married jurors, to be isolated for six weeks?. The average reader, well brainwashed by the unfair climate which prevails, would answer: "Well heck, those married people were lonesome for their spouses and children. Patrick didn't have anyone to be lonesome for, so he didn't mind being cooped up."

Such an attitude assumes that there is little in this world to interest Joe Single. Despite being married 132 years, I can remember slamming my front door carelessly, at 3 a.m.; I know that Joe doesn't have to go home when the library closes. I could, in fact, list a countless number of goodies available to Joe but I won't, as I hate to make myself cry.

It is not my intention to tell Joe Single what he should do; only what he shouldn't. And the biggest thing he shouldn't do is fall for the malarky his married friends pass out with the dinner invitations. Keep eating in restaurants, Joe. You may think it costs more but you don't know what costs are until you push an overflowing cart up to the A&P checkout counter.

Joe shouldn't be rushed. A nice age to get married is 30; almost as nice as 40. And Joe shouldn't worry about the beach being swept clean of pebbles. New ones come in with every tide.

There is much to be said for living alone, making your own decisions, and watching the clock for no one except yourself. Such a life affords a peace and solitude; a time for quiet thinking and reading; a type of quiet contentment rarely available to the married man.

Unless he gets jury duty.

More Letters For and Against the Candidates

Says Courier Documents U.S. Progress

Mr. Robert Clock, Editor
The Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Dear Bob:

It was a pleasure to read the July 8 Courier.

I don't know how sensible people can be anything but encouraged knowing we have everything right here in Charlevoix that is good about America. There can be no real feeling of a generation gap when reading Beth Baldwin's very excellent initial "Mainlining" column, and Bob Bergmann's equally excellent letter to you, plus your editorial quoting from Harvey Varnum's remarks at the groundbreaking for the new County jail.

Regardless of whether one agrees with Mr. Coon or Mr. Friske, one has to agree with Mr. Ole T. Olson. You are to be complimented for providing an area for all people of all opinions to express their feelings.

The American Revolution, which is still progressing with real great purpose, will soon have reached 200 years. Nowhere has more been done in less than 200 years for the common good of all, and nowhere has everyone been more aware of how much yet needs to be done. The extreme frustrations of many, particularly the young, can well be understood, and although it is going to have to take time to improve so many things, it is understandable the great impatience many have that more is not being accomplished with greater rapidity. Regardless of the deplorable lack of progress in many areas, there is nowhere on earth where more is being accomplished than in America, and properly documented through free expression in The Courier.

Sincerely yours,
Gordon L. Freedman

Dear Editor,

This letter is in reply to Mr. Coon's fallacious statements of Wednesday, July 1, 1970, in the Courier.

It is below my dignity to involve myself in a war of political mudslinging. I will leave it up to the readers of your article to judge whether I have contributed to society, and how much. I do believe that the aforementioned person is in the weakest position to evaluate my contributions to society.

I am also sure that there are better informed people in my district, than this individual, with regard to the John Birch Society and its activities, which are non-partisan, nonsectarian, non-racial and nonpolitical. The function of the John Birch Society is to expose and fight the communists, to promote more individual responsibility, and with God's help, a better world. If this is wrong, then I do commit the unpardonable sin, and so does the John Birch Society.

This country has indeed been very good to my family and me. This is precisely why I am trying to put my experience and knowledge to work as a legislator. In this way, I will help to preserve our great heritage.

I believe I can, with my thorough knowledge of Socialism, help to prevent its spread and with God's help even reverse the trend.

I also find it very hard to call a man a liar in public, but his inference of me being in favor, "..to remove completely, any agency or department that spends money that he personally does not agree with spending, such as welfare, social security, workmens benefits, mental health care, etc." leaves me no choice but to do just that.

If further smears against me are forthcoming, coupled with outright lies, I can only say, that I may find it necessary to take legal action to protect my name.

Sincerely yours
Richard Friske

Peters Rips Friske Critic

Dear Editor:

First, I'd like to congratulate you on your Political Boo-Boo article, Well-done. Now to this Bill Coon who is sounding off about Mr. Friske and the John Birch Society. Mr. Coon spent over two hours in my home giving me the most ambiguous answers I've ever heard in my life; but then, that's typical of a person who doesn't know what they believe or where they stand.

For example on the moral issue of abortion, I asked him if he really thought a baby in the womb was not a real person. His reply, "I guess that's what I think". Wow! Can you imagine a man like this making life and death decisions in our government? It's no wonder he's throwing untrue accusations about Mr. Friske around.

He's heard Friske talk and he knows exactly what his platform is. Mr. Friske is no "Yes Man" and has a very strong conviction on moral issues. You may not agree with him on all his views, but you certainly know what his views are.

You suggest Mr. Coon, that Mr. Friske pray 10 times a day. I'll give odds he does better than that. Sorry Mr. Coon, no odds on you.

Now Mr. Coon has never attended a John Birch meeting and he and many like him make out and out statements that are completely untrue. Outside of my church, the John Birch Society is the most anticommunist organization I've ever attended. It stands for God, country and home and I defy anyone to disprove that statement.

It's interesting to note how Mr. Coon refrained from mentioning Mr. Friske's name. I would assume for non-libel reasons or that he may later deny the mud was directed at Friske.

Now in the two hours of debate with Mr. Coon, I can truthfully say that anyone who believes that God's laws supersede man's laws, will not be interested in voting for Mr. Coon and his philosophy.

Sincerely,
W.L. Peters

Wm. Coon Answers Letter

July 9, 1970

Dear Mr. Clock,

My letter is in response to the letter from Mr. Olson. I too, would like to thank you for letting me express my concerns and opinions.

I am, also pleaded that I was portrayed as being open minded. I feel this must be part of the character of a representative, and I am very happy that I have this attribute as part of my character, and I am pleased that it shows.

I must disagree with Mr. Olson in one remark. You are not the only paper which allows the views of candidates to be printed. Nearly all of the papers in the 106th district carried the replies of candidates given in Petoskey three weeks ago, and all of the replies were the stands the candidates took on the issues of the state at present.

Name calling does not seem too adult, so I will pass of the allocation of my ignorance by merely stating that truly intelligent persons usually are discerning enough to know when a person is intelligent or ignorant, and I will take my chances that the people will know what my intellectual level is by the manner in which I express myself.

Apparently, my description of Mr. Olsons' candidate was very accurate, for if you check the paper very closely, there was never any name mentioned. He had to make his own mind up about the person I described. I am glad that there is only one candidate that can fit my description.

Mr. Olson, someday when you have time, contact me and I will enlighten you about myself. I give everyone this opportunity because I think people should know the total truth about their candidates before they cast a vote. I not only know the facts about our American Government and Constitution, I know what our state government and constitution are all about. Check with your candidate and see if he does.

I would also like to know when the people of this country started considering it a gift to the country when we pay our taxes. I always considered it an obligation of mine to help support the government that in turn protects all of us. I am not wealthy, but proportionately, I have paid as much as anyone and I do not consider it has been a gift.

Sincerely,
William A. Coon

Would Downgrade Marijuana as Drug

Louis M. Sesti, R.Ph., executive director of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association, has announced support for legislation currently being reviewed by the Michigan House of Representatives which would reclassify marijuana as a "dangerous drug."

Sesti's endorsement followed that of Governor William Milliken, who voiced support of a package of three bills introduced in the House by Rep. Dale Warner of Eaton Rapids.

Marijuana is now classified along with such drugs as heroin, opium and morhpine, all of which are narcotic drugs.

In endorsing the controversial legislation, the director of the 3000-member pharmacists' association said that "Marijuana has nothing in common with the opiates pharmacologically which would justify their identical classification. If we are ever to approach the problem of drug abuse in a rational manner, we're going to have to pass laws based on scientifically defensible conclusions."

The major effect of the bills would be to prescribe a misdemeanor penalty for unlawful use or possession of marijuana. Present statutes make such possession a felony, punishable by long-term imprisonment. Many judicial authorities have termed this kind of classification "unenforceable and self-defeating."

"If this legislation is enacted," Sesti stated, "it would provide a vastly more workable legal foundation in dealing with problems associated with the misuse of marijuana. Rather than being faced with imposing a prison sentence on a naive youngster experimenting with a marijuana cigarette, and branding him as a felon for the rest of his life, the courts will be able to take swift and decisive action. This, I think, will act as a deterrent to the illegal possession or use of marijuana to a greater extent than does the present situation."

Sesti pointed out that the proposed reclassification would still provide more stringent controls over the use.

An Outhouse to Boot!

The City needs a sewage plant,
And find a place for it they can't Without stepping on some mighty toes,
But near Boulder park
– anything goes.

So on the land that was Birch Hill,
They want open holding tanks to fill,
To pour that water in the lake
To add pollution and algae make:

They plan this all when no one's here,
To save the land and water clear,
They manage somehow to obtain
Land that should be State's domain.

One councilman was heard to say,
"Why protest this, anyway?
You have Medusa in your view,
Why not an outhouse added too?"

have increased prices, to keep up with the rising cost of athletic equipment. The board will act on Staley's recommendation at the August meeting.

In other business the board:

–Appointed Barry Anderson as head varsity basketball coach under a new policy that a teacher may coach only one major sport. Don Carey, who coached Charlevoix cage squads in other years, has elected to coach football.

–Agreed to offer the position of school business manager to an unidentified applicant. The job pays $14,000. The applicant's name was withheld, pending his acceptance.

–Accepted the resignation of boys physical education instructor Dwayne Taylor, who has joined the Farm Bureau Insurance Agency in Charlevoix. The secretary was directed to write Taylor a letter of appreciation for his services.

–Agreed to advertise the position of home economics teacher in the middle school. Supt. Miller recommended that the job be offered to Mrs. Fred Payne, but Donaldson said he would like to see more applicants.

–Hired Mrs. Mary Ann Chew as an elementary teacher; Miss Sharon Prall, a recent graduate of Central Michigan University, as elementary art teacher; and Mrs. Betty Marie Henne, another CMU graduate, as high school English teacher. Mrs Henne has taught at Clarkston and in the Morley-Stanwood School District.

–Told the Sports Boosters Club to go ahead with fund raising activities to build a ticket stand, refreshment booth, restrooms and possibly a radio broadcasting platform at Kipke Field. Vandals have demolished the old ticket booth. The school district will provide utilities if the Boosters come up with funds for the building.

–Agreed to look into the possibility of converting the heating plant at the middle school from oil to gas.

–Sold the school station wagon to James Lewis for $3,051. Bruce McDonough bid $3,001.

–Heard requests by Staley that golf be added as a varsity sport and that other sports be added throughout the school year to increase the percentage of participation by the student body. Three schools in the area now offer wrestling, he said. Staley also asked that the board continue its insurance coverage of athletes with the Charlevoix Insurance Agency.

–Earmarked $5,400 for construction changes at the middle school as recommended by the fire marshal.

–Agreed to have two portable classrooms at the high school to the middle school grounds at the best possible cost. Educators, Inc., the firm which erected the buildings, wants $1,200 to move each unit, with an additional $100 for reseaming the carpet.

another Webb affiliate.

The acquisition adds about 10,000 square feet of shop space and virtually a duplication of the metal fabricating tools used at the larger Boyne City plant.

Penn will continue to operate the plant as manager.

Because the product lines of both firms were so similar, no changes in product mix, sales arrangements or employment are anticipated.

The Boyne City plant, managed by Robert Hansemann, has already been expanded since the Control Engineering Co. acquired it in 1967.

Control Engineering manufactures electronically-guided industrial tractors and hospital distribution systems, aluminum permanent mold castings, control panels and tools and dies in plants at Pellston, Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, Detroit, Atlanta, Ga., and Hamilton, Ont.

Guard Rescues Sloop

The 55-foot sloop Charisma owned by Jesse Philip of Dayton, Ohio, was towed into Charlevoix harbor early Monday morning by the 44-foot lifeboat from the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station.

The Charisma, one of 179 sailboats taking part in the Chicago to Mackinac Island race, began shipping water early Monday off Cat Hear Point on the Leelanau Peninsula and was taken in tow by the CG Cutter Raritan.

The Raritan left her a mile off the Charlevoix pierheads, but the Charisma had run out of fuel and was brought into port by the 44-footer.

A number of boats in the race reportedly dropped out far short of their goal in the face of 30-knot winds.

1970 Venetian Festival Shapes Up as Winner

TV's Lyle Waggoner Will Crown Queen

The 1970 edition of the Venetian Festival promises to be one of the biggest and best in years, judging to reports from the Chamber of Commerce Office.

Latest addition to the mid-summer spectacle is Lyle Waggoner, announcer on the Carol Burnett TV Show, according to Chamber of Commerce Manager Dick Oestrike.

Oestrike said Waggoner, who is appearing at the Cherry County Playhouse in "Boeing-Boeing", will be in the Venetian Street Parade, scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday.

When the parade reaches the intersection of Clinton and State-st., Waggoner will crown the 1970 Venetian Queen.

As of Monday, ten local girls had entered the queen contest. The queen will be chosen Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the High School gymnasium at the conclusion of a beauty pageant.

The contestants are Roberta Pearl, Chris Carcy, Jane Mousseau, Jennet Skeel, Laurel Ance, Connie Louiselle, Mickey Hawkins, Sherry Austin and Dorinda Luedke.

Admission to the pageant is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

The girls will appear in swim suits, take part in a talent show, model formals and answer impromptu questions.

Oestrike says another addition to the Venetian weekend program will be a gymnastic exhibition from 4:30 p.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday in East Park. Forty gymnasts from the Palaestrum Gymnastics Camp at Williamsburg, Mich., will take part.

Oestrike says there is still time to register entries in the street parade.

Boaters also are reminded to turn in their completed application forms for the Venetian Boat Parade no later than Thursday evening. They may be dropped off at the Chamber of Commerce office or delivered to chairman Josh Barnes.

More than 50 boats are scheduled to take part in the colorful parade scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday night.

See the Venetian Festival program on this page for other events planned for Charlevoix's busiest weekend of the summer.

LYLE WAGGONER, the handsome announcer who makes Carol Burnett's heart do flip-flops on network television, will be in town Saturday to take part in the Venetian Parade and crown the Venetian Queen. Waggoner will come to Charlevoix from Traverse City where he is appearing at the Cherry County Playhouse in "Boeing-Boeing."

City Makes Bid On C & O Land

The Charlevoix City Council Monday night agreed to make a formal offer of $60 a front foot for approximately 150 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage north of Depot Beach presently owned by the C&O Railroad.

The railroad intends to dispose of the property but would like to give adjacent property owners first crack at it.

The city's offer matches an offer already made by the other owners of adjacent property.

Two independent appraisers have said the property is worth $80 a front foot, although it is carried on the tax rolls at $50 a foot, according to City Superintendent Thomas Hanna.

In other business, the council received a letter from the American Legion and the VFW objecting to poor traffic control during the Memorial Day parade.

The two veterans groups complained that traffic interrupted the line of march, destroying the solemnity of the procession.

The council agreed that better traffic control methods should be discussed with the Police Department before next year's parade.

The council also:

–Appointed Cecil Richardson and Orville Sommerville as special police officers during the summer for the Belvedere Club. They will be paid by the club.

–Referred to committee a tabulation of bids for a backhoe opened at the last council meeting. Howard

Poor Drainage At Pine Point Twp. Problem

The Charlevoix Township board heard complaints from residents of Pine Point at its July meeting that the drainage is so poor near the lake that pools of stagnant water have collected.

Supervisor Oscar Stroud said he will look into the problem and see what can be done.

The board also:

–Decided to conform with state law and require a 660-foot setback for commercial signs along roads in the township. At present there are two signs on M-66 which are in violation of the code.

–Received the resignation of Rose Bergmann from the Regional Planning Commission. Mrs. Bergmann has represented the township on the commission for five years. Dale Glass was appointed as her successor for a one-year term. Steve LaBlance was reappointed to a three-year term.

–Attorney Donald Beriage suggested an addition to the Air Quality Control Ordinance which requires industries to pay surveillance fees, based on their emissions into the atmosphere.

The August meeting will be postponed until the 18th to allow the clerk and treasurer to attend an accounting seminar in E. Lansing.

Kaydires Aplenty Lurk in Michigan Woods

A Good Imagination Helps to Find Them

LIBRARIAN Dorothy Olmstead examines display of kadire pictures at Charlevoix Library. The unusual wood formations demand a lively imagination.

By Beth Baldwin

"Having a good imagination and being a good liar" are the qualifications necessary to spot a kaydire (pronounced kay-deer) according to Miss Edith Harris of Charlevoix and Ironton.

Now you ask, "What in the world is a Kaydire?"

Miss Harris has a reply ready, "Do not confuse a kaydire with a gnome, a kolbold, or a pixie – not even a gremlin; for they are not related and have nothing in common."

"When walking through the woods, if you have a sharp eye and a keen imagination, with a good sense of humor, you will see many kaydires, and remember – they always see you!" Miss Harris says.

"Kaydires live in branches and stumps of old trees and there are many varieties," she adds.

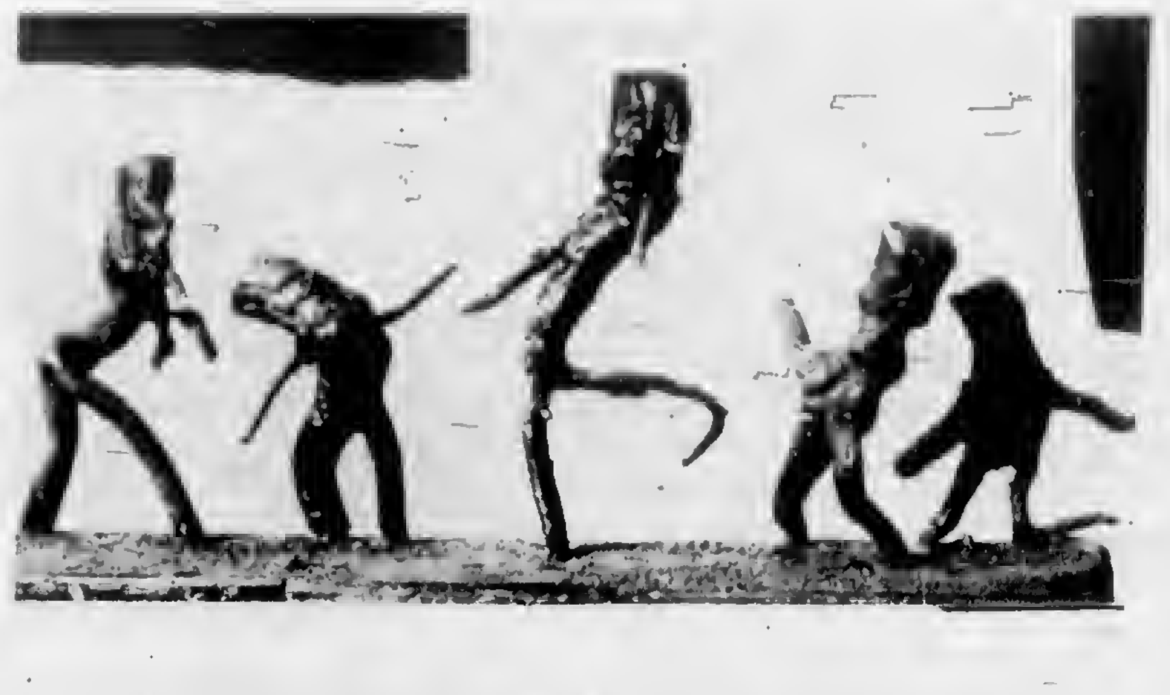
A kaydire is actually the spirit of a tree after it has died. In other words, a piece of driftwood and a figment of an active imagination.

Invented by Miss Harris' uncle, the word has become a part of everyday language by members of the family. In fact, they even named their cottage in Ironton, built shortly after World War I, "At the sign of the Kaydire," have had stationery and paper napkins made with the phrase inscribed on them.

Stories even have been written about the kaydires although Miss Harris has not been successful in having them published. She confides that the word will probably soon be found in the dictionary as something to do with folklore.

Although the names differ from person to person and place to place, the legend of the kaydire has spread across the nation and traveled to Europe. Collecting driftwood has become so big that it has become increasingly difficult to find.

So as you roam the beaches and forests of northern Michigan, keep your eyes pealed for kaydires. Who knows what you might find!



KAYDIRES assume many shapes, as this photo from the collection of Miss Edith Harris illustrates.

WHAT IS IT? Just put your imagination to work. Kaydires come in many different sizes and shapes.

THIS KAYDIRE is prominently displayed at the summer home of Miss Edith Harris near Ironton.

Salute to the Coast Guard

The theme of this year's Venetian Festival, quite appropriately, is "Salute to the Coast Guard," a tribute to the men of the USCG Cutter Sundew, Group Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station who live among us.

As it sometimes happens at times with good friends and neighbors, our Coast Guardsmen often are taken for granted by the people of Charlevoix, which, in itself, is a tribute of sorts. They perform their myriad tasks quietly, efficiently and with a minimum of fanfare -- the earmarks of any well run operation, military or civilian.

The Coast Guard in one form or another has been a part of Charlevoix since 1889 when the first Lifeboat Station was erected on Pine River Channel by the former U.S. Life Saving Service. In 1914, the Life Saving Service became a part of the Coast Guard, as did the Lighthouse Service in 1938.

With the rapid increase in pleasure boating in the waters surrounding Charlevoix, it is nice to know that highly-trained Coast Guardsmen assigned to the Charlevoix Station are ready at a moment's notice to participate in serach and rescue missions.

The station is one of three in Group Charlevoix. The others are located at St. Ignace and St. James on Beaver Island.

Boaters also can be grateful for the more than 100 aids to navigation (buoys) which the Sundew maintains from Grand Traverse Bay, northward to the Straits of Mackinac, then south in Lake Huron to Thunder Bay. Without them both pleasure boaters and the skippers of gigantic lake freighters would be hard-put to pick a safe path through the shoal waters of the northern lakes.

As an ice breaker, the Sundew is a valuable adjunct to shippers in the early spring and late fall, freeing boats that become marooned in ice and keeping the shipping lanes open as long as possible.

Coast Guardsmen from Charlevoix also are responsible for the manning of six lighthouses from late March until the close of the shipping season. In recent years, some lighthouse keepers have even celebrated Christmas on their isolate outposts.

Three of the lighthouses are located in northern Lake Michigan. Grey's Reef and White Shoal lights mark the narrow passage from Waugoshance Point to the Straits of Mackinac. Lansing Shoal light marks the passage north of the Beaver archepelago.

The remaining lights are located in Lake Huron at Poe, Martin's and Spectacle reefs.

And although there is a certain amount of routine to the operation of a lighthouse, there are times, like last April when the job becomes particularly hazardous. That was when a freak storm sweeped down upon Lansing Shoal Light, breaking in the ports and flooding the engine rooms. With waves crashing over the crib, men on the light climbed to the top of the tower to hook up batteries until power could be restored.

The lights are supplied by small Coast Guard craft which visit them each week with mail groceries and replacements. The supply runs can be tricky, particularly in the spring and fall when sudden squalls churn the big lake like a mixmaster.

Coast Guardsmen also play an important part in the social and cultural life of the community through their participation in service clubs, athletic activities and church organizations.

Also not to be ignored are the economic benefits accrued to Charlevoix through the feeding, clothing and housing of Coast Guardsmen and their families.

It is fitting that the Chamber of Commerce has elected to salute the United States Coast Guard by making it the focal point of this year's Venetian Festival, in which the Coast Guard itself will play an important part.

The Sundew will be anchored in Round Lake to assist in the boat parade Saturday night, a color guard from the Coast Guard will participate in the street parade and the Sundew will hold open house for Charlevoix visitors on Sunday.

As for the Coast Guardsmen themselves, it is a pleasure to have them aboard.

Poets and writers tell us we can't go home again, but Bellaire poet Max Ellison proved them wrong Saturday night.

Judy and I paid a return visit to Ellison's "Frog Holler" Saturday night to hear the former hog farmer-turned-poet recite poetry around a campfire and, the evening was as enchanting as our first two visits to Frog Holler last summer.

Frog Holler is the site of the former Frog Holler school Ellison attended when he was a boy. It is located seven miles southeast of Bellaire, deep in the hills of Antrim County. You leave M-88 on Mason-rd., travel gravel roads for two miles, then turn left on a wagon path that winds down, down, down for a mile or more through woods so dense that branches slap the sides of the car.

At the bottom is a cleared area for parking. The rest of the journey is made on foot, with only the glimmer of the campfire in the distance to guide you.

The audience (there were about 60 of us there Saturday night) sits in a semi-circle on the side of a gentle slope, with the campfire in the middle. Ellison stands or sits on the side of the fire, his grey beard and slouch hat illuminated by the red glow of burning maple logs.

Of course, Ellison is a showman as well as a poet. The beard is part of his image. So is the walking stick, the hat and the blue denim farm clothes.

After blankets are spread and the first beer can is opened, Ellison begins. He recites his own poetry and that of others in a rich voice resonant with farm accents. He sounds more like Burl Ives than Charles Laughton, but here is a little of both in him.

Ellison's poetry deals with elemental things – unpainted barns, plowed fields, hollyhocks and country people he knew as a boy living on the farm near Frog Holler. If his style and message compare with anyone, it is the late poet Robert Frost, who, incidentally is one of his favorites.

Ellison was born on the family farm at Bellaire in 1915 and attended school for five years at Frog Holler and five years in Bellaire.

He dropped out after the 10th grade and set out for himself to see the world. During the Depression he worked as a horse trainer in the South and when World War II came along he served with the armed forces in the South Pacific.

After the war, Ellison went into hog farming near Plymouth, raising thousands of porkers at a time and earning a tidy living for himself, his wife Florence and their children. He also took on odd jobs, such as janitorial work at the University of Michigan.

Four years ago, Ellison decided it was time to move north. He bought a neat red-brick home in Bellaire and, being a sentimentalist at heart, purchased the one-acre tract where the former Frog Holler school once stood. He has set it aside forever as a place where nature lovers can seek a brief respite from the work-a-day world.

Although he admits to being a poet all his life, Ellison's new leisure as a retiree gave him time to pursue his avocation on a full-time basis. Last fall his first book of poetry, "The Underbark", was printed by Eerdmans of Grand Rapids and sales have exceeded anything he ever anticipated. The first printing was sold out in a matter of weeks and he is about three-quarters through the second printing.

Most of Ellison's fans, surprisingly, are young people he meets on his winter lecture tours to high schools and colleges.

"I'll drive along and when I see a school I like, I stop to talk to the principal," Ellison says. "Before you know it he has called an assembly and I start reciting poetry."

He never mentions the book, but after a poem or two, one of the youngsters invariably asks if he has any books for sale. And before the assembly ends another suitcase full of books has been sold.

Last year, for the first time, Ellison was invited to speak at the prestigious University of California, quite an accomplishment, he believes, for a one-time hog farmer with a 10th grade education.

He has become so well-known in Grand Rapids, that half of the young people he meets on the street recognize him and call him by name.

Ellison's second book, "The Happenstance", is in the works and will appear shortly.

The weekly Saturday night sessions at Frog Holler are mostly for local people, but they draw fans from as far away as Petoskey and Traverse City.

Although he is extremely informal regarding admission charges, proceeds from the Frog Holler sessions always go to worthy causes.

Saturday night, he raised $80 to help send three youngsters from the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District to "the Special Olympics in Chicago in August.

Violence at the Drive-in

By Jim Fitzgerald

This is about violence or the generation gap or, maybe, just bugs. You figure it out.

On the 4th night of a beach vacation, our family finally grew tired of telling lies about how nice it was without TV. We decided to go to the nearest drive-in movie, no matter what was on.

The marquee said "The Losers" which meant nothing to us.

"It must be a movie about husbands," I told my wife.

"If it is, the children shouldn't be allowed to see it," she answered.

As it turned out, no one should be allowed to see it. It's one of those motorcycle films that are currently turning kids on. I'd never seen one before. Gee, I thought, this is my chance to broaden my perspective and reach out across the generation gap. Maybe I'll learn what that kid was trying to tell me last month when he tore up my lawn with his motorcycle.

(Also, I thought very quietly, maybe there'll be a little nudity for turning older men on).

But no, no, no. It was all shooting and slugging and bombing mixed in with a great spinning of wheels and roaring of motors. There was a little sex but every time a guy found the right-on girl, he got a bullet in the head and she got his blood all over her best skin.

The plot was about how these guys on motorcycles won an important battle in Vietnam. Only maybe they lost it. It didn't really matter, because no one knew whose side they were on anyway. The important thing was the moral: the uptight establishment shouldn't misjudge these muddy youths simply because they wear earrings and continually kick people in the groin. Everyone must do his thing.

But I couldn't stomach all that violence. My attention wandered to the car windows where many bugs were bumping against the glass, trying to get inside. These are power windows which can be controlled by the driver. I began to play a fascinating game. I'd lower a window a crack. When a bug would start to enter, I'd shoot the window up, trying to squash it.

This gave me a feeling of real power. By employing great dexterity, I could work four windows at once, thus tantalizing and abusing dozens of bugs. They had no way of knowing they were up against a master fiend, heh, heh, heh.

My wife and kids wanted to know what the devil I was doing.

"I'm doing my thing," I answered. "Besides, I don't like the movie. It's too violent."

I'd never kick a mosquito in the groin.

Mrs. Barber Leaps To Friske's Defense

Dear Editor:

I am writing in comment to the obviously obtuse Mr. Coon who attacked Mr. Friske in your paper on July 1.

I believe the only reason that a man like him would find it necessary to attack Mr. Friske is his complete ignorance of the laws, issues and legislation on the books or in the stage of proposals. I feel a man that is running for public office ought to be familiar with the Constitution and the rights of every citizen, as specified in our Constitution. Evidently this is not the case with him. He is the man who is tearing down our wonderful state and country! He does not take a firm stand on any issue. I wonder what he would do if he should ever get to Lansing? With an "open mind" of the kind he professes to have, anyone could fill it with almost anything.

As to his statement about Mr. Friske "not having been in this county long enough to know and understand what our democratic system means," I would like to reply with an analogy. It does not matter how long someone has been a farmer if he does not understand the principles of farming. Just because this candidate happens to have lived in this country all his life, does not make him qualified to pass judgment on Mr. Friske. I am sure that Mr. Friske had to study the Constitution thoroughly in order to get his citizenship, and from my acquaintance with him, I know for a fact that he believes it to be the most perfect document yet devised by mankind.

With regard to his reference about "necessary changes;" I would have appreciated it if he had been more specific, for we hear much on this subject from our SDS boys, who are for necessary changes too.

This individual's statement on Mr. Friske, "receiving tons of literature from the John Birch Society" and "the signing of his name to prepared statements by the John Birch Society," is an attempt to insinuate that Mr. Friske's mind is as intellectually depraved as his. Here again, I know from personal conversation with Mr. Friske that the John Birch Society did not furnish him with any prepared statements.

Next, I would like to turn to his statement "This country has been more than gracious to him (Mr. Friske), judging by his material wealth." Let me say, that this country gave absolutely nothing to Mr. Friske outside of the freedom to produce and reap the benefits of his toil. This is no more than was given to any of us, so I believe we all owe this precious heritage to the wise thinking of our founding fathers, and by no means to the country. The only people who can credit the country for having given them anything, are the people who get handouts from the government.

If we were to adopt the "necessary changes" advocated by Mr. "Open-Minded," I just wonder how long we would remain free from the socialistic environment that Mr. Friske ran away from?

Mr. "Open Minded" continues: "He (Mr. Friske) has taken much from this country and has given little in return." My only commnet is: Mr. "Open-minded" should wish that ten percent of the American people would contribute, in a lifetime, what Mr. Friske has contributed to this country in the short time that he has been here. If he judges Mr. Friske's contribution to society by the length of time that he was affiliated with the Republican Party, I would just briefly point out, that according to the editorial by Mr. Clock, this self-appointed evaluator of deeds, never belonged to the Republican party before becoming a candidate. If he used another criteria for evaluation, I wish he would have had the guts to say what it was.

The man further says: "Sir, you (referring to Mr. Friske) should get down on your knees 10 times a day and thank God you are permitted to live in a country that has been so good to you." I must say, that from my acquaintance with Mr. Friske, I have found him to be more appreciative of our heritage than anyone I have ever met, and I believe that the only reason he is running for public office, is to preserve this heritage. Who could appreciate it more than he, unless they too have lived under both tyrannies of Communism and Nazism?

Finally, with great regret I must conclude, that this man is a crass distorter when he says that if Mr. Friske is elected he would remove agencies such as "welfare, social security, workmens benefits, mental health care, etc." Mr. Friske never so much as suggested that he is against Social Security, for he feels that the old people have paid all their lives to received these benefits, and are fully entitled to these insurance payments. He has also never suggested that we abolish workmens' benefits or mental health care.

In conclusion, I believe this candidate owes Mr. Friske a public apology for having slandered him. If there is no such apology, I believe that Mr. Friske would be completely justified in resorting to legal action against this individual.

Sincerely,
Velma J. Barber

Coon Answers Peters' Letter

Dear Mr. Peters,

In a way I feel sorry for you, because you are having trouble with your memory and your ability to tell time.

Our conversation was slightly over one hour, and you did most of the talking. As far as my ambiguous answers are concerned, I think that whatever answers I had time to give were clear and precise, but you did not agree with some of them so I guess it is only natural that you would think them ambiguous.

Most of my conversation, if you recall, was in the nature of asking you questions. Your last words to me as I left your home were, "I am voting for Mr. Friske, but if he doesn't win I think I could be satisfied with you in Lansing."

I think you should put your own mind in order and find out just what position you are going to stand behind: If you like me or hate me.

Sincerely,
William A. Coon

Says Friske Won't Forget Taxpayers

Dear Editor,

According to your paper, many candidates are now pounding on their chests, and proclaiming their many affiliations, as they vie for Bob Davis' place.

However, one wonders how many will forget the taxpayers later, as many in office have done? One candidate, however, who offers the best for our votes is Richard Friske, who having gone through the hell of communism, now loves the American flag, the constitution, and respects all men who work to make the U.S. a great country, be they of the red, black, yellow, or white races.

Richard Friske is not a "Yes Man", nor a rubber stamp personality, but one who will be forthright in his thinking, and heavens knows there are too few of these!

Having been drifting down the River of No Return for too long a time, most good Americans are getting tired of being taxed to the hilt of seeing our educational systems ruined, our laws wrecked by courts, and criminals upheld.

It is time that we elect a man who will really fight to free us from these ills. So think of Richard Friske when you vote!

J. Jansen

P.S. You have one of the best newspapers in the North, so full of down-to-earth variety, with really stimulating articles.

FAST PITCH

Morweld took a giant step toward the first round title by whipping County State Bank 13-3. However, after this weekend when the round will be completed, anything could happen including all four teams tying for first.

Against the bank, five first inning runs helped the cause. Hud Drenth and Ken Richardson both clouted homers and teammate Ron Boss chipped in with three safeties. Denny Warner collected two in a losing cause.

Novaks edged American Mold 7-6 in eight innings. Norm Ostrum's sharp two out single scored the winning run. Stewart Coleman of Novak's and Ken Boss of Mold led the hitters with two singles each.

SLOW PITCH

Freedmans were dealt twin one-run losses during the week to throw the race, which once appeared to be a run-away, into a turmoil. Howard's Oilers of Boyne played outstanding defense and upset the leaders 4-3. Dick Erber paced the Howard's hitting attack with three bingos. Glenn Cunningham and Gayle Sheldon closed the gap with seventh inning home runs, but the winners held on for the big victory.

Medusa scored four times in the bottom of the seventh for their 9-8 win over Freedman. Hank Archey's homer hilighted the uprising. Glenn Cunningham and Bernie Devries homered in a losing cause. Andy's lost a big opportunity to move into first place when they were upset by American Mold 7-6. Bud Flowers tripled to open the eighth and scored the winning run on Guy Smith's sacrifice fly. The Weathervane weathered a USAF three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh for a 14-18 squeaker. Sam Supernaw homered for the winners, Gibbs, Crow, and Cole connected for the losers.

Alpine Hills Is Newest Subdivision in County

MRS. LUCILLE CUNNINGHAM of Belding Real Estate stands on stump overlooking heavily wooded valley where swimming pool for Alpine Hills residents will be built. The new subdivision has opened in Bay Township near Walloon Lake.

PAVED roads are one of the features of Alpine Hills subdivision. The first home in the new development is owned by one of the developers, Jerry Adams.

Bay Township Site Offers Hills, Woods

The latest resort development to open in Charlevoix County is Alpine Hills, located in Bay Township 12 miles from Charlevoix.

The plat of the first 40 lots in the subdivision has been fully approved and the lots are on sale, according to Mrs. Lucille Cunningham of Belding Realty.

The development is owned by Dr. A.J. Scarchilli of Farmington, Dr. Paul Parenti of Birmingham and Jerry Adams of Boyne City who already has constructed a chalet on the site.

The development is located in a section of steeply rolling land heavily forested with hardwoods. It is one mile from public access to Walloon Lake.

Paved roads have been constructed through the first 40 acres to be developed. Eventually the subdivision will cover 120 acres, with a swimming pool and recreation area for residents.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. will lay lines throughout the subdivision, and each site will come equipped with a gas light for illumination.

Alpine Hills also will have underground utility lines to preserve the natural beauty of the site.

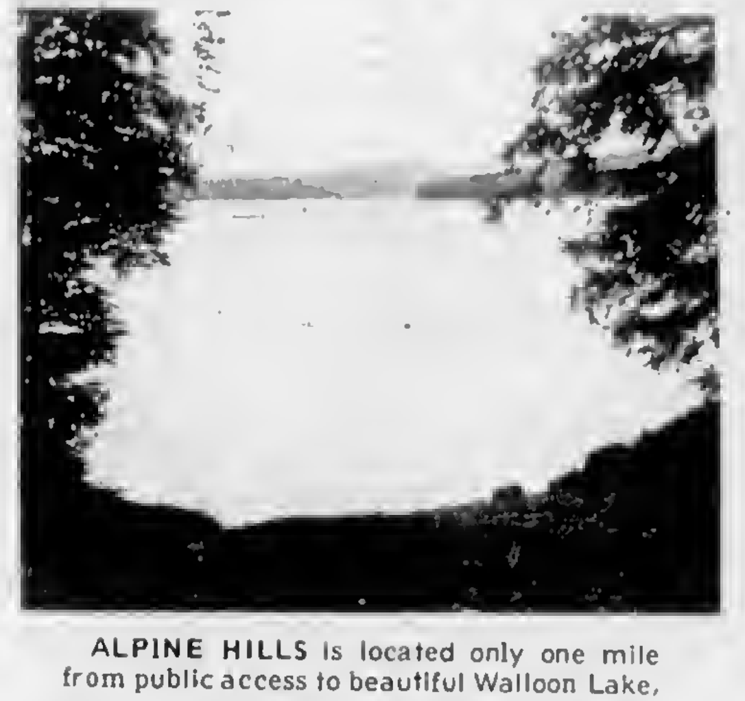
Mrs. Cunningham said Health Department percolation tests indicate that the sandy loam will be ideal for septic tanks.

Size of the lots varies, depending on terrain. Some run just under one-half acre; others are almost one acre.

To reach Alpine Hills from Charlevoix, drive east on the Boyne City-rd. to Sumner-rd., left on Sumner-rd. to Camp Daggett-rd., right on Camp Daggett-rd. to Old Horton Bay-rd., left on Old Horton Bay-rd., 1¼ miles to Erickson rd., then left into Alpine Hills.

The area is well known to outdoorsmen and in recent years has been a favorite site for snowmobiling.

The developers anticipate that many of the lots will be sold to year-round residents as well as resorters. The roads have been deeded to the county and will be kept open during the winter months by the Charlevoix County Road Commission.



ALPINE HILLS is located only one mile from public access to beautiful Walloon Lake, one of the finest swimming, boating and fishing lakes in northern Michigan.

Matisse Nude Slated For Waterfront Fair

In celebration of the 100th birthday anniversary of French painter Henri Matisse, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Cummings of the Anchorage, Lake Charlevoix, are loaning "Nu au Fauteuil" by Matisse to the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair.

A literal translation of the French title is "Nude in an Armchair."

The fair will be held in East Park Saturday, Aug. 8.

Each year for the past 10 years, the Cummings have shown one of their large collection of sculptures or paintings at the fair.

The painting chosen this year has been on exhibit at the Toronto Art Gallery, Montreal Museum of Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Lyman Allyn Museum, Connecticut College, New London, Conn. It was painted in 1923.

Matisse is one of the most famous of a group of French artists known as "Les Fauves" or wild beasts or savages. He studied the color schemes of Oriental carpets and North African scenery during his two-year stay in Morocco and developed a style which has exerted a great influence on modern design.

He is best known for his still life and landscapes as well as small feminine figures and brilliantly illuminated interiors.

Recently the Cummings exhibited about 70 paintings and 14 pieces of sculpture at the National Gallery in Washington D.C. The show is scheduled at the Metropolitan Museum in June 1971.

Thousands of visitors will have an opportunity to see the Matisse masterpiece, oil on canvas, at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair where over 250 artists from the Midwest and from such far off places as London, England, will exhibit their work.

County Families Borrow Half Million From FHA

Families in Charlevoix County borrowed $500,000 from the Farmers Home Administration to purchase, build and improve homes during fiscal year 1970, the Federal agencies county Supervisor, Ernest C. Schuette, reported today.

"These funds, advanced under the Farmers Home Administration rural housing program, provided better and more comfortable homes for more than 34 county families", Schuette said.

He quoted James V. Smith, national administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, as reporting that more than 61,500 rural families across the nation participated in the rural housing program last year, borrowing a record $587.9 million. More than 250,000 persons are living in better homes because of the program.

"We are attempting to keep housing credit flowing into our small towns despite the tight money situation and the national general housing construction slump," Schuette said. "At the same time, we are encouraging builders and developers to step up their efforts to invest in rural America by increasing the volume of rural home completions."

Schuette noted that local banks and lending institutions participate in providing loan funds which are insured by his agency. He added that nationally more than 98 percent of individual family rural housing loan funds were provided by private investors.

"An important fringe benefit to rural America," Schuette said, "is that the rural housing loan program is creating more than 35,000 man-years of employment, contributing directly to the income of rural people.

Farmers Home Administration housing loans are made only to applicants unable to obtain credit from other sources, and who live in communities of not more than 5,500 population. The Charlevoix County office is located in the Bellaire Office Plaza Building in Bellaire, one of 1,700 offices serving the 3,000 counties of rural America.

It will be a sad day when Max Novak moves out of the high school to take over as principal of the middle school. With him goes 24 years of experience teaching government, economics and social studies.

But although his physical presence is gone, many memories remain. . . . for instance, his posing in a Roman toga at the Latin banquet in 1969, dancing and clowning on senior government trips and conducting class meetings.

And who can forget the thrilling stories about World War II or his reminiscing on Charlevoix-the-Beautiful in years past.

I can remember him bustling Georgia Lusk and me around to find sponsors for us for "Operation Bentley."

Good ol' Max, as he was often called by students, seemed to know everything, what happened over the weekend, who was dating whom, what your father did for a living, where you lived and who your friends were.

Quite often Monday mornings, when gossip was flying, he'd casually rib various students and everyone would wonder how he knew.

It has been said of Drew Pearson that "he had more pipelines than Standard Oil." It would appear that Max did too.

If you happened to drive by the Bay Chalet restaurant on your way to school in the morning, parked in front or nearby would be Max's car while he sat inside eating and shooting the bull with the other men there.

Anyone who needed help or had a problem could turn to Max and count on him to do all he possibly could.

How could anyone forget drivers' ed? I'm sure he went through some anxious moments with beginning drivers although he never showed a sign of nervousness.

Max Novak is a man who demands respect. And he gets it, in a day and age when young people have the tendency not to trust anyone over 30, this indeed is quite an accomplishment.

It will seem odd to enter the high school without seeing the dignified, impressive figure of "Mr. Novak" in the halls just observing or chatting with students. The school will never be quite the same with him gone.

As of yet, a successor hasn't been named, but he has big shoes to fill as teachers and students will constantly compare his successor to Max.

I am sure that the youngsters in the Middle School will learn to love, respect, and yes, even cherish, their "Mr. Novak."

Thanks Max, for everything.

Miss Austin's Poem Will Appear Twice

By Beth Baldwin

It is not every day that a student from Charlevoix has a poem published in the "Annual Anthology of High School Poetry."

It is even more unusual for the author to receive a letter from a publisher asking to reprint the poem in "Sermons in Poetry," a compilation of religious and philosophical poetry written by the youth of America.

But it has happened to Sherry Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin, 308 Antrim-st.

Sherry, who will be a senior at Charlevoix High School, was notified shortly before school dismissed for the year that her poem submitted to the anthology, "A New Year's Thought," also had been selected from thousands of entries to appear in "Sermons in Poetry."

Here is her poem:

A NEW YEAR'S THOUGHT

It's finally come,
It's here at last,
A brand new year,
To forget the past.

Don't look back,
And be not afraid,
For that year is gone,
And the debt is paid.

Paid to the past,
Of days gone by,
Remembered yet fondly,
But then with a sigh.

Accepted the fact,
Of what has come,
Happiness for most,
But tears for some.

Tears for leaving,
The remembered old,
But smiles that hear,
Of future told.

So let's hope and pray,
That we may find,
Peace on earth, and most,
Peace of mind.

—Sherry Austin

Friday of the second week started off cloudy, but as the day progressed the sun came out, it got hot, and it was another fine camping day. John Deane and Doug Otto took cabins 16 and 17 on a canoe trip down the Jordan River which is a famous fishing river about 35 miles from here and, as it is narrow and swift, boys enjoy canoeing here. The boys on this trip were: Steve Baker, Mike Harris, Brad Mast, Chip Ballinger, Mike Fisher, Ed Holmwood, and Bobby Scherer. Other boys on this trip were: Jimmy Eberts, Paul Francisco, Chuck Zitsman, Jim Cronin, Tom Harbeck, Chris Hurst, and Brian Koonce. Later in the day, our two cabins of our smallest boys took a hike down to the campcraft area for their first overnight. The staff on this trip were: Steve Utterback, Kim Miller, Pat Bernard, one of our men from France, and Andy Case. The boys on this trip were: Billy Bissell, Phil Dulberger, Peter Gardella, Steve Osborn, Tommy Weidner, Tom Largo, David Asulin, Tom Buckley, Tim Gardella. In the evening, the Intermediate Section had a scavanger hunt, trying to collect 75 different articles. It was a lot of fun, and the Greens won the point, making the score at this stage very close, Greens 7, Greys 8.

Saturday, the first day open for visitors, dawned warm sunny and great for all the camp activities. We had very few visitors, only three boys had parents visit them. Right after rest hour, the top four cabins left in the school bus for Camp Chick-A-Mi, where they were the guests of the girls at that camp. After a few words from both Ken Smith and Bill Townsend on manners and actions, and a warning that they were to be gentlemen, the boys took off in great anticipation.

In the evening, The Junior section had a game "Capture the Bacon", which the Greens won. For the rest of the camp there was a "Capture the Flag" game which the Greys won. About 9:30 the bus arrived back from the party, and the boys were all excited and busy telling about the girls they had met. From all reports, it was a very fine party.

Sunday morning was another hot one, and the start of a great day. The Seniors who went to the party at the girls camp asked to meet Ken on the porch of our Clubhouse and they thanked him for allowing them to go. They also asked if they could entertain the girls here. At chapel, which was held in the woods, Curt Huber, our head trips man, was the speaker and he spoke on "Being an Individual" stressing the point that however you want to build your life, strive to be the best, set your sights high. Chuck Osborn read the Scripture and Bob Swain read the prayer. The ushers were Eric Musekamp and Chris Boesel. This was waterfront afternoon with both beaches being busy with races, both sailing, canoeing, and swimming. Bob Van Mell with Ben Miller won the Sailing race, and after the various events, the Greens won three points and the Greys won one point, making the score Greens 11-Greys 10.

At five o'clock our water-skiing department under the director of Gard Garvie and Kim Miller put on a really fine exhibition of water-skiing. The boys performing beautifully were: Ben Miller, Tim Washburn, Bob Danaher, Jim Cronin, Larry Lepard, Steve Baker, with Casey Cronin putting on a great show of skiing on his bare feet, with no skis. It was a very good show, the boys enjoyed it, and Chris Olsen did a great job of announcing. In the evening, Bill Townsend took the Junior section over to Greensky Hill to see the Indian Church. The boys really enjoyed this. It was a hot evening so the waterfront was open for those who wanted to cool off in the water.

The third week of camp started off on Monday morning with the boys going to Mackinac Island getting up at 6:30, breakfast at 7 and leaving here at 7:30 for a day on this famous island. This trip is given each year to the boys enrolled during the summer for the following year. These are all boys who were enrolled last summer during the season for this summer's camping season. The boys on the trip this time were: Tom Buckley, Ben Dancer, Jeff Zoeller, Peter Kay, John Bauer, Steve Cullison, Dave Danaher, Jim Zitsma, Bill Harbeck, Rex Buckley, Mike Healey, Bruce Johnson, Bill Gates, Howard Kay, Dave Cronin, John Harbeck, Tim Burnside, Tom Cullison, Bob Healey, John Kahle, Jim Chalberg, Bob Danaher, David Roe, Bob Bauer, Chris Boesel, Chip Ballinger, Ed Holmwood, Bobby Scherer, Steve Baker, Jim Cronin, Tom Harbeck, Larry Lepard, Bob Wittmer, Eric Artman, Jim Waller, David Swain, Dave Tripp, Ben Miller, Casey Cronin, and Bill Harbeck. It was a dark day, looking like rain most of the day. In the evening we had a movie for the entire camp, and as it was a Walt Disney movie "Rob Roy in the Highlands." The boys really enjoyed it.

Tuesday morning dawned dark and dismal, but activities moved along as usual. Cabin 14 returned from an overnight, this was Chuck Leiders's cabin, and the boys were: Rod Kirsch, Frank Perron, David Roe, Steve Taylor, and Bob Danaher. Boys were getting ready for the long trips leaving on Wednesday, and gear was packed, and as the sailing trip, the horseback trip, and the trip to Beaver Island were all in the making, it was an exciting time. It started to rain in the late afternoon, so in the evening we had a movie. Bill Townsend, director of activities, showed some old camp moveis, which were taken in 1929 when the camp was located across the lake down at Ironton. The boys were amazed at the way boys and staff looked in the "good old days."

JOHN FERELLA of Detroit tries to ring bell at "Strong Man" booth at the Camp Charlevoix carnival.

Wednesday morning, another beautiful sunny day, the hikers took off for their three day trip on Beaver Island. They left camp at 9:30, to take the 10 o'clock boat. Curt Huber, our head trips man, and Chuck Leider were the counsellors on this trip, and the lucky boys were: Eric Musekamp, Ed Holmwood, Scott Foster, Peter Perron, David Roe, Bob Healey, Chris Boesel, Jim Rush, and Steve Taylor. They sure looked great leaving camp with their "packs upon their backs." The rains came in the afternoon, the wind was high and the poor three-day sailing trip had to be postponed one day. However the horse trip did get away

Thursday was another beautiful sunny day, and the sailors took off right after breakfast for their trip down the lake to Young's State Park.

Everyone was getting excited on Friday as they were starting to put together their booths for Saturday's Carnival.

DON'T NEGLECT HBP

An estimated 25 million Americans have high blood pressure, a disease which is like installment buying — you can get along fine if you do what you are supposed to do — but you pay penalties if you don't. HBP, however, can be neglected for a while, but then when it strikes, it has very severe penalties. The Association, a Michigan United Fund agency, says: "Get a doctor and follow his orders."

25,000 See Boat Parade

Charlevoix's 1970 Venetian Festival was the biggest and best on record.

An estimated 25,000 persons jammed the downtown section Saturday night for the Venetian boat parade and fireworks over Round Lake, high point of the annual mid-summer festival.

In spite of the extremely large crowds, police report that the weekend was virtually without incident.

Although there was considerable traffic congestion downtown following the Saturday night events, police officers, sheriff's deputies and extra hands managed to clear bottlenecks before they developed.

There were sizeable crowds in the city throughout the entire weekend to watch the street parade and witness activities in East Park.

One of the most popular shows was an exhibition Saturday afternoon by members of the National Palaestrum Gymnastics Camp at Williamsburg east of Traverse City.

Winners in the sail boat regatta Sunday afternoon were Chris Begrow, butterfly, first; Scot McCorrie, Sunfish, second; Marti Cash, and Betsy Reid, Sunfish, third; Chip Leckos, Sunfish, fourth; John Pew, Sailfish, fifth; and Brad Meyers, Starcraft, sixth. Jim Uhl was chairman.

Winners in the Doll, Pet and Dress-up Parade Saturday afternoon were: Pet—Elizabeth Postmus, first; Sally and Sue Westenbroek, second; and Carol Dhaseleer, third. Dress-up—Chris Drost, Dino Drost, Bob Drost, Cathy Spence and Shannon Spence, first; Michelle Marie Warner and Kent Christopher Warner, second; and Lisa Redeker, third. Doll—Cheryl Cain, E. Detroit, first; Cindy Klama, second; and Kim Stevens, Livonia, third. Mrs. Mary Ann Cudd was chairman.

Five sky-divers, including Roger Putman of Charlevoix, took part in a sky-diving exhibition early Sunday afternoon over Round Lake. Some of the divers became caught in shifting winds, landing in the post office parking lot, the high school grounds and elsewhere in the vicinity. None was injured.

The program started with selection of the Venetian Queen--Sherry Austin --- Friday night and ended with a rock concert in the park Sunday evening.

Summer Appeals Start Chest Drive

Charlevoix's 1970 Community Chest drive is under way.

Letters to summer residents, announcing the campaign and inviting contributions, are in the mail. And chest workers will shortly call on summer shops and resort-related establishments.

Tom LaBlance, general campaign chairman, states that E.D. 'Pat' Hawley and Jerry Redeker, co-chairmen of the Special Gifts division, have addressed the appeal to summer residents. He reports that donations by summer residents have been making up about one-fourth of total chest income.

"We are most grateful for the generous support of our summer residents," he says. "Each year, more and more of them have responded more and more generously as our needs have increased. We know that they are asked to give to the Community Chests at their winter homes, so we ask only that they consider sharing their total community chest giving with us in proportion to the time they spend here in Charlevoix."

Hugh Riker is in charge of the solicitation of summer businesses. During August his crew of workers will be contacting summer shops and other tourist and resort businesses, many of which are closed before October, the traditional campaign month for community chests.

Dale Ponder Stands Mute At Hearing

Charles D. Ponder, 47, of rural East Jordan stood mute when he was arraigned in Circuit Court July 27 on a charge of murder. A plea of not guilty was entered in his behalf by Judge James M. Fitzpatrick, presiding judge.

Ponder is charged in the slaying of his estranged wife, Marjorie M. Ponder, at Ponder's rented home on Flag-rd. in Eveline Township on June 13.

At the preliminary examination July 9, witnesses told how Mrs. Ponder came to Ponder's home, demanded to know "about the divorce" and attacked him physically.

Other residents and visitors at the home dragged Mrs. Ponder and Ponder followed them into the yard with a rifle. When Mrs. Ponder came at him again, Ponder fired one shot, witnesses said. The bullet struck the victim in the head, killing her instantly.

Ponder, who is held without bail at the Charlevoix County Jail, was accompanied at the arraignment by his court-appointed attorney, Robert Hoffman of Charlevoix.

Millage Vote

Charlevoix Township voters will be asked to approve 2.7 mills for operation when they go to the polls Aug. 4.

Charlevoix's Population Hits 3,391 in Census

Charlevoix has grown faster than anticipated in the past decade.

Mayor William Fochtman reported Friday that the 1970 census, taken April 1, places Charlevoix's population at 3,391, an increase of 640 over the 1960 census tally of 2,751.

Fochtman received the figures from the U.S. Census Bureau office in Detroit.

The influx of new residents was due in part to growing industrialization in the past 10 years, including construction of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant, the Medusa Cement Co. plant at South Point and the Lexalite Plant on U.S. 31 north.

City Superintendent Thomas Hanna says the figures show Charlevoix has experienced a growth rate of 23 percent, compared to a state average of between 13 and 14 percent.

Fochtman and Hanna are both concerned that, even with the new growth, not every Charlevoixan was counted in the 1970 census.

The Michigan Municipal League says that communities will stand to benefit to the tune of $250 over the next decade for each resident from locally-shared revenue from certain state taxes, including the Michigan income tax, the intangibles tax and the motor vehicle tax.

Any Charlevoix resident who thinks he might have been overlooked in the 1970 enumeration, is invited to fill out the "Were You Missed?" form which appears on Page 9 of this week's Courier.

Many communities already have discovered serious discrepancies in the census figures which could deprive them of revenue which is rightfully theirs.

Mr. Staley was in business for himself in Detroit and Mancelona and owned and operated the Staley Grocery on Antrim-st. in Charlevoix from 1929 until his retirement in 1949. A boat trip to South Fox Island. A mysterious bottle floating off shore. A note inside that read: "June 6, 1970. Help."

Following is a copy of the letter she received by return mail:

"Dear Karen:

"The Boy Scouts from the Benzonia-Beulah area were on a four-day trip to South Manitou Island. On our way there, which was the 5th of June, we threw four bottles overboard. We have heard from two people so far, one was at the Petoskey breakwaters.

I am almost a first class Scout, all I have to do is have a conference with my Scoutmaster. I am going camping at Camp Grelick for two weeks and try to earn my swimming and lifesaving merit badges.

UNFORTUNATELY

We the voter can only vote for one candidate in the primary August 4th. Therefore we must choose with care. What does our choice depend on?

1. Friend or neighbor,
2. City or location pride,
3. Recommendations by the Republican committee,
4. Contributions to the party,
5. Older party member or
6. Qualifications.

If your reason is one of the first five, this is your choice; HOWEVER if your choice is based on qualifications then you only have one choice.

Only one candidate has been actively working in federal and state welfare programs daily and knows the improvemens needed in the medicare, medicaid, and ADC programs.

Only one candidate has been actively engaged in originating an educational program on the drug abuse issue. He has been able to communicate with the "in" group as well as P.T.A.'s, teachers, church groups, and families.

Only one candidate holds a degree to understand more thoroughly the drug aspect on the increasing abortion and sex-education issues.

You have six reasons to vote for your candidate. We like our reason best.

Give Opinions On Space, Draft, Taxes, Time

By BETH BALDWIN

Patrons of the First State Bank of Charlevoix have been asked to express their opinions on the space program, military service, summer tax for the Charlevoix School District, and daylight savings time. Questionnaires were available inside the bank for those who wished to fill them out.

First of the four questions was, "Should the U.S. continue the Space Exploration Program?" Out of a total of 119, 83 voted yes, 35 said no, and two abstained.

Two comments from the under 20 generation were: "We should withdraw from the space race at least until our country is a little better set financially." And "I think a lot of that money could be used for more useful purposes right here in the U.S. Such as the poor people, hungry people."

A gentleman in the 20-29 age bracket wrote: "It is an essential program only if monies used in destructive means were channeled into the space program."

In the over 40 category, one man observed that "It will help in weather observation and disaster forecasting, among many other reasons." One woman marked yes "provided the Asian war can be terminated." Another male remarked that "We are the leaders of the 'Free World.' In every area of man's endeavor we should lead."

As for the second question, "Do you feel that our Military Service program should be placed on a voluntary basis?", 73 persons said "yes" and 44 said "no". Two obstained.

The reasoning behind the votes went like this "....On a voluntary basis there would be a pride which seems to be lacking in some areas today" "....If we live here we should all equally protect America otherwise leave. We live by law" ".....Except in case of war declared by Congress" "....I certainly do! Pay them a professional's wages and you will have a professional working for you" "....but nobody would volunteer!"

"Are you in favor of a summer tax collection for the Charlevoix School District? (Rather than as is.)" was the third question. On this proposal there were 56 "yes" votes and 49 "no's" with 14 not voting.

Replies to this were: "Why not collect the money when we need it?" "No! Use the money we give you now to the best means and you won't need to bleed the public anymore."

The final question was "Would you like a return to Daylight Savings Time for summer months in Michigan?"

Answers ranged from one "Definitely not!" to "This will help the state financially as the playground of America." One person wrote: "If savings time is good for summer, why not save some in winter when we have less daylight hours?"

The final tally on the time question was 59 "yes" to 58 "no", the closest of the four questions.

Sixty-eight voters were male, 37 females, and 14 did not designate which sex they were.

Charlevoix COURIER Editorial page

Your Vote Will Never Again Count So Much

Although many residents have a "so-what?" attitude toward primary elections, the upcoming Aug. 4 primary is of utmost importance to northern Michigan because of the unwieldy race for the House seat presently held by Rep. Robert W. Davis.

With the strong Republican voting record of the 106th District, the man we select next Tuesday will be our next representative in Lansing, barring a political cataclysm.

And because of the large number of candidates – eleven – it will not take too many votes for any candidate to win the GOP nomination.

At this point, the outcome of the election is a toss-up. We cannot see any single candidate in the forefront; nor is anyone lagging behind to any important degree.

Many voters, of course, will cast their votes for the proverbial "favorite son," the hometown man they have coffee with every morning and wave to on the streets. But the deciding ballots certainly will be cast by those people who have studied the candidates and their records, without any particular reference to geographical boundaries.

Although our columnists and letter writers have the privilege of expressing their personal views on who is the best man, the Courier has elected to withhold endorsement of any one of the eleven. There are a number of fine men in the race, any one of whom could ably represent the 106th District in Lansing.

But we are urging you to study the records of the candidates while there is still time. And on election day we hope you will cast your ballot for the man who you feel will truly represent northern Michigan to the best of his ability, regardless of which community he calls home.

The man we elect will be faced with some far-reaching decisions in the House of Representatives, decisions on such grave issues as abortion reform, school taxation and the preservation of our environment.

It is not a job for a good-time Charlie, a back-slapper or a hale-fellow-well-met.

The task belongs to a thoughtful, dedicated public servant, one who is responsive to the wishes of his constituents, yet firm in his own convictions of what constitutes sound government.

We do not need or want a man who intends merely to use the position as a stepping stone to higher political office. We want a fellow who is willing to put the problems at hand ahead of his own political aspirations.

We also want a man who will be able to work closely with his colleagues in the House and Senate in an atmosphere of mutual respect and cooperation.

Only a large turnout at the polls Tuesday will guarantee that we have selected the right man for the job.

Your vote will never again count so much.

A Festival to Remember

A change in the time of the boat parade from Sunday to Saturday night.

Two perfect summer days tailor-made for "getting out and going somewhere."

A masterpiece of promotion, planning and advertising.

Whatever the reason (and it probably was a combination of all three), the 1970 edition of the Venetian Festival drew more people to Charlevoix than ever before in the long history of the festival.

The crowds downtown Saturday evening were unbelievable. Estimates ranged as high as 25,000, but even that figure appears conservative after viewing the elbow-to-elbow spectators in East Park and the additional thousands who watched the boat parade and fireworks from Bridge-st. and other vantage points around the lake.

As an example of the brisk business done by the concessionaires, the Episcopal Church sold more cotton candy before 9 p.m. Saturday night than it did in the last two Venetian Festivals combined.

And other sidewalk businesses reported an equally lucrative day.

Needless to say, Charlevoix merchants benefited handsomely from the influx of visitors. Cash registers all over town rang merrily all day Saturday as literally tons of merchandise changed hands.

And they could have continued to do business long into the night if most of them hadn't elected to close up at their regular quitting time Saturday. Some visitors thought it was strange to find the shops closed with tens of thousands of out-of-towners on the streets.

Thanks to a smooth-working team of police officers, sheriff's deputies and extra hands, traffic problems were held to a minimum.

Of course, the success of the festival lies directly on the doorstep of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the big mid summer extravaganza.

Special credit goes to C of C Manager Dick Oestrike and his wife, Sharon, who moved into the chamber office only five weeks ago.

Because of their day-and-night efforts, there was more to do and more to see at this year's festival than ever before.

The number of entries in the street parade was easily double that of other recent years. And the boat parade, thanks to the efforts of Chairman Josh Barnes, featured more than 50 lighted boats.

A new feature of the boat parade this year was identification of vessels and owners by Rev. Hewitt V. Johnston from the deck of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew anchored in Round Lake.

Although the fireworks were a trifle premature, coinciding with the boat parade, many people were impressed by the double spectacle of lighted boats and skyrockets.

Another welcome addition to hte festivities was the excellent gymnastic exhibition in East Park Saturday afternoon by members of the Palaestrum Gymnastics Camp.

All in all, the 1970 Venetian Festival was an enormous success.

And if such things as attendance at summer outings is any indication of the nation's economy, the recession of late 1969 and early 1970 already has run its course.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

With the Aug. 4 primory election only days away, a good many Republicans in the 106th representative district have yet to pick a candidate from the 11 hopefuls.

And little wonder! Eleven men seeking a single seat in the House of Representatives!

Among Democrats, there is no problem at all. Their only candidate is Peter Johnson, an affable young man from Boyne City who handles public relations for the Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Co.

As a Republican who has done considerable soul-searching and hair-pulling in the past two months as candidote after candidote announced his willingness to serve, I have finally made up my mind. I want to send a fellow to Lansing who can serve somewhot in the manner of Rep. Robert Davis, who, by the way, is a candidate for the Senate and is highly deserving of any support you can give him.

I want to send a fellow to Lansing who clearly understands the meaning of the infinitive "to represent," which Webster defines as "to take the place of in some respect; to act in the place of or for, usually by legal right; to serve, especially in a legislative body by delegated authority usually resulting from election."

I want to send a fellow to Lansing who will represent all of us. This doesn't mean he should vote precisely the way we want him to on every issue. That would be impossible. But I want him to take my views – and your views – into consideration, weigh them carefully and then temper them with his own good judgment and common sense.

I want to send a fellow to Lansing to whom I can point to with some degree of regional pride, saying: "Here's the kind of man we grow in northern Michigan."

We northern Michiganders have done fairly well in this department in recent years, witness Gov. William Milliken from Traverse City and Lt. Gov. Thomas Schweigert from Petoskey.

I want to send a fellow to Lansing who doesn't murder his mother tongue every time he opens his mouth, simply because he hasn't taken the time to learn proper grammar. (And I'm not talking about accents. Our only foreign-born candidate speaks and writes impeccable English.)

I want to send a fellow to Lansing who has had at least some experience on the local government level. The state Legislature is hardly the place for a political greenhorn.

I want to send a fellow to Lansing who, through maturity, experience and personality will be able to work well with his colleagues to bring about the best possible state government.

What complicates the selection of a candidate in this particular election is that caliber of the men in the race. Any one of them probably could go to the capitol and do a creditable job for the people of the 106th district.

But I am casting my vote for Stanley McRae of Mackinaw City because I feel he can do the job best.

A native of northern Michigan, McRae graduated from Pellston High School and has a B.S. degree in agriculture from Michigan State University.

He is a veteran of World War II, rising from private to major. This, if nothing else, is a good indication of his leadership potential, but read on.

He has worked as a farmer, county 4-H agent and Mackinaw City businessman (lumber). He also has taught school.

A giant of a man physically, standing well over six feet tall, McRae played professional football after the war until an injury forced his retirement.

He has served on the Mackinaw City School Board, was president of the Northern Michigan Association of School Boards for five years and was a director of the Michigan Association of School Boards for four years.

McRae also has been a director of the East Michigan Tourist Association and was first president of the Mackinaw City Chamber of Commerce. He has served as a member of the Mackinaw City Village Council and as president of the Lions Club.

McRae has held other positions of responsibility, but you get the general idea. He apparently is a man who gives unstintingly of his time to the public good. In 1967, he received the governor's "Minute Man" award for his public service.

STANLEY McRAE

McRae was married in 1942 to the former Muriel Meims. They have two sons. Bruce graduated in June from the USAF Academy in Colorado and Eric will be a senior in the fall at Mackinaw City High School.

Soft-spoken yet articulate, thoughtful but at the same time an active, concerned citizen, Stan McRae is the man I want to represent me in Lansing.

If it Fitz

There's No Prince Chuck

By JIM FITZGERALD

The visit of Prince Charles and Princess Anne came just in time to make me remember the Kentucky Derby and the Indianapolis 500.

The thing is, I asked myself if anything in the world interested me less than British Royalty. And the answer was no, but the Derby and the 500 come close.

All horse races turn me off simply because no horse ever told me he liked running around with some guy sitting on him and hitting him with a stick. Actually, the "Sport of Kings" is simply legalized gambling, not much different than craps in Las Vegas. Eliminate the betting, and the race fans could all ride to the track in the same taxi.

As for car races, 'round and 'round they go and if no blood is spilled, it's a ho-hum day for the spectators. I can understand why grown men risk their lives playing with expensive toys on racetracks. It's thrilling and the wages are good. What puzzles me is why anyone would pay to watch. The only excitement is when cars are crumpled and bones are broken. If that's what turns you on, the seats are much cheaper alongside the freeway and the chances for gore and crash are much greater.

But back to royalty. The whole idea is repugnant to any thinking man. Why should a nation pay homage, not to mention hundreds of thousands of dollars, to a Prince Charles simply because his mother is Queen Elizabeth? It's fair enough for a kid to be born rich – if his dad or his grandad made the dough. But when it's the taxpayers who pay for the pomp and potatoes, a guy should do more than bleed purple to earn it.

However, if that's what they like in Britain, so be it. It's no bur-on my throne. Except when royalty comes calling in the U.S. and the whole country goes ga-ga learning how to curtsy properly. Nuts.

If Charlie and Annie showed up in my backyard I would bow from the waist only while closing the windows.

If this sounds discourteous, I'm sorry. But I can't stomach the royal ground rules. Whenever the High and Mighty come calling, the White House repeatedly reminds the press and everyone else to keep their distance. We commoners are instructed to "speak only when spoken to and to address them only as Your Royal Highness". La de da. And they don't even pay their own motel bill.

I can shut my eyes and see Prince Charles visiting our Grand Canyon. He is posing for pictures and slowly backing toward the edge of the canyon. Dozens of people want to warn him of the danger. But none of the spectators can speak because they have not been spoken to.

Finally, one irreverent Irishman dares to open his mouth unbidden. But before he can get out "Hey, Your Royal Highness" it is too late. Down goes Charles.

"If I could have called him Chuck, he'd still be alive," the Irishman says.

Tips May Be Taxable for Social Security

Gordon Satteimeier, manager of the Petoskey Social Security office, reminds all waitresses, waiters, car hops, bell boys, and others who receive tips, that their tip income may be taxable for Social Security purposes.

Cash tips that add up to more than $20 a month while working for one employer are taxable for social security purposes. The waitress, waiter, car hop, and bell boy are required to give a written report to the employer within ten days after the end of the month in which the tips are received. Sattelmeier further noted that these employes must by law report tips over $20 a month to the employer or be liable for a penalty of 50 percent of the tax due.

The reporting of tips means more than just paying a social security tax. Retirement, survivors, and disability protection are based on the total earnings. The more earnings you have the more you may be able to receive in monthly social security checks.

A pamphlet explaining the reporting of cash tips (SSI-17) and a daily record book are available for the asking at the Petoskey office. Phone 347-8727.

Recalls How Fidel Castro Hated Reds

19 July 1970
Charlevoix, Mich.

Mr. Clock:

Some years ago, there was a man that screamed against Communism louder than any other, and then, on 26 July, 1958, and after he had gained the support of the people of the United States, this man stated that he was a communist himself.

If you still don't know who this man is, his name is Fidel Castro. . . .

Bewnre of the man and his Society, that screams 'Commie' with such vigor.

Chamber of Commerce
Charlevoix, Mich.
July 24, 1970

To the People of Charlevoix:

As of this writing, Venetian weekend has not yet really gotten underway. But I am more than confident that we will have a successful festival due to the tremendous effort of many residents of Charlevoix and our neighboring towns.

In order to make Venetian Festival all that it should be in the future, we must continue to get this enthusiastic support.

Without trying to take any credit from the many people I will acknowledge later in this letter I would like to offer my sincere thanks to Mr. Josh Barnes for his work as Chairman of the Yacht Parade. Josh has taken many hours away from his business at considerable sacrifice. Charlevoix needs more Josh Barnes!

Our sincere thanks to the following people for their efforts in making our Venetian Festival a success. Believe me, if we have overlooked anyone, it is not intentional.

Charlevoix County Road Commission

To whom it may Concern:

On behalf of the Hayes Township Board, I would like to take this opportunity to Thank You for your support, work and efforts in assisting us in obtaining the boat launching ramp, car and boat trailer parking area and rest room facilities known as Nine Mile Point located on U.S.-31 in Hayes Township, Charlevoix County.

Now that the construction has been completed, the facilities are already bringing many hours of recreation and enjoyment for those who want to take advantage of the increased Lake Trout fishery off shore from this site in Lake Michigan.

Thanks again for your cooperation and interest.

Respectfully yours,
Leo Burnett

Charlevoix County Road Commission
c/o Ivan Phillips
306 Prospect St.,
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Gentlemen:

It is about time that I sent you and your men a word of thanks, for the excellent work you have been doing on our County roads, over the past few years.

The idea of completely re-doing certain sections, instead of trying to spot patch all the roads, to me, is the ideal way. Some roads may have to wait a spell, but those you've done will last for years.

I would like to ask one favor. When the Commission knows in advance that they will work on certain roads, I would like to see the Commission advertise in the papers, of that area, that the public would have the privilege of taking out any tree, designated by the Commission, from the right-of-way, before it was stripped for the new work. In this way we might be able to conserve quite a number of good trees and plants, which would otherwise be destroyed.

It is a pleasure to ride over these newly re-done roads. Around Charlevoix, the North Point roads, Mt. McSauba, Pine Point, and places in the Ellsworth and other roads.

Congratulations to you all.

Sincerely yours,
Grace and Walker
A. Miles.

"Our agencies need more than that, actually, to provide all the services we should have-but we had to draw the line. We didn't feel we could increase total allocations more than $1,700 over last year. This meant that we had to cut some agency requests quite a bit and the decisions were tough ones for our budget committee to make. We have a challenging goal to meet-but if everyone gives just a little more than last year we'll make it."

How Election Shapes Up in Charlevoix Area

Charlevoix area voters will go to the polls Tuesday, Aug. 4, to cast ballots in the state-wide primary election.

The most hotly contested race on local ballots is for the seat in the House of Representatives presently held by Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace). Davis is running for the state Senate, a seat to be vacated in January by Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey). Word of Schweigert's appointment to a position in the Nixon Administration is expected shortly.

Eleven candidates are vying for the House seat in the 106th representative district on the Republican ticket.

They are Martin A. Brennan, Conway; William A. Coon, Gayford; Richard Friske, Charlevoix; Victor S. Kishigo, Petoskey; John D. Kujawski, Boyne City; Glenn W. Law jr., St. Ignace, Wendell J. Marzolf, Gayford; Stanley P. McRae, Mackinaw City; Ted F. Miller, Elk Rapids; Gerald O. Olson, East Jordan; and Donald C. Stark, St. Ignace.

On the Democrat ticket for the 106th district seat is Peter C. Johnson of Boyne City.

There are three other contests on the Republican ticket. Gov. William G. Milliken will be opposed for the gubernatorial candidacy by James C. Turner, publisher of the controversial "Today" magazine which attempts to bare legal and judicial corruption throughout the state.

Candidates for the U.S. Senate seat are Robert J. Huber and Mrs. George (Lenore) Romney, wife of the former governor.

As state senator from the 37th district, Robert W. Davis, will be opposed by Frank R. Helston of Sault Ste. Marie.

Philip E. Ruppe is unopposed as a Republican in the 11th Congressional District for the seat he presently holds in the U.S. House of Representatives.

On the Democratic ticket, four candidates are vying for the office of governor. They are Zolton Ferency, Sander Levin, George F. Montgomery and George N. Parris.

Sen. Philip A. Hart is unopposed for U.S. Senator on the Democratic ticket, as are Nino Green, a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives in the 11th Congressional District, and Russel M. Lee, a candidate for the state Senate from the 37th district.

Because there are only two candidates for the position of probate judge in the soon-to-be-combined Charlevoix-Emmet probate court districts the run-off will be held in November. The candidates are John Murphy of Petoskey and Robert Klevorn of Boyne City.

However voters will be asked to vote on a number of candidates for the county board of commissioners and township offices.

City Art Students at Work

ART WEXSTAFF of Charlevoix casts a critical eye on one of the paintings he has worked on as a member of F. Douglas Greenbowe's art classes at the Charlevoix Library. This painting was done in acrylics.

F. DOUGLAS GREENBOW from Scottsdale, Arizona lends a helping hand to Georgia Heltner, one of the seven members of his acrylic class held Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. In the background Jane Payne bends over for a better angle at which to work.

EVELYN LAMBDIN (right) works carefully on her painting. The class went outside to sketch and is now doing the scene in acrylic paints with Greenbowe's painting as a model. Other members of the class are Irene Bartholomew, Betty Cudlip, Elaine Rethertord, Jane Payne, Georgia Heltner, and Art Wexstaff.

Library Notes

Bright Dust Jackets Sometimes Fool You

For some reason, a bright dust jacket and a fairly current publishing date combine to make a book very much in demand. Unfortunately, not all of the recently published books are worthwhile – in spite of their bright dust jackets.

The following titles, however, are very much worth reading. "The Last of the Greeks" is a first novel by Olivia Davis "I don't suppose any hostess in London has two such distinguished men under her roof tonight," said Lady Dodson Smith, and thus begins a wonderfully urbane and civilized novel of London society in the 1960's. While this is certainly a novel about the conflict of generations, it also happens to have a great deal to say about integrity and compromise.

"A Long and Happy Life" by Reynolds Price is a short novel with a classical simplicity and economy. Laid in a small town in the Roanoke Basin of north central North Carolina, it concerns a very different region of the South from that associated with violence. It is a simple tale told by a very young author with a promising and distinguished career ahead of him.

There has never been another mystery writer like Craig Rice. Back in the early 1940's, she turned out a prolific series of some of the funniest, warmest, shrewdest and rowdiest mystery novels ever written. Now she is back, complete with Chicago lawyer John J. Malone and his happily mad companions Jake and Helene Jusus in "Knocked For a Loop," an Inner-Sanctum mystery.

"My Heart Lies South" deserves four stars and a place on the top of the highly recommended list of books. It is an autobiography written by Elizabeth Borton de Trevino, and her account of her marriage to a Mexican is so warmly human and amusing that all her readers will envy her the experience. Before her marriage, she was a journalist on the Boston Herald, and she was covering an assignment for that paper when she met her husband. She writes with honesty of her mistakes and embarrassments and she presents a marvelous up-to-date picture of life as it is in Monterrey.

For readers with the time for a large, serious novel, "In the World" by George P. Elliott is recommended. The book begins as a family novel, the story of a marriage in crisis. Alfred and Beth Royce are middle-aged, middle-class. Into their comfortable house – gathering about them and their three daughters as disciples, antagonists, lovers -- comes a group of young people. The book is a mosaic of many superbly fitted brief sections, written by an experienced writer who has been the recipient of Gugenheim and Hudson Review fellowship.

THERE ARE plenty of historical markers on Beaver Island to let you know what happened here years ago, when the island was almost as populous as Charlevoix is today. This wooden marker on the King Highway, just south of St. James, pin-points the site of the former Mormon Tabernacle erected by King James Jesse Strang.

Camp Charlevoix

Corral Chatter

On Friday morning, our softball teams boarded our school bus and took off for Bay View to have two games with the boys of that club. It was a beautiful day and these boys were on our teams: Chris Jones, Peter Kay, Larry Webb, Jamie Zitsman, Mike Healey, Tim Washburn, John Harbeck, Don Cook, C.J. Chesquiere, Mark McCardel, Bill Bauer, Bill Gates, Rex Buckley, Larry Engle, John Kahle, Howie Kay, David Townsend, Brad Mast, Jeff Edison, Tom Fox, Mark Achor, Tom Harbeck, Chris Sales, Dick Geddes, Sanny Greenawalt, David Eisemeyer, Bob Bauer, Chuck Zitsman, Brian Koonce, Dave Swain. When they returned, they reported that Bay View had won the Junior game, and Camp Charlevoix had won the Senior game. The sailing trip returned from its overnight to Young State Park. They reported an ideal trip, no problems, and even a full moon night for the boys to enjoy.

The hikers who went to Beaver Island returned about 5:30 Thursday and reported a most satisfactory and enjoyable hiking trip on that famous island. In the evening, we had the exciting Capture the Counsellor event, in which the men hide in the woods and the whole camp goes looking for them. Jack Middleton, our craft man, made carricatures of each man, with a price on his head. These were posted on a rogues gallery for the boys to look at. They were all very clever and brought forth many a laugh. There were four points at stake in the G and G competition and at the end of the capture. The Greens picked up three points, the Greys one, making the score in the overall competition, Greens - 15 – Greys - 11.

Carnival Day, an annual event, was a thriller for the boys on Saturday. You never saw such activity as 125 boys and 55 staff men all busy getting their booths set up on Saturday morning. Steve Swengel, chairman, and Ruby and Ruth and Mary were swamped with boys wanting thumb tacks, tape, paint, paper, balloons and other items. All necessary items were set out on the porch of the Smith cabin along with boxes of prizes and tickets. It is always amazing how boys build booths with rope, benches, blankets, and they always do a great job. It was a very fine afternoon with boys having much fun. The parents who were here seemed to enjoy it, too. In the evening, we had a movie "Underwater City."

Sunday morning, the start of the fourth week, arrived with a nice steady rain, which this area needs, and as breakfast isn't until 9:15 on Sundays, it was a good morning to sleep, and boys needed this rest after their strenuous day on Saturday. Chapel was held inside the Bigwam, and Eric Musekamp read the scripture with Chris Boesel reading the prayer. The speaker was Jim Goers, who spoke on "The Shepherd." It was a good talk and a challenge to the boys. At dinner on Sunday two of our counsellors entertained the boys with some folksinging, the men were Chris Olsen and John Nesbitt. In the afternoon we had Green-Grey Quiz games, where brains were evidenced over brawn. At the end of the afternoon, the Greys had picked up three points, making the score Greens-15, Greys-14. In the evening we had a fire in the huge fireplace in the clubhouse and the boys sat on the floor as our three counsellors from Europe (two from France, one from Wales) answered questions the boys asked them. It was a most informative meeting, and the boys asked some very fine questions.

Monday was a beautiful day. Regular activities ran on schedule. Late in the afternoon, Cabin 14 with Chuck Leider as counsellor took off for the campcraft area. These boys were: Rod Kirsch, Frank Perron, David Roe and Steve Taylor, with Chuck Osborn as assistant.

Tuesday, another beautiful day, was the day that John Stauffer took his boys down to the campcraft area for an overnight. Chuck Leider's boys were still there, so the two cabins had a lot of fun together. These boys were: Mac Pfeiffer, Rex Buckley, Tommy Fox, Sanny Greenawalt, Mike Healey, Bruce Johnson, and Clayton Tuthill. This was the day the winners of cabin clean-up was announced for the first four weeks, the winners being Tom Dorsek's boys, Chuck Leider's boys, Jack Middleton's boys, and Pat Bernard's boys. They were pleased and two of the cabins choose to see "Funny Girl" on Tuesday night.

On Wednesday, we had both a canoe trip and a horseback trip leave camp. The canoe trip went down the Jordan, being put in at Grave's Crossing where the boys spent the night before starting down the river. Jim Goers, Chuck Osborn and George Musekamp were the staff and the boys were: Lock McKelvy, Larry Webb, Chris Sayles, Dave Timmons, Bruce Rea, Ron Beatty, Dave Swan, John Kahle, and Mike Woodward. In the afternoon, a riding trip left camp, and along with the cowboys went: Jim Bennett, Jim Shook, David Townsend, Dave Danaher, Paul Francisco, Brad Mast, Billy Guggenheim, John Bauer, Mark Achor, Tim Washburn, Bob Healey, Mike Healey, Tom and John Harbeck, Bob Bauer, Bob Whittmer and Ben Dancer. It was a beautiful, hot afternoon. The water smooth as glass, and the mile swim was held for the first four week boys. It is quite a sight to see all the camp boats, power boats, canoes, sailboats, lined up down the lake, with the boys swimming in between the shore and the boats. The first wave that took to the water were the boys trying to make two miles, a distance we had never tried before. In the evening, two of the cabins winning cabin inspections for the last four weeks took off for the movies, seeing "Norwood" starring Glen Campbell. These cabins were Cabin 2, Pat Bernards boys, and Chuck Leiders boys in cabin 14. As it was an all-camp night, there were four scavenger hunts, each for one point. At the end of the hunts, the Greens had picked up four points. Those boys finishing the two-mile swim were: Eric Artman, Chip Ballinger, Jimmy Chalberg, Chris Cojeen, Jeff Edison, Billy Gates, Brad Hillis, Ben Miller, Eric Musekamp, David Roe, Jimmy Rush, John Swan, David Tripp, Robert Van Mell, and Dick Geddes. The boys who swam the mile were: Steve Baker, Lloyd Bennett, Chris Boesel, Rick Cook, Casey Cronin, Jim Cronin, Bob Danaher, Bill Doolittle, Jimmy Eberts, Paul Edison (a Junior) Steve Elzemeyer, Martin Field, Mike Fisher, Scott Foster, Mike Glesz, Doug Halby, Ed Holmwood, Chris Hurst, Joe Jenny, Bruce Johnson, Chris Jones (a Junior), John Kahle, Rod Kirsch, Brian Koonce, Larry Lepard, Lock McKelvy, David Minas, Gil Pearsell, Frank Perron, Peter Perron, Mac Pfeiffer, Hutch Rogge, Bobby Scherer, David Swain, David Timmons, Steve Taylor, Jim Waller, Steve Woodward. Our congratulatons go to all these boys who made the extra effort.

On Thursday, our canoe trip and the riding trip returned to camp and from all reports the boys had a great time. In the afternoon, we sent a tennis team to Bay View to play their boys, and, sad to relate, we lost every match. The tennis instructors came back feeling terrible, the boys feeling worse, but as everyone knows, we must be good losers. Cabin 12, with Gwynn Rowlands as the counsellor, took an overnight down to the campcraft area.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX has an international flavor this summer with three counselors from Europe and the British Isles. From left are Patrick Bernard and Dominique Attalin of Paris and Gwynn Rowlands of Ruthin, Wales. They came to Camp Charlevoix under Europe's Camp American program.

☒ REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE RICHARD FRISKE OUTLINES HIS BACKGROUND AND PLATFORM FOR 106th DISTRICT REPRESENTATION

A VOTE FOR FRISKE IS A VOTE FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

AN AMERICAN WHO KNOWS FIRSTHAND WHAT IT MEANS TO LOSE A COUNTRY TO THE EVILS OF TOTALITARIANISM!

WHO IS RICHARD FRISKE!

Raised in Poland, Friske was drafted into military service during the German occupation. He escaped the Stalin-imposed prisoner repatriation at the end of World War II -- which resulted in the death or imprisonment of so many other Europeans from the "captive nations" -- and fled to this country as a very grateful refugee. Richard Friske, along with his wife and three children, is a dedicated Christian. He was a lay minister for 20 years. Friske knows what work is, having been a tool and die worker before going into the orchard business near Charlevoix.

WHAT DOES HE STAND FOR!

As a naturalized American citizen, Richard Friske takes his recently-regained Freedom and his responsibilities toward maintaining that freedom -- as a sacred trust. Therefore, he stands unwaveringly behind our Constitutional Republic. He sees the need to re-emphasize good citizenship in our schools - to build character and loyalty to God, family and country - even before the basics in the curriculum. He is for absolute integrity in public as well as private life - and senses the immediate need to return our State to fiscal sanity, to restore protection of people and property...the only legitimate function of a government of, by and for the people.

WHAT DOES HE OPPOSE!

Richard Friske - along with a growing number of concerned Americans - knows that our current rush toward adoption of Socialistic practices in welfare, education, medicine, agriculture, business and labor...adds up to government control over people and their property. He knows such totalitarianism firsthand. He recognizes the need for effective opposition to political opportunists who cater to vocal and militant minorities. In total, Richard Friske opposes evil by whatever name it goes under!

THIS IS THE KIND OF UN-BOSSED, CHRIST LOVING, FREEDOM-SERVING, TAXPAYER-ORIENATED CANDIDATE YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR! JOIN WITH US IN SUPPORTING RICHARD FRISKE FOR REPUBLICAN STATE REPRESENTATIVE, 106th DISTRICT VOTE FOR RICHARD FRISKE ☒ IN THE AUGUST 4th PRIMARY ELECTION

$100 FOR THROWING TRASH ON HIGHWAY

IT'S A MILLION-dollar job, picking up after careless motorists who toss paper, cans, bottles and sundry other items along Michigan's state highways. Laborious chore must be performed with pitchfork and by hand. Experimental signs posted on some freeways warn that litterbugs can be fined $100. Jail terms and litter pick-up are other possible sentences.

Alewives Don't Get Whirling Disease

A recent report in a statewide publication suggesting that alewives in lakes Michigan and Huron may have whirling disease is completely without factual basis, says T.B. Durling of the Department of Natural Resources fish division.

Whirling disease has occurred in some private trout ponds in Michigan and in parts of the Tobacco River system. Those waters have been treated to eliminate the disease.

"It is true that whirling disease is deadly and that we are very much concerned to eradicate it from Michigan," Durling said. "However, whirling disease attacks only trout and salmon. It does not affect any other species of fish, including alewives. We regret that such wide circulation has been given to this unfounded rumor."

As happens every year, there has been a dieoff of alewives in lakes Michigan and Huron this summer. This year's dieoff is very moderate compared to some recent years but has created a nuisance in a few beach areas.

Cause of the alewife problem is not known but is believed to be a combination of the facts that alewives are naturally short-lived, they are sensitive to stresses of spawning and temperature change, and there are a lot of them in the two big lakes.

AVOID HORSEPLAY

Horse-play is a lot of fun for youngsters and sometimes for adults too. But around the pool it is something to strictly avoid. The result of this is all too often an accident or even a drowning. Nothing is that much fun.

MEDUSA TAKES TITLE

Medusa survived a three team playoff to win the first round title. When the round had ended, Howard's, Medusa, and Freedman all had identical 5-2 records.

Freedmans defeated Howard's 16-8 with an eight run seventh inning. Gayle Sheldon and Dave Bowman homered for the winners while Ray Skop and Shorty Smith hit for the circuit for Howards.

Medusa then met Freedmans in the finals and played exciting ball for an 8-4 victory.

Roger Putman and Hank Archery supplied the long ball for the winners. Both teams made fine defensive plays, but it was the hustle and spirit of Medusa that went a long way to enable them to win the title.

MORWELD TOPS

Morweld took the first round title in the fastpitch league with a 5-1 record. Twin impressive wins over County State Bank and American Mold turned the trick. Against Mold it was 12-2 behind the two hit pitching of Ken Richardson.

To start the second round however, it was a different story as Morweld fell to Novaks 8-2 as Larry Potter scattered five hits. Potter helped his own cause with two safeties as did teammates, Bruce Meggison and Mike Thorp.

American Mold won their opener in the second round and looked impressive in doing so. Nate Boss was in the groove, and Tom Webb backed him up with the only runs he needed when he lashed out a two run homer in the 4-0 win.

Hot Weather Is Blamed in Trout Deaths

Recent hot weather contributed to the death of hundreds of brown trout in streams throughout the northern Lower Peninsula, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Dr. Leonard N. Allison, biologist in charge of the Department's research station at Grayling, reports that laboratory tests point to a bacterial disease, aeromonas liquefasciens, as the immediate cause of death.

"The situation is not unusual, and we are not alarmed," said Dr. Allison. He explained that the causative bacteria is known to have been present in hatchery fish for a number of years, and probably has been present in wild trout for a long time.

Prolonged hot weather such as Michigan has experienced for the past few weeks with its resultant rise in stream-water temperature weakens trout resistance to the disease, according to Dr. Allison. At the same time, he said, warm water encourages the bacteria to multiply.

"Brown trout seem more susceptible to the disease than brook trout, and only rarely do rainbows die from it," said Dr. Allison.

He is confident that a break in the summer hot spell will put an end to the brown trout dieoffs and that no serious prolonged effects will result.

Hippie Stories Put Charlevoix on Map

So Charlevoix has made the Detroit Free Press. Yes, the advent of the hippies in our fair town was announced on the second front page in Sunday, July 19, issue of the Detroit paper in a section called "Talk of the Town" by Edward Shanahan.

Then more recently, last Thursday's paper carried a column entitled "As a Longhair, I Resent Smirks, Defy Threat of Gestapo Abuse" by Bob Talbert.

In the first article, only three names popped up with one businessman hiding behind the curtain of anonymity. Those three persons whose opinions were published were Oscar Stroud, Andy Essenburg and Al Frost.

Already you may notice something a bit fishy if you know who these people are. The balance is decidedly in favor of the older generation—two to one. Three to one if the unknown businessman is included. Personally, I think that Shanahan, to make any substantial statements concerning the so-called "hippie invasion," should have contacted and made known the views of other individuals on both sides of the fence.

For instance, what about parents of local kids who have turned freak? What about some of the normal, if such a designation can be made, Charlevoix teenagers and their parents? Certainly, by now, everybody has formed an opinion and instead of indicating what might be called the two extremist positions, a few of those who fall in the middle should have had their opinions solicited and used to even out the weight a bit.

And as for the "anti-hippie ordinance" and "voluntary night riders" that were mentioned one should keep in mind that the passing of the ordinance was for the regulation of the operation of beaches and other public property. Sanitation alone is sufficient reason why no-one, not just the hippies, should not be allowed to sleep or camp there.

I believe that I made clear that those "voluntary night riders" consist of only a handful of individuals and certainly not the entire adult population of Charlevoix.

The appearance of persons in hippie dress is not new although such attire was a bit late in making an arrival in relation to cities like Detroit. However, Charlevoix is not alone with it's hippies; they exist all over the United States

What makes a person a hippie? Is it just because he or she wears bells, transparent shirts, headbands? Is it because hip hair is somewhat longer? Is it because he opposes the Vietnam war? Is it his clothes or is it his views or is it both? I can't supply the answer, maybe someone else can. But I do believe that the word is used too loosely and is not so all-encompassing a term.

Andy Essenburg states in Shanahan's article that he'a "had it up to here with this permissiveness of parents.." Should kids be blamed for the way their parents brought them up? Admittedly, outside forces do play a part in the shaping of a person's personality but the home environment takes the leading role and very much determines how the minor characters perform.

It is my opinion that articles such as Shanahan's follow the lines of sensationalism more than professional journalism.

Dear Staff,

As I've lived in the community of Charlevoix for the past 16 summers and have been reading your paper for most of them, I find it most appropriate to write. I left Charlevoix last week and picked up two pounds of Charlevoix's Murdick's Fudge. -The fudge has been to New York, London and now resides here in Jerusalem. I have made many friends with it and those Israelis who do not speak English told me in Hebrew they love it.

The following cases were heard by District Court Magistrate W. Richard Smith in Charlevoix last week:

An assault and battery charge against Charles Bourdo, 25, of East Jordan, was dropped on the request of the complaining witness.

Allen McWatters, 33, East Jordan, was assessed $25 on a charge of assault and battery.

Frank Trojanek, 17, East Jordan, pled innocent to a charge that he was a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. The case was continued.

2 From City At Orientation

Two Charlevoix girls, Gerianne Santek, 104 Oak-st., and Jeanne K. Smith, 253 Barnard rd., were among the more than 500 prospective Central Michigan University freshmen who were on campus last week for freshmen orientation activities.

The July contingent was part of some 3,000 freshmen who will attend summer orientation prior to regular CMU registration Aug. 25-28.

The orientation period allows the prospective students to become familiar with the campus and meet many of their future classmates and instructors. For many it was their first experience with dormitory living since they were housed in the University residence halls where they also had their meals.

A corps of student advisers served as guides for the newcomers and assisted them with registration procedures. Each of the advisers is responsible for about 35 freshmen during an orientation period.

Barbershop Changes Hands

By ANNE OSTERBAAN

John James, owner of the Ellsworth barber shop for 26 years, has sold the business to Edward Clemons of East Jordan and Jackson.

James bought the building from Charlie Edson and the contents from Forrest Dewey in 1944.

He can remember when haircuts cost 50 cents and shaves 25 cents.

The James family will continue to live in Ellsworth and James will help out at the barber shop Fridays and Saturdays.

Clemons is married and plans to make his home in Ellsworth as soon as he can find a place to live.

More Residents Now Eligible For U.S. Food

More families in Charlevoix County are eligible for federal surplus food under new income and liquid assets limitations approved by the state Department of Social Services, according to Richard Tillen, director of the county Social Welfare Department.

For example, a family of five is now eligible for surplus government food if its monthly income does not exceed $370 and if its liquid assets do not exceed $1,500.

Former limits for such a family were a monthly income of $295 and assets of $1,000.

The new schedule ranges from a single person with an income of $210 a month and assets of $1,000 to an eight-member household with an income of $490 per month and assets of $1,500.

For each additional family member, a monthly allowance of $40 is added to establish eligibility.

Tillen said the new limits have been approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture which supplies the surplus food.

In Charlevoix County, surplus food may be picked up at the Boyne Valley Foods warehouse in Boyne City.

Commodities vary from month to month, depending on availability, Tillen said.

In June, recipients were offered beans, butter, cheese, chopped meat, white flour, lard, non-fat dry milk, peanut butter, raisins, rice, rolled oats, prunes, instant potatoes, juice, evaporated milk, syrup, canned tomatoes and macaroni.

Canned turkey, rolled wheat and corn meal also were included on the commodity list, but they did not arrive because of the trucking strike.

Prior to the adoption of less stringent eligibility limits, a total of 1,006 Charlevoix County residents were eligible to receive surplus food, although only 884 persons actually were drawing on the surplus commodities Tillen said.

He added that anyone receiving public assistance is eligible for the surplus food, along with unemployed persons, retirees living on Social Security, Aid to Dependent Children recipients, old age pensioners and others so long as they fall within the income and liquid assets limitations.

Following is the new schedule for Michigan families:

Surplus Food Eligibility

Household Size	Maximum Income per Month	Maximum Liquid Assets
1	$210	$1000
2	250	1500
3	290	1500
4	330	1500
5	370	1500
6	410	1500
7	450	1500
8	490	1500

City Set For Annual Art Fair

A total of 274 exhibitors have signed up to display their works in 1970 Waterfront Art Fair, the largest number in the history of the event, according to Chairman Mrs. James Driggett. Last year, 242 artists registered.

The fair will be held Saturday, Aug. 8, in East Park, starting at 10 a.m., although some exhibitors will be set up and ready to go before then. The fair will last until 7 p.m.

The roster of exhibitors includes many out-of-state artists, including Christopher Gabel who has galleries in London, England, and Lansing.

Others will come from as far away as Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Bremen and Gary, Ind., and several points in Illinois.

Mrs. Driggett is assisted in making arrangements by Mrs. James Shepard, co-chairman.

Mrs. Charles Duerr and Mrs. Robert Martin are hostesses, assisted by a battery of townswomen who will watch over the Matisse painting which will be loaned to the fair committee for the day by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings of The Anchorage.

Surfboat Available For Fun and Fitness

Lt. Donald Luedke, Commander of Group Charlevoix, has a new sport going at the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and he believes a number of men in town might be interested in taking it up.

It's called "rowing" and it's not exactly new. Sea-faring men used oars to get around on water long before the invention of the sail and the 100-horse outboard.

Luedke has offered to give rowing lessons in the Coast Guard's 26-foot Monomoy surfboat to man from Charlevoix Thursday evenings at 7 and Saturday mornings at 9.

The surfboat requires a crew of 10, plus a coxswain to man the tiller.

Although the surfboat available at the station is only 13 years old, it is of the type that served as a rescue boat at all Coast Guard lifeboat stations before the days of power boats.

It weighs 1150 pounds and its crew was able to carry it over a beach to the water's edge and launch it into the surf. Because of its excellent sea-keeping capabilities, the boat is able to navigate in very heavy seas, Luedke says.

The Monomoy is used at the station for both training and recreation.

"It is excellent exercise for taking off extra inches around the waist and can be lots of fun at the same time," Luedke says.

Anyone interested in taking up rowing should contact Luedke at 547-2541.

Court Ruling to Cost At Least $6,000

The recent state Supreme Court decision requiring schools to supply textbooks will cost the Charlevoix School District a minimum of $6,000 next year, Superintendent Robert Miller told the School Board at the July 28 meeting.

However, the cost could go as high as $10,000, depending on how the State Department of Education interprets the ruling.

He said educators around the state are still awaiting guidelines from Lansing.

Miller said the district took in between $6,000 and $7,000 in book rentals last year, "which we won't get this year."

"As of now, we know we will have to pay for all textbooks, workbooks, such publications as the weekly reader and all normal supplies for shop and homemaking classes," he said. "We still don't know if we'll have to supply all the lumber a boy uses in shop or all the material a girl uses in homemaking."

Other hazy areas are athletic equipment, including shoes, towels for gym students, notebook paper, pencils, slide-rules, band instruments and other equipment a student uses in the normal course of acquiring an education.

Miller said an extremely liberal interpretation of the court decision would mean that even such things as the school newspaper and the yearbook would be supplied free.

In other business the board:

–Agreed to provide free passes to school activities to senior citizens.

–Learned that two of the portable classrooms at the high school would be moved to the Middle School. (The units were moved Friday and Saturday)

–Approved appointments of Richard Donaldson and Clem Wagner to the finance com-

Appeals Court Refuses To Review Union Issue

The state Court of Appeals has elected to stay out of the dispute between the City of Charlevoix and the Communications Workers of America (CWA) over representation of all city employes by the CWA as a single collective bargaining unit.

The City Council learned last night that the court has refused to review a decision by the Employment Relations Commission upholding the CWA.

However, the court also refused to review a motion to dismiss the city's appeal filed by the CWA.

The decision not to review the case was made by Judges Vincent J. Brennan, John H. Gillis and Michael D. O'Hara.

The Council has called a special session for Thursday, Aug. 6, at 8 p.m. to meet with attorney Darrel Jacobs of Kalamazoo to discuss its next move, if any.

The city apparently three alternatives.

–To take its appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

–To start collective bargaining with the CWA, or –To refuse to bargain and have the issue referred back to the state labor officers.

The impasse developed last fall after employes voted for CWA representation about the same time the state legislature passed a law making policemen and firemen subject to compulsory arbitration.

The city asked the Employment Relations Commission to set aside the representation election on grounds that it would be impossible to bargain with all city employes as a single unit if certain members were covered by special bargaining regulations.

The Employment Relations Commission upheld the election and the city subsequently carried its request to the Court of Appeals.

In the order denying the appeal and the union's motion to dismiss, the Court of Appeals cited "lack of merit in the grounds presented."

In other business the council:

–Decided against allowing any more rock concerts in East Park as had been requested by some groups in town. The city received many complaints from residents about the ear-splitting volume of the last concert staged July 26 at the conclusion of the Venetian Festival.

–Heard a request by Frank Boss that water lines to laid from his trailer court to the Lake Charlevoix shore to permit construction of an overnight camping facility.

–Agreed to prime and triple-seal Lake-st. from Park to Upright; Hurlbut from Lake to Sheridan; Newman from Lake to Sherman; Central south of Dixon; Meech south of Dixon; Prospect south of Dixon; and Chicago-ave. from Meech to Mercer. The city will advertise for bids.

–Noted that the Community Chest has increased its allocation to the city Recreation Department from $1,200 to $1,800.

–Told City Superintendent Thomas Hanna to check with

Cindi Ann Oostmeyer, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oostmeyer of Pincherry-rd., R-3 Charlevoix, drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming with friends and relatives in Cecil Bay just west of Mackinaw City.

She was pronounced dead upon arrival at Cheboygan Hospital.

Funeral was held Aug. 3 at St. Francis Solanus Church in Bay Shore, the Rev. Fr. Ray Rau officiating. Interment was in St. Francis Cemetery in Petoskey.

Wm. Bole Cited in Warrant

William Bole, bookkeeper for the Weathervane Inn, Inc., and the 111 Corp., has been charged with embezzlement of funds in excess of $100, according to Charlevoix County Prosecutor Harvey Varnum.

The complaint against Bole was signed by Richard Aull, who, with George Richardson, owns the posh restaurant-motel complex on the north bank of Pine River Channel.

Richardson said the last time anyone at the Weathervane saw Bole was Tuesday afternoon, July 28, when he went to the bank to make a deposit following the big Venetian Festival weekend.

Richardson says Bole's car was recovered at the Traverse City Airport by State Police.

Library Notes

Summer time is vacation time and vacation time is family time. The Charlevoix Library has been pleased to notice how many patrons come in as families to check out books even if they only intend to stay in Charlevoix for two weeks. Cards issued to new patrons or visiting patrons have averaged over 25 a week during the past six weeks which, we believe, is a record of some kind.

To accomodate our new patrons who feel they cannot be without reading material even on vacation, even for two weeks, we are suggesting various titles which we hope will appeal to all members of the family.

For the very young fry, there is "Follow the Sunset," beautifully illustrated with little songs scattered here and there throughout. A lovely edition of "Puss in Boots," the children's classic told again in words and in humorous, brilliantly drawn pictures by Hans Fischer, the internationally known Swiss artist. "School for Julio" is a lovely story with large print especially pleasing to the very first readers. "The Tomten and the Fox" by Astrid Lindgren needs no introduction to the early-to-bed group. It's a never-fail favorite.

"Have a Good Year" by Gertrude Bryant is very definitely a girl's book, and girls from the 4th to the 7th grade will enjoy it. "Backstop Ace" by Dick Friendlich, was written for the young sport-minded boy in the family, and he'll probably like "Trail to Lone Canyon" by Gus Tavo, in which mountain gold leads two boys on a trail of mystery, adventure and near-disaster. "Trust a City Kid" is for all teenagers. It's about a city boy who wants so much to prove that he can handle the animals on a farm in Pennsylvania for an entire summer. The cover of "The Mystery of Burnt Hill" by Keith Robertson shows a boy crawling out of a scary dark window, and we think teenagers will want to know what he's trying to run away from! "Magic Elizabeth" by Norma Kassirer is a lovely book for girls if they are over nine and not over thirteen.

"The Complete Book of Skin and Scuba Diving" by George Sullivan is about the best book of its kind for both juveniles and adults alike. The author has earned a nationwide reputation as an authority in several fields of sports, and he covers all the basic techniques and rules. There are numerous photographs and illustrations.

For the old folks – those over thirty – we suggest "A Cup of Tea for Mr. Thorgill" by Storm Jameson. This is a novel of pride and corruption. It's light easy reading and very entertaining. "Snatch" by Rennie Airth introduces a very gifted new name to the ranks of comic thriller writers. It's a very funny book. It is a fast and foxy book which has already been snatched up for a forthcoming major motion picture. "The Corridors of Time" was written by Paul Anderson who also wrote "The High Crusade". It's an astonishing tale of time-travel by one of the masters of science fiction. "The Unspeakable Skipton" by Pamela Hansford Johnson, revolves around the intriguing figure of Daniel Skipton, self-exiled to Belgium and author of a strange and scandalous book.

Any book by Elizabeth Cadell is guaranteed to be good reading. She is famous from Nome to Rome for her richly entertaining novels, and "Mrs. Westerby Changes Course" is no exception.

Teri Freedman Wed In Garden Ceremony

The marriage of Teri L. Freedman and P. Richard Weidner took place Sunday afternoon, Aug. 2, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman of Charlevoix.

Miss Freedman was given in marriage by her father in a garden ceremony attended by close family and friends.

Rabbi H. Philip Berkowitz of Pontiac officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Perry-Davis Hotel in Petoskey, and was attended by 175 guests.

The bride was a 1968 cum laude graduate in psychology from the University of Arizona. She is executive secretary of the Advertising Club of Greater Boston.

The bridegroom majored in broadcast communications at Boston University where he received a B. S. degree in 1966. He is a creative writer with the advertising agency, N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., Boston office. His parents are Mrs. Paul Broman of Longmeadow, Mass., and Paul R. Weidner of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza fashioned in empire silhouette and designed with a high neckline, long bishop sleeves and A-line skirt. Bands of imported Venise lace accented the gown. A tiered veil of illusion was arranged to a band of matching lace for the headdress. She carried a white wicker basket of garden flowers.

Susan Freedman served as her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Werlin of Houston, Texas, and Erica Broman, sister of the groom, of Longmeadow, Mass. They all wore formal gowns of blue dotted swiss accented with bands of white rickrack. In keeping with the old fashioned motif, the bridesmaids wore blue picture hats trimmed with blue velvet streamers. They carried baskets of flowers similar to the bride's.

Assisting the groom were his brother, Morgan Broman, as best man, of Longmeadow, Mass; Gordon L. Freedman, jr., of Charlevoix; and Frank Hirsch of Lowell, Mass.

After honeymooning in Aruba, Netherland Antilles, and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, the couple will return to Boston where they will make their home.

Charlevoix's Sparkling Art Fair Is One of Best

By Edith Gilbert

Looking for a nice picture to hang in the office? Or an interesting piece of sculpture for the coffee table? But you are not too sure of your own taste -- awed by the avant-garde gallery filled with painted plastics – suspicious of the pseudo-commercial artist who turns out production line originals of pleasant landscapes and barns?

If you feel there's nowhere to turn – relox and welcome to the shaky majority!

The S.M. and almost everyone connected with the art world–(dealers, critics, artists, teachers) agree with Alexander Pope, the English Poet, "So vast is art, so narrow human wit!"

The Art Fair is one fun medium for the instant collector that bridges this gap between art and human wit every Michigan summer. There are over 50 fair scattered from Ann Arbor to Kalamazoo; from Grand Rapids, East Lansing, Benton Harbor to Charlevoix, these lively fairs for artists and craftsmen are the ideal meeting place both for the sophisticated connoisseur as well os the unseasoned shopper.

SALES BOOMING

Unquestionably, the four day fair in Ann Arbor leads the rest not only in prestige but also in total sales for it's 250 exhibitors. Last year's total was estimated to hit the $100,000.00 mark!

On the other hand, many artists prefer the briefer one day fair in Charlevoix, the Beautiful, for two reasons; a marvelous location on terraced lawns adjoining Round Lake, and secondly, profitable sales to sophisticated resorters.

But no matter which of the numerous fairs one chooses to attend, for many people the informal atmosphere of the day spent at an Art Fair is an excellent introduction to the art world.

These people might find small comfort listening to the self-styled art critic whose judgement of what is art today is almost as wobbly as the flimsy-whimsy wire "contructions" introduced to the googley-eyed public.

Nor can they expect much help from the artist himself. Remember Picasso's answer to the question, what is the meaning of this painting and his reply, "What is the meaning of a flower?"

CITIZENS ORGANIZE

These Art Fairs are organized by dedicated citizens groups whose committees begin their nitty-gritty work in the dead of winter. All through spring they schedule meetings, print programs, address envelopes, mail posters, recruit hostesses and mimeograph instructions. Over endless cups of coffee, decisions are thrashed out– what to do in case of rain, or judging which works should be accepted and which rejected.

Jurying an Art Fair would surely test the wisdom of Solomon and rightly or wrongly, rejections are often met by anxious exhibitors with a wise range or emotions – all the way from abuse to tears.

Then on the other hand, judges, too have those frustrating moments when they are tearing their hair because some of the bolder exhibitors slip in prefabricated jewelry or potholders (or worse) along with their oil paintings, in spite of printed instructions to the contrary. Then everyone raises a storm of protest because "pot-holders don't belong here!"

Well, what does belong at an Art Fair?

Before we answer this controversial question we must define our terms. What is art?–What is craft? And what is not?

WEBSTER CITEO

According to Webster art is a skill, dexterity or the power of performing certain actions, acquired by experience, study or observation. Surely this definition could apply just as well to a surgeon, automobile mechanic as an artist, so let's continue our search.

Ah, this is better. Fine art is concerned with the creation of objects of imagination and taste for their own sake and without relation to the utility of the object produced.

And as we check further we learn that the fine arts (with an "s") include design, painting, drawing, architecture and sculpture.

Now why architecture is included here may seem somewhat of a mystery because there is utility in designing a building, isn't there? And if the art of design is relevant in architecture, why not in automobiles? Everyone knows the auto companies employ sculptors in their design departments to create mock-ups of original new models.

If Webster's definition still holds today – that fine arts (with an s) is primarily the art of design and art (without the s) serves no useful purpose, then perhaps we can accept the Op and Pop art and the giant plastic lipsticks, yes even the art done by artists over the telephone as was shown in an unusual Chicago museum's exhibit last fall! We can accept a canvas that has been scratched up or dribbled down upon as readily as a still-life replica of a birch tree reflection in a trout pond.

SELECTING ART

The instant collector, wandering between the crowded booths at the Art Fair can safely choose either approach, abstract or realism. His decision rests only on his own sense of style or taste when choosing a water color, a hand-hammered silver necklace or an enamel bird.

What about crafts?

If fine art is concerned with the creation of objects of imagination and taste for their own sake and without relation to the utility of the object produced, then we must assume that craft does involve the utility of an object of imagination and taste. But Webster doesn't exactly say so!

He says, craft (from the German word "kraft" meaning strength) is an art or skill, dexterity as in some manual employment; aptitude, skillfulness in planning or executing. Hence a crafts–man is one who practices some trade or manual occupation ie., working with silver making pottery, weaving or glass blowing.

It may be easier to understand the definition of craft as it relates to art if we consider for a moment what is generally regarded as a craft.

When one embroiders a pillow or stitches a quilt of ones' own design, then one is a craftsman, but if one embroiders a pillow or stitches a quilt from a pattern created by someone else, that, rightfully, should be considered (for lack of a better word) a hobby! Of course, the same holds true when painting a picture by numbers or assembling a mosaic from a kit. "The skillfulness in planning" was done by the person whom the manufacturer hired to design the kit– not by the person who buys it in a craft or do-it-yourself hobby shop.

WOROS LACKING

Unfortunately the English language lacks the precise word that distinguishes clearly between the crafts–man-artisan or hobbyist and one skilled in handicrafts.

But the general distinction should be recognized by the juries who set standards and by the public who attend either the Arts and Craft shows (original designs) and the church or school bazaars (handwork done from patterns or kits.) Many communities sponsor hobbycraft shows which fill a much needed gap.

Finally, there are these three requisites for a successful art fair: 1) good organization 2) excellent talent 3) a knowledgeable public.

BEST CRITIC

Because, in the final analyses, the public is the most convincing critic of all! It is the public's dollar that decides if, at the end of the day, the ceramic pot or the metal wall sculpture will be loaded in the artist's station wagon or in the art lover's station wagon. It's the public's nod of approval, smile of encouragement or flashing pen signing a check that sustains the artist's spirit (as well as his pocketbook) and stimulates him to again isolate himself for another long, lonely winter in some crowded basement or cluttered garage studio -- to again wrestle with solving the problems of his art or his craft.

At last the hoped-for - sunny day dawns. Thousands of men, women and children are milling about. The committee's hostesses are staffing the information booth. Artists are sitting in the open air under colorful parasols surrounded by easels, peg boards, extension cords, tables and camp chairs. Their creative decisions have long since been resolved as to which shade of yellow is better next to that shade of orange. And now we're reminded of Jacob Epstein, the sculptor's remark, "I rest silent in my work!"

VISITORS to Waterfront Art Fair come to buy as well as look.

IN YEARS past, the Waterfront Art Fair has attracted thousands of visitors to East Park. Hundreds of artists from throughout the state display their works at the annual fair.

Must We All Share N.Y.'s Foul Air?

Disturbing news for all America has come from New York City and other sprawling communities on the Eastern seaboard during the past few days.

A combination of summer heat and other meteorological conditions has literally trapped residents of the nation's most populous area in the noxious fumes of metropolitan living.

And with every passing day it becomes more apparent that the big city---American style—just cannot continue to exist without some rather drastic changes in the way they operate.

Airline pilots and passengers approaching New York City from the East describe a mountain of smog sitting over the coast. It is so thick that aircraft are forced to make instrument landings even in broad daylight.

The newspapers show us pictures of New Yorkers going to and from work in gas masks.

There are electric power shortages throughout the area as coal generating plants curtail their operations in a futile effort to reduce the amount of deadly gas emitted into the atmosphere.

Respiratory ailments are common among people who must live and work under the blanket of smog.

The situation in New York City is the worst by far, but it is duplicated to some degree in every community of any size from Boston to Richmond, Va.

And the Eastern seaboard is not alone. Some cities in our own state also lie under a perpetual haze, which is particularly stiffling during the summer months. From the summit of the Ambassador Bridge, the city of Detroit almost obliterated by smog. The same is true of Port Huron from the Blue Water Bridge.

Flint, Lansing, Midland, Bay City, Saginaw, Muskegon, Pontiac and Grand Rapids also have their own air pollution problems.

It is only a matter of time before the entire nation is choked to death by its own stench.

Of course, there are solutions to the problem. There have to be. But they are going to hurt like the dickens and cost like the devil.

Until exhaust-free automobiles are a reality, cities like New York, Washington and Detroit could ban motor vehicles, other than public transportation, in their downtown sections.

Coal-burning homes, businesses and industries could be given a deadline for converting to cleaner burning fuels.

The power generating companies could start converting to nuclear power generation---now. Although the initial capital outlay will be tremendous, our own Consumers Power Co. has proven at its Big Rock Point plant that electricity can be produced by nuclear fission at about the same cost as conventional methods, without coal piles and coal gases.

There is another solution to the problem, one that could change entirely the present rural-resort atmosphere of northern Michigan and other relatively unpopulated areas of the country. That solution centers around a decentralization of industry from the metropolitan areas, spreading the present pollution over a wider area and making it less noticeable, at least for the time being.

And such a move already is underway with the blessing of federal and regional agencies.

The Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, reported to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission last week that 124 industries could operate gainfully in the Upper Great Lakes area. (See report elsewhere on this page.)

The area in question embraces 45 Michigan counties, including all of the Upper Peninsula and everything north of Muskegon and Bay City in the Lower Peninsula, plus vast segments of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The Battelle Institute said the manufacture of motor vehicle parts and accessories, tires and inner tubes, construction equipment, computers and office machines, paperboard and paper mills and wood products industries should do well in the area.

The next most-likelyto-succeed category includes lumber, furniture and fixtures, electrical and non-electrical machinery, primary metals, fabricated metal products, textile mill products, food and kindred products.

The Battelle Institute made its recommendations at the request of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission in an effort to remedy so-called unemployment and underemployment problems.

But the Battelle report fails to note that although our per capita income is not up to the national average, residents of these northern climes still breathe fresh air and swim in relatively unpolluted waters.

It would be folly for the people of the northern Great Lakes to trade their present employment problems for the dubious benefits of increased industrialization.

We have yet to see anyone report for work in Charlevoix wearing a gas mask.

Clockwise

The Cherry Orchard

By BOB CLOCK

We were driving home to Charlevoix from Frankfort one evening last week and were approaching the junction of U.S. 31 and M-37, six miles south of Traverse City.

"If you're good," I hollered back to the kids, "I'll show you where daddy used to work when he was a boy."

There was an ominous silence from the back seat. Finally Katie asked: "What did you do?"

I explained that one summer when I was a teenager I hitch-hiked from Detroit to Traverse City to pick cherries for a Mr. Thompson who had a big cherry orchard just east of the intersection.

In those days, the spot was called "Chum's Corners," the home of Chum's general store, if I recall correctly. Today there are many small businesses at the intersection, including Bell's restaurant, several gas stations and other enterprises.

Instead of turning north to Traverse City, we continued through the intersection and down a steep hill to what used to be the Thompson farm. The house hadn't changed much and the row of husky maples along the road in front didn't appear to have grown an inch. I could even pick out the spot where I pitched my pup tent and dug a hole to keep my groceries.

But the beautiful Thompson orchard where I picked cherries for 25 cents a lug was gone.

In its place was a magnificent horse barn and acres of pasture land surrounded by white board fences, a scene right out of an ad for Kentucky bourbon whiskey.

Overcome by curiousity, I pulled into the driveway and stopped the car in front of the barn, which featured an open-air balcony at one end where several persons were seated watching the horses being exercised. One of the viewers rose to welcome us.

She was Mrs. Lynn (Doris) Parks, wife of the new proprietor of the Thompson farm. Only now it's the Spring Valley Ranch, one of the fanciest horse farms I have ever visited.

"Where aresthe Thompsons?" I asked.

"The who?" she asked.

"The Thompsons," I repeated. "The people who owned this farm 25 years ago."

Mrs. Parks had never heard of them. The farm apparently had changed hands several times before she and her husband purchased it in the late 1960's.

She invited us to take a tour of the facilities, from the horse stalls on the ground floor of the barn, up a carpeted ramp to a huge indoor arena and on to a visitors' lounge which opens onto the viewing balcony.

Back in the barnyard, I asked Mrs. Parks what had become of the cherry trees.

"Oh, they're all gone. Just a few stumps left," she said.

And for the first time I felt a twinge of nostalgia for the farm the way it used to be. I could still feel the hot sun blistering the back of my neck as I stood atop a three-legged ladder amid a tangle of dark green leaves and blood-red Montmorency cherries.

And I remembered the evenings after the day's harvest had been shipped off to Traverse City how I'd walk over the hill to Silver Lake, doff my clothes on the bank and swim in the buff until the heat of the day was only a memory. There were only one or two cottages on the lake in those days and modesty was never one of my strong suits.

I also remembered the other pickers I met that summer, the young farmer and his wife from the Thumb area who lived in a house trailer behind the farmhouse, the boys from Atlanta, who, like me, pitched a tent on the front lawn, and old Mr. Honeycutt, a lean, weathered migrant worker from Arkansas who lived in a little shed not far from the present barn.

I remembered sitting with Mr. Honeycutt in the evenings beside his little cookfire, discussing the affairs of the day. Every day, just at sunset, we caught sight of a farmer on the crest of a hill across the valley plodding patiently behind an old horse-drawn plow. Back and forth he went, night after night, silhouetted against the dying sun.

"Cain't figure out whot he's up to," Mr. Honeycutt would say, shaking his head. "Plowing, plowing, plowing this time of year. Ain't no point in it."

Finally one evening I suggested that we walk over and ask the farmer what he was doing.

Mr. Honeycutt declined.

"Some things in life is none of our business," he said. "Some things is better if you don't try to figure them out. Let's you and me just sit here and have fun watching him work."

While remembering Mr. Honeycutt, I cast my eyes across the valley again to where the unknown farmer used to walk behind the plow in the twilight, half-expecting to see him still.

But the farmer was gone. In his place stood row after row of neat white suburban houses, occupied by the newest residents of Chum's Corners.

I suddenly felt very old and very tired. I was glad Mr. Honeycutt wasn't there to see what had happened to our beautiful hillside.

If it Fitz

Don't Laugh;Cry

By JIM FITZGERALD

The movie "Patton" was ok and the star, George Scott, was magnificent. But I'm worried about the audience. They kept laughing in the wrong places.

It reminded me uncomfortably of those 1940 war movies which always contained the same cliches:

John Wayne was a Marine on typewriter duty in San Diego, working alongside 16 well-stacked broads. And he hated it. He wanted action. He wanted to kill Japs and Germans. He bugged his commanding officer for a transfer "to the front". But the officer refused, saying John was too valuable in the typing pool and couldn't be spared and besides, didn't he realize they also serve who only sit and beat off women. John finally got to the front and won the war but it wasn't easy. He had to knock a friendly platoon unconscious and take its place aboard a landing craft at Okinawa. And he had to make a wisecrack every time he socked a buddy, or bayoneted a Jap.

People stamped their feet and whistled when Big John showed those dirty Japs what was what, by God. From the safety of a theatre in Michigan, war appeared to be a glorious endeavor indeed.

"It isn't. Not at the front. It's blood and misery and stink and stupid and cold and hot and lonely and the total loss of your best friend. And any man who says he wants to fight, rather than help girls change typewriter ribbons, is automatically suspect. He's never been shot at. Or he's a phony. Or he's a little bit nuts.

General George Patton was part maniac. A pompous posturing martinet who admitted he loved leading men into battle. He was worried sick that World War 2 would end before he killed enough Germans to become a national hero. When the Germans quit, he wanted to kill Russians. He was angered by any assignment that didn't pit him against the enemy, nose to nose, blood gushing. He thought he really was John Wayne.

That's exactly the way George Scott portrayed Patton in the movie. To me, it was an anti-war film. When Patton slapped a frightened soldier, or bragged about how many men he had killed, I cringed. I wondered how many more like him are left in the Pentagon. But all around me, people were laughing.

To much of the audience, Patton was a lovable hero. Oh, a little eccentric, of course. But gee, what a man! Look at him terrorize people. Listen to him curse! He's not scared of anyone, by golly.

There was a scene where Patton comforted wounded American boys by telling them he'd just seen some German boys in worse shape-their heads were blown off. It made my eyeballs sting. But the man next to me slapped his knee and snorted in delight and admiration.

I shouldn't be surprised that a 1970 audience can be delighted by General Patton, the brute of World War 2. Nothing important has changed much in 25 years. We're still a civilization that punches, rather than reasons, and we still admire they the guy who punches hardent. When bullies fight on our side, they become heroes.

Washington insiders say President Nixon was much impressed with the movie "Patton." He saw it a second time, just before ordering the invasion of Cambodia.

Good Lord, did Nixon laugh in the wrong places?

More Industry Eyed for North Country

A detailed study of the industrial growth possibilities of the Upper Great Lakes region reveals 124 industries could operate successfully in this area, the Battelle Memorial Institute – Columbus Laboratories, of Columbus, Ohio, has reported to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission.

The Battelle study, conducted for the commission, covers 119 of the northern counties in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Michigan has 45 counties in the area, including the Lower Peninsula counties north of the Muskegon-Bay county line and all counties in the Upper Peninsula. The commission was created by the Economic Development administration, a section of the U.S. Commerce department and is headed by Governors Milliken, of Michigan, Knowles, of Wisconsin and LeVander, of Minnesota.

Ther Upper Great Lakes region has unemployment and underemployment levels considerably above the U. S. average while per capita income in the area averages $2300 compared to the U. S. level of $3100, the report pointed out. Michigan has 700,000 residents in the Upper Great Lakes region which has a total population of 2,800,000.

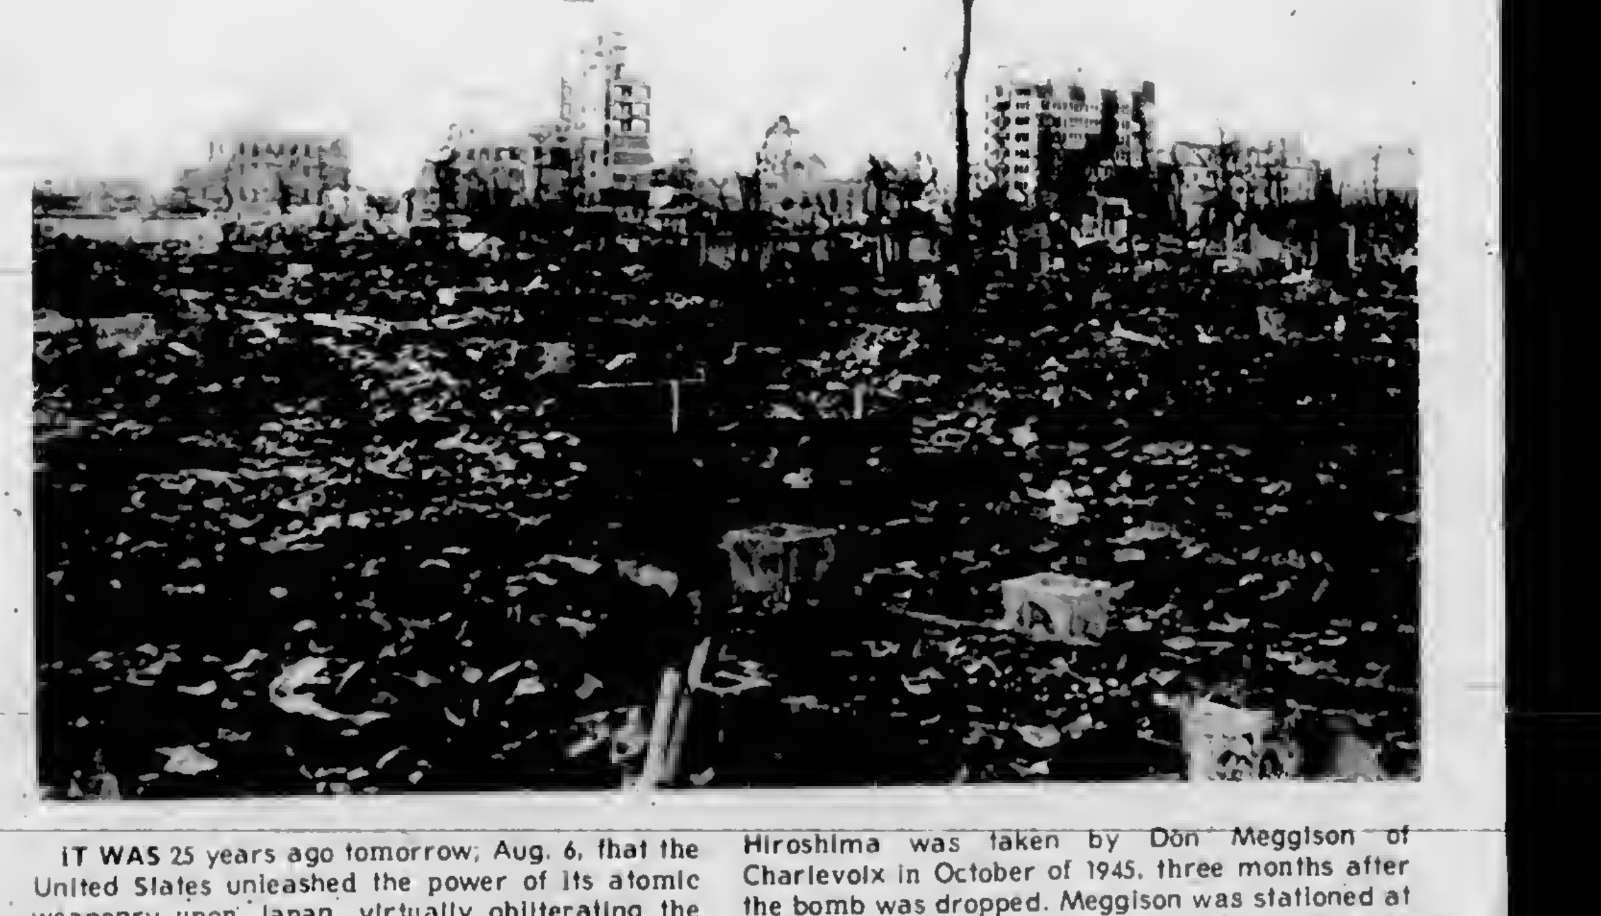
Battelle staffera presented the study results and recommendations for implementation to representatives of the commission, the Office of Economic Expansion of the Michigan Department of Commerce, officials of cities and counties in the Michigan section of the area, representatives of Chambers of Commerce, staffs of the six economic development and planning districts in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, and to various groups and individuals engaged in economic development programs at meetings in Marquette and Gaylord this week.

While indicating more than 100 industries could operate gainfully in the Upper Great Lakes area, the Battelle Institute recommended concentration of efforts to obtain new industries to a select and smaller group which have the greatest potential for successful operations in the region. This group includes: motor vehicle parts and accessories, tires and inner tubes, construction equipment, computers and office machines, paperboard and paper mills and wood products.

Also recommended as next most likely industries to be successful in the region are lumber, furniture and fixtures, electrical and non-electrical machinery, primary metals, fabricated metal products, textile mill products and food and kindred products.

The Battelle representatives pointed out that manufacturers in these categories, who now ship their products 300 miles or more to customers and companies producing such goods in the region would be able to serve a vast area in the north central states. The representatives said the study defines industrial development objectives, reviews the economy of the region, analyzes its resources, points out possible links between present and possible future industry and analyzes the transportation, recreation and environmental qualities of the area.

The area economic development representatives praised the study and said it will provide a valuable tool for use in recruiting industries on a sound and scientific basis and will make it easier to sell prospects with the factual material assembled by Battelle.



IT WAS 25 years ago tomorrow, Aug. 6, that the United States unleashed the power of its atomic weaponry upon Japan, virtually obliterating the city of Hiroshima and bringing World War II to a speedy conclusion. This photograph of the ruins of Hiroshima was taken by Don Meggison of Charlevoix in October of 1945, three months after the bomb was dropped. Meggison was stationed at Kure and traveled to Hiroshima by jeep to view the destruction.

BIG ROCK POINT NUCLEAR POWER PLANT

Recalling a World's Fair!

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant silhouette frequently has reminded artists and photographers of the Trylon and Perisphere which identified the New York World's Fair of 1939...making that event's official symbol truly prophetic. For at Big Rock Point, nuclear energy—a fantastic dream in 1939—is working every day to bring electric power to Consumers Power Company's customers throughout Michigan's Lower Peninsula. More than 500,000 tourists and area residents have visited the plant's Public Information Center since it opened in 1962. Only a short distance north of Charlevoix, the Information Center is open every day, 8 to 5, just for you!

SLOW PITCH

The Slow pitch league moved into the second round of play and luckless Weathervane found nothing really had changed because they continued to drop the close ones losing to American Mold 9-8. Mike Crain homered for the winners while Bob Elliott and Art Riebel hit for the circuit for the Vane.

Boyne's Howard's Oilers got even with first round winners, Medusa with a sevneth inning run for a 5-4 win. Dick Erber, Shorty Smith, and Bob Wilson combined base knocks for the run. Freedmans got their long bombs cranked up and used homers by Don and Glen Cunningham, and two round-trippers by Merritt Clark to power by the USAF 11-2.

FAST PITCH

County State Bank beat Morweld to put the first round winners out of first place with a 4-2 win. Three third innings runs turned the trick. John Ferguson's single being the big blow.

Mold fell to the first round winners 10-0. Morweld's Boss and Richardson combined to allow only Des Milligan's single. The most exciting contest was the ten inning 5-4 Novak's win over County State Bank. Kraag Lieberman's daring run from third after his triple proved to be the winning margin.

Novak's saw a sure victory quickly vanish when Mold scored twice in the bottom of the seventh on Ken Boss's two run single for a 3-2 win.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

DeYoungs won twice during the week, whipping both Freedmans and Novaks to remain unbeaten. Against Novaks it was a real squeeker, 5-4. Jim Potter's sixth inning double and Joe Jones' triple drove in what proved to be the winning run. Novaks threatened in the seventh, putting the tying and winning run on base but sharp fielding by DeYoung's ended the threat.

Electra used their only runs, fourteen of them, in the fifth inning to enable them to get by Freedmans 14-10.

Corral Chatter

Friday we slept late as it was raining and it gave the boys a chance for a good rest before going home on Saturday. However, the sun came out about noon and activities went along as usual. The cabin representatives met to decide upon the charities to which we will send our chapel collections. The boys chosen by their cabinmates to be representatives were: Steve Osborn, Tim Gardella, Billy Bauer, Jim Bennett, Larry Webb, Mac Pfeiffer, Jeff Edison, Steve Lichtenauer, Billy Guggenheim, John Kahle, Lock McKelvy, David Roe, David Timmons, Mike Fisher, Chris Hurst, Tim Washburn, Jim Waller, Hutch Rogge, and Chris Cojeen.

We had dinner this day in the evening, and our cooks went all out, giving us each a half of roasted chicken, and boy did everyone love it. In the evening, the boys going home packed their trunks and the boys staying the full season either swam or had a ball game. Boys were a little sad that this was the end of the season for some of them, and as usual enrollments are starting to come in for the 1971 season.

Saturday was a hot day with parents arriving about 8:30 a.m. to pick up their sons. It is always sad to have these boys leave, as friendships are strong after four weeks. Parents were most complimentary about the camp, the staff and the whole set-up, and as several had not seen the camp before, they were busy taking a tour. By noon, we had 30 boys enrolled for the 1971 season, so that Mackinac Island trips does have a great start.

The fifth week of camp started off with a very hot Sunday morning. Chapel was held in the outdoor chapel with Ken challenging the new boys to build a good reputation while here at camp. Chuck Osborn led the service with Larry Boardman reading the Scripture and Curt Huber reading the prayer. This will be a good place to let parents know that there should be no candy, gum, etc., sent to the boys. Please inform relatives, too, of this rule. Sunday afternoon we had physicals and swim tests for the new boys, and opened the waterfront as it was so very hot. In the evening, we had an all-camp Vesper Service at the flagpole with all the boys seated on the ground facing the lake. It was a beautiful evening and the boys sang some camp songs led by a group of the counselors. Ken read a story about Mickey Mantel and of the influence his dad on him. The boys enjoyed hearing about this famous ballplayer.

Monday was another hot, hot day. This hot weather is great camp weather, as boys are anxious to be outside and going full tilt. Chuck Leider took his boys of Cabin 14 on an overnight, Nick Genemates, Steve Horwitz, Rod Kirsch, Frank Perron, and Tony Smith.

Tuesday, another hot day. Hans van Essen from The Netherlands arrived in camp for a visit. We have had many visitors this summer, mostly former staff men stopping by to introduce us to their families and it is a thrill to have these men return. John Deane and Tom Dorsek took their cabins on an overnight to our campcraft sight.

Wednesday was election day at camp as the leaders of the Green-Grey Competition were chosen to fill in the places by boys leaving the first four weeks. The Greens elected Ben Dancer captain in the junior section with Ken Hayden and Pat Green as his lieutenants. The Prep Greens chose Dave Alspach as captain, with his assistants being Dave Townsend and Dave Howell. The Intermediate Greens elected Brad Mast captain with Dave Timmons and Frank Perron. The Senior Greens picked Trey Henkel as captain and Robbie Quinn and Tim Washburn as his lieutenants. The Senior Greys elected Chuck Zitsman as captain with Tom Harbeck and Mark Achor. The Intermediate Greys picked Steve Baker as captain with Bill Bray and Jim Osborn as his assistants. The Prep Greys chose Jimmy Shook as captain captain with Jack Maddox and Kevin McCarty as his assistants. The Junior Greys picked Scott Striglos as captain with Tim Gardella and Peter Gardella as his helpers. It was another hot day, but around the supper hour it started to rain so that we had a movie "Storm over Tibet" for the entire camp.

Thursday was another hot day, great for camping and campers. Cabins 18 and 14 took off for an overnight to our campcraft area. The counsellors in these cabins are: Chuck Leider and John Stauffer, and the boys were Nick Genematas, Steve Horwitz, Rod Kirsch, Frank Perron, and Tony Smith. Also Chuck Hartley, Larry Hyde, Eric Meyer, Bob Van Mell, Tim Washburn, and Chuck Zitsman.

RELAXING on the porch of Cabin 8 at Camp Charlevoix are Mac Pfeiffer, Birmingham, Clayton Tuthill, Grand Rapids, Rex Buckley, Indianapolis, Ind., Sonny Greenwalt, Birmingham and Tom Fox, East Grand Rapids.

Wurtsmith Project --New Help for Boys

Details of an unusual project to prevent juvenile problems before they develop were revealed last week by Probate Judge John C. Makel and Mr. Robert, Bergmann, juvenile court officer.

Called the "Wurtsmith Project," the program was sponsored by the Northwestern Michigan Economic Development District in cooperation with the Top 'O' Michigan Judges' Association.

Under the program, young men with problems or potential problems, are sent to Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda for one week in an effort to improve their "motivation and identification."

Two young men from Charlevoix County participated in the project this summer and their progress will be followed closely by the Probate Court for the next year.

Bldg. Trades Post Is Open

Charlevoix's long-awaited building trades program may have to be put off unless a teacher is found before the opening of school.

The board is anxious to fill the vacancy because announcement of the program was one of the inducements used to win approval of additional operating millage in the June election.

Supt. Robert Miller said he had hoped William Coon of Gaylord would be willing to take the job, but Coon was rehired by the Gaylord School District. Coon was one of the 10 unsuccessful candidates in primary balloting for the state Legislature Aug. 4. He had taught building trades at Gaylord before the course was terminated. Gaylord now apparently has another spot for him.

The board authorized Miller to advertise the job in Detroit and Chicago newspapers, after the superintendent reported that college and university placement offices were unable to come up with a candidate for the job.

In other business, the board:

U.S. 31 Crash Fatal

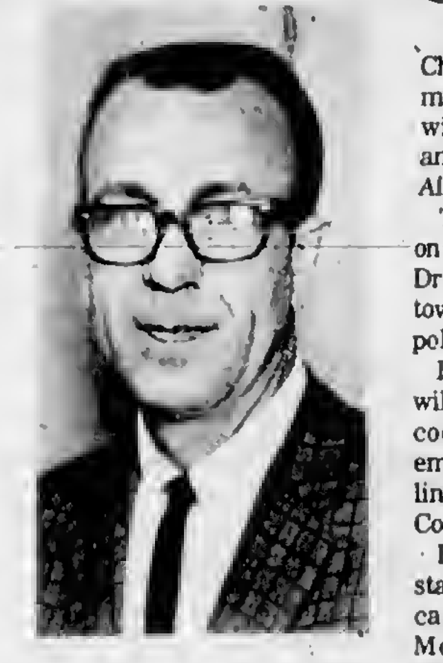
A Flint man was killed in a one-car accident on U.S. 31 south about 6:30 Saturday evening, according to sheriff's deputies.

The victim was Robert N. Smith, 24, of 215 Lafayette, Flint.

Deputies say Smith was driving south and went off the curve near Norwood Corners, rolling over his 1970 Chevrolet Corvette several times.

The vehicle caught fire and a Greyhound bus driver stopped and extinguished the blaze, deputies said.

Smith, who was alone in the car, was taken to Charlevoix Hospital and later transferred to Little Traverse Hospital where he died about 9 p.m.



HAROLD A. Kaufman, first business manager for the Charlevoix School District, arrived in Charlevoix Aug. 3 to begin his new duties. He formerly was with Mid-Michigan College at Clare.

Propose Air Code Changes

Main item of business at the Charlevoix Township board meeting, Tuesday, Aug. 18, will be a discussion of amendments to the township's Air Quality Control Code.

The amendments are based on the recommendations of Dr. Thomas L. Sweeney, the township's consultant on air pollution problems.

In general the amendments will tighten up the present code relative to stack emissions, bringing it more in line with the state Air Quality Code.

However, the proposed standards are still within the capability limits of the Medusa Portland Cement Plant using present precipitation equipment, according to Donald Berlage, special attorney for the township.

The amendments also provide a surveillance fee for industries emitting contaminants into the atmosphere.
